Following the order of Judge James C. Connolly in the Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth on Saturday morning whereby Harold and Earl Van Fleet, sons of Mrs. Irene Van Fleet, of 319 West Second street, were committed to the New Jersey Children's Home Society, after a complaint had been lodged by Miss Mabel Phillips, agent of the Plainfield Charity Organization Society, charging neglect on the part of the parent, a scene was made by the mother in the Elizabeth court room. She protested loudly against the court's order and put up a stubborn fight against being parted from her five years old son Earl, and after finally being persuaded to give up the youth she said she would never let Harold, the thirteen years old boy go to the institution.

The woman had the younger son in the court room with her on Saturday and Deputy Sheriff R. J. Kirkland took her to his private office and explained to her the court's order and informed her that a refusal to obey would result in her arrest for contempt. Replying she said: "I do not care if I am arrested and do not propose to be separated from my children."

Eben J. Brewer, an agent of the Home, was given custody of the boy and he left the office where Mrs. Van Fleet was detained long enough to keep her from following him and causing a scene on the street which she said she would do. The boy cried loudly as he was being parted from his mother and refused to be quieted even after he was taken out on the street and some thought he was kidnapping the youngster.

An effort is now being made to secure the possession of Harold as the court's order will not be completely obeyed until both children are in the care of the organization. It is expected that the mother will make further resistance. The charge against her was that proper care was not being given the children and that the home life created by her was an improper environment.

WHY NOT LICENSE THE POOL ROOMS

WHAT THE CHIEF SAYS

P. S. Kiely Says That In His Opinion the Pool Rooms As at Present Conducted Are Bad Places For Young Men.

The police raid on a Somerset street pool room, Saturday night, has been the means of renewing the agitation for an ordinance to regulate these amusement places in order that they may be directly under the supervision of the police. Mayor Percey H. Stewart has received numerous complaints from time to time about these pool rooms and on evidence secured by the police a raid was made on one of these places Saturday night.

A few years ago there were at least a dozen pool rooms in the city, but the police made it so interesting that all but perhaps a half dozen have gone out of business. There was some talk of having an ordinance drafted providing that these places be licensed, but immediately steps were taken on the part of some of the proprietors to organize clubs and thus escape this provision.

Police Chief Kiely, when questioned about the matter today, said that he considered pool rooms the worst sort of places for boys and young men, in fact he said that they should not be allowed to visit them. The chief was very emphatic in his declaration that they should be licensed so that proper supervision could be maintained at all times.

There are numerous instances where the young men have lost their whole week's wages in these places. The police are keeping a close watch on the pool rooms in the city and at the first sign of any violation of the law arrests will follow.

MEN AT SCOTT'S ARE OUT OF WORK

Concern Closed Plant and Machinists to Return When Demand is Granted.

EIGHTY-FIVE AFFECTED

Union's Business Agent Expects Early Adjustment—Potter and Hall Plants Working On the New Schedule of Forty-nine and-a-half Hours.

There is no change in the situation since the Walter Scott Printing Machine Works shut down its plant on Saturday. The eighty-five employes held a meeting this morning at Eagles' Hall on East Second street, with Hugh V. Reilly, the business agent of the International Association. They voted unanimously not to go back to work on the former schedule of hours and directed Mr. Reilly to communicate that fact to the company's officers. This afternoon he will call on Mrs. Walter Scott to notify her to that effect and the machinists will hold another meeting tonight.

Mrs. Scott is quite ill and naturally that fact interferes somewhat with settling the present difficulty. The men, however, appear not to be greatly concerned over their enforced idleness, believing that everything will come out all right. While there is a report in circulation that work is slack at the works at present, it was stated today that there are one or two orders at the shop that must be completed within a short time.

Both the Potter and Hall shops are now working on the new schedule of 49½ hours a week and conditions between the companies and the men are very satisfactory. It is said that there is quite a little work ahead at both of these shops, all of which is encouraging to not only the employes but the heads of the two concerns.

BURIED DOG ALIVE

Paolo Lavornia, an Italian grocer, living at 907 North avenue, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, Saturday afternoon, on a charge of cruelty to animals and was fined $15. A telephone message from the Century Rubber Company informed the police that Lavornia was trying to bury something that appeared to be very much alive in his back yard and Patrolman George Muir was sent to investigate. When he arrived at Lavornia's home nothing unusual seemed to be taking place and the latter was busy attending to his grocery business.

Muir questioned him concerning his actions during the early part of the afternoon and Lavornia said that he was burying some garbage when seen by officials in the rubber company, whose plant is directly across the street from his house. The patrolman refused to accept this version of the case, however and when taken to the scene of Lavornia's so-called garbage disposal he was attracted by the faint cries of a dog coming from underneath the soil. He made the owner dig up the ground in the vicinity from whence the sound was coming and about a foot and a half under the earth he dug up a St. Bernard dog about four weeks old.

Muir brought the man to police headquarters and when arraigned he admitted that he had buried the dog and not garbage as he stated, giving the fact that he wanted to get rid of the animal as the reason for the crime. The canine was none the worse for his fifteen minutes in a subway bed, however, and Muir shot it following the disposition of the case.

WILSON GAINS WEIGHT.

PRESIDENT GAINED WEIGHT ON VACATION

Back in Washington Recuperated by Rest and Ready for Weeks of Hard Work.

Windsor, Vt., July 14.—Having taken on ten pounds more weight in his vacation here, President Wilson started back yesterday for Washington to take up his official duties again. The president reached Washington this morning. He had been here nine days, spending most of his time golfing or taking long automobile rides, in which he has generally been able to elude observation.

The president went golfing Saturday, [illegible] Hanover, and while there inspected golf clubs in a local sporting goods house. He told the storekeeper that he was just looking around to see if he had any good clubs.

"I want them for my family," he explained.

Mr. Wilson swung a driver and mid-iron tentatively, eyed them a moment and then replaced them in their racks, thanked the storekeeper for his courtesy and went away without making a purchase. With Mrs. Wilson, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones and Dr. Cary Grayson, the president went automobiling later to Woodstock.

During his vacation here the president has traveled about 600 miles over the narrow trails that wind in and out of the hills, always seeking the ones that looked the least frequented and seemed to suggest the best view of the country. When he and Mrs. Wilson have started no one has known where they were going, and the turns in the road have been taken at the president's nod.

While the president took his afternoon trip yesterday the Misses Eleanor and Jessie Wilson were playing tennis with the athletic daughters of Maxwell Evarts, general counsel for the Southern Pacific railroad, who has his home here.

FALLS FROM A WAGON AND IS SLIGHTLY HURT

Richard Johnson, aged about 35 years, of Martinsville, while riding from his home to North Plainfield yesterday morning with E. L. Pollock, a neighbor, who was bringing a load of milk to town, was thrown off the wagon and received a scalp wound and bruises and cuts about the face. The accident, which occurred at Watchung, was caused by the sudden starting of the horse.

Mr. Johnson was assisted to a nearby house and Dr. Albert Pittis summoned. After the man's injuries were attended to Mr. Pollock took his friend home. Mr. Johnson's condition is not serious although he will be detained at home possibly for a week or so.

Mr. and Mrs. VanNest received some handsome presents, including cut-glass and silver and a check for $1,000 from Mr. VanNest's brother.

POLICE RAID ON GAMBLERS' JOINT

Charles Wolven's Pool Room Was Under Surveilance for Two Weeks.

OWNER PLEADED GUILTY

Fined $50 In City Court This Morning—Men Taken By Police Allowed to Go With a Warning—Proprietor Admitted Charge.

A den of vice, one of several under police surveillance for weeks past, was raided on Saturday night by Chief of Police P. S. Kiely and two of his men, Sergeants Flynn and Higgins, when seventeen arrests were made at Charles Wolven's pool parlor at 19 Somerset street. At headquarters the prisoners were released to appear in court this morning and when arraigned before Judge DeMeza the proprietor was fined $50 and the other defendants allowed to go on suspended sentences after the court had given them a severe lecture. Chief Kiely had spotters at the pool room on Somerset street for some time. Stationing a patrolman at the outer door on Saturday night he sent the two sergeants into the place and had all patrons in the pool room placed under arrest. None of the accused offered any resistance, and all were hustled off to police headquarters within fifteen minutes after the police entered the place. Many of the defendants, who were under twenty years of age, admitted that they had been gambling in the pool room, not only on that particular night, but also on a number of previous occasions.

Wolven, who conducts the pool parlor, had been arraigned before on a similar charge but was let go on a suspended sentence. In the city court this morning he pleaded guilty to a charge of allowing gambling in the form of "three ball pool" and in fining him $50 Judge DeMeza informed him that a repetition of the offense would mean more severe punishment.

In disposing of the case against those caught in the raid the court gambling houses and informed them that an appearance on a similar charge would result in a heavy fine being imposed. Many of the defendants were boys in their 'teens and while some admitted that they had taken part in the gambling, others said that they had just dropped into the place to spend Saturday evening and had taken no part in the law-breaking.

Proprietor of O-X-O Bakery Places Assets at $1,882 and Debts at $3,460.

John C. Schinkel, of 134 North avenue, proprietor of the "O-X-O" bakery, through his attorney, V. W. Nash, Jr., today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court at Trenton. The liabilities are stated to be $3,460.12 and the assets, $1,882.75. The principal creditor is James Clarey, of Eighth avenue, New York, to whom Mr. Schinkel owes $1,931.55 as royalty for the use of the trade mark "O-X-O," and he also owes the James Clarey Company, of New York, $168.48.

CELEBRATES FALL OF BASTILE.

Paris, July 14.—All France kept its usual joyous holiday today in celebration of the 124th aniversary of the fall of the Bastile. At an early hour the boulevards of Paris were thronged with merry-makers, who promenaded up and down and watched the performances of wandering acrobats, jugglers, magicians and street singers. The streets resembled carnival time, with the crowds of pleasure-seekers and the gayly decorated buildings. In the early morning magnificent wreaths were placed on the Strasburg monument in the Place de la Concorde, by various deputations. President Poincare, while driving to the Longchamps race course this afternoon to witness the grand annual military review, was enthusiastically cheered all along the route. In the presidential tribune with him were the members of the cabinet and the ambassadors.

NO WATER FOR SILKMILL STRIKERS

Landlords to Be Prosecuted if Supply Is Not Restored.

SITUATION GROWS SERIOUS

Paterson, N. J., July 14.—The city government is preparing to take vigorous action to put an end to a serious situation that has developed as a result of the prolonged strike of the silk mill workers. For the five months the strike has been in force few of the strikers have paid any rent, so that landlords have been unable to pay their water tolls. The Passaic Water company, which supplies these homes, has shut off the water supply from many of them, leaving the tenants without water for either drinking, washing or cooking.

Many of the strikers, owing to the weakness due to lack of sufficient nourishment, are liable to contract disense, it is said, and Health Officer J. Alexander Browne, has ordered the health inspectors to investigate every case where the water has been turned off and then to notify the owner of the property to provide water or stand prosecution for allowing tenants to live in houses not supplied properly. The owners will be allowed forty-eight hours in which to see that water is restored to the dwellings. Failure to obey this order is punishable with a fine of from $25 to $100.

Mayor McBride and the police will co-operate with the health department to relieve the distress. Already the investigation has shown that some houses have been without water for weeks, but that no complaint has been made because neighbors have supplied the needs of those whose supply has been shut off from rows of houses and the situation is becoming more serious every day.

Thirteen of the foreign dyers' helpers employed in one shop here and housed and fed in the shop, suffered from ptomaine poisoning after dinner. The men who were poisoned had their own cook and ate apart from the helpers who were willing to eat American food. It was thought the poison was contained in potatoes.

BLOCK PASSAIC SEWER PLAN.

Engineers Call the $6,000,000 Tunnel Scheme Useless.

Passaic, N. J., July 14.—A fight against the expenditure of $6,000,000 by the Passaic valley sewer commission for the construction of a tunnel from the Newark meadows to Robbins reef in New York bay has begun in the chancery court in Jersey City, with an application for an injunction by Warren Dixon, representing the combined interests of city officials and sanitary engineering experts from New York, Jersey City, Paterson and Passaic.

It is pointed out by those interested in securing the injunction that even if the sewage is carried away out to Robbins reef it will eventually have to be purified before it can be dumped into the waters of New York bay, and if the expense of purification must be borne the sewage could just as well be treated on the meadows and disposed of in Newark bay.

This plan, they claim, would prevent the expenditure of the $6,000,000 for the tunnel. Bids on the tunnel work will be opened on Tuesday at the office of the Passaic valley sewer commission in Newark.

GEMS REAL, SAYS MRS. HAAS.

Denounces Experts Who Say Jewelry Was Worth Only $5,100.

Long Branch, N. J., July 14.—Dispatches from Greenwich, Conn., to the effect that the Haas diamonds and jewels had been appraised by experts at $5,100 instead of $50,000 as first reported has aroused the ire of Mrs. Harry L. Haas, who has denied the statement.

"We have no imitation jewelry," said Mrs. Haas. "The value given at the outset is correct. I don't care what the so called experts report. They appraised one piece at $50 which cost $750 at Gattle's."

McIntyre made a confession to Mr. Haas and Captain Walling. He says that Marie Kruezer and Reginald Rhind plotted to rob the Haas home.

Flag Raising In Jersey.

Burlington, N. J., July 14.—A handsome new American flag was run to the peak of the tall flagstaff on city hall with ceremonies conducted by Parker Grubb camp, Sons of Veterans. Major C. H. W. Vanscriber, presiding, introduced John Peacock of Florence who made the address of presentation and the banner was accepted by Mayor E. Ellsworth Mount. A salute was fired as the flag was raised.

"We will make no more propositions to the railroads," added Mr. Garretson.

"Unless the railroads accede to our demand," Mr. Lee resumed, "and submit the question to arbitration as provided for under the Erdman act, there will be a strike by Wednesday."

The same secrecy which attended the first session in Webster hall was observed yesterday. No man was allowed to enter until he and his credentials had been carefully scrutinized. Every door and window was closed, but although the thousand men packed in the hall must have suffered greatly from the heat the sound of cheering and applause rose every few moments and carried out into the street.

Cheers Greet Results.

The voting began about noon. The union representatives of each of the affected roads got together and voted for the locals of that particular road. The result of this was reported to Garretson and Lee by their men. When the vote was finished Garretson and Lee announced the result of their respective unions to an accompaniment of wild cheering. The following statement was then read from the platform by the two leaders:

"This is to certify that the general grievance committee in secret conference canvassed the result of the vote and find that more than the necessary two-thirds provided for by the general constitution and rules voted in favor of leaving the service unless a satisfactory settlement of the pending questions could be otherwise procured.

"We have heard a full and complete explanation from our general chairman and other members of the Eastern association as well as from the executive officers of the O. R. C. and the B. R. T. to the effect that the conference committee authorized to act for the roads upon which we are employed have declined to make any concession or to grant any portion of the increase in rate asked for, or to change working conditions as requested, and in addition have refused to submit the controversy to arbitration under the federal law now in effect governing such matters.

"We hereby ratify the vote cast by those we represent in favor of leaving the service, and we do cast our vote in favor of 'peaceful withdrawal' of all members of the brotherhood or order employed in train or yard service at a given time to be designated by the presidents of the order and brotherhood, if their approval of such action is given, and we hereby request them to give their approval. As proof of such action we hereby attach out individual signatures."

SULZER SILENT ABOUT SUIT.

Gettysburg Comment on Breach of Promise Case Stands.

Albany, N. Y., July 14.—The publication of a statement by Miss Mignon Hopkins of Philadelphia, who has sued Governor Sulzer for breach of promise of marriage, with letters which Miss Hopkins says she wrote to Mr. Sulzer more than ten years ago, did not change the governor's determination to remain silent about the case for the present.

"What I had to say about the matter I said at Gettysburg," the governor announced. "There is nothing further."

Mr. Sulzer attended the semicentennial exercises at Gettysburg when the announcement of the action was made. He said then that the Hopkins suit was blackmail and that it had been inspired by his foes in the Democratic party.

BRYAN'S TRAIN KILLS WOMAN

Asheville, N. C., July 14.—Secretary and Mrs. W. J. Bryan saw a tragic death near here, when the train on which they were entering Asheville struck and killed Miss Annie E. Williams of Gainesville, Fla., at Swannanoa station.

Miss Williams had arrived in a previous train and was starting for the house where she expected to spend the summer. Accompanied by a young nephew she attempted to cross a small trestle in front of the train, which carried the secretary of state and his wife. The nephew drew back, but the young woman, apparently panic stricken, rushed out on the trestle and the train struck her.

FRENCH HOLIDAY.

New Orleans, La., July 14.—An extensive celebration in commemoration of the fall of the Bastile was held in New Orleans today. The French colony in New Orleans is, perhaps, proportionately larger than in any other city of the United States and the observance of the day, regarded as the birthday of French liberty, is always made the occasion of a notable celebration. Prizes were awarded the holders of tickets bearing certain numbers. This is intended to take the place of the grand lottery, which is one of the chief features of the national holiday in France. Addresses were made by the French consul and by prominent members of the local colony. Field sports and horse races also formed parts of the day's program.

Two Days in Which TO WIN

MISS ALICE CRISPELL.

Murdered Girl Alive Day After Her Supposed Death.

NEW ARREST IN CRISPELL CASE

Question Woodchopper on Death of Girl.

WAS NEAR SCENE OF CRIME

Counsel For Johns to Make Vigorous Fight For Client's Release—It Was Miss Crispell's Sister Who Made Department Store Purchases.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 14.—With the local police and a score of private detectives at work another arrest was made in the case of Alice Crispell, nineteen years old, whose body was found floating in Harvey's lake last Monday and who last was seen alive by friends on the night of July 4, when she was drinking in the Oneonta hotel with Herbert Johns, her admirer, and several other companions.

A. D. Culver, woodchopper, was taken into custody on the chance that he was the man in the dark suit who was seen crouching behind a wood pile beside the road near the hotel about the hour when Johns said he parted with the girl. Culver denied all knowledge of the circumstances connected with the girl's death, but the detectives decided to detain him pending investigation of a statement that, being intoxicated, he passed the night outdoors in the vicinity of the boat landing near which the girl's body was found.

Detectives are working on a new clew. A young man living near the lake was said to have boasted to an acquaintance that he and a girl friend were on the lake the night of July 4, when the Crispell girl is supposed to have met her death and that he knew more of the case than he had said anything about, but that he intended keeping it to himself.

Sister Made Purchases.

Another development was a statement by Mrs. Martha Holcomb, a sister of the dead girl, that it was she and not her sister Alice who bought goods in a dry goods shop on July 5. The Crispell girl was last seen by her friends on the night of July 4. When the manager of the shop and several of his clerks stated that they had seen her in the store on July 5 it was thought the case might assume an almost entirely new aspect. The manager, however, identified Mrs. Holcomb as the woman who was in the shop.

Though the girl's body was exhumed on Saturday and will be subjected to a second post mortem examination, fear is expressed by the authorities that difficulty will be experienced at this late date in determining the cause of death.

Counsel to Herbert Johns, the admirer of Alice Crispell, who is in the county jail awaiting the action of the grand jury, is preparing to make a vigorous fight for his release when the writ of habeas corpus obtained for him is argued next Wednesday.

BRYAN'S PAY TOO SMALL.

Secretary of State Says He Is Forced to Lecture.

Asheville, N. C., July 14.—Following the first paid lectures ever permitted on Sunday in western North Carolina William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state, at Hendersonville, declared that he was forced to speak from the stump in order that he might live decently. Following the lecture he wrote out the following statement:

"As this is my first Chautauqua lecture since becoming a member of the cabinet, it may not be out of place to say that I find it necessary to lecture in order to supplement the salary which I receive from the government, the salary not being sufficient to cover my expenses.

"As I have lectured for eighteen years this method of adding to my income is the most natural one to which to turn, and I regard it as extremely legitimate. I know of no better audience than the Chautauqua audience."

THE STRIKE SITUATION.

As the Jersey Central, the B. & O. and the Reading roads are among the forty-two lines affected, some explanation of the threatened strike of the conductors and trainmen employed on these systems may be interesting to our readers and particularly so as it is not unlikely that the strike will be declared during the present week. In fact, the committee of 1,000 representing the 100,000 members of the Order of Railway Conductors and Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, yesterday ratified the strike vote, but have suspended its becoming operative until they ascertain what can be accomplished at a conference to be held with the President of the United States this afternoon.

What the men demand is an increase of twenty per cent. in wages and better working conditions. As this increase would aggregate seventeen millions of dollars, the railroad managements' committee has stubbornly resisted the huge demands. Both sides are willing to arbitrate but there is a hitch as to that. The union men are satisfied to have the negotiations conducted according to the provisions of the Erdman Act, but the roads decline this and demand that the act in question be amended. At the present time there are two proposed amendments pending, one known as the Newlands bill, which is acceptable to both sides, and one named the Clayton bill, which is agreeable to neither.

The idea of the conference this afternoon at Washington is to have the President bring his influence to bear for the immediate passage of the Newlands amendment. Should nothing come of the conference, the strike may be declared tomorrow for a committee of two representing the two labor organizations have been vested with power to order out the 100,000 men whenever they consider it expedient. Should there be a walkout, some 600,000 engineers, firemen and other railway employes will be affected for their work would be seriously interfered with if not made impossible.

The magnitude of the threatened strike can be judged when it is considered that every railroad system east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio river is involved. These roads represent nearly 50,000 miles of trackage and serve more than 50,000,000 people.

Despite newspaper reports, it is quite certain that all the forty-two affected systems have been at work for some time quietly making provisions against the effects of a strike. From authoritative sources in the unions' camps it is learned that no violence is intended should a walkout be ordered and this would mean that the railroads would fill the places of the strikers with men obtained from agencies all over the country which make a business of that sort of thing. Another phase of the situation to be considered is as to Uncle Sam's position. Naturally the Federal Government will demand that there be no delay in the transmission of the mails and experience has taught that when there happens to be the Federal authorities step in and see to it that the mails are moved with the customary dispatch.

Whether the demands of the men are just or unjust, the public may rest assured that its interests will be protected and that should there not be a speedy settlement between the roads and their employees, the government will use every resource at its command to end the trouble.

LAUGH ON SAUNDERS.

The debate carried on through this paper between former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, as a tariff advocate, and William L. Saunders, a member of the Democratic campaign committee, as a believer in revision downward, proved highly instructive to our readers during the last Presidential fight. Mr. Ackerman contended that the Democratic tariff policies if enacted into law would compel American manufacturers to locate their plants in Canada, to which contention Mr. Saunders took exception. When so stalwart a Democrat as Governor Eugene N. Foss, of Massachusetts, announces as he did but yesterday that because of his own party's tariff policies he is driven to remove the great manufacturing industry which he owns, to the Dominion, it seems that Mr. Ackerman is entitled to a laugh at Mr. Saunder's expense. Mr. Foss is not sparing in his denunciation of the Democratic legislation for he claims that there will be a general exodus to beyond the Canadian border. And it should be remembered that Mr. Foss is one of the ablest men in the party holding as a cardinal principle that there should be a tariff for revenue only.

FRAUD IN DEEDS.

By many right-thinking folks, the National bankruptcy law is viewed with disfavor for its workings permit dishonest men to escape the payment of honest debts or in other words to defraud creditors out of their rightful due. But there are loop-holes in other laws just as flagrant as this and it might be well in this progressive day to correct them. One of these in our own State permits the nominal consideration of $1 being named in a deed transferring valuable property. The clear intent of this is to deceive. It allows the holder to place any value on his property and thus cheat on his assessment and when he disposes of the tract to wrongly represent the price at which he purchased it.

Pennsylvania which also suffers from this evil, through its Legislature, has passed a bill providing that the price named in the deed shall be the real price. This measure is now in the hands of Governor Tener and it is expected that he will sign it. As the Newark Star says: "A law like the Pennsylvania enactment is a step towards equal taxation, and is just as much needed in our own State." A similar act should be passed at the next session of our Legislature.

PLAN FOR DISCUSSION OF LIGHTS IMPROVEMENTS

William Jeffery, president of the Board of Trade, has planned for a meeting on Wednesday night at the Plainfiel Business College, to which he has invited the members of the Councilmanic lights committee. The purpose is to ascertain what can be done toward securing better street lighting facilities in both the business and residential districts. The matter has been discussed off and on for several years and Mr. Jeffery says he believes the time has come when something should be done.

The lights committee of the Common Council planned to make a number of improvements this year, but when the budget was made up it was found that so much money was needed for other departments it would be impossible to carry out the plans.

AGED MAN FATALLY INJURED BY TRAIN

Victim Did Not Heed Warnings of Engineer—He Lived in Westfield.

While walking the Central Railroad tracks early last night through Newark in the direction of Jersey City, James C. Chambers, 82 years old, of Westfield, was struck and fatally injured by an eastbound train. The injured man was placed upon the train and taken to the East Ferry street station and later removed to St. James' Hospital, where he died at 7:30 o'clock last night.

The accident happened about 6:15 o'clock and the engineer of the train, Albert W. Hill, of 214 Arlington avenue, Jersey City, declared that he had blown his whistle when he first saw Chambers and rang his bell, expecting the man to move to one side. He appeared deaf to the signalling, however, and it was too late when the engineer tried to stop the train, the engine hitting Chambers with terrific force and hurling him a distance of nearly 100 feet. Death was due to a broken back and a fracture of the skull.

Chambers left his home yesterday morning to visit his son, William Chambers, of 155 Randolph road, Jersey City, but how he happened to be walking the tracks is a mystery. The body was claimed this morning by his son-in-law, Walter T. Taverner, of Westfield.

PARENTS' NEGLECT RESULTS SERIOUSLY

Child Leans Too Far Out of Trolley Window While Parents Are Conversing.

Dorothy Marienshek, three years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Marienshek, of Jefferson avenue, Dunellen, was painfully injured yesterday afternoon while riding in a Main Line trolley car at Grove and Jersey avenues, Elizabeth, in company with her parents. The accident was in one respect similar to the fatality occurring on a Philadelphia flyer near Lincoln last week when a two years old boy fell out of the window of the train when his mother was occupied with some work and received injuries that resulted in his death.

Mr. and Mrs. Marienshek were talking and apparently paying no attention to the girl who was leaning far out of the trolley window. A fast moving car going in the opposite direction from the one in which the Dunellen people were riding hit the child a terrific blow on the head rendering her unconscious.

The trolley was stopped and an ambulance summoned and upon examination at the General Hospital, to where the child was removed, it was found that she was suffering from contusions on the forehead and a slight concussion of the brain. Eye witnesses of the accident say that it is a wonder that the child was not killed instantly for the trolley hit her head with a terrific impact and pulled her completely out of the open window over which she had been leaning.

HEAR FINE REPORTS ON SILVER BAY CONFERENCE

A service of unusual interest was held on the lawn at the home of Mrs. Frederick G. Mead on East Front street, yesterday afternoon, when the twenty-five or more delegates from this city to the Silver Bay Conference gave brief reports on that conference.

Mrs. Mead was in charge of the meeting and addressed the assemblage and each one of the delegates spoke as did also Miss Parmlee, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. Miss Elizabeth Wilson, of the national board of the Y. W. C. A. in New York, and Miss Bentley of India, were present as guests. During the service Miss Elizabeth Goddard sang as a solo, "Father of Lights," the new hymn just adopted by the National Y. W. C. A. The Plainfield delegates were at Silver Bay ten days.

FOWLER WILL APPEAL DIRECTLY TO PEOPLE

Trenton, July 14.—Former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Union county, on a visit to the State House today, declared that he proposed to have no organization whatever nor any committee in his campaign for the Republican nomination for Governor.

"I am going to appeal directly to the people of the State," he said. "I do not need an organization and will not have any. In these days of the direct primary, when every voter has a consciousness that he may aid in the nomination, every political organization which attempts to dictate nominations is an insult to the people."

GREECE AND SERVIA ARE TOO MUCH FOR BULGARIA

London, July 14.—No fresh fighting was reported from the Balkans today. France today joined Russia in appealing to Servia and Greece to cease hostilities against Bulgaria. Greece has telegraphed to Belgrade the terms upon which the Greek Government will stop the war.

Bulgaria has admitted complete defeat, it was said, and has taken full responsibility for beginning the fighting against her former allies. A Bucharest telegram states that Roumania will not make peace until her terms are accepted unconditionally by Bulgaria.

TURKS WILL NOT TRY TO RETAKE ADRIANOPLE

London, July 14.—A despatch from Vienna, quotes Hilmi Pasha, Turkish ambassador as saying that Turkey will make no attempt to recapture Adrianople. He said that the Ottoman troops would endeavor only to drive the Bulgarians from the territory left to the Porte by the London treaty. Further advices were received today from Salonica as to the sacking and burning of the town of Serres by the defeated Bulgarian army. The Bank of Athens, the Oriental Bank, the Palace of the Metropolitan, the Great Synagogue and other structures were burned after they had been plundered.

Mercury Poisoning.

"I would suggest," says a doctor, "that, whenever persons are found to have swallowed bichloride of mercury, several eggs be forced down their throats. The albumen in the eggs will form a chemical compound with the mercury, which will be insoluble. Then the poison will pass out through the intestines or be vomited by the victim. It is always a good thing to pump out the stomach first or to induce vomiting. Many times it is necessary to act quickly if the life of the person is to be saved, and it takes time for a physician to arrive on the scene. Bichloride of mercury will not produce a painless death. It is a poison that paralyzes the liver. It eats through the walls of the stomach, and the victim generally dies in great agony." — Des Moines Register and Leader.

Taking No Chances.

"A man never loses anything by politeness," said the Old Fogy.

"I know a lot of men who never intend to," added the Grouch.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

The Clock.

She—I dearly love to listen to the ticking of a clock. It seems to me that a clock has a language of its own. He—Well, scarcely a language—say a dialect.

CROWD AT CONCERT AT BIG PLAYGROUND

Public Entertainment at Parker Field Proves Popular.

More than one thousand persons visited Parker Field, yesterday afternoon, and enjoyed an excellent concert by Naylor's band. This is the first time in the history of the city that an affair of this kind has been held, and the outcome was watched with more than usual interest on the part of the Playground Commission. Secretary H. E. Parker in speaking of the matter today, said that he was more than pleased with the result. He said that the music was fine and the large crowd conducted itself in an orderly manner, showing its appreciation of the arrangement.

The opening of Parker Field on Sunday afternoons during the summer is an entirely new thing for Plainfield, although there have been repeated requests that the people of the city be allowed to make use of the field in this way. Seats have been provided for about one thousand people. No doubt the threatening weather yesterday afternoon kept many persons away. No provisions have as yet been made for having music every week, but the playground will be opened every Sunday afternoon during the rest of the summer.

COURT'S APPROVAL ON NEW JURY LISTS

No Names Presented by R. J. Kirkland Are Erased by Justice Bergen.

The grand and petit jury lists containing the names of residents of the county designated as eligible for service at the October term of court, which were submitted to Justice Bergen for his inspection have been returned to Under Sheriff Kirkland bearing the proper endorsement and approval which is the first step in meeting the requirements of the new jury reform act.

Not a name was scratched from either list, which indicates that Justice Bergen waived his discretionary powers in questioning any of the talesmen selected in the compilation of the lists under Mr. Kirkland's supervision. Aside from the written approval by the Supreme Court Justice, the documents are the same as when they left the sheriff's office.

In explaining the method employed whereby the law was fully complied with in preparing the lists, Mr. Kirkland said the names were taken from the registry lists of the county after each had been compared to see that the man was not exempt from jury service.

Speaking of the actual drawing of the jury Mr. Kirkland said it would be possible to get the entire panel all from one place. This is hardly probable, however, as the drawing which is by lot would have to be most unique and unusual to bring about this result.

The jury lists are not public as yet but they will be published fifteen days prior to the opening of the term, Tuesday, October 7.

SPECIAL ELECTION IN BORO TOMORROW

North Plainfield Voters to Decide Joint Sewer Proposition.

The special sewer election will be held in North Plainfield tomorrow, when the voters will be called upon to approve or reject the proposition to join with Plainfield and Dunellen in the construction of a joint trunk sewer. The election will be identically the same as the one held in Dunellen, last week, that is there will be four propositions to vote upon, namely, the question of establishing a collection system and issuing bonds for the same and that of joining with the other two municipalities in building a joint trunk sewer and issuing bonds for that work.

The polls will be opened from 6 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening, with an intermission of one hour from 1 to 2 o'clock in the afternoon for dinner. Some people had the idea the polls would be opened only from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 o'clock in the evening as at other elections. The saloons will be closed during the hours of the election the same as at any other election.

There seems to be no doubt but that the proposition will be carried and Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., and the Council are anxious that the vote shall be large enough to leave no room for doubt as to the desire of the people in the matter of securing a sewage system.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Monday As Wash Day.

Why is Monday generally set aside as wash day? Whoever planned such an arrangement of the week's work and what scheme of economizing time and energy did she have in so doing? Probably the desire to have the house in order for "over Sunday" accounts for the Friday cleaning. Certainly the necessity of having an extra supply of food on hand for Sunday, as well as the desire to have it cooked beforehand, accounts for the Saturday baking. Thursday or Wednesday, because they are the middle days of the week counting for Sunday would naturally, one of them, be chosen for the maid's day out, when a maid was kept. Thursday has been chosen.

But why Monday, the hardest day of the week to set the house in order, is the general recognized wash day nobody could probably tell.

Monday Cleaning.

A housewife who does her own work sets Tuesday aside for washing, and Wednesday for ironing. Monday she devotes to cleaning the house—in a general way. There is always much setting to rights necessary after the added wear given to the house on Sunday. In the summer time the verandas need extra work on Monday, if they have been used on Sunday. They must be kept more carefully than usual. Often they need to be cleaned with water. The veranda furniture needs dusting, and cushions and pillows need shaking and beating.

The living rooms, too, are generally disordered, and need dusting, brushing and much of the work vaguely called "picking up." The bedrooms, too, are in greater disorder than usual.

Beside the disorderly condition of the house on Monday, it is inconvenient to prepare on Sunday evening for the washing. The clothes should be put to soak twelve hours before they are washed; and when the washing is done on Monday, that means they must be sorted and put in water on Sunday evening. If Tuesday is made wash day, the laundry can be prepared leisurely on Monday afternoon.

After the house is set in order, allowing time late in the day to prepare for the laundress's work, there is still time on Monday to do some stated work. Silver can be cleaned, certain rooms—bedrooms or bathrooms—can be swept and cleaned, windows can be washed, or mending can be done.

Such an arrangement as the one suggested would seem far more sensible than the one that plans for Monday washing, but so accustomed that few, probably, would care to give it up.

Some Cookery Suggestions

STALE SPONGE CAKE PUDDINGS.

DINNER MENU.
Tomato Soup.
Lamb Stew With Celery and Potatoes.
Buttered Peas. Boiled Rice.
Fruit and Cake Pudding. Coffee.

WHEN you have stale sponge cake do not throw it away. It may be used in concocting a number of delicious puddings.

Baked Sponge Cake Pudding.—Cut a stale sponge cake in slices and between each layer place a layer of sliced dates with the stones removed. Pour over all a custard made of two cupfuls of milk, the yolks of two eggs, half a cupful of sugar and a teaspoonful of flavoring. Bake until the custard is set. Spread over the top a meringue made with the whites of the eggs and a half a cupful of sugar. Bake until brown.

An Attractive Dish.

Fig and Cake Pudding. — Take a round sponge cake and scoop out the inside, leaving a wall about two inches thick. Wash a pound of figs and put them in an earthen or granite stewpan with a pint of water. Add one-half pound of sugar, a few short pieces of stick cinnamon and the grated rind and juice of a lemon. Cook until the figs are tender and then skim them out of the liquid and let them cool. Put a half ounce of gelatin, which has been softened in cold water, into the sirup to thicken it. Let the sirup get almost cool, but not set. Put the cool figs into the cake and pour the sirup over them. Cover the top with whipped cream.

Serve with a little more whipped cream.

With Jam or Marmalade.

Steamed Cake Pudding.—Take about seven small sponge cakes, three eggs, a half pint of milk and some marmalade or jam.

Well butter a pudding dish. Line the sides and bottom of the dish with sponge cakes, split in half lengthways, and spread on one side with marmalade. Turn this marmalade side away from the sides of the dish. Spread a few more of the cakes with marmalade, cut them up in squares and fill the dish about three parts full of them. Then beat up the eggs till slightly frothy; add the milk and a little powdered sugar if you like puddings very sweet. Pour this custard into the dish and put a thin layer of split cakes all over the top. Twist a piece of greased paper over the dish and steam the pudding gently for one and a half hours. Then turn it out and serve it with a custard sauce.

Larry Brought Down the Hat.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— They Changed Their Minds About Larry.

JACK had been telling daddy about the new boy who had moved into the neighborhood.

"The boys don't like him because he is so quiet, but I think he is a very nice little boy," Jack explained. "He just seems to be bashful," added Evelyn.

"Some very fine people are shy," daddy said. "There was little Larry, a boy who moved into Jimmie Jarvis' neighborhood. Jimmie was a leader among the little fellows, and when the newcomer was found to be a very quiet little chap Jimmie and his friends decided that Larry would not be much fun as a playmate. So they left him out of their games and did not notice that the shy little boy looked lonesome.

"One day Jimmie Jarvis' college uncle came to visit him. Uncle Bill played football and rowed in the college boat. He was splendid at baseball, and Jimmie soon had him out on the road teaching the boys how to play ball.

"Uncle Bill was wearing a beautiful new panama hat which he prized very much. The wind was quite high, and suddenly, before he had a chance to catch it, a naughty breeze snatched the hat off his head and carried it up into a nearby tree. There it lodged on a high limb.

"'Can't some of you fellows get the hat for me?' he asked. Although he could do so many other things cleverly, he was not much of a climber.

"One by one the boys tried to reach the hat, but had to give it up.

"Little Larry had been standing watching them. 'Would you mind my trying to get it?' he timidly asked Jimmie's uncle.

"'No, indeed. Glad to have you try,' Uncle Bill answered cordially.

"Larry didn't try to climb up the tree. He ran home and got a rope. He wound the rope around his hand and elbow and then threw it over the limb. Then he knotted the rope to make a sort of ladder.

"'You're a clever boy, all right,' chuckled Uncle Bill when he saw what Larry meant to do.

"While Uncle Bill held the rope ladder firmly in place below Larry skimmed up and brought down the hat.

"'You're a friend in need,' Uncle Bill said gratefully as he put the beloved panama on his head. 'Come, now, and join our game of ball.' He came, and the neighborhood boys found Larry could play better than any of them. Indeed, there was no outdoor sport at which Larry was not much cleverer than any of them, and it was not long until he was the most popular boy in the neighborhood."

The Correct Mourning.

There is a tendency nowadays to curtail the mourning period and to wear deep mourning only for funeral services. Persons who have considered the effect of strict mourning attire on the mind, on the natures of children especially, have departed from strict black and are using gray, black and white or lavender. But for the majority of women the accepted rules regarding dress are still observed.

Correct mourning attire has been decided by custom, and, if you would follow the etiquette of this department of dress, here are some of the main points to be remembered:

A widow's first mourning is entirely black, with the exception of a white crape ruche worn inside the closely fitted cap. Black crape is the only trimming. It is used to edge a net veil, which is worn after a month. Before that time a regular mourning veil is draped over the hat. Crape in narrow folds or pipings should be used with discretion. It is very reprehensible to overdo this.

The extreme mourning, with very wide bands of crape used everywhere, is not good style. White organdie or fine linen may be used for turned over collar and cuffs, pinned with dull black pins. Dull jet is the only permissible jewelry. All gold and precious stones must be laid aside when one is in deep mourning. Diamonds are not considered appropriate, even though they are white.

The widow wears her full mourning for a year. After this the crape is omitted, but she still wears black crape de chine, lusterless silks, dull jet and black chiffon.

When six months of this have passed the white and black, gray and lilac shades are worn. When two years have passed colors may be resumed.

For a child a married woman should wear just the same mourning for a year as she does for a husband. The widow's ruche is omitted. A mother does not wear mourning for very young babies. Indeed, the question of wearing black when there are little children in the family has been decided in favor of discarding mourning.

When a mother-in-law has died mourning for one month is worn. This does not include crape. After the month gray and lilac may be worn. Mourning is not observed for other relatives of one's husband.

Young women who observe full mourning for parents do not wear draped hats or long veils. Simplicity in their black should be the rule. It is foolish to wear full mourning and to cling to jewelry and overornamentation. Crape outside not to be worn by young girls. Six months is the time for mourning in this case. After this white, white and black, gray and lavender should be worn. There is a tendency to wear white in the summer time, which insures comfort and is rapidly becoming the accepted style for young women.

Unmarried women of middle age wear the same mourning for parents or any of the immediate family for the same time.

A Good Listener.

If you have tried and have failed in the great art of talking then be a good listener. Every one should cultivate the habit of listening well. It is one of the little amenities that we are inclined to overlook, yet it is one of the big factors in pleasant social intercourse.

In order to be a good listener you must first be willing to fix your attention on the conversation. If you are in the habit of dividing your attention you are failing. Any woman who is pretending to listen to a story and in reality is wondering whether the talker made her own dress or bought it in an exclusive shop is foolish in her attempt to appear polite. She in reality is very rude.

Public Introductions.

Introductions in public are made as a matter of convenience and since they are unsolicited need not be recognized at any future time. These are unnecessary in a hasty, casual passing between two friends and one who is known to only one of them. If, however, a lengthy conversation takes place or if there is a possibility of all persons going in the same direction or to the same place an introduction should be made. There is nothing so embarrassing to a friend as to be left out of things in an almost rude way by the lack of an introduction.

At the Table.

Before the dessert is served the crumbs should be removed from the table, using for the purpose a crumb tray and a silver scraper. A brush is no longer considered hygienic. When luncheon is served at a polished table a folded napkin may be used to sweep up the crumbs instead of the scraper A good waitress always tries to anticipate the requirements of the diners.

Who Calls First?

The parents of the bridegroom should call first upon the family of the bride to be, and no announcement of any sort should be made until this has been done. A man's mother naturally wishes to know something of the girl he is going to marry, and after she has called the man himself may take the girl to see his own mother.

"MAC" SAYS

SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX.

(In the Wilds of Dunellen).

One of the most prominent features of Saturday's Central New Jersey League contest at Dunellen was the popularity of Umpire Brienbrower (or somebody with a handle like that). His increasing popularity among the fans was noticeable as the game progressed. Had he been met following the encounter it is said that several presentations would have been dealt out by the more rabid of the Dunellenites.

Warry McLaughlin and Jack Torpey, two of the heftiest propositions in the organization, continue to hand out the soft stuff in the form of personal remarks every time they pass by each other. Warry was informed by Torpey that if he had half as much weight he would make a better pitcher and the Dunellen pitcher answered by clouting a three bagger a minute later and then was relieved by a runner at third. In passing home plate he made some remark to Jack who promptly wiped the terra firma with his bonnet.

Fifteen strikeouts is not a bad afternoon's work for any pitcher even one wearing a uniform emblemic of some Central New Jersey League aggregation. Eddie Kraft turned this stunt Saturday afternoon and fanned some of the best stickers in the league at that.

Coyle's two stops around the keystone sack were the real thing in fielding. The little second baseman fell flat on his back twice trying to locate the sphere and got it both times at that.

McLaughlin was the only Dunellenite who could locate Kraft's benders to any degree of effectiveness. He got two beauties, one a scorching three base hit.

Warry had a good chance of getting that gold watch offered for the first home run but could not navigate the bases fast enough when he got on the paths. His hit was the longest ever made on the Dunellen diamond, but he went around the bases like an ice wagon.

Grimes was back in a Somerville uniform Saturday afternoon and he did not look any the worse for his trip down south even if he didn't get in any of the battles while in the sunny climate.

Jimmy Wolf didn't show any of his home run ability against Somerville. Kraft was a complete puzzle to the Dunellen wonder.

By defeating the Spicer baseball team of the City Baseball League Saturday afternoon, the West Ends romped into first place in the organization's standing sub-planting the Saurers who have held the lead the greater part of the season. The motor truck makers assisted in their own down-fall by allowing the Royals to hang up a 7 to 2 count at their expense.

As has been the case in the majority of the previous contests, the battles were won by large scores, although they were not as one-sided as many of the other contests. All of the games were attended by large crowds, the fact that Plainfield had no game booked, serving to bring the fans to the City League circuit.

High Bridge	3	4	.429

Owing to High Bridge's sudden retirement from the Central New Jersey League but one game was played Saturday afternoon and that one resulted in a beating for the Dunellen aggregation, who fell before the slants of Eddie Kraft for a 5 to 1 beating. Plainfield lying idle was overtaken by the Torpey crew and Somerville is now tied for first place honors with the Pets, each having won six encounters and lost a trio.

The game at Dunellen was not as well attended as the league contests played at that place heretofore have been but there was just as much enthusiasm which was properly displayed outwardly when a few unpopular decisions were rendered by the umpire. The threatening weather probably had much to do with the falling off in the attendance for it looked like a shower prior to the starting of the contest.

First Baptist clung to the lead in the Sunday School Baseball League Saturday afternoon by walloping the winless Park avenue boys and the Hope Chapel contingent maintained its runner-up by trimming the First Presbyterians.

Both of the contests in the organization's schedule were one sided and the hits and runs were many in both contests. Upon good authority it is said that the Park Avenue Baptist players intend to protest their game of Saturday following what they term an unfair decision coming from the umpire.

ROYLE T. PHILLIPS MAKES LOW SCORE AT P. G. C.

Royle T. Phillips returned the lowest score at the Park Gilf Club, Saturday in competition for the President's cup. He made the eighteen holes in a 72 net, but his handicap of 23 is likely to suffer in consequence. Nelson A. Miller finished second and Samuel Townsend was third, with scores of 80 and 82 respectively. In the afternoon a team of twelve men played at Bound Brook, and there was not so many players on the local course. The Parks defeated Bound Brook by a score of 16 to 8. The scores for the President's cup:

Royle T. Phillips, 95, 23-72; Nelson A. Miller, 100, 21-80; Samuel Townsend, 103, 21-82; Charles B Morse, 99, 12-87; Fred Hillman, 123, 35-88; H. H. Woodland, 99, 8-91; William P. Taylor, 87, plus 5-92.

DENNY'S PITCHING WON FOR WEST ENDS

Spicer Team Outhit and Outscored Once More—Have Yet to Win a Game.

A close and interesting game of baseball was pulled off in the City League, Saturday afternoon, when the Spicers were handed their regular weekly beating, the West Ends being the administers this trip by the count of 7 to 5. The contest was anybody's until the last stanza was played for both teams took on spurts at a number of different intervals that looked good.

Jack Denny, who did the hillock honors for the winning aggregation, allowed the Spicer people but three safeties and fanned six, while Jimmy Montross, in the joint makers' garb, allowed ten safeties and whiffed nine. Both teams did some spasmodic pieces of ragged fielding and this accounted for the runs to a large extent.

PETS HELP TO BEAT GIANT'S YANNIGANS

New Brunswick Pulls out in Front in Sunday Game With New York.

A team made up of New York Giants, under the management of Wilbert Robinson, was defeated by the New Brunswick club in a well-played game at New Brunswick yesterday afternoon by the score of 3 to 1. Jimmy Clinton, who pitched for Brunswick, was in fine form and held the big leaguers down to four scattered hits. In the ninth inning the Giants threatened to cause trouble, but a great running catch by Stallings retired the side. Wiltse started the game for the visitors, but gave way to Schupp in the fifth inning. It was during the latter's term of boxwork that the home team won the game. A crowd of 3,500 saw the game.

Jim Thorpe, who was the centre of attraction for the Brunswick fans, scored the only New York run, in the third inning, when he opened with a double to left, advanced to third on an out, and scored on a force play at second. New Brunswick tied the score in the fourth on a pass to Driscoll, Cosgrave's sacrifice and Dalton's single to centre. In the fifth the home team went ahead on Lewis' single outs by Craig and Powers and a single by Stallings. Driscoll's triple and Cosgrave's double added another run in the seventh.

ROYALS ADMINISTERED DRUBBING TO SAURERS

Manager Pete Simmons and his Royal Colored Giants sprang a surprise Saturday afternoon by walloping the Saurer City Leaguers to the tune of 7 to 2, thereby taking the lead in the league race. Both teams were in fine hitting fettle and the winners got a total of 14 bingles and the losing side pounded out 11. Two big sessions at the bat sewed up the game for the Royal Giants, as they got a trio in the first and four more in the sixth.

The fielding was unusually good on the part of both teams and each side pulled off a number of spectacular stops that brought the crowd to its feet on more than one occasion. Many of the hits were of the hard and long variety and generally counted for runs as they came when men occupied the bases.

AWFUL TRAVESTY BEAT PLAINFIELD

MADE IN LAST CANTO

Pets Led All the Way Until Last Stanza—Hitting Was Light—Good Twirling Especially In Early Stages.

An amalgamation of ball players under the Queen City's trade mark had a narrow escape from defeating little Joe Alberts' Scotch Plains' crew at the latter place yesterday afternoon, but the 'Plains combination ran afoul of their early inning good resolutions and in the eventful ninth sorely vexed the Plainfielders by rolling up a score of 2 to 1, or just one counter to the good. Warry McLaughlin and "Nibs" Hand were the recipients of vociferous greetings when they poled out three baggers but a fellow by the name of Conti is the genuine essence of popularity in that little village today, for it was this same third sacker who spilled the Plainfielders' beans in the ninth by making a rotten heave to first after he had turned Baldwin's scorcher into a beautiful stop allowing Hand to round across the gutta percha with the deciding marker.

Although his throw lost the game Conti had played a brilliant game up to that time, fielding as fast as lightning and throwing accurately withal. At numerous different intervals the 'Plainsmen were in a position to score but Cliff Randolph's heaving stood like a stone wall in their path and he thwarted their efforts at every twist and turn. However good may have been the twirling of Randolph he had little the better of Warry McLaughlin, who was in tip-top form, travelling in the nuggy weather. He doled out just five hits the same as his brother hillock guardian, and a little hefty slugging at opportune moments behind him would have put the affair on ice for the home nine in its early stages.

Plainfield played a flawless game behind Randolph, while but two slips were made behind the veteran Warry.

Plainfield's one run came in the fifth when Garretson got a single, went to second on Hand's wild heave to second and third on Gray's error, which also allowed him to count. Scotch Plains evened matters up in the eighth, when McLaughlin led off with a three bagger and the run was scored when De Nitzio followed with a two base clout. After two outs had been chalked up in the ninth Hand poled out his second hit and stole second neatly. Hand brought home the winning run all the way from second when Conti threw poorly to Garretson after making a lightning stop of Falkenburg's scorcher.

Y. M. A. A. HANDS OUT A TERRIFIC BEATING

Mt. Pleasant Aggregation no Match for the Local Athletes.

The Y. M. A. A. baseball team journeyed to Mt. Pleasant Saturday afternoon and gave the representative team of that place a bad beating by a score of 20 to 8. Manager Conger shook his team up somewhat, and secured a number of new players, all of which led to the overwhelming defeat of the Mt. Pleasant boys. All of the Y. M. A. A. pitchers worked to good advantage, allowing only seven hits between them, while the opposing slabmen were hit safely fifteen times. Thorne was relieved in the sixth inning by Stewart, the Pets second string box artist, and the Mt. Pleasant team cornered four of their seven hits from his delivery.

Durkee, the new catcher of the Y. M. A. A., was secured from Somerville and he proved his worth to Manager Conger in all respects, starring at the bat with two singles and a double out of his five trips to the bat. His throwing of the bases was also a brilliant feature to witness. Meyers played his usual steady game in the outfield for the winners, while Blazier deserves special mention for his consistent playing for the losers.

The Y. M. A. A. scored in every inning but the first and fourth until their grand total of twenty runs were made. Mt. Pleasant had a little rally in the seventh inning but the best they could chalk up for their nine innings' hard work was eight.

STRIKEOUT CONTEST WON BY DICK SCHOTT

Hope Chapel redeemed itself Saturday afternoon in the Sunday-school League race by pounding out an 11 to 3 victory over the First Presbyterian combination on Hyde Field. The game, featured by heavy hitting on the part of the Chapelites, was a loose fielding contest on the part of both combinations, the losers making ten while Hope came up in the rear with an even half dozen. All of the Chapelites took an important part in their team's come-back exhibition and many of the winning side broke into the hit column for a brace of counters.

E. Terry's pair of two base slams and Tommy Heron's usual two-base hit were prominent factors in the victory, while Frank Dunning and Newell were the effective stickers for the Presbyterians. While Newell twirled good ball for the losers he was given ragged support at crucial moments and Schott, on the other hand had his good heaving ably upheld by his backers. Schott whiffed thirteen and Newell fell but two shy of that mark.

SERIES OF CONTESTS FOR LEAGUE'S TITLE

Somerville Will Oppose Pets if the Organization Blows up.

In the event of the breaking up of the Central New Jersey League, a fact that now seems to be a certainty, the Plainfield and Somerville clubs will engage in a series for the championship of the league, the two clubs now being tied for first place in the organization's race for the pennant. Dunellen is still very much alive and this club may also be considered in a post season series. The latter club is the only money maker in the league and a series of games between the winner and Dunellen would probably prove a big feature in baseball.

Managers Dorflinger and Torpey are anxious to bring this about and the series will probably include five games. It will be remembered that the Somerville and Plainfield teams finished the season deadlocked last season and the play-off resulted in an attendance that eclipsed all previous records for baseball contests in this city. Somerville and the Pets have always been the greatest of rivals and both have a set of players that can play the game with the best talent in this vicinity.

CITY LEAGUE MEETING.

CENTRAL LEAGUE BUBBLE BURSTED

MAY REORGANIZE AGAIN

If Not This Year the League Will Be Started Anew in 1914—Financial Troubles the Cause—Plainfield Was Idle Saturday.

The Central New Jersey Baseball League is standing on its last legs, with the end near in sight. The death blow was dealt unceremoniously when the four-club organization was thought to be traveling along smoothly and came from a most unexpected quarter, High Bridge being the latest club to sever its connections. Heretofore this aggregation has appeared to be one of the strongest teams in the organization, but it was decided at a recent meeting of the club's board of directors to discontinue affiliations with the league, and although W. M. Williams, mayor of that town and president of the league, made an effort to get a team to Plainfield, it proved to be a failure.

The scheduled game for High Bridge at that place with Plainfield last Saturday afternoon was not played and as a result the Pets were idle. Unless resuscitation saves the league at a meeting to be held tomorrow night the schedule will be discontinued and the teams will hereafter play independently.

Whether the league weathers this stormy season or not, efforts will probably be made at the outset of next season to start the organization anew. Rain prevented the playing of several contests at the opening of the present schedule and many of the clubs lost heavily as a result. With a fair share of breaks the organization is a money maker for rivalry makes baseball and nowhere is this factor more evident than between the quartet of clubs that composed the circuit. The towns are all nearby and have been diamond rivals from years before. This year, however, every kind of an obstacle was met, some were negotiated successfully, but others very unsuccessfully.

HARD HITTING AGAIN DEFEATED THE PARKS

First Baptist Holds League Lead by Walloping the Park Avenue Nine.

A volley of runs in three big sessions at the bat, resulted in another defeat for the winless Park Avenue Baptist aggregation Saturday afternoon when the First Baptist sluggers scored an 18 to 5 victory at the expense of the Parks, pounding out seventeen hits as a side issue. Four hits by Pierson Bailey and three by Banks told the tale of victory but the other members of the winning aggregation also took a prominent part in the triumph, either in snappy fielding or hard clouting.

Mills and Ricketts, who did the mound duty for the losers were hit hard and frequently by the Baptist clouters and when hits meant runs they were usually found for the necessary bingle or two. Ten errors on the part of the cellar occupants also added to the First Baptist's easy win for the fielders practically threw the contest away.

METHODISTS WON WESTFIELD SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE GAME

Two ball games were played at Recreation Park, Westfield, Saturday afternoon, both being attended by large crowds of fans who have started out to support the various Mt. Ararat aggregations in great style since the recent revival of the National Pastime. The fact that Westfield has no semi-professional team playing Saturday afternoon games this season gives the amateur aggregations a chance to shine and they are putting forth their best efforts.

The Cubs and Independents, two Westfield teams, played the first game, the former winning by a score of 7 to 1. The batteries for the winners were Crittendon and Hunt, and for the losers Clark, Miller and McNamara. The other game was a Sunday-school League contest, the Methodist team vanquishing the Catholic nine by a score of 6 to 2. Pearsall twirled for the winners, with Young as a relief man, while Wale and McNamara formed the Catholic battery.

LOCAL COMPETITOR WON TWO EVENTS AND SCORED A FOURTH

John Dougherty, of this city, one of the best bait and fly casters in this vicinity, starred in the events held under the auspices of the Newark Bait an Fly Casting Club at Weequahic Park, Newark, Saturday afternoon, which had been postponed from a week previous. The events on the program were three in number, distance fly casting, and distance quarter-ounce bait casting and accurate fly casting.

In the distance fly casting with an unlimited rod, John Dougherty was fourth with 93 points, he won the accuracy dry fly cast with a mark of thirteen demerits, and he also won the distance quarter-ounce bait casting competition with a distance of 135 feet, 9 inches, to his credit.

TRINITY OUT HIT RIVALS BUT LOST

Trinity dropped another game Saturday afternoon on its opponent's field, the lucky ones this time being the Monroe M. E. team, of the Sunday-school League. Trinity got its few runs over by opportune hitting, while five of Monroe's counters came over the pan on errors. In the early stages of the game, Hefti, the Monroe twirler, had the Trinityites trying hard and failing to connect with his shoots, while Schenck would have come through all right had he not had ragged support.

In the sixth, the latter took second base to strengthen the infield while Colthar went into the box. Gunzleman was a busy man in the field and at bat. Out of thirteen chances in the field he accepted twelve. At bat, the second sacker secured a single and a double. The Monroe captain also accepted twelve chances without an error at the initial sack. Schenck and Harvey played nice fielding games for Trinity, the former securing a long double. In the eighth McAfee made a great catch, coming in from centre field and nabbing a Texas leaguer. Colthar was the only Trinity man to secure more than one bingle.

Gloves.

The origin of gloves is very ancient. Some authorities assert that they were known in Bible times, from references made to "shoes" which were thought to be identical with gloves. The first clear account of gloves comes, however, from Xenophon. This writer speaks of the Persians wearing gloves on their hands to protect them from the cold. Homer describes Laertes working in his garden with gloves upon his hands to protect them from the thorns, and Varro mentions this apparel as being worn by the Romans. Gloves have been tokens of solemn and important things from the ninth century. They were adopted as a rite of the church, and later the transferring of lands or titles was always attended with the presentation of gloves. In the eleventh century the method of challenging to single combat by throwing down a glove was instituted, and this custom still remains in some countries.

Pierpont Morgan's Fairy Palace.

Pierpont Morgan's wonderful house in Prince's Gate differed little on the outside from its neighbors, merely two houses rolled into one, but its interior suggested nothing so much as the fairy palace of Aladdin. In the hall a spring was pressed and part of one of the walls "fell away" in the approved style. You walked down into a basement, which at first sight resembled nothing so much as one of the lower decks on a large liner. Ranged along the walls were what appeared to be a number of safes, but they were really doors opening into small rooms, into each of which a particular portion of Mr. Morgan's collection had been brought. There were rooms for English silver, for porcelain and for half a dozen other objets d'art. No one who was ever fortunate enough to be shown round by Mr. Morgan himself can forget the experience.—London Bystander.

SOMERVILLE WON BURLESQUE GAME

Central New Jersey League Clash Featured by Bad Fielding.

EARLY STRANGLE HOLD

Five Runs in the First Two Innings For Somerville—McLaughlin Gets Longest Hit Ever Made on Dunellen Field.

When Eddie Kraft pranced to the hillock at Dunellen Saturday afternoon 400 loyal fans bade goodbye to the Bogardus crew's chances of copping another game at the expense of Somerville for this little heaver is by far the daintiest morsel in the Central New Jersey League this season. Saturday was a big day for Eddie and although he had nothing to baffle the home sluggers save a mitt and a wicked out-curve, when the dust cleared away at the end of the fusillade he had fifteen strike-outs to his credit and the score stood 5 to 1 in the Somerset county boys' favor.

While Torpey's proteges were amassing a total of five markers, giving them a strangle hold on the game in the first innings, Kraft kept the clamps tightly wedged while his teammates were assaulting the sphere to the extent of an even dozen bingles. Both teams were sorely vexed on numerous occasions by the umpire's rulings and the protests came loud and frequent from both the players and the fans. Strikes were balls and balls were strikes, according to a rabid mob of fans and an even more excited group of eighteen ball players, and a lonesome individual by the name of Brienbrower was treated to his ups and downs in his "old hame town."

Goyle's two brilliant stops near the keystone sack and a pair credited to Conti near the third corner, were the redeeming features of an otherwise listless contest. McLaughlin's leglistless contst. McLaughlin's legwork was the only thing that separated him from the much talked of gold watch for the first home run scored on the Dunellen grounds, when he poled out a circuit swat in the third inning, but failed to navigate any farther than third on the clout. Cunningham, Porter, Torpey and Nolan also did some good work with the wagon tongue.

Dunellen's solitary counter came in the first session when Schiller got life on Hickey's error, went to second on a fielder's choice and scored on the same play.

Somerville got a trio in the first. Grimes singled and went to second on Hand's wild throw to center field and to third on a fielder's choice which gave Wiltse life on first. Grimes scored the first run on Jim Wolf's error and Wiltse went to second and third on the misplay which also gave Porter life on second. Both of the base runners counted on Nolan's two bagger. In the second Kraft got life on Jim Wolf's error and scored all the way from first when McLaughlin made a bad throw to the initial station after Cunningham had singled. The latter runner also scored on this heave, making the tally card five.

FEW VOTES CAST IN THE BOROUGH

VERY LITTLE INTEREST

Over 1,000 Ballots Were Cast at Election Held in 1912—Comparisons at Various Polls—A Large Majority Appear to be in Favor of Scheme.

Four questions are being submitted to the voters of North Plainfield at a special election being held today and up to the time the polls closed for an hour at 1 o'clock interest was lacking and the voting consequently light. The questions submitted are: first, whether or not the borough shall construct a collecting system of sewerage and an outfall sewer not to exceed $220,000 in cost; second, whether or not North Plainfield shall unite with Plainfield and Dunellen in building a joint disposal plant in Piscataway; third, whether or not North Plainfield shall issue bonds to the amount of $150,000 to pay for the collecting system in the borough; and fourth, whether or not the borough shall issue bonds to the amount of $100,000 to pay for the disposal plant.

General sentiment expressed by voters at all of the five polling places this morning seem to be in favor of all of the four questions and it is quite probable that all will be passed with an overwhelming majority. Among about fifty individuals questioned by a Daily Press reporter all answered in the affirmative and the voting has tended in that direction almost without exception it is said.

Up to the closing time at 1 o'clock this afternoon a total of 166 votes had been cast, forty in the first district, twenty-three in the second, thirty in the third, fifty-six in the fourth and seventeen in the fifth. In the official November election returns for 1912 the Borough of North Plainfield was credited with a total of 1,079 votes cast, or just 913 more than took advantage of the opportunity to have a say in the municipal matters at the special election up to 1 o'clock this afternoon. In the first district the 1912 returns were placed at 205 against forty this morning; in the second district the 1912 returns amounted to 233 ballots cast, while this morning's were but twenty-three; in the third district 1912 returns were 135 and today's 30; in the fourth district 293 were cast in 1912 and 56 this morning; and in the fifth district 112 were cast in 1912 and 17 this morning.

The fourth district has the most registrations and therefore the voting was the heaviest in that division, nearly three times as many ballots being cast in that district as in the fifth. The election is for all legal voters and not for property owners alone, as some of the borough citizens have been led to believe. The voting was started again at 2 o'clock but no renewed activity presented itself at that time. The voting is done on regular ballots, on which are printed the four questions, the first two to be voted "for" or "against" and the last two to be voted "in favor of" or "against."

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR THOMAS O'LEARY HELD

The funeral service of Thomas O'Leary of West Fifth street, who died at Southampton, L. I., on Saturday, was held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's R. C. church, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. The solem requiem mass was conducted by three priests. Father Hogan being the celebrant, Father Baldwin the deacon and Father Vincent Sciolla the sub-deacon.

There were many floral tributes from relatives and friends, including those from the family by whom Mr. Leary was employed as a coachman for many years. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery and the pallbearers were James Strappe, Jeremiah Callahan, Daniel Dillion, William Geisler, Michael McCarthy and John Dennelly.

HAD A NARROW ESCAPE.

James Pullmore, of this city, who, with a party of friends, was crabbing at Elizabethport on Sunday, had a narrow escape from losing his life in a storm of almost hurricane velocity which passed over Newark Bay. The Plainfielders were in a boat quite a distance from shore and it was only through the prompt assistance given by another party in a motor boat that they were saved.

FEATHER BED BURNS.

Fire was discovered in a feather bed in a house located at 22 Warren street at noon today, and a call from box No. 141 at Somerset and Pearl streets summoned the borough firemen who threw the burning articles out of the second story window thus preventing any interior damage.

STATE LEAGUE WILL BACK EVERITT COLBY

Proposed Organization to Be Effected at Newark on Thursday Afternoon.

Statewide agitation for the nomination of former State Senator Everett Colby as Gubernatorial candidate was taken in hand at a meeting of some leaders held in Mr. Colby's office yesterday afternoon. Mr. Colby himself was not present, as he is still in Cape Cod, Me.

It was decided to hold a meeting of representatives from all the counties of the State on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock and form a State nominating league in the similar manner in which the Newark Everett Colby Nominating Leaggue was formed recently.

Representatives from every county are expected and during their stay in Newark they will be the guests of members of the Newark league. As many could not get back home in time they will remain over night with the local members.

The meeting will be held at the New Auditorium, where a week later Mr. Colby will make his platform announcement. At yesterday's meeting four counties were represented as follows: Frank B. Jess, from Camden, J. A. H. Hopkins, from Morris, Edgar A. Knapp, from Union, and Algernon T. Sweeney, from Essex. Besides these Borden D. Whiting and former Governor J. Franklin Fort were present.

GEO. VIEBROCK DEAD; AGED SEVENTY YEARS

Grocer Passes Away in North Plainfield, Where He Lived for Fifteen Years.

George Viebrock, aged about 70 years, a well-known grocer, died this morning at his home, 200 Jackson avenue. Although he had been complaining for sometime it was not until Sunday that his illness became acute. His end was due to complications. He was born in Germany, coming to this country about forty years ago. He first located in Elizabeth, where for twenty-five years he was engaged in the grocery business.

Mr. Viebrock removed to North Plainfield about fifteen years ago and opened a grocery on Jackson avenue. He was a member of the Temple Baptist church, and one of its trustees for several years. He possessed a strong Christian character and was devoted to his home and church.

There survive a wife, three sons, Henry L. Viebrock, the Park avenue grocer, and Fred Viebrock, of this city, and John D. Viebrock, of Arizona, and three daughters, the Misses Matilda, Marie and Christine Viebrock. He also leaves a brother, John Viebrock, of Elizabeth. The notice of the funeral will be announced later.

NETHERWOOD RESIDENTS ASS'N TRUSTEES MEET

The trustees of the Netherwood Residents' Association met last night at the home of A. Clinton Wilmerding, on Belvidere avenue, to receive the reports of various committees and discuss plans for the coming year. All of these reports were encouraging. They showed that better lighting had been promised for the grounds about the Netherwood Station and that concrete walks would be laid in place of the planks that have been in service for years. The lights on some of the streets in the Netherwood section have been improved already.

There was a lively discussion regarding the proposed public school for the Netherwood section and the sentiment was in favor of working to secure a school building to accommodate the children in that part of the city. This matter will be taken up later with the Board of Education.

SOMERVILLE SOLONS HAVE BUSY SESSION

Somerville, July 15—The Somerville Water Company having failed to accept the terms of the Borough Council in its application for a permit to use Cliff street instead of Summit avenue, in which to run its thirty-six inch main, the Council decided that night to take steps at once to compel the company to fulfill the terms of its contract with the borough with reference to enlarging its distributing plant at Raritan.

The people of this place are now more concerned about the purity of its water supply, since it is asserted that the water is unsafe for drinking purposes without being boiled. Many cases of dysentery have been attributed to the supply, but the company deny the charge. Mayor Steele has appointed Councilmen Snyder and Wright with Borough Attorney A. M. Beekman a special committee to confer with the water company, with power to act.

Mrs. Antoinette B. Blackwell in a communication to the Council agrees to accept $5 from the borough for certain lands needed for the widening of High street from Eastern avenue and extension of East Cliff street to Vanderveer avenue. The terms have been accepted.

The New Jersey Central's offer for a small strip of land 40x40 feet adjoining the railroad at Peter's brook, to widen its trackage, has been accepted.

Residents of Park avenue and East High street, have petitioned Council for better street lighting and the sprinkling of the streets. Both matters have been referred. On recommendation of Councilman Cline it was decided to purchase additional equipment for the fire department, including hats, coats, a life net and three new alarm boxes, one of which will replace No. 21, which has become useless.

The monthly report of Collector Brokaw showed a balance of about $300 and as the monthly bills amounted to over $5,500, it was voted to borrow $5,000 in anticipation of taxes. The Council will hold an adjourned meeting Monday night.

FINE FOR ALLOWING YOUR DOG TO ROAM

Penalty is $25 and Mayor Issues a Warning to Owners About Ordinance.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart, who with his family, is spending the summer at Southampton, L. I., returned to town yesterday to look after some city business and almost his first act was to issue the customary proclamation concerning dogs. There have been numerous complaints about dogs running at large at this season of the year.

The question of appointing a dog catcher has been deferred for a short time by Mr. Stewart for the reason that the old dog pound was destroyed by fire and a new one has since been built. Until a regular dog catcher is appointed the police will be on the lookout for stray canines.

According to the ordinance no dog is permitted to leave the premises of its owner or custodian unless securely confined upon a leash and accompanied by a person over the age of twelve years, under a penalty not exceeding twenty dollars. This order will remain in force until November 1, next.

CHOIR BOYS WILL SEE THE NEW YORK GIANTS PLAY BALL

Rev. C. H. Mallery will take a squad of the Heavenly Rest choir boys to New York on a sight-seeing trip on Thursday afternoon, and plans have been made to take in the baseball game scheduled at the Polo Grounds between the New York and St. Louis teams of the National League. A double header is on the program for that afternoon and as the Giants are at present traveling at a fast clip the boys expect to see some speedy baseball.

It is a well-known fact that Mr. Mallery is a thirty-second degree fan and an ardent follower of Johnny McGraw's crew and should the Giants fail to win both encounters his friends will probably have some fun at his expense. Besides the ball game the boys will visit a number of the big shipping and commercial centers of the Metropolis and will visit the Bronx Park in the morning. The trip will last all day and a full and busy program has been arranged.

SHORTER HOURS FOR SCOTT'S MACHINISTS

Differences Settled and Men Will Go Back to Their Work Tomorrow.

The differences between the machinists employed at the Walter Scott Printing Press plant and their employers have been amicably adjusted and the eighty-five men will return to their work tomorrow morning. As at the Hall and Potter plants the week's work for them will mean forty-nine and one half hours. When the request was made for shorter hours, the company closed down the plant on Saturday posting a notice to the effect that work would not be resumed until the difficulties were settled.

Hugh V. Reilly, business agent of the International Association of Machinists, had a talk with the owners of the plant yesterday afternoon and today he announced that everything is all right and that all misunderstandings had been cleared up.

THEY BESIEGE LAWYER'S OFFICE TO BUY BREAD

Friends of V. W. Nash, Jr., are enjoying a good laugh at his expense. The young lawyer is counsel for John C. Schinkel, proprietor of the O-X-O Bread company, in North avenue, which has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. His client, it seems, yesterday morning posted a notice on the door reading, "Closed. Apply to V. W. Nash, Jr., Park avenue." Counsellor Nash and his stenographer have been kept busy since then explaining to prospective customers that bread is not sold in a law office and that they would have to get it elsewhere.

COMMITTED TO THE JAIL TO AWAIT INVESTIGATION

John Fleming, giving his residence as anywhere, and Richard Smith, of 308 Church street, were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning charged by Detective Laverett with trespassing on the Central Railroad's tracks. The men are thought by the police to know something about the looting of the Hampton Junction station of the Central Railroad one night last week and articles found upon their person when arrested substantiate this charge.

Judge DeMeza committed both of the defendants to the Union county jail in Elizabeth for a period of ten days when the case will be thoroughly investigated by the railroad authorities. The prisoners were taken to Elizabeth this afternoon.

MACRORIE GETS WRIT FOR APPEAL OF CASE

Rev. Willis S. MacRorie, the deposed pastor of the Mt. Horeb and Springdale M. The case will be argued in the November term.

When MacRorie was sentenced by Judge James C. Connolly in Elizabeth last Friday afternoon, he announced that he would take an appeal. The deposed minister is at presen tout on $1,000 bail furnished by Manning F. Codington.

TROLLEY CAR ROWDY RECEIVED A SCARE

Recorder Campbell Levied a $10 Fine Which He Afterwards Remitted.

When Bertram Stackhouse, of Lexington avenue, New York, was arraigned before Recorder David Campbell in the Dunellen police court yesterday afternoon charged with causing a disturbance on a Main Line trolley car at that place last Saturday night which resulted in his receiving a severe beating at the hands of the conductor, Thomas F. Coyne, the court room was packed with curious people who arrived fully an hour before the court convened. Stackhouse, as related in yesterday's issue of this paper, was abusing the trolley company employe en route to Dunellen from this city Saturday night and when the latter left the car near the car barns to telephone for the police Stackhouse followed him and struck the conductor a dazing blow in the back.

Coyne retaliated and gave the trouble-maker a severe thrashing which landed him in the hospital where it was found that he was suffering from contusions and two blackened eyes. After arriving at Muhlenberg Hospital he started a second row and was removed to the local police headquarters from where he was transferred to Dunellen for a hearing before Recorder Campbell yesterday afternoon.

After hearing both sides of the case the recorder found Stackhouse guilty of the charge preferred against him and fined the offender $10 with the option of spending sixty days in the Middlesex county jail. Some people left the court room congratulating the Dunellen Recorder on the justice he had meted out but they little knew that Stackhouse was due to get off with nothing more than a reprimand.

Following the court session the defendant had a talk with the accused and after listening to the latter's tale of woe he finally remitted the fine upon the condition that Stackhouse leave town at once. The defendant, who still bore the effects of the beating that he had received at Coyne's hands, jumped at this offer and took the first car for his home in New York.

BIKE THIEF STARTS ON A HUNGER STRIKE

Turner, After Attempting to Break Jail, Emulates English Militant Suffragettes.

Elizabeth, July 15—Emulating the English militant suffragettes, William Turner, the bicycle thief from Plainfield, who was sentenced to serve from one to three years, and who attempted to break jail yesterday, has now gone on a "hunger strike," and has refused all offers for food of any description. It is believed that the prisoner is feigning insanity.

Turner refused to eat any supper last night, and this morning he spurned his breakfast. Likewise he declined to eat a dinner served to him today. He will be taken to Trenton in a day or two, where he will be kept under close watch.

MORE THAN 100 NOW FOR ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS

Encourageing reports of the progress of the movement were received at the meeting of the Plainfield branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage held at the public library, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. C. H. Sykes, the secretary, presided. It was stated that a large number of membership slips had been returned and many requests for them had been received. During the past two or three weeks more than one hundred women have joined the association.

Reports from various parts of the State were also received. Chairmen of the various committees told what had been accomplished since the last meeting and there was a general discussion of campaign plans for the summer and early fall.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE TWICE IN ONE DAY

Samuel Woodruff, 19 years of age, of New York, who figured in a second story burglary at Dunellen last week and was captured and committed to the county jail in New Brunswick to await the action of the Grand Jury after a lively automobile chase, twice in twelve hours attempted to end his life yesterday while confined in his cell in the Middlesex county jail. He disconnected a tube from a gas stove and put one end of it in his mouth and then turned on the gas. Others in the jail saw him lying unconscious on the floor and they notified the warden.

Drs. F. A. Hoffman and Howard Voorhees were summoned to the jail and after working over Woodruff for two hours, finally succeeded in reviving him. The first attempt, which was made early in the morning, was followed by another one shortly after noon when he again tried to end his life by the same method.

After the second unsuccessful attempt the gas stove was taken from his cell and a close watch will be kept on his actions in the future. He has been unusually reticent since arriving at the jail and refuses to have anything to do with the wardens or other occupants of the jail who have tried to cheer him up.

SEEKING TO HAVE BROTHERS OUSTED

Mrs. Senger Claims Executors of Father's Will Are Trying to Swindle Her.

RAPS WM. NEWCORN

Trial Not Finished and Judge Connolly Will Resume Hearing in September—Estate Valued at Over $100,000.

Elizabeth, July 15.—(Special)—The action of Mrs. Bertha Senger, wife of C. P. Senger, of Plainfield, to remove her brothers, Harry and Garret Dreier, as executors of the Dreier estate, which was before Judge James C. Connolly in the Court of Common Pleas, yesterday, developed a strong feeling between the complainant and the defendant's counsel, William Newcorn. The hearing was marked by sharp retorts on the part of both Mrs. Senger and Mr. Newcorn.

The case was sharply contested by opposing counsel, Mr. Newcorn and William R. Wilson for the petitioners. Mrs. Senger in her capacity as witness directed personal remarks to Mr. Newcorn, leading Mr. Newcorn to take exception. He appealed to Judge Connolly to instruct the witness relative to a proper attitude in court.

"My eyes are honest ones," said Mrs. Senger to Mr. Newcorn, "and I don't see how you have the nerve to look me in the eyes," she declared. Mr. Newcorn then requested her "not to stare at me."

The petitioner's action is based upon her claims that the brothers acting as executors of the estate are attempting to prevent her from getting the full amount of her share by making needless expenditures. The accounts in tabulated form of Harry Dreier were offered in evidence and several of the items came in for examination by the petitioner's counsel in an effort to prove indiscretion in the executor's handling.

The estate consists of improved real estate said to be appraised at $125,000 with a total mortgage encumbrance of $13,000. The testator, Samuel Dreier, is said to have been well to do. Garret Dreier and Harry Dreier, his two eldest sons, were appointed trustees under the will.

The will, it is said, provided that each child should share alike and that the income should be divided once every month, or once every three months, as it might be convenient. Samuel Dreier died three years ago, and the petitioner claims that the trustees have given only two accountings, the last one covering a period of seventeen months up to and including December, 1912. She further claims that this account shows that the trustees have received from rents, etc., the sum of $6,564.56 and that the account shows that the trustees have spent all of this money, excepting $38.38. Mrs. Senger says she wants to know what became of her share of the income and takes exceptions to the accounting of the trustees.

The estate embodies houses on West Front street and East Third street, Plainfield; one house in Orange and some property in Newark. Harry Dreier was one of the important witnesses yesterday, and he explained his method of disbursing monies for expenses, including the up-keep of the properties.

As the case was not concluded yesterday, it was arranged to continue it in September owing to the fact that Judge Connolly plans to take his vacation at this time. The defendant's case is in, but Mrs. Senger has six more witnesses which she desires called when the case is resumed.

CLERK'S VACATION TRIP WAS ALSO HIS HONEYMOON

Returning yesterday from a two weeks' vacation, Lawrence Sturges, a clerk in the East Orange tax office, surprised his associates by announcing that he had brought a bride back with him. The wedding took place at the home of the bride on July 2. Mrs. Sturges was Miss Alice Edna Francis, daughter of Harry F. Francis, of 851 Cauldwell avenue, the Bronx. After the ceremony the young couple went to the Berkshires on their honeymoon. They are now living at 239 Elmwood avenue, East Orange, with the bridegroom's father, George W. Sturges.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Kephart, pastor of the Congregational church, in 151st street, New York. The bride was attended by Miss Amy Barber, of Brooklyn. The best man was Percy Francis, the bride's brother.

HIS KNEE BROKEN IN FALL WHILE CHASING RUNAWAYS

Paterson, July 15.—Tripping in pursuit of his runaway team down Market street, Peter von Tol, of 113 Pennsylvania avenue, fell heavily to the street and received a broken kneecap. He was taken to the Paterson General Hospital.

Von Tol's horses boke loose from Madison avenue and Market street. Shouts of passersby warned him and he started out in pursuit. At 21st street, near the stable where the hospital ambulance horses are kept, Von Tol fell. The ambulance was hastily harnessed and the injured man taken to the hospital.

The runaway team was stopped several blocks away.

HELD GIRL A PRISONER, IS CHARGE AGAINST TWO MEN

Paterson, July 15.—Charged with white slavery in holding as a prisoner in Brooklyn and this city fifteen-year-old Sadie Silberg, of 205 South Twelfth street, a high school pupil, Antonio Stegoro, of 42 Broadway, and William Miller, of 55 Ellison street, are held without bail in the county jail. The complaint was made by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Both men deny the charge.

The girl reached home Saturday night and told her parents that Miller induced her to go to Brooklyn, where, she said, she was practically a prisoner until her threat to tell the police caused Miller to bring her back to Paterson. She declared the two kept her in a house in Fourth street until she escaped.

James Silberg, the girl's father, repeated her story at police headquarters. Detective Tracy and a squad of policemen raided the Fourth street house, capturing Miller and Stegoro.

LINDEN TROLLEY CO. FORMED

Elizabetn, July 15.—Definite steps toward the building of a trolley line through Linden were taken when papers of incorporation for the Linden Trolley Company were filed with the county clerk. Several Linden and Elizabeth business men have held several meetings relative to the proposed line. The capital stock is $1,200, consisting of twelve shares divided among the twelve incorporators as follows: Walter H. Roll, Harold Depew, Coleman Danninger, Ralph S. Swinton, John P. Winans, John Hauft, George L. Molson, Frank R. Anderson, of Linden; Abe J. David, Charles L. Schwerin, Samuel Gourley Jr., of Elizabeth, and John Fedor, of New York.

AGAIN SEEKS DEATH WHEN BRIDE LEARNS DECEPTION

Englewood, July 15.—When told that his young bride, who took bichloride of mercury with him last Monday, at Tenafly, had been told of the deception he had practiced upon her, John Simonovitz, seventeen years old, who is recovering from the effects of the drog, attempted to leap from a window of the Englewood Hospital.

When it became known that the girl, who was Miss Barbara Ackerman, would recover, physicians told her that instead of being the son of a Southern millionaire, as he had told her, Simonovitz was a shoemaker's son. When she leaves the hospital the young bride will go to the home of her sister, Mrs. C. L. Metz, of Brooklyn.

Simonovitz, on his discharge from the institution, will be surrendered to the Tenafly police, and will probably have to answer a charge of burglary made by the Jersey City police.

GREAT RAILROAD STRIKE AVERTED

Truce Follows Secret White House Conference.

ROADS WILL ARBITRATE

President Wilson Acts as Peacemaker, Newlands Measure Scheduled to Pass Today—It Increases Membership of Board of Arbitration.

Washington, July 15.—Following a secret confrence at the White House between representatives of both sides, the threatened strike of 100,000 trainmen and conductors employed on the eastern roads was temporarily halted.

At this conference the president informed the representatives of the employees and employers that the Newlands bill, offering several amendments to the Erdman act, would be passed at today's session.

When this promise was given them by the nation's chief executive both sides announced themselves as satisfied, the representatives of the employees stating that the contemplated strike, which was to have been called tomorrow, would be halted pending the passage of the Newlands bill.

Chief of the points contained in the Newlands bill, amending the Erdman act, is that which increases the board of arbitration, which is finally to adjudge the matter, from three to six members. This has been sought by both sides, who claimed that an arbitration board of three, composed of a representative of both sides and a third to be selected by the secretary of labor, invested too much authority in one man.

When the conference went into session President Wilson explained to the representatives of the employees and employers that he would not countenance a strike by any means unless the entire matter was at first reviewed by a board of arbitration.

Wilson Promises Action.

At the conference President Wilson, it was said, announced himself as in favor of the amendments to the Erdman act suggested in the Newlands bill and declared that he would see to it that the bill was passed at today's session.

The 100,000 men involved in the strike, it was explained to the president, through their committee of 1,000 had placed the matter of flashing the signal for the men to quit work in the hands of William G. Lee and A. B. Garretson, representing the employees. They informed the president that if the roads had refused to submit the matter to arbitration under the Erdman act that the call would have been sent out on Thursday.

All the documents revolving about the controversy were submitted to the president previous to the conference, and he spent several hours in going over them as well as conferring with several congressmen and senators relative to the Newlands bill.

Wilson's Statement.

"Both parties were willing to end their difficulties under the Newlands amendment to the Erdman act if this amendment could be passed," said the president.

"The railroads, however, felt that three arbitrators were not a sufficient number to deal with the question, and it was therefore agreed that the board should be increased to six. The railway representatives also desired an independent board of arbitration. It is expected therefore that these two changes will be made in the bill and that the measure will be passed by both houses and signed by me before nightfall.

"This, I hope, will put an end to the differences between the railroads and the employees, and both sides will be able by arbitration to settle all their differences amicably."

While the conference in Washington was in session the committee of railroad managers sent to the employees a letter stating that they were willing to submit the entire matter to arbitration, provided the Newlands bill was passed.

FLOOD TRAPS TRAIN AFTER CLOUDBURST

Passengers Rescued Through Holes In Car Roofs.

Marietta, O., July 15.—Following a cloudburst near Zanesville, the Muskingum river and Duck creek are out of their banks, the entire valley is under water, and it is feared that several lives have been lost.

A Pennsylvania passenger train and two freight trains, which left Marietta for Cleveland, were stalled seven miles north of Marietta. Twenty-five passengers were rescued when the trainmen cut holes through the car roofs and took them out. The passengers reached this place, having walked across country.

The waters of Duck creek came upon them like a mighty wall, rising five feet within a few minutes, then settling to a rise of five feet an hour. The fire in the locomotive was quenched before the engineer could reverse his engine and back away from the flood. A farmer with a small boat came to the rescue, and the conductor and brakeman manned it. After several trips all the passengers were carried to the high ground. When they left the spot the train had disappeared in the water. Valuable mail and baggage were lost.

The railroad bridge at Marietta was swept away, despite the fact that it had been ballasted with loaded gondolas. Traffic conditions here are now as bad as they were immediately following the big March flood.

SNAKES APLENTY REPORTED IN SOUTH JERSEY THIS YEAR

The year 1913 will go down in history as a great snake year in South Jersey. Reptiles are seen in every direction in the country districts.

Game Warden Avis's, of Woodbury, N. J. experience in the woods near Williamstown yesterday when he became surrounded by snakes while looking for dogs running rabbits, has been confirmed by huckleberry pickers, who have run across them by the score.

Dead snakes, run over by automobiles, lie along all the country roads.

HERE AND THERE

Walter W. Coriell, of Pawnee City, Neb., son of the late William Coriell, of Washington Valley, a guest of his sister, Mrs. Lillie Miller, at Avon-by-the-Sea, Sunday attended the First Baptist church service here, of which his father was a member. He visited the latter's grave. The Coriell family removed to Illinois a half century ago. The stone of which the First Baptist church is constructed was taken from the Coriell farm in the Valley. Mr. Coriell's mother's maiden name was Sarah Drake, known to the older residents of Plainfield. He has a sister living in Chicago, who visited Plainfield a few months ago. This was Mr. Coriell's first visit here since 1870.

POTTS MAY OPPOSE COLLINS.

Elizabeth, July 15.—Richard T. Potts, of this city, may be a candidate for Democratic State committeeman in opposition to General D. F. Collins, the present committeeman. That there will be a fight against the return of Collins to the State committee has been indicated for some time. The local anti-Collins forces are using his fight for the adoption of a non-partizan board of works against him. Peter Egenolf, former State committeeman, is reported active in the fight against Collins.

LICENSE THE POOL ROOM.

It seems strange in this progressive city, where there are ordinances regulating the business of plumbers, milkmen, barbers, garbage collectors and what not, that no provision has been made for regulating the pool rooms. These amusement places are frequented by young men and boys and in the past the police have had considerable trouble with some of them for gambling and other offenses have been committed and the worst of it is that such violations have been perpetrated with the knowledge and even with the connivance of the proprietors. Youths have not infrequently squandered their entire week's pay at more than one of these pool rooms and not simply by engaging in the play but by betting on the results.

Is it not high time that the Common Council enact an ordinance providing for the licensing and regulating of the pool rooms? Chief Kiely is among those who hold that opinion and any good citizen, after reading what the head of the police had to say in an interview published in this paper yesterday, will agree with him. When properly conducted there is no harm in this amusement but the fact remains that the police have been much handicapped in seeing that the proprietors run their places in an orderly and law-abiding manner under present conditions. As is claimed, a licensing ordinance would be very helpful to the police in their work and one should be framed with as little loss of time as possible.

As a candidate of the Republican gubernatorial nomination, former Congressman Charles N. Fowler says he is going to appeal directly to the people. He did that same thing a few years ago when a candidate for renomination to Congress in this district, but the returns showed that apparently the people didn't take much stock in his whimper.

Trolley car rowdy was fined $10 by the Dunellen Recorder who promptly remitted the penalty, as told in our news columns today. The recorder was altogether too severe; he should have taken up a collection for the ruffian and then begged his pardon for the disgrace of having him subjected to the annoyance of appearing in court.

Twelve thousand dollars a year for about the second most responsible position in the United States Government seems a mighty small emolument, but it's a wonder some paragrapher hasn't opined that when it comes to William Jennings Bryan he's overpaid at that.

Mayor Stewart has called the attention of dog owners that they will be fined $25 if their canines are found running at large. A few cases in police court would have a good effect.

What a big noise they're making just because the Boy Orator of the Platte is working his lungs overtime to give battle to the high cost of living in his household.

Stokes, Prince, Carey, Fowler, Colby, Osborne, Fielder, Wittpenn and Katzenbach—but why think of politics when the weather is so delightful?

Mercy me, what a lot of trouble Uncle Sam would be put to were the Balkan States on this Continent.

Life is just one change of weather after another.

CONNOLLY TO ADDRESS SUFFRAGE CONVENTION

The New Jersey Men's League for Women Suffrage has invited Judge James C. Connolly, of Union county, to address its members at the big convention planned for Saturday, July 26. Champlain L. Riley, of North Plainfield, secretary of the league, telegraphed Judge Connolly that it was the wish of the members throughout the State that he address the gathering in the Asbury Park auditorium on the afternoon of the day of the convention. Judge Connolly, who is passing the summer at Asbury Park, has not yet received the telegram from Secretary Riley. His position is so well known on the question of equal suffrage that his friends are inclined to believe that the invitation to speak before the league will be accepted.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mary Mullen, of North avenue, is spending her vacation as the guest of Mrs. Frank M. Wagner in Asbury Park.

Mrs. H. V. Hubbard, of Central avenue, has gone to Manasquan, where she will spend the summer months.

Olin Angleman, of West Fourth street, is suffering from an infection of the eyes and it is feared that he may lose his eyesight.

Dr. H. V. Hubbard, of Central avenue, is planning an automobile trip through the New England States.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman B. Joost and children, of Berkeley avenue, will leave in a few days for Quogue, L. I., where they will spend the summer. There departure has been delayed owing to the illness of one of the children.

The Art of Reading Letters.

My dear old grandfather, who wrote all his own letters in a hand which, down to the day of his death, was almost plain enough for a blind man to read, taught me never to attempt to answer a letter without placing it before me and reviewing it scrupulously, paragraph by paragraph. Hundreds of times have I devoutly blessed his memory for that lesson in the common sense of correspondence. Whenever lured by the pellmell spirit of the age I stray from his precepts I rue it, and I can feel the flush of shame overspread my face as I follow a first letter of response with a second, rendered necessary by the belated discovery of a point left uncovered. The old copybook legend, "Haste breeds carelessness," is as true as it was in the days when good penmanship and good morals went hand in hand in the training of youth. If slambang and hurly burly have given its coup de grace to the once gentle art of writing letters, is not that all the more reason why, before it is too late, we should rescue the half dead art of reading them?—Atlantic.

Dancing Birds.

One of the many strange sights on the plains of southern Africa is a party of waltzing ostriches. Their queer antics have been described thus:

"When there are a number of them they will start off in the morning and after running a few hundred yards will stop and with raised wings will whirl rapidly round till they are stupefied or perhaps break a leg. The males pose also before fighting and to make their court. They kneel on their ankles, opening their wings and balancing themselves alternately forward and backward or to one side or the other, while the neck is stretched on a level with the back and the head strikes the sides, now on the right, now on the left, while the feathers are bristling. The birds appear at this time so absorbed in their occupation as to forget all that is going on around them and can be approached and caught. The male alone utters a cry, which sounds much like an effort to speak with the mouth shut tight."

Audible Light.

The optophone is an instrument which makes light audible. It is based on the well known property possessed by selenium of changing its resistance when illuminated. A sensitive indicator can be made to move by merely holding a lighted match over a selenium cell to which is attached an electric battery. This movement is in the optophone attached to a telephone arrangement and so made audible. By this means, though the blind cannot actually see, they are able to locate light by the sound. A striking experiment with the optophone is to point the camera-like box to a window and adjust to "silence." Then if the hand is passed across the open end its passage is indicated by a rasping sound. If the instrument is adjusted for darkness light produces a sound varying with its intensity. Moonlight can be distinctly heard, while sunlight makes a roaring sound.

A DARING SCOUT.

His Quick Wit Fooled the Federals and Saved His Neck.

Wat Bowie, a scout for the Confederate army, was a young Maryland lawyer at the time the great conflict began. After months of successful work he was captured and taken to Washington and sentenced to be hanged. He made his escape, and in "On Hazardous Service" W. G. Beymer tells of the weeks that he was followed by secret service men and small details of Federal cavalry and how by his very audacity and quick wit he escaped recapture.

He blundered into a camp of them one morning at dawn and saw instantly that retreat was impossible; they were ready to open fire with a dozen revolvers. Without hesitation he strode up to the men and shouted indignantly:

"You make mighty free with my rails! With all this wood round you did not need to burn my fences." He seemed very angry.

"Who are you?" a corporal stammered.

"The owner of the rails, of course!" And then, apparently somewhat mollified, he went on: "Well, well! War is war, but don't do any more damage than you can help, boys." He sat down with them to their breakfast and chatted with them pleasantly. One of them asked if he had seen Wat Bowie and described him accurately. At the description they all stared at him and moved uneasily, in doubt as to what was to be done. He tallied with the description in every respect. But his insolence in walking up to them and upbraiding them for burning "his" rails made them doubt their own eyes.

"Why, yes," he drawled. "Wat Bowie was in these parts last week. I know him well. They say he has gone to the north part of the county, where he hails from. I don't know, though, as to that."

Then rising and stretching himself he looked down into their doubt filled eyes and laughed at them—laughed in their very faces—and said:

"I'm glad you all met me on m' own land. You might have made trouble for me elsewhere, for they all say I look like him a lot. Goodby, boys! Good luck!"

AUSTIN'S EGOTISM.

It Cropped Out Strong In Comparing Himself With Tennyson.

Austin might almost be said to rival James McNeil Whistler as having given rise to humorous anecdotes—with this difference, that while the anecdotes of Whistler exploited his wit or his superb arrogance ("Why lug in Velasquez?") those of Austin were based on little more than the fatuous self esteem which enabled him (if ability is the word) in 1870, in his volume of so called criticism, "The Poetry of the Period," to attack Tennyson, Browning, Matthew Arnold and Swinburne as if the author of the book were the superior of the whole pack of them.

It was apparently not this book, but a later criticism written in 1885, which led Austin to boast of his friendship with Swinburne and to declare that, though he had been forced to criticise Swinburne, the latter had not permitted it to disturb their relations. It proved that Austin's criticism had attracted so little attention that Swinburne had not even heard of it, and when, following Austin's boast, he took pains to read it he became very angry and would have nothing to do with Austin.

It was the same fatuity which led Austin in his autobiography to advertise his own ultra respectability as compared with the possible "low tone" of others. Tennyson might be acquitted perhaps of once using an improper word in conversation, but Tennyson certainly smoked, Austin never.—Springfield Republican.

Weaving In Shadow.

In one of the famous lace shops of Brussels there are certain rooms devoted to the weaving of the finest and most delicate lace patterns. These rooms are entirely darkened except for the light from one small window falling directly upon the pattern. There is only one lacemaker in the room, and she sits where the narrow stream of light falls upon the thread she is weaving. Lace is always more delicately and beautifully woven, it is said, when the worker is in the dark and only her pattern is in the light.

Canning Tomatoes.

"Our sporting editor took the place of the 'Home Hints' editor yesterday."

"Anything happen?"

"A lady who wrote asking how to can tomatoes was told to get an old can and piece of string, then to catch her tomato and to proceed the same as if canning a dog."—Houston Post.

Baby Talk.

Was there ever a baby that said "choo-choo cars" without being taught to say it? One would be credulous indeed to believe it. Baby talk is ordinarily the mature product of persons ranging in ages from twenty to seventy. They only put it off on the babies.—Kansas City Star.

The Art of Talking Back.

"I hardly know how to answer you," said she when the soft voiced widower proposed.

"I would not let that worry me," said he soothingly. "That is something a woman learns perfectly soon after marriage."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

At the Wedding.

Bride's Mother—Were you nervous during the ceremony? Bride—Well, I lost my self possession when papa gave me away to Charley.—Judge.

Lewis E. Waring, of West Seventh street, with Leigh Hunt, of Washington, will leave on the Mauretania on Wednesday, July 23, for a two months business trip in Europe.

M. E. SENIOR BISHOP 96 YEARS OLD TODAY

Venerable Prelate is Observing Birthday Anniversary Quietly at Orange.

Orange, N. J., July 15.—Bishop Thomas Bowman, the senior bishop of the Methodist denomination in the United States, today quietly celebrated his ninety-sixth birthday anniversary at his home here. During the day he was the recipient of hundreds of congratulatory messages from prominent laymen and clergymen throughout the country.

The venerable bishop is well preserved, and is seen almost daily on the streets of Orange. He retired from active work about ten years ago, but has since preached several times at Calvary Methodist Church, East Orange, of which he is a member. Despite his age, he is as thoroughly interested in religious work, especially that pertaining to Methodism, as is the youngest churchman.

Bishop Bowman's career as a churchman and educator has been a most distinguished one. He was educated at Dickinson College and afterward taught there for several years. He then went to Williamsport, Pa. where he founded the Dickinson Seminary, of which he was the first president. He was at the head of the institution for ten years. He became president of the Indiana Asbury University in 1859, holding the post for thirteen years. He was chaplain of the United States Senate during the last two years of Lincoln's life.

He was made a bishop at the general conference of 1872 on the first ballot. During the years that followed he visited all the conferences of his church in America, Mexico, Europe, India, China and Japan.

LEW WELCH AT PROCTOR'S.

Lew Welch & Co., in a tabloid version of his successful sketch, "The Shoemaker," is the headline attraction at Proctor's theatre, this week. Lew is one of the best known Yiddish comedians in vaudeville, and he has abundant opportunity in "The Shoemaker" to display his ability. He is one big hearty laugh. McLeavey's marvels, sensational high jumpers, give a wonderful exhibition of high jumping. Jack Atkins, comic singer, keeps every one roaring with his songs and witticism. Don't miss the first song. Flossie LaVere & Co., offer an exceptionally good singing and dancing act, straight and eccentric. Another big act is that of Rhode's Marionettes. Their performance is wonderful, delighting old and young. "The Open Secret" will be the feature photo-play for tomorrow.

VETERAN HOTEL MAN DIES.

Atlantic City, July 15.—George W. Jackson, pioneer hotel proprietor and amusement promoter, died at his home here Sunday, after a long illness, from a complication of diseases. Mr. Jackson was seventy-one years old and was one of the best known figures in the sports of the New Jersey coast. In addition to banking activities, Mr. Jackson many years ago took a deep interest in providing unique amusements along the Atlantic City boardwalk and erected the first swimming pool fronting on the beach. Later he acquired many parcels of beach front property, chief among which is the hotel bearing his name in Virginia avenue. He was financially interested in the erection of the steel pier and was a director in several banking institutions. A widow survives him.

SNAKES AS THEY FEED.

When They Start Swallowing They Never Know When to Stop.

The swallowing process is a serious matter for any serpent, which must draw itself painfully over its prey by hitching its jaws, armed with backward curving teeth, forward, on one side and then the other, and by similar movements of the neck, ribs and skin, until the whole mass has finally reached the prolonged stomach. The snake's jaws are attached to the skull, and the bones of the head and neck are connected by elastic ligaments which may be so stretched that an object considerably larger than the head itself may be swallowed if rightly seized; hence prey is usually turned about after killing it until its nose is foremost, when the undertaking begins. A copious flow of saliva assists deglutition.

Once started, a snake never knows when to stop; has little ability to do so, indeed, and the prey rarely kicks loose. It has happened frequently in zoological collections that a large snake has swallowed a smaller one mechanically, as it were, when each has seized the same food animal. Both swallowed at it until the larger reached the nose of the smaller diner and then kept right on as long as there was anything in its mouth, unless the victim of this discourtesy managed quickly to let go of the fare and escape.

Bartlett tells us, in his book on the care of animals in the London zoo, of one case where a boa constrictor devoured a cage mate nine feet long who did not feel disposed to let go of his half of a pigeon. Next morning this boa could not curl up, but had to lie straight out for several days, and a month was spent in the digestion of this inhospitable meal. Snakes will keep pushing their jaws over a string of frogs or mice tied together until they have got outside the whole chain. These animals have little, if any, sense of taste and when they get their teeth into anything soft try to eat it.

BULLET PHOTOGRAPHY.

Curious Effect of Shooting Through a Thin Stick of Wood.

Moving pictures have been made at the rate of 100,000 a second in contrast with the rate of fifteen or twenty a second, which is enough when reproduced on a screen to give the eye the impression of a continuous picture. The only thing that moves fast enough to make such tremendous speed worth using is a bullet, and some extraordinary pictures of bullets have been taken at this rate, seventy-two pictures being taken of a revolver bullet as it moved ten inches from the muzzle.

Pictures of a bullet passing through a stick of wood showed a queer condition. The bullet passed completely through the thin stick and was well on its way beyond before the wood gave any sign of distress. Then some tiny splinters started out, following the bullet; the stick began to split, and after the bullet had proceeded some distance the stick suddenly fell to pieces. No camera shutters are fast enough to take pictures at anything like this speed, so no shutter was used.

Instead, a series of electric sparks was flashed, the sparks following one another at the rate of 100,000 a second, each spark making a picture. The film was mounted on a wheel about three feet in circumference, and the wheel was revolved at the rate of 9,000 revolutions a minute. When all was ready the bullet was shot, the spark flashed and the wheel revolved, the actual exposure being limited to a fraction of a second so as not to pile up pictures one over the other.—Saturday Evening Post.

Not In His Line.

A motor stopped in front of the photographer's, and a woman lacking none of the artificial accessories deemed necessary to "looks" entered the studio. A couple of days later the photographer submitted proofs for her approval. "Not one of those pictures looks anything like me," the woman insisted. The photographer tried in every way to pacify her, but, finding this an impossibility, lost control of his temper. "Madam," he exclaimed, "did you read my sign?" "Yes." "Well, it does not say 'cleaning, dyeing and remodeling.' It says 'portraits.'"—New York Times.

The Sequel to the Joke.

Many years ago a visitor to Edinburgh was being shown over the high court of justiciary. He made some remark concerning the dock and its duties, and in reply the official jokingly said the visitor might one day be sentenced to be hanged in that very room. The sightseer was the notorious Dr. Pritchard. Two years later in the dock he had so closely inspected he was doomed to death for poisoning his wife and mother-in-law.

Free Circus.

"They are the most popular couple in our flat. We'd all hate to see them move out."

"Why are they so popular?"

Surprising Information.

"So your little boy is in the hospital?"

"Yes; the doctor said he would have to have his asteroids taken out."

"My stars!"—Baltimore American.

Replenish Your Linen.

This is the time to think about your supply of household linen. Look it all over, list it, mend it, launder it, and then buy new pieces to fill out the gaps in the list. For in the last month of the summer household linens are sold at mark-down prices, and you will just about have time to put your old supply in order before the first of August.

Begin at the top of the pile, with the finest and daintiest linen—that for the table. Mend all tablecloths and napkins carefully. Cut old cloths, that can no longer be mended, into breakfast and lunch napkins and hem them as neatly as if they were new. The parts of the cloths too worn for napkins can be neatly cut and hemmed for drying towels for glass and china. These linen drying cloths are also excellent for drying windows.

The necessary amount of table linen to keep on hand is, of course, decided by conditions. A plentiful supply of napkins should always be kept in the linen drawers. A large cloth, for festive meals, those on holidays and days when there are many guests, for instance, with napkins to match, should also be always ready for use. When this large cloth wears out, it can be cut down into a smaller cloth and napkins. Cloths for the family dinner—three will do—with napkins to match, if possible, and some sort of breakfast and lunch linen—doileys or runners are easier to care for than cloths—should be provided for, too.

When buying table linen, remember that a heavy, soft linen is likely to wear the longest. Stiff, heavy starched linen is generally of poor quality. A German linen, perhaps not as attractive in appearance as one of Scotch or Irish make, is nevertheless the cheapest and wears very well.

Bed Linen and Towels.

Old sheets can be cut into suitable pieces for window and cleaning cloths. They need not be hemmed; in fact, hems on cleaning cloths are bulky and a waste of time.

Buy a good quality of sheeting. It pays in the long run, as it wears far much longer than that of a cheaper quality. If you must economize, buy sheeting in half-bleached condition. This is not so attractive to look at as that wholly white, but it will soon become white through the action of sun and water on it.

For glass towels, linen is unquestionably preferable to cotton. Thin linen toweling is the best sort. For china linen of a heavier quality is the sort to buy. If you do not wish to pay the price of linen, cotton toweling will prove satisfactory after it has been in use for a short time. At first, it is harsh and has poor drying quality.

For the medium size the coat will require four and a half yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with one-half yard for collar and cuffs.

SUIT OF STRIPED RATINE.

These May Manton patterns are cut in sizes for the skirt from 22 to 32 inches waist measure and for the empire coat from 34 to 40 inches bust measure. Some Cookery Suggestions

VEAL CUTLETS.

YOUNG veal is now available and appetizing. Cutlets are delicious served with summer vegetables, and one can prepare them in so many different ways that there is no danger of their becoming monotonous if they appear on the table often. Cutlets are steaks cut from the leg of the calf. The veal should be pale pink or flesh colored.

Fried In Crumbs.

Cutlet With Green Peas.—Select a cutlet sliced very thin. Cut into pieces (a medium sized cutlet will make six or eight pieces); dust with salt, pepper and flour; dip in egg (one egg and one tablespoonful milk, beaten together), then in breadcrumbs. Fry in deep, hot fat. Drain on stale bread or brown paper. Serve with green peas.

Egged and Crumbed Cutlets.—Trim some cutlets neatly, dip in egg and breadcrumbs and fry in butter. Serve with tomato sauce. Spinach will form a nice center for the dish, the cutlets to be dished round it, or else place the cutlets in the center and make a border of the spinach.

Excellent Entrees.

Cutlets With Tomato Sauce.—Select nice veal cutlets, sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper, then roll in cracker crumbs and fry in butter until well done. Have ready a sauce made of one cupful of canned tomatoes in which has been cooked one small onion chopped fine; add a saltspoonful of salt and half as much pepper. Cook slowly until the onion is tender and the sauce thick. Add a teaspoonful of butter and pour over the cutlets. Serve hot at once.

Rolled Veal With Macaroni.—Take the bone from two or three pounds of veal cutlet, place it on a board and press flat. Take two ounces of chopped bacon, three of breadcrumbs, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, with mixed sweet herbs, pepper and salt. Bind and bind with a well beaten egg, then spread over the veal, roll it, bind firmly with tape, if necessary sewing the edge down. Put two ounces of butter in a saucepan, put in the veal, rubbed over thickly with flour, and when it is browned all round add a teacupful of water and stew slowly for two hours. Boil four ounces of macaroni or spaghetti, drain dry and then stew for twenty minutes in a thick gravy.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Poor Robin Almost Hangs on a Tall Cherry Tree.

The Robin Hung From the Twig.

"NOW," said daddy, "what do you think of a little bird trying to hang himself?"

"Why, we just couldn't believe that, daddy," Jack and Evelyn replied.

"Well, it's true just the same, for I saw it with my very own eyes, though I will say for the little bird that perhaps he didn't know just what he was doing.

"It happened about this way: Last Saturday afternoon you know I went to see some folks that live in the country. They have a big yard in which cherry trees grow.

"In the mornings and late in the afternoon you will see robins and catbirds darting in and out of branches chattering and calling to one another as if they were having a glorious time.

"We were sitting on the side porch, and I noticed a bird fluttering about on one of the top branches of a cherry tree.

"'I wonder what is the matter with that little bird?' I said at last to my hostess.

"'I've been watching it for some time,' she said. 'It flutters its wings as if it were trying to fly, but it stays there.'

"Three little boys were coming along the road. She called them in and asked them if one of them would climb the tree and see why the little bird acted so strangely.

"He was a splendid climber, was that lad, and in a few minutes he had reached the bird.

"'Why, it's tied to the tree!' he called down.

"'Can't you free it?' we asked.

"'I haven't any knife,' he answered.

"Some one told him to break off the twig on which the bird sat and bring the prisoner down in his pocket.

"When the boy reached the ground we all crowded about him eagerly. The twisted tightly around the bird's leg—it was a robin—was one end of a string. The other end was twisted around the twig.

"The lady brought out some tiny scissors and cut the string from the bird's leg.

"As soon as the string was off we freed the bird. It gave a cry of delight as it spread its wings, which must have been tired from beating the air vainly so long, and so it was lost to sight. I think that little bird would be careful about strings after that."

FOR YOUNG GIRLS.

Long Coats With Curved Belt Lines.

GIRL'S COAT.

The curved belt worn with this long coat gives it very trim lines. The white of the belt is smartly matched by the collar and cuffs of white ratine. From underneath the young girl's short skirt peep very modish buttoned oxfords worn with black silk stockings.

Blouses of all kinds, cutaways and straight cut Chinese coats are all used for wash suits. The regulation blouse with the fullness drawn into the waist and the blouse with the belt placed several inches below the normal waist line with the fullness drawn in or with the fullness hanging over the belt are the favorites.

Cookery Points

The Appetizing Cucumber.

For the housewife who is not familiar with the possibilities of cooking cucumbers a real culinary treat is in store. So different is the flavor of these much maligned vegetables when they are properly cooked from their flavor when raw that they really afford an answer to the oft expressed wish for something new under the sun in the line of vegetables. One of the most delicious ways of transforming the raw fruit to a digestible and flavorsome dish is in the form of timbales.

To make these timbales you will need cooked cucumber pulp, which may be procured by putting cucumbers which have been previously peeled and boiled through a meat chopper. Use a cupful of this pulp to one-half cupful of breadcrumbs and one-half cupful of thick cream sauce. Add a tablespoonful of lemon juice, the beaten yolks of two eggs and a little onion juice. When these ingredients have been well mixed fold in the beaten whites of the two eggs. Bake in timbale molds in hot water and serve hot.

The Art of Baking Cucumbers.

For an appetizing vegetable to serve with the meat course split good sized cucumbers lengthwise, leaving the skins on. Then scoop out the middle pulp, leaving a strong shell. Chop the pulp, add beaten eggs—one egg is enough for six cucumbers—a cupful of breadcrumbs and seasoning to taste. Fill the shells, rounding the filling off at the top, and bake in a moderate oven for three-quarters of an hour.

To make scalloped cucumbers peel and slice six cucumbers. Then arrange them in a buttered baking dish as if scalloping any other vegetable, first a layer of breadcrumbs and then a layer of cucumbers, and so on until the dish is filled. Between the layers flavor with grated onion and lemon, a little butter, paprika, celery salt, salt and pepper. Bake an hour.

For stuffed cucumbers peel and split as many good sized cucumbers as desired. Scrape out the pulp and fill with a mixture of chicken stock and crumbs flavored to taste. Bake in a baking dish in a half inch of chicken stock. They should be baked till tender and basted often with the stock on the bottom of the dish. The remaining stock when the cucumbers are done should be thickened with a teaspoonful of cornstarch and served as a gravy with the vegetables.

Two Tempting Hot Weather Entrees.

To make deviled cucumbers begin by peeling and slicing them as when preparing raw cucumbers. Place them in ice water for an hour and then drain them. Dip them in flour seasoned with salt, celery salt, pepper or any desired seasoning, and fry in butter and serve with the following sauce:

To a cup of stewed, strained tomatoes add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of sugar, grated lemon skin, the juice of half a lemon and a tablespoonful of olive oil. Cook this till well mixed and serve hot.

Cucumbers on toast are a delicious dish. The vegetables should be cut in half inch slices and stewed in water till tender, but not broken. Meanwhile boil a cupful of cream with a tablespoonful of butter, salt and pepper to taste. Drain the cucumbers, heat them in the cream sauce and serve on toast.

A Hot Sauce of Cucumbers.

To make cucumber ketchup take three large cucumbers, peel and grate them. Add a tablespoonful of salt and eleven teaspoonfuls of black pepper. Add a handful of horseradish, one large grated onion and a pint of strong vinegar. Bottle and cork loosely.

Orange Charlotte.

One-third box of gelatin, one-third cupful of cold water, one-third cupful of boiling water, a cup of sugar, juice of a lemon, a cup of orange juice and pulp, whites of three eggs. Soak the gelatin in cold water until soft, add the boiling water, sugar and lemon juice and a little of the grated rind. Cool in a pan of ice water and when it begins to harden beat in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Serve with a custard made with the yolks of the egg, a pint of milk, three heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar and a little salt. Flavor to taste or you can cut it up in pieces and serve with whipped cream.

Green Peas.

Put the desired quantity of young peas in a stewpan with butter, allowing eight ounces to every quart of peas; a bunch of parsley, a few small onions and a little salt. Moisten with broth and cook slowly until tender. Now stir in the beaten yolks of two eggs and a teaspoonful of sugar, not allowing to boil after the eggs are added. Serve on a hot dish.

Mock Pineapple Salad.

Core and peel three nice large apples, slice them thin and against the grain of the fruit. Peel two fine large oranges and remove all outside white pulp, slice them rather thicker than the apple and also crosswise. Now place them in a glass dish in alternate layers.

Asparagus and Pepper Salad.

Remove the seeds from green peppers. Cut rings one-fourth of an inch wide and slip through them asparagus stalks, canned or freshly cooked. Serve with cold French dressing.

BASEBALL NOTES

Meriden, Conn., is back in the Eastern Association, taking the place of Holyoke.

Joe Jackson, of the Cleveland Naps, is the first major league hitter to pass the 100 mark in base hits this season.

Otto Jordan's team at Valdosta, Ga., won the championship for the first half of the season in the Empire State League.

The Phillies were compelled to use thirty-three players in order to break even in a double-header with Boston recently.

Manager Josh Clarke, of Sioux City, leads the batsmen in the Western League, while "Casey" Hageman, of Denver, leads the pitchers.

Conie Mack's pitching staff looks rather wobbly this season, but the Athletics cop the games and that's what wins the pennants.

The White Sox are living up to their name of "hitless wonders." There is not a regular in the White Hose squad batting in the .300 set.

The veteran manager John McCloskey has his Salt Lake City team planted at the top and is burning up the Union Association circuit.

Seven of the Giants—Crandall, Snodgrass, Fletcher, Shafer, Herzog, Meyers and Merkle—are included in the list of .300 wallopers in the National League.

Christy Mathewson tops the list of pitchers in the National League, while Boehling, of the Washington team, leads among the American League heavers.

Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland are traveling neck and neck and at top speed for first honors in the pennant race of the Pacific Coast League.

"Scotty" Ingerton, the former Boston Brave who is now with Louisville, is out of the game for the rest of the season on account of a broken ankle.

A change of scenery seems to have helped Pitcher Leon Ames. He is doing much better work for the Cincinnati Reds than he did while with the Giants.

The speed of Joe Wood, of the Red Sox, is not all confined to his arm. He is showing up well at bat and on bases as well as doing excellent pitching.

The St. Paul team leads the American Association both in club batting and club fielding, and yet it is a second division team. The leading Columbus team is fourth in batting and fifth in fielding.

Brooklyn fans predict that Cutshaw, of the Superbas, is the coming star second sacker on the big beat. From the work the young man is doing at station two it would seem that the Brooklyn fans have made a good guess.

Manager Miller Huggins continues to play a star game for his St. Louis Cardinals. Besides hitting for .300 he is leading the run getters and is among the dozen leading base-stealers in the National League.

Jack Knight is back in the big show. Jack has done considerable traveling since he started in the game. He has played with the Athletics, the Red Sox and with the Washington, Baltimore and Jersey City teams, and is now playing a return engagement with the New York Yankees.

"MAC" SAYS

PASTIMING.

When you pay your coin to see a stunt athletic,
And you sit upon a sunny bleacher seat,
And you see a stunt that's awfully pathetic,
It is time for you to raise your voice and bleat.

When the players spend the afternoon in stalling,
And in wishing that the game had not begun,
And the pitcher persists in vainly
bawling,
The rooter's life is not a happy one.

All this occurred in that Central New Jersey League clash at Dunellen Saturday afternoon when the Somerville aggregation administered a trouncing to the home contingent. Several of the players had dates and wanted to get the contest over with, win or lose, and Warry McLaughlin looked as though he would like to meet the umpire in private life just once. It was really amusing to watch the increasing love of the burly twirler for that official as the game progressed.

When Biernbaurer appeared at Scotch Plains to umpire the Scotch Plains-Plainfield duel he informed the scorers that his name was Hinglebrandt. It evidently went with some people, but he was just plain Biernbaurer from the afternoon before to us.

Clouds and a black background proved to be a great asset to the pitchers at Scotch Plains Saturday afternoon for each amassed a list of Strike-outs that gained much attention from the fans. Some marveled at the regularity with which the batters were being mowed down but the wise ones knew the cause and the applause was not forth-coming.

As a result of the recent controversies pulled off between Warry McLaughlin and the umpires we are about ready to believe that the veteran of the hillock is pretty well able to take his own part and his team's as well. In fact, we really believe that he is competent to count his own money when it comes right down to solid facts.

In an indirect way we note that High Bridge has been affected by the recent heat. The officials of that place evidently do not know when they are well off. Plainfield is also several dollars to the bad.

If the First Baptist Sunday-school League leaders could only play Park Avenue all summer their team average at the end of the race would be about .999 3-4, or thereabouts.

FISHING NOTES

Some of the fishermen that fish at Greats Kills every holiday and Sunday think that the great run of dogfish in the bay is responsible for the weakfish biting one day and not the next. At times the dogfish are so thick they will not let the bait reach the bottom before they take it. One boat from Collins reported twenty dogfish, and after they left the weakfish began to bite, but then it was time to go home.

Don't get mixed up on the three Barnegats. There are Barnegat, Pier, Barnegat City and Barnegat. Barnegat Pier is on the trestle that crosses Barnegat Bay, Barnegat City is on the ocean and Barnegat is a thriving village on the mainland, opposite the Barnegat Inlet.

To be a genuine channe. bass fisherman one must have a good outfit and time and money. A surf fisherman's outfit will cost at least $50 for rod, reel, line and hooks, to which must be added a stand for the rod or holder, as the rod should never be allowed to lay in the sand; and then there is the waist-holder for the butt and the rubber boots and the bait. The latter is expensive, as half a crab is the smallest bait used, and it doesn't take long to use up a dozen when the small fish, such as weakfish bluefish and kingfish are in the surf.

The glory in catching a channel bass lasts a long while among the fishermen, but it seldom goes any further. The man that catches a fish carries it to the hotel, has it weighed, and then describes the fight it gave him to those that didn't happen to be on the beach, after which the fish is placed in the icebox until some newcomer asks for the privilege of sending it home to some friends, and that ends the fish entirely.

The weakfish are in Barnegat Bay. Reports coming from Waretown Sunday say that big catches are being made at that place.

STATE WILL INVESTIGATE THE ANGLING CONDITIONS

Hints are dropped that the State Board of Health is to make another examination of crabs and oysters taken from tidal channels. Various channels are already forbidden crabbing grounds, owing to the outflow of sewage, but information has reached Trenton that men have been getting the crabs for bait and then selling them to fish markets.

Menhaden fishing is going on again, and there are the same rumors as formerly that these boats are making a regular business of fishing inside the marine league from shore, contrary to the New Jersey fish laws.

While the fishermen are supposed to be out after menhaden, great quantities of other fish are sold from the boats, most of it shipped to the New York and Philadelphia markets.

CENTRAL LEAGUE MEETING.

A special meeting of the Central New Jersey Baseball League will be held in Somerville tomorrow night for the purpose of disposing of several important matters that have presented themselves for consideration during the past few days. The return of High Bridge to the league requires a revision of several already formulated plans and the league will probably be continued for the rest of the summer following the action of the club that announced it had dropped out.

HIGH BRIDGE ANNOUNCES THAT IT WILL RETURN TO CENTRAL NEW JERSEY LEAGUE

Action was taken by Mayor W. M. Williams, of High Bridge, last night, whereby the return of the High Bridge baseball team to its former place in the Central New Jersey League has been assured and the team of that place will come to Plainfield for its scheduled game next Saturday afternoon. Following the action taken by the directors of the club at a meeting held the latter part of last week it was announced that High Bridge had quit the organization and it looked as though the league would blow up as a result for only three teams remained to contest the race.

It was thought by many, however, who are closely affiliated with the organization that a return would be speedy because of the fact that Mayor Williams, who is interested in the club, was not present at the meeting and had he been it is likely that the team would never have taken the regretted action. As soon as Williams heard of the action, however, he called a special meeting and insisted that the team continue and they complied with his request, sending word to Manager Dorflinger this morning that they would be on hand Saturday to play the scheduled contest with the Pets.

TITLE PLAY PRODUCED INTERESTING MATCHES

Championship Tourney Now Well Under Way With Semi-Finals in Sight.

The opening round of the Plainfield and North Plainfield tennis championship was ushered in at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday afternoon when eighteen racquet wielders appeared for the initial series of games on the club courts. Excellent progress was made Saturday afternoon, the first three rounds being run off bringing the tournament down to the semi-final round.

The finals will be decided next Saturday afternoon and some close competition is expected. The most important match of the opening rounds of play was the one contested between Carr Neel, a former national doubles champion, and A. D. Beers, winner of the Plainfield championship last year. Beers made a good fight in the first set, forcing the score to 6—4, but in the second set Carr's deadly volleying allowed him to win 6—2. The summaries follows:

First round—M. H. Long defeated S. Merrihew, 3—6, 7—5, 6—1.

Second round—C. B. Neel defeated Paul Chace, 6—0, 6—1; A. D. Beers defeated H. L. DeForest, 6—4, 6—4; D. C. Anderson defeated J. Cornwell, 6—4, 6—4; Long defeated Harold Brown, 6—4, 6—4; H. T. Eaton defeated L. B. Strong, 6—2, 6—0; D. W. Mulford defeated C. P. Lyman, 6—2, 7—5; F. M. Letson defeated E. Stevenson, 6—4, 6—4; R. S. Gough defeated D. Delanoy, 7—5, 7—5.

Third round—Neel defeated Beers, 6—4, 6—2; Anderson defeated Long, 6—2, 6—2; Eaton defeated Mulford, 6—4, 6—4; Gough defeated Letson, 8—6, 8—6.

GEORGE A. PEARRE.

The sergeant at arms of the senate served a subpoena on former Representative George A. Pearre of Maryland at his home in Cumberland, Md. Mr. Pearre is one of the congressmen who Colonel Mulhall says was dethroned from power as a member of the house committee on judiciary several years ago by reason of his friendliness to union labor and particularly to the then pending eight hour law.

Not His Death Warrant.

A police magistrate in Paris had a queer experience not long ago which began with an interview with an hysterical woman. She rushed into his office, past the attendant and, interrupting a conversation, threw a crumpled letter on the officer's desk and with pathetic gesture wailed: "Save him! Save him!"

The official thought he had an insane person before him, but picked up the paper, which looked like a letter. It began in letters larger than the body of the document: "You must die! Nothing will save you! You must die!"

"He has always been a good man, and the little we owe we can pay at any time," the woman said between sobs, "and now there is a conspiracy against him."

While she was protesting the magistrate read the letter and, handing it back, said: "Go home to your family—read the rest of this letter. It is a life insurance advertisement."

The woman then told the magistrate she could not read, that a neighbor had read for her, and so many people were being killed, and she was so happy.

—One of the next one hundred people who buy real estate in this city, would probably find that property of yours to be exactly what he wants. Give him, in a Press ad, sufficient facts to persuade him to investigate.

HUNGER FORCES STRIKERS TO WORK

Food Supply In Paterson Is Growing Very Short.

ALL DISORDER HAS CEASED

Enormous Quantities of Food Required Every Day to Provide For Men and Women Who Have No Income—Many Have Left Jersey For Other Mills.

Paterson, N. J., July 15.—There is little change in the silk strike situation. Practically no new returns to work occurred. Some forty hands who returned several weeks ago and then quit last week when the bosses announced they would have to work fifty-five hours hereafter returned to work in two mills.

No sign of weakening is seen on either side, although the strike is now nearly six months old. The only trouble among the strikers is that they do not seem able now to provide food. Even with the children away and many of the unmarried men and women gone to other places there is a shortage of food.

The committee in charge of the relief has found it needful to shut off the supply of salt pork and maccaroni. Fifteen hundred pounds of the former and some 2,500 packages of the latter have been distributed each week. Potatoes, bread and canned tomatoes are about all that are now being supplied. It is no easy task to supply even this, for the bread required amounts to about 30,000 loaves a week.

Thirty-six hundred cans of milk and the same number of cans of tomatoes have been given away, while 1,000 pounds of coffee and 1,800 pounds of sugar were given out each week. Last week there was little bread and potatoes, and there was much suffering. Hundreds have been without proper food for months, and there is fear that the further reduction in supplies will be harmful to health.

There is at the present time not one striker in jail. The rioting and disorder have entirely ceased.

YOUTH AND SISTER FIGHT.

Both In Hospital, Having Been Stabbed With Scissors.

Newark, N. J., July 15.—John Whitestone, nineteen years old, of 287 South Orange avenue is dying in the City hospital here from five stab wounds in his abdomen.

In the same institution is his sister Lillian, two years older, with a stab wound in the left breast. She is likely to recover. The police have a blood covered scissors.

Whitestone says he stabbed his sister, and then stabbed himself, but the police think the young woman wielded the scissors while fighting her brother and defending herself.

The police say that the young man went to his sister's room and attacked her, but she fought him off.

The brother again entered his sister's room. She awoke, and they fought. He is under arrest.

INSANITY TO BE PLEA.

Man Who Shot and Killed Newark Policeman Is In Jail.

Newark, N. J., July 15.—George F. Drum, former county engineer, who shot John T. McDonald, a policeman, was remanded in police court until Friday without bail. He was charged with murder, McDonald having died since Drum's arrest.

During a card game Friday night McDonald said something which Drum considered an insult. He demanded an apology, which was not given. On Saturday while McDonald was standing on a street corner talking with friends Drum approached him and again demanded an apology. McDonald laughed and was shot.

Efforts will be made to prove Drum was mentally irresponsible.

CHILD KILLED BY CAR.

Crowd In New Jersey Wanted to Lynch Motorman and Conductor.

Red Bank, N. J., July 15.—Irsole Martin, six-year-old daughter of Frank Martin of West Red Bank, was instantly killed by a trolley on Shrewsbury avenue. The child stepped from behind an ice wagon directly in front of the rapidly approaching car, which was in charge of Edward Kannon, motorman, and Robert Sackett, conductor. A large crowd quickly gathered, and but for the interference of the police the motorman and conductor would have been lynched. The child's skull was crushed. Chief of Police Arthur L. Wymbs said that the accident was accidental.

Twelve Year Term For Murder.

Camden, N. J., July 15.—Supreme Court Justice Garrison sentenced John Sullivan to from twelve to thirty years in state prison for the murder of Mrs. Lena Mealy of Gloucester City on March 31.

German Aviator Killed.

SETH LOW.

Former Mayor of New York Is Mediator In Big Strike.

Seth Low, former mayor of New York city, appeared before the committee of 1,000 representing the eastern conductors and trainmen in his capacity as a representative of the National Civic federation and pleaded with the men for conservative action.

SEEK BAND OF FOUR AS MURDERERS OF GIRL

Near Spot Where Miss Crispell Was Slain.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 15.—Two witnesses admitted seeing four men rowing on Harvey's lake at 11 o'clock on the night of July 4, when Alice Crispell, seventeen years old, met her death in such mysterious circumstances.

The new witnesses, F. D. Van Buskirk and Miss C. H. Casterline, his sweetheart, both of Forty Fort, Pa., told James Holman, a county detective, that they saw the four men row to the landing near which Alice Crispell's body was found and that two men went ashore about 11 o'clock.

Van Buskirk and Miss Casterline went ashore near the landing at half past 11 and were starting for the lake road in the direction of the Onoinata hotel when they met Alice Crispell and Herbert Johns, her sweetheart, who has been held for examination. The girl appeared to stagger. Miss Casterline left by street car for Wilkesbarre, but Van Buskirk, who knew Miss Crispell and Johns, remained until the car which left at five minutes after 12 o'clock.

A few minutes before midnight Van Buskirk saw five men walking down the lake road from the boat landing, but was not near enough to see their faces. When he got on the street car he saw Herbert Johns apparently asleep in one of the seats.

This adds to the confusion about the time Johns left the lake, as Harrison Cann, his friend, said Johns went to Wilkesbarre by the half past 11 o'clock car, while Clara Johns, a sister, said Herbert was at home asleep in his bed when she arrived there at half past 11 o'clock.

The prosecutor's detectives are trying to connect the appearance of the four men in a boat with the five who came walking from the lake on the theory that Johns may have joined the four.

WIFE SUES J. HINCHLIFFE.

Alleges That New Jersey Politician Threatened to Kill Her.

Trenton, N. J., July 15.—Alleging that her husband, ex-State Senator John Hinchliffe, three times mayor of Paterson, had threatened to kill her, Mrs. Mary A. F. Hinchliffe of 738 East Twenty-third street, Paterson, N. J., through her counsel, Cortlandt Parker, Jr., of Newark, filed a petition for divorce in the chancery court. Because of a technical error in the papers, however, they were returned to her counsel and in all probability will be sent here later.

Mrs. Hinchliffe alleges that on March 14 her husband broke down the door of her room and threatened to kill her. She says she fled to the home of a neighbor and then on the advice of her physician went to St. Joseph's hospital, Paterson, where she remained for about ten days.

YOUNG CAMINETTI FOUND.

Indicted Man Working In Oil Camp and Known as "Blackie."

San Francisco, July 15.—A dispatch from Taft, a new oil town near Bakersfield, says that Drew Caminetti, who was indicted by the federal grand jury for white slaving, has been working in the oil camp for several weeks. He is known as "Blackie," and his identity was revealed through telephone messages that he received from this city.

Caminetti went to the camp about June 1 and was employed by a pipe line contracting company. He was exposed to the blazing rays of the desert sun day after day and was tanned almost black. Because of this the men nicknamed him "Blackie."

MULHALL TELLS OF USE OF MONEY

ACTIVE IN MANY STATES

Reported That Manufacturers' Association Has Letters on the Way Which Will Be Used to Establish Motive For Mulhall's Revelations.

Washington, July 15.—Additional disclosures concerning the alleged activities of "big interests" in shaping legislation were made when Martin M. Mulhall, who acknowledges himself to have been one of the chief lobbyists for the National Association of Manufacturers, resumed the stand before the senate investigating committee.

It was reported that the manufacturers' organization had on the way a large number of letters which would be used in an effort to establish a motive for Mulhall's revelations.

John Mitchell, the labor leader, was subpoenaed. George A. Pearre, one time member of congress from Maryland, was excused until next Monday, and Mitchell was told to come back July 25, when Samuel Gompers has been directed also to appear.

Mulhall's first testimony related to letters from Marshall Cushing, secretary of the National Association of Manufacturers, suggesting a campaign against Pearre. Mulhall said he made frequent visits to Pearre's district and conferred with Senator Wellington, George H. Holtzman, postmaster at Cumberland, and others.

"Why did you oppose Pearre?" asked Reed.

"On account of his stand on the injunction bill, same as I did McComas," said the witness.

Bribed Democratic Senator.

The investigation brought out further facts in the part played by Mulhall for the N. A. M. in campaigns in Pennsylvania, New York and Maine. In the fight in Maine for the re-election of Representative Charles E. Littlefield he told how he had bribed Dr. G. L. Crockett, a prominent Democratic orater, with $500 to speak against Samuel Gompers and in favor of Mr. Littlefield. But the tactics of his side on election day, 1906, in getting Democrats drunk so they could not vote disgusted him so, he said, that he had left the hall where whisky was being served. It was three years later that he left the employ of the N. A. M.

The correspondence showed that James S. Sherman of New York, late vice president of the United States, was a close correspondent of Mulhall's. On one occasion Mulhall wrote to Mr. Sherman, then chairman of the Republican congressional committee, asking him to have ex-Representative James E. Watson of Indiana sent into a Pennsylvania district to assist ex-Representative O'Connell. Later letters showed that the Republican committee had tried in vain to persuade ex-Representative Henry W. Palmer to withdraw in Mr. O'Connell's favor. Two of Mulhall's letters to Mr. Sherman were directed by mistake to the Democratic congressional committee, but were forwarded unopened to the correct address.

Mulhall told about making personal visits to Cumberland to lend his influence in the campaign to defeat Pearre. A letter to Mulhall from C. H. Holtzman at Cumberland said the anti-Pearre organization there was costing $200 a day, and much "persuasion" was necessary.

"What do you mean by persuasion?" asked Senator Nelson.

"Money," said the witness crisply.

"You had to see the negro voter over and over again," suggested Mr. Overman.

"Yes, sir. The last fellow who got to 'em had 'em on election day."

On June 14, 1906, Cushing wrote to Mulhall telling him that he could show that Pearre was "playing both ends against the middle."

BOY SAYS HE FOUND $35,000

Advertises For Owner, but Refuses to Say Where He's Hidden It.

North Adams, Mass., July 15.—Brayton Gardner, eighteen years old, who announced that he had found $35,000 in a leather bag on the tracks of the Boston and Maine railroad, refused to tell the police where he put the money.

"I have hid it in a good, safe place," said he, "and if some one claims it I'll produce it immediately."

Young Gardner walked into the office of a local newspaper and shoved a slip over to the "classified ad." clerk, which read:

Found—$35,000. Owner can have money by identifying it and satisfying Brayton Gardner.

He paid for the advertisement and walked out again. Gardner says he found the money in a leather bag yesterday afternoon.

BORO VOTES FOR A JOINT SEWER

Little Interest Taken But Special Election Was Very One-sided.

ON ALL PROPOSITIONS

North Plainfield Follows Dunellen in Ratifying Plan to Join With Plainfield in Constructing a Common System.

Showing a strange lack of interest in the sewer problem, less than fifty per cent of the registered voters of North Plainfield borough voted at the special election held yesterday when four propositions were laid before the citizens of that place. A total of 404 ballots were cast in the five districts, running the approximate cost per vote up to one dollar. The highest vote was cast in the fourth district, where 12[illegible] voters registered their wishes.

The result of the voting was much one-sided, no one proposition receiving more than eighteen ballots opposed to it. Proposition No. 1, relative to the construction of a collecting system, polled a total of 358 votes, while but eighteen opposed it. The high mark was reached by proposition No. 2, which covered the question of erecting a joint disposal works in conjunction with Plainfield and Dunellen, receiving 371 favorable and sixteen negative votes. Propositions Nos. 3 and 4, which had to do with the issuing of bonds with which to construct the colecting system and disposal works, received 362 and 3[illegible] votes respectively, with but eighteen votes polled against them. The bonds authorized by this vote will amount to $150,000 for the collecting system and $100,000 for the joint disposal works.

Representative citizens of the borough, on being interviewed this morning, expressed their great surprise at the fact that so few of the voters should have taken the trouble to express themselves at the polls on these important questions, especially after the matter had been so thoroughly discussed for some time. Thirty-seven per cent of the registered voters cast their ballots on the propositions, or 6[illegible] votes less than the general election of last November. The first and fourth districts polled the heaviest vote, forty-three and forty-four per cent of the registered vote being cast in the respective districts.

W. L. GAVETT REACHES HIS NINETY-NINTH YEAR

William L. Gavett, one of Plainfield's best known citizens and for many years one of its leading merchants, celebrated the eighty-ninth anniversary of his birthday, yesterday, at the home of his son, Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett, of West Fifth street.

Mr. Gavett was educated in the public schools of Boston, being graduated from the Franklin school, of this city. He received a Benjamin Franklin medal for scholarship. Afterward he learned the brass worker's trade. At one time he was an officer in the Boston City Guards. He came to Plainfield in 1862 and for many years successfully conducted a crockery, glass and lamp store, which is now owned by his son, Joseph W. Gavett. He first joined Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., and later transferred to Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M. He has held offices in both lodges. He has two sons, A. J. and J. W. Gavett, and one daughter, Mrs. H. W. Rankin, and five grandchildren.

CARPENTERS LEAVE WORK ON A THEATRE

Objected to Non-union Men's Activities and Dispute Will Be Settled Friday.

The union carpenters employed on the work of building a motion picture theatre on West Second street were called off their job yesterday because laborers were being allowed to do a certain kind of work which it is claimed is only permitted of union carpenters. The particular work referred to was that of building frames for the stone or brick columns.

Following a conference last night between the head of the union and the contractor, it was decided to refer the whole matter to the Building Trades Council which meets on Friday night. In the meantime, the union men will stay off the job. The point to be settled is as to whether laborers will be allowed to continue the kind of work in which they were engaged or whether the carpenters must do it. The masons employed on the job are all union men and they are working without interruption, although they would have quit had yesterday's condition been allowed to continue.

The men employed in building the theatre structure are all from out of town.

REVIEW HISTORY OF SEWER LEGISLATION

Former Assemblyman Anderson Recalls the Fight in the Legislature.

Former Asemblyman W. de LaR. Anderson, of Somerset county, who was in the Legislature when the sewage legislation was in progress, and whose vote assisted in securing legislation favorable to Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen, made the following statement on the subject, today:

"The question of repealing the law which gave the State Board of Health the power to locate sewage disposal plants, came up in a bill presented by the representatives of Essex county during the session of 1912. Had this bill passed North Plainfield, Plainfield and Dunellen could not have had a sewage disposal plant properly located.

"Representing Somerset county and realizing the needs of North Plainfield, I actively opposed this measure which we finally defeated. The controversy was extremely complex, as three communities in Somerset county had their own individual ideas of the subject. Bound Brook objected to certain propositions. North Plainfield Township, my own home, objected to others, and North Plainfield Borough desired nothing but the securing of its sewer plant and that it be individually represented. There was nothing to be done, in a situation of this kind, as representative of Somerset county as a whole, but to form a plan which would benefit the demands of all three communities.

"Senator W. W. Smalley and I devised such a plan which we believed would meet the situation and went ahead along the lines of that plan. There were times that each community thoroughly believed that we were working in the individual interest of the other community, and our plight at those times was extremely unpleasant. The ultimate successful solution which has come about and which enables North Plainfield to have its much needed sewers without objection from the other communities amply repays for those distressing periods through which we have already gone.

"Sewers in North Plainfield should be a great economic benefit to that community. The increase in taxation providing for sinking fund and maintenance will in all probability not be nearly so much as is annually expended for the maintenance, cleaning and repair of the individual householder's cesspool. The borough will be a far healthier and more desirable place than at present."

STATE ORDERED CATTLE KILLED

Ernest T. Hand's Consignment Slaughtered in North Plainfield Today.

THIRTY-SIX INFECTED

Had Been Exposed to Splenetic or Texas Fever Infection—Did not Have Tuberculosis—Dr. W. H. Lowe Ordered Animals Killed.

Thirty-six range cattle shipped from Kissimmee, Florida, and consigned to Ernest T. Hand, of Fanwood, were condemned upon their arrival at Fanwood yesterday afternoon and following orders issued by the State authorities were turned over to Stonewall Jackson, of North Plainfield, and taken to his barns on Somerset street, the borough, where they were slaughtered this morning. Dr. William Herbert Lowe, State Inspector, First District of New Jersey, acting for the State Board of Health, issued the order condemning the animals and personally supervised the slaughtering process this morning at the barns in the borough.

Cattle shipped to this State from the South and the West have been condemned on a number of previous occasions by the New Jerzey inspector, having been infected with or subjected to tuberculosis but these animals showed no evidences of having the tubercular germs in their systems. The condemnation was levied because they had been exposed to splenatic or Texas fever infection while en route to Fanwood and had they been used for food or breeding purposes they would have endangered the lives of human beings. The splenetic germ is transmitted by the cattle tick, "margaropus annulatus."

In accordance with the law the cattle had been dipped once before shipment to New Jersey in a Standard Arsenal solution. This was done on Saturday, July 5, immediately before shipment, but nevertheless immediate slaughter was ordered as a protection to the live stock and dairy interests of the State.

TWO ARE APPOINTED TO CATCH THE DOGS

Mayor Names Rogers and Hall Who Began a Round-up of Stray Canines.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart this morning announced the appointment of Bert Rogers and Howard Hall as official dog catchers and they have begun the work of catching all canines found running at large about the city. Rogers, who formerly lived in Philadelphia, held a similar position in the Quaker City, where it is said he established a record as a dog catcher.

According to the rules established at the dog pounds Poundkeeper Culver will hold all dogs for seventy-two hours and it will cost the owner $3 to redeem his dog. The catchers are alowed fifty cents for every dog caught and impounded. As stated in The Plainfield Press yesterday, dogs must not be allowed to run at large and if they leave the owner's premises must be attached to a leash and in charge of aperson at least twelve years of age.

MRS. MAURICE HIGGINS DIES FOLLOWING SHORT ILLNESS

Mrs. Jane Agnes Higgins, wife of Police Sergeant Maurice H. Higgins, died at her home on West Front street early this morning following a brief illness that was not thought to be serious until the past week. She grew worse last night, however, and died at an early hour this morning. Mrs. Higgins was a life-long resident of the city and an active member of St. Mary's church. She was a member of the Rosary Society and the League of the Sacred Heart of that parish.

Besides her husband Mrs. Higgins is survived by one sister, Mrs. George Serviss, of Newark, and two brothers, Fred and Peter Fleming, of this city. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

BRICK PAVE CAUSE ACCIDENTS.

The slippery condition of the brick pavement has resulted in the downfall of many horses, recently, at least a half dozen going down within the past week. This morning a horse attached to a wagon belonging to the Independent Ice Company fell at Front street and Park avenue, and slid a distance of nearly twenty-five feet. The animal was not injured, although it was thought that a leg was broken.

FLYNN DROPPED IN ON A POKER GAME

Looking for Riseto He Found Him and Others Gambling —Fined $100.

Detective-Sergeant John Flynn, working in conjunction with Chief Kiely, has been on the trail of gamblers during the last few weeks, but seldom has he had an easier time in landing his men than was the case this morning. As a result of Flynn's vigilance Peter Riseto, of 166 East Front street, where he ostensibly conducted a fruit and candy stand, was fined $100 with the option of spending 30 days in jail. He paid the fine.

The local police have suspected that Riseto has been conducting a gambling joint for several weeks, and had gathered evidence enough to satisfy them that he should be arrested. Accordingly, Flynn went after him this morning and walked into the back room of his store, where he found a stud poker game in full blast, with Riseto, Julius Marshall and Dominic Marra the latter an eighteen years old boy, so busy that they did not notice the presence of the policeman until the latter had taken possession of the pack of cards and $1.80 in money on the table.

Flynn brought the trio to headquarters where City Judge DeMeza was sitting, and they were immediately placed on trial. All pleaded guilty, and the two who were playing with the proprietor of the place were let go with suspended sentences. The court read a lecture to Riseto and then imposed the sentence.

KNAPP TO MANAGE COLBY'S CAMPAIGN

Elizabeth Man Will Be Candidate's Field Marshal in Union County.

That the management of the campaign in Union county for the nomination of former State Senator Eveerett Colby for gubernatorial honors on the Progressive ticket will be taken in hand by Edgar A. Knapp, of Elizabeth, following the permanent organization of a State Everett Colby Nominating League, is the general belief expressed among Progressive workers of the county.

Mr. Knapp's close association with the activities of the Progressive party since its inception and the fact that he is a member of the State committee having in hand the organization of a State league for the nomination of former Senator Colby of governor, are all held as strong arguments in favor of Mr. Knapp's management of the campaign in Union county.

Regarding the campaign in favor of Mr. Colby's nomination for governor, Mr. Knapp stated that in Union county there is a strong sentiment in favor of Colby's nomination among those who were strongly identified with the Progressive party last fall.

FOUR PARTIES TO HAVE BALLOT BOXES IN UNION

Elizabeth, July 16—It has been determined that four political parties will be entitled to ballot boxes at the elections in this county this fall. The dominant parties will still be the Democratic and Republican, but the Progressive and Socialist parties each polled more than 5 per cent of the total vote last election and also will be entitled to separate boxes this fall.

It is understood that all of the parties mentioned will have full tickets in the field in this county this fall.

CONFERS WITH FREEHOLDERS.

State Supervisor of Roads Robert A. Meeker, of Plainfield, had a conference with the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders at New Brunswick, yesterday, to consider the question of money to be expended on the county roads during the coming year from the automobile fund. No action was taken, but it is expected that the apportionment to the various sections of the county will be made soon.

IN BORO' POLICE COURT.

Appearing in the borough court this morning because of their failure to comply with the ordinance which makes it necessary to take out licenses for their dogs, A. W. Layton, of Somerset street; C. I. Pond, of Willow avenue, and Patrick Regan, of Harrison avenue, were dismissed with suspended sentences, pending their securing the licenses.

FUNERAL OF GEO. VIEBROCK.

The funeral of George Viebrock, aged 67 years, who died suddenly at his home, 20 Jackson avenue, this city, yesterday morning, will be held at the late home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Evarts C. Conover, of the Temple Baptist church, will officiate.

BIG JUDGMENT AGAINST HOOD

One for $153,130 Obtained by New York Concern in New Jersey Supreme Court.

PARTNERSHIP MONEY

Sum Represents, It Is Stated, Earnings of Construction Company Unaccounted for by Plainfield Man Who Figures in Other Litigations.

Trenton, July 16.—Richard Haden Hood, of Plainfield, who is a defendant in a suit for a divorce instituted by his wife, Mrs. Frances Sparks Hood, and who in turn has brought suit in the Court of Chancery to determine property rights, is the defendant in another action brought against him by former business partners to secure money which, it is alleged, has never been accounted for by him. Judgment has just been entered in the Supreme Court against Mr. Hood for $153,130.00, the result of an action brought against him by Charles Meads and Leslie McHarg, of New York, through their counsel, Frank L. Holt, of Plainfield.

Hood was formerly associated with Messrs. Meads and McHarg in the construction business in New York. The judgment represents, it is said, money of the former concern which was never accounted for by Mr. Hood, covering a period of four or five years.

Mr. McHarg turned his interest in suit over to Mr. Meads, the latter being made the complainant in the action against Mr. Hood. All three men were associated in the construction business for several years, and it is said, failing to get what they considered a fair division of profits, brought the suit to recover the same.

MEAT PRICES TAKE ANOTHER BIG JUMP

Beef, Pork and Lamb Go up From Two to Four Cents Per Pound.

A sharp advance in the wholesale cost of beef, pork and lamb took effect in this city early in the week, the prices of all going up from two to four cents per pound. The cause of this advance, it is said, is due to the great scarcity of meat.

In an interview with a Daily Press reporter this morning, a local butcher pointed out the fact that there is 200,000,000 pounds less of beef in the country today than a year ago. "The great trouble," he said, "is that the large ranches of the west and southwest have been cut up into many smaller farms. The small farmer is not in the position to let his investment lay for a period of three to four years while the steers are becoming sufficiently matured for the market. Consequently calves are being killed off almost as rapidly as they are born. Monday of last week showed this to be true when only 10,000 head of cattle were on the Chicago market as against 30 000, which has been the regular number to be had. The present raise in the cost of beef will probably be a permanent one, while the price of lamb and pork will, no doubt, drop to some extent early in the fall."

He also stated he doubted as to whether the beef houses within a radius of 200 miles of Plainfield had received their full consignment during the past week. He stated that a most logical way to remedy the conditions as far as the shortage is concerned, would be to prohibit the killing of calves until such times as the market was again normal.

DRIVER HALED TO COURT FOR KICKING A HORSE

Charles Allen, a driver for VanZandt & Voorhees, was arrested yesterday for kicking his horse, while climbing a hill approaching Hillside avenue. Mrs. Thomas VanBoskerck, of Hillside avenue, appeared as a witness for the S. P. C. A., and said she saw Allen kick the horse. He denied the charge and his employer, T. R. VanZandt, testified that he had examined the animal when it came in and could not find any evidence of ill treatment. Allen was given a suspended sentence by Judge DeMeza, with instructions that he must not abuse any animals.

IS KREWSON'S POOL ROOM GAMBLING PLACE

Proprietor and Manager Furnish Bail for a Hearing in Police Court on Friday.

Another step in the anti-gambling crusade being conducted by the local police department was taken when Charles Krewson, who conducts a pool room at 131 West Front street, and his son-in-law, Leslie Sackett, were arrested just before noon today by Detective Sergeant John Flynn, on a complaint sworn to by Chief Kiely, who alleged that the place conducted by Krewson has been an habitual gambling place.

Krewson and Sackett immediately went to the police court, where Judge DeMeza held a special sitting, and after explaining that they could waive examination or have one, prior to being held for the Grand Jury, they asked for a hearing, which will be given on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Krewson said that "this thing might as well be settled now as later," and put up $20 cash bail for his appearance and that of Sackett at the hearing. He seemed to be very much ruffled when in court, and could not understand why Sackett had been brought into the case, as the latter is merely an employe of the pool room. Sackett is known as the manager of the place.

BLAZE IN STORE.

A fire was discovered yesterday morning in a store-room of the basement of Adelberg's store on East Front street, when the place was opened by the proprietor for the day's business. A large number of fur goods which were valued at $5,000, were completely destroyed. Just what caused the fire is not known, but it is believed that a defective wire came into contact with the furs. Because of little or no circulation of air, the blaze was smothered and the fire confined to the one room.

WEAVERS AT SILK MILL ON A STRIKE

Demand for Ten Per Cent. Increase in Wages Refused Employes Walk Out.

THEIR PAY IS SMALL

Claim Their Average Wage is $6 per Week—Most of the Strikers, it is Reported, Will Go to Other Cities, But They Want Their Money.

Failing to have their demands granted for a ten per cent increase in wages, fifty employees of the Jersey Silk Mills, on Chatham street, North Plainfield, left their work in the company's factory this morning and if their present plans are carried out, they will not return to work again as employees of that concern. The men affected are all weavers who have been working on the firm's looms and they claim that the compensation they receive does not average more than $6 a man per week. There are few, according to the spokesman for the strikers, who are paid as high as $10, but a large majority receive only $5 or $6 per week.

Several informal open air meetings were held this morning on the grounds surrounding the factory and the strikers have appointed a committee to take charge of their interests, the names of the membership of which they refuse to publish. No malice was expressed on the part of any of the strikers toward their employers and many of the men are in sympathy with the firm but cannot allow that factory, they say, to keep them from earning a larger pay envelope in some other place. The spokesman said today that the employers were not getting prices for their output that would warrant any great increase in wages and for this reason the men do not look forth to a granting of their requests, but on the other hand, many have made preparations to leave for Paterson or Philadelphia immediately upon receipt of their back wages. The men are paid off twice a month and as their semi-monthly pay envelopes were distributed last Saturday none of them have very much due them.

The strikers claim that it costs them from $1.50 to $2.00 for room rent and from $4 to $5 for meals in Plainfield and in other cities where they can secure similar employment their expenses are fifty per cent less and the salaries higher. The men are paid for the work they do and this is one of their chief causes for striking. They claim that the silk used was left over from the stock kept by the Watchung Silk Company, the concern that preceeded the Jersey Silk Company as owners of the factory and which went into bankruptcy a year ago, and that this material is difficult to weave. The strikers allege that some of the silk is rotten and this alleged fact causes numerous breaks in the thread which prolongs the task and the men cannot put out the amount of work in a day that will yield them a sufficient return. One man who came here from Philadelphia five days ago said that he had worked steadily during the time he has been here but has only $5 coming to him.

The new company's plant has been in operation but a short time and many of the employes came here from Philadelphia to work thinking that conditions in Plainfield and North Plainfield would prove more advantageous to them than in a big city, but since they have been residents here the weavers who are of several different nationalities including Armenians, Hebrews, Italians and Serians, say that it costs them twenty-five per cent. more to provide sustainance for their families. In a majority of the cases the strikers are single men and they say that they cannot provide for themselves on the wages they receive in this vicinity.

The representatives of the workers announced that no violence would be indulged in by any of the individuals but they are looking forward to a peaceful settlement of the trouble and will leave town at once. Some of the men have been in other strikes, including the ones in the Paterson silk mills, and do not want to cause any such trouble in this city.

In speaking to a Daily Press reporter this afternoon, the manager of the company said that he was looking forward to a settlement of the differences sometime this afternoon and also stated that the company was now buying the very best silk on the market and that the weavers got paid extra for working on the old material.

PRISON YAWNS FOR KING OF "CON" MEN

John H. Stronsider, Oft Convicted, May at Last Be Compelled to Serve Time.

Chicago, Ill., July 16.—John H. Strosnider, known as the "king of con men," is under conviction in Chicago, and the police of many cities of the United States and Canada are hopeful that he will soon be behind prison bars. Strosnider has been arrested times without number and has been convicted on more than one occasion. But, with the exception of a short sentence in a New Jersey prison, he has never served time so far as is known. To avoid wearing stripes he has been known to forfeit cash bail of $25,000.

Strosnider, or "Big Lem" as he is familiarly known to the police, is one of the "top notch" confidence men of America, and he has seldom made pretensions of being anything else. The only defense he has ever made is that he never swindled a man who was not trying to swindle him or some one else. His home is in the East, though his operations have extended to nearly all parts of the United States and Canada. With his wife and a valet he lived until quite recently in a beautiful home in Flatbush, L. I., and by his aristocratic neighbors was supposed to be a wealthy broker.

"Big Lem" has always played for high stakes. His specialty has been the so-called wire-tapping game. In 1905 he was arrested in the home of a wealthy physician residing on Riverside Drive in New York city, on a charge of swindling the physician out of $12,500 in a fake gambling game. The charge was never pressed, but Mrs. Strosnider gave a deed for some property which she later made an unsuccessful attempt to recover.

In court Strosnider told with much self-satisfaction how he had "trimmed" the physician. He said he had first met the latter in Paris. After returning to New York he introduced the physician to a man named McKee, who was represented as being sore at the gambling syndicate and as one who would deal faro so the players could not lose. McKee and Strosnider rented a gambling house in Thirty-first street, New York city, for $250 for the night and hired twenty men to stand around as players. As Strosnider and the physician were going into the house they were warned by a policeman that it was a gambling house.

"The policeman was the only real thing about the game," Stosnider explained to the court, and then he told how the physician lost $10,000, and he lost $10,000 and McKee had it all. In answer to a question from the judge as to whether he had intended to victimize the physician, "Big Lem" said:

"Sure; I intended to take the man's money. You see, the men in the business I follow don't call it a crime to trim an easy mark. He was out to trim me if he could, and he was welcome to do it if he could. Instead, I trimmed him and trimmed him good."

In 1910 Strosnider was arrested in connection with the theft of $180,000 from the National City Bank, of Cambridge, Mass. The money was embezzled by a young bank clerk named George W. Coleman, who is now in prison. Coleman told on the stand how he had lost nearly all of the stolen money in fake faro games in New York. Strosnider was charged with being an accessory before the fact of the larcencies committed by Coleman. He furnished cash bail to the amount of $10,000 and so far as is known no further proceedings were taken in the matter.

About a year ago Strosnider again came into the limelight by working the wire-tapping swindle in Providence, R. I. His victim was Samuel Butter, a junk dealer of Roxbury, Mass., whom he decoyed to Providence by stating that he had a lot of wire to sell. When Butter returned home he was minus $7,500 which he had lost in a fake pool room.

The offense for which "Big Lem" is now under conviction here was the swindling of Dr. William T. Kirby out of $20,000 by the wire-tapping game. Dr. Kirby conducted a small private bank which failed some time ago. After the failure Dr. Kirby and his wife were arrested on a charge of "holding out" $20,000 of the funds of the bank. Dr. Kirby declared in court that he had lost the money to "wire-tappers." The story he told of how he had been fleeced seemed so absurd and incredible that Judge Landis, who was trying the case, practically accused the banker and his lawyers of framing up the story in order to defraud the depositors. But the police investigation disclosed the fact that Dr. Kirby in reality had fallen a victim to the smooth Mr. Strosnider. Some time later "Big Lem" was arrested in Montreal. After a hard fight against extradition he was returned to Chicago, tried and convicted.

AUGUSTUS O. BACON.

First United States Senator Elected by Popular Vote.

The provisions of the new seventeenth amendment to the constitution were put into practice for the first time yesterday when the voters of Georgia cast direct ballots for the election of a United States senator. The election was to select a successor to Senator Augustus O. Bacon for the term ending March 4, 1919. As Senator Bacon was unopposed, he has the distinction of being the first United States senator elected by popular vote.

BRYAN'S LECTURE TOUR STIRS UP CRITICISM

Senator Bristow Offers Resolution on Subject.

Washington, July 16.—Senator Bristow introduced a resolution aimed at William J. Bryan's statement that he was obliged to go on a lecture tour because of an insufficient official salary, calling on President Wilson to report what salary would be sufficient to enable the secretary of state to remain permanently at his post. Objection of Democratic senators prevented its immediate consideration.

The Bristow resolution called attention to Mr. Bryan's predecessors who served with salaries ranging from $3,500 to $8,000 and declared that "no one of them was compelled to neglect the duties of his office because of the meagerness of the salary."

It stated that the salary was increased to $12,000 in 1911, but that "the great commoner who now occupies that office has stated that the salary of $1,000 a month is not sufficient to enable him to live comfortably and that he is compelled to neglect his duties and go on the lecture platform to earn a living."

Attention was called further to the Mexican, Japanese, British and other international questions before the state department, which, the resolution alleged, were not receiving full consideration.

It ended by requesting the president to give prompt attention to the matter and report to congress what salary would be sufficient so that congress could "relieve the country of the great loss it suffers in being deprived of the services" of the secretary of state during the time he may be on the lecture platform.

Reading of the resolution was greeted by broad smiles on the Republican side of the chamber. Senators Kern, Lewis and other Democrats were on their feet before it was concluded and objected to its consideration. Under the rules of the senate it went over until the next session.

PRAISE SING SING PROBERS

Osborne Says Winslow and Weeks Made Inquiry a Success.

Albany, N. Y., July 16.—James W. Osborne, who presented the Blake disclosures which resulted in the indictment of Warden J. Kennedy and other prison officials to the Westchester county grand jury, has written Governor Sulzer a letter in which he extols District Attorney Francis A. Winslow and his assistant, Frederick E. Weeks.

"Without their co-operation," he says, "it would have been impossible for me to obtain the results which have been achieved. In other words, the investigation would have been a failure. They have been untiring in their efforts to the end that the truth concerning Sing Sing prison might be revealed to the grand jury."

Senate Tariff Reported Approved.

Washington, July 16.—Democrats of the senate finance committee met and approved the majority report prepared by Chairman Simmons on the tariff bill. The report, which will be an analysis of the general reductions, will be sent to the senate tomorrow. At that time Senator Simmons will deliver the opening argument for the majority.

Militant Rioters Jailed.

London, July 16.—After a hearing in Marlborough police court Miss Annie Bell and Miss Mary Ryan, who took part in the rioting at the Pavilion when the attempt was made to arrest Mrs. Pankhurst, were sentenced to Holloway jail for twenty-one days each.

SNEERS AT STORY TOLD BY MULHALL

Author's Letter Refers to Exposure as "Bunk."

REVELATIONS CONTINUED

Mulhall on Stand Says That Number Code Was Used to Hide Names of Prominent Office Holders—Identifies More Letters.

Washington, July 16.—While Colonel Mulhall, former lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers, continued his identification of letters and telegrams, most of which have already been made public, Senator Reed interrupted to introduce a letter to Mulhall from S. Langtry Crockett, author of "The Plunderers," written from Thomaston, Me., a few weeks ago.

In it Mr. Crockett said he believed all Mulhall had said in his published story, with the exception of his declaration that he was making it public for the benefit of humanity.

Mr. Crockett wrote that he hoped Mulhall "was making a good thing" out of his story and wrote that he was willing to take the stand and tell what he knew about Mulhall's credibility. The reading of the letter added a touch of comedy to the proceedings.

Mulhall declared that under Secretary Cushing's administration the association's methods were so secretive that names were never mentioned.

"As an instance," he said, "Vice President Sherman was No. 8, Representative Littlefield 9, and I myself was known as No. 11."

Mulhall's operations in breaking the machinists' strike in Cleveland and the shoe workers' strike in St. Louis were described in detail in a score of letters.

To Defeat Johnson.

One letter, written to W. D. Sayles of Cleveland, interested the committee. In it Mulhall said that he believed Sayles "should call on President Van Cleave to have the members of the N. A. M., in Cleveland unite in defeating the Hon. T. L. Johnson, your present mayor." Mulhall said he would like to go to Cleveland to aid in this work. This letter was dated July 16, 1907.

Mulhall declared that he went to Cleveland under direct instructions to defeat Johnson.

In a letter written by Secretary Schwedtman to Mulhall on Aug. 9, 1907, the N. A. M. secretary said:

"There are some large things brewing, and there is every indication that in our tariff campaign we have with us the majority of the Republican leading congressmen and senators and men higher up than that too. To a small degree this is a fact also on the labor issue and some of the other propositions advocated by the N. A. M."

A letter dated in 1907 showing that W. T. Haines, now governor of Maine, joined the N. A. M. and paid $50 dues in advance was read, and Mulhall was asked why Haines, a lawyer, joined the organization.

"Why, he is a big wood pulp manufacturer also," said Mulhall.

"But why did he join the N. A. M.? Was it for political reasons?" asked Senator Reed.

"Why, yes, sir," said Mulhall. "He knew I could do a great deal for him in a political way."

Horse and Wagon Bribe.

Mulhall said that a worker named Harriman, who helped elect Congressman Littlefield in 1906, had a horse and wagon given to him to start in the express business at Thomaston, Me., by the N. A. M. A letter referring to this as "a legacy" was identified by Mulhall.

Another letter from Schwedtman to Mulhall, after complimenting him on his good work, said:

"If we could only get a worker like you in every state it would be up to the N. A. M. to name the next president."

Expense accounts showing money paid by Mulhall to striking shoe workers in the fall of 1907 in St. Louis were introduced. The total accounted for was $333.25, and Mulhall said that "most of it went to workers for betraying the strikers." Other accounts bringing the total up to about $1,000 were also identified by Mulhall.

"When I went out there," said the witness, "I was told to approach the heads of the union and see what I could do."

YOUNG WIFE DRINKS POISON

Mrs. Alvis, Eighteen Years Old, Will Not Recover, It Is Believed.

Mobile, Ala., July 16.—Mrs. Anna Alvis, formerly Miss Caspar of Baltimore, where she has a number of relatives, drank carbolic acid at Biloxi, Miss. Several doctors worked to save her all night, but her condition is serious, and little hope is entertained for her recovery. No cause is given for the young woman's act.

She is eighteen years of age and came to Mobile from Baltimore seven months ago and then went to Biloxi.

MAYOR ON THE JOB.

One ground of opposition to the candidacy of Percy H. Stewart as a mayoralty candidate in the last campaign was that it was considered he could not give the necessary time to the municipal business, because of the fact that his law offices are in New York city. Mr. Stewart said then that he intended to give every minute that was necessary to the duties in the city were he elected, and time has shown that he has lived up to his promise. Hardly a day passes during which he does not devote several hours to his work at the Mayor's office, and he frequently has to spend evenings in the city's affairs. During these hot months, when many officials in cities go away for a month or two at a time, leaving subordinates acting in their places, the local executive has been on the job steadily, and has kept thoroughly familiar with every detail of the work of the city government. He has exploded the theory that a commuter cannot make a good executive, as dozens who have been in the Common Council have demonstrated that because their business is in New York, it is no reason why they cannot give intelligent and effective service to the city.

HISTORIC THEATRE TO GO.

Patrons of the theatre and members of the theatrical profession everywhere will learn with sincere regret that the famous Walnut Street Theatre in Philadelphia is about to pass into history. The historic playhouse has been refused a license by the Quaker City authorities for its failure to comply with the new safety standard fixed in that municipality. To conform to the requirements would mean that the structure would have to be completely rebuilt and so the doors will be closed never to be reopened.

The Walnut Street Theatre is not only the oldest but one of the very richest in thespian art memories in the whole world. It was built away back in 1808 and during practically its entire history has been devoted to attractions strictly of the first class. It is said that every American player of renown, with the possible exception of some of the younger actors and actresses of the present day, have been seen behind its footlights, and moreover, every distinguished thespian from foreign lands who has appeared in Philadelphia has tread upon its stage.

In the opinion of the Jersey Journal "it would be considered petty politics of the most peanutty kind" should the Administration remove the portarit of McKinley and substitute the picture of a Democratic statesman. Mr. Wilson will recall that a storm of protest was made when Roosevelt permitted the motto "In God We Trust" to be removed from the gold coin, but aside from that fact it can not be imagined As the first to hold the office, Thomas Jefferson received $3,5000 a year while Secretary of State, and now William Jennings Bryan, getting $12,000, compains his salary is too small, remarks an exchange. But how much greater is the percentage of the increased cost of living since 1789?

William T. Jerome, the erstwhile District Attorney of New York, denounces "newspaper government." As this is about the only way he can get his name on a first page no newspaper should take offense at his little fling.

If they keep on with these investigations putting business on the bum, it won't be long before the New York Stock Exchange will prove more profitable as a moving picture show house.

Another item in the high cost of living—the votes cast at the special election in North Plainfield yesterday cost about $1.00 apiece for the election expense for the 404 votes was $400.

OUR AMBASSADOR IS HURRYING HOME

President Orders Representative to Mexico to Washington for a Conference.

Washington, July 16—It was officially announced at the State department today that Ambassador Wilson had been instructed to proceed from Mexico City to Washington to confer with President Wilson over the situation in Mexico. During his absence from Mexico the legation will be left in charge of the assistant ambassador.

The situation in Mexico has become such as to make it necessary for the President to have a personal conference with Ambassador Wilson before taking any further action. It is not expected that Secretary Bryan will take part in the conference since he will leave the capital on his lecture tour on Saturdty. Mr. Bryan stated emphatically, however, that all of his lecture engagements were made subject to cancellation and that if official business required his presence in Washington he would forego the entire six weeks trip he has planned.

Germany is the nation that asked the United States to recognize the Huerta government or to intervene in Mexico. Yesterday the report that Germany had made such a request of the United States could not be confirmed at the State department, but it was stated at the White House this morning that the summoning of Ambassador Wilson was the direct result of a formal demand by Germany that the United States take some immediate step to quiet the disturbance south of the Rio Grande.

Owing to the demorilization of railroad traffic Ambassador Wilson is expected to come by sea, using either the battleship Michigan or the Louisiana, from Vera Cruz if a liner is not available he should arrive here by July 23.

ROBING THE BRIDE.

Early Saxon Customs and the Advent of the Flowing Veil.

In the old days, as now, the bride generally dressed in white. From early Saxon times down to the eighteenth century a bride of the poorer classes came to the wedding arrayed in a plain white robe as a public warning that since she brought nothing to the marriage her husband was not responsible for her debts.

Brides soon began to add some little touch of color. Blue was for constancy and green for youth, but in some places these might not be used because of feuds between families having these tints in their liveries. Yellow might not be worn, as it stood for jealousy; golden might not, as it meant avarice.

The Anglo-Saxon bride went to the wedding with her hair hanging loose as a sign of freedom, but upon reaching her new house immediately bound it up as a sign of submission. In the days of Shakespeare the veil began to take the place of the flowing tresses, but this, however, was not original with the British, for centuries earlier the Roman and Hebrew brides had worn yellow veils, while the early Christians of southern Europe had enveloped both man and wife in one large cloth.

Whatever was lacking, however, in gorgeousness of dress was compensated among all the nations by the profusion of flowers chosen for their significance.—Uncle Remus' Magazine.

Herculaneum and Pompeii.

Pompeii was buried in ashes or light scoria, while Herculaneum was entombed in lava, which, after cooling, hardened into a material of the consistency of marble, and we thus have the explanation of the fact that while the first city has long been unearthed the latter is still largely covered with its ancient lava shroud. Excavations are constantly going on at Herculaneum, and the work will in all probability continue to the finish, but it is not likely that any especially important results will accrue, since the life of the two cities was practically the same.—New York American.

Rational Love.

"The rational rather than the romantic view of marriage is the one most in favor with the young people of the twentieth century," said a well known eugenics expert in an address in Cleveland.

"The rational view will make for happier marriages. And this rational view is beautifully illustrated in two questions—a little dialogue—running thus:

"'Will you always love me?'

"'Will you always be lovable?'"—New York Tribune.

IT WILL NOT RAIN FOR THE NEXT FORTY DAYS?

"St. Swithin's Day, if thou dost rain,
For forty days it will remain;
St. Swithin's Day, if thou be fair,
For forty days 'twill rain nae mair."

Thus spoke a wise man of the tenth century. It now behooves the present generation to test the wisdom of this ancient lay and watch the weather of the next thirty-nine days. Yesterday, July 15, was St. Swithin's Day, and, it being a fair day, Plainfield should enjoy the same good weather for some weeks. Farmers of this vicinity, however, have crops to raise and would not object if the prophecy failed.

THE "LAUGH ON SAUNDERS."

Editors Plainfield Daily Press:—

Referring to your editorial entitled "Laugh on Saunders" in which you argue that it will be a loss to this country if Mr. Foss should take himself and his industry to Canada because of the pending tariff bill, I think you overlook two things. First—it has always been part of the protectionist stock in trade to predict the terrible things that will happen if their sacred duties are reduced. There is no reason to suppose that this Foss threat has any real intention behind it. He is only trying to "throw a scare" into Congress, and we can believe in his migration when we see it carried out.

Second—If any industy cannot exist except by levying tribute on the rest of the community, it means that that industry is losing money, that it consumes more than it produces, and the sooner we get rid of it the better. It makes no difference to the country whether the loss is paid by the man running the business or whether he is able to pass it on to others; a loss is a loss and must be paid for by some one. A business run continually at a loss is a liability not an asset; it means that so much labor and capital is wasted and if natural facilities in Canada can change this loss into a profit, it will be a distinct gain for both countries. But don't worry. Foss isn't going away.

FOUND ITS GOLDEN HEAD.

Riddle of a Marble Column in Italy Read by a Beggar.

Near the monastery of San Vito, in Naples, stood a marble column that had been erected by an eccentric Frenchman about the beginning of the last century. On it were written in French the following enigmatic words: "On May 1 every year I have a golden head."

The inscription sorely puzzled the inhabitants of Naples. On May 1 the year after the erection of the column a great crowd came to it in the hope of finding the top covered with gold pieces. Needless to say, they went home with their pockets as empty as they were when they came.

For several years people came to see the promised wonder and went away disappointed. At last the authorities had the column taken down in the belief that treasure would be found beneath it. Nothing but earth was found, and so the column was set up again. Obviously the words had a mystic meaning, but no one was clever enough to guess it, and for years the riddle remained unsolved.

Finally in 1841 a ragged beggar named Annibale Tosci noticed the inscription. He stood looking at it for a long time while he pondered its meaning. Then suddenly the solution of the puzzle flashed into his mind. He waited patiently until May 1 before he tested the accuracy of his interpretation of the mystic words.

On the day mentioned in the inscription Tosci, bearing a pick and shovel, set out at daybreak for the column. He arrived before any chance visitors, and as soon as the monastery's bells tolled 6 he started digging in the ground covered by the shadow of the top of the column. He had not dug long before he came on a satchel that contained 80,000 francs. The inscription was a true one—the head of the column covered the golden treasure every year on May 1.

Annibale Tosci, the beggar whose sharp guess had given him comparative wealth, became a landowner near Mantua. He died at the age of ninety-four.—Youth's Companion.

An Easy Choice.

"You must choose between us!" shouted Binx. "You can't have both. When that dressmaker was last in this house I vowed that she should never come again. I have had all I'm ever going to have of being under the same roof with two semi-nutty women and requiring a rake every morning to get the odd pieces of cloth out of my clothes. I shall never again sit at my meals hearing the whir of that cursed sewing machine and listening to a lot of plaited, ruffled, cut bias and flounced talk in which I have no chance to join. The day that woman comes I go. Make your decision now. Do you choose your husband or your dressmaker?"

With limpid eyes the lady looked upon her husband. Then she breathed a sigh and said:

"Well, dear, if you must go what can I say?"—New York Globe.

His Prize Garden.

Somebody asked old Doc Quigley why he didn't trim off his scraggly beard.

"Not on your life," he replied. "Them whiskers is th' only thing I ever had any luck in raisin'—an' it took me seven days a week an' twenty-four hours a day for twenty-three years to bring 'em to their present state of perfection!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

C. B. PIERCE URGED TO ENTER THE RACE

Friends Want Senator to Run for Republican Gubernatorial Nomination.

Strong pressure is being brought to bear upon Senator Carlton B. Pierce, of Union county, by friends in an effort to induce him to enter the race for Governor. Mr. Pierce has not as yet given a decided answer, but is expected to do so prior to or following the meeting of the Republican Association of County Chairmen, to be held in Trenton, tomorrow.

It is pointed out by those backing Mr. Pierce that he could come out on an exceptionally strong platfom composed of measures he has championed. Among these are the abolishment of grade crossings, reform in the State's system of taxation, including that concerning banks, and the question of indeterminate franchises.

County Chairman Smith will not be able to attend the Trenton meeting, but when seen relative to the possible candidacy of Senator Pierce, said: "The Republican organization, in my judgment, will not endorse the candidacy of any candidate for Governor. Personally, I advocate the fullest opportunity for every Republican with Gubernatorial aspirations to enter the race, and no matter which candidate is selected, I pledge him my hearty, earnest and sincere support."

Summer Porch Parties.

A porch party is a delightful sort of informal entertainment for the warm summer afternoon. It need be no more than a gathering of neighbors for a friendly chat over sewing and embroidery, and the refreshments need be no more than iced tea and cakes. But it may be made a much more elaborate entertainment, and is an easy and pleasant way of paying a courtesy to the guest of some friends.

To begin with, of course, the porch party presupposes a pleasant veranda. It should be shaded from the sun if it is not on the shady side of the house. Awnings, Japanese screens or vines, which give it shade, also give it a look of coziness and pleasantness.

Have enough comfortable chairs so that each guest may be pleasantly seated. If the guests have been asked to bring their needlework, have a well-stocked work basket in evidence, with supplies of needles, thread, scissors, pins, tape measures and other sewing materials; and, for the benefit of the guest who forgets her work or who did not understand that she was to bring any, have some piece of unfinished embroidery on hand that she may have something to do with her fingers.

If the party is not to be a work party, some sort of entertaining game might be planned. It could be a musical party. The piano should be near a window opening on the veranda, or if some member of the family or close friend can play a mandolin she might be asked to help. Give each guest a small card and pencil, and on each card mark fifteen or twenty numbers. Then play as many selections from very familiar tunes—just a couple of bars picked out haphazzard from them. After each number let each guest write her opinion as to the name of the tune played. The resulting confusion of Yankee Doodle with Dixie, of Home Sweet Home with Sally in Our Alley will be amusing. The prize for the one who guesses the greatest number correctly might be a small plaster plaque of the head of some famous musician in relief, a book on music or a biography of some one musical, or a little pasteboard box, shaped like some musical instrument, filled with bon bons.

Refreshments.

On very warm days elaborate refreshments are out of place. Some sort of water ice, served daintily in glass cups, placed on doileys on attractive serving plates, and accompanied with small sponge cakes, kisses, or crisp, appetizing cookies is sufficient refreshment. Iced tea and sandwiches, of lettuce, watercress or cucumbers, is another dainty combination.

Some Cookery Suggestions

THE EGG COURSE.

BREAKFAST MENU.
Berries and Cream.
Eggs With Chutney.
Creamed Potatoes.
Hot Biscuit.
Coffee With Cream.

EGGS may form one of the courses for breakfast, luncheon or supper. The recipes given here are for substantial as well as appetizing dishes.

Well Seasoned Eggs.

Eggs With Chutney.—Put into a bowl yolks of three eggs, a tablespoonful of chutney and a tablespoonful and a half of olive oil; then beat well. Break half a dozen eggs, one at a time, into a cup, put them one by one on the sauce and set the dish into a moderate oven until the eggs are set. Serve on the same dish very hot.

Eggs With Peppers.—Take four eggs and place them in a bowl, add four tablespoonfuls of cold water and salt and pepper to season. Put a tablespoonful of butter into a frying pan and when hot pour in the eggs. Have ready a tablespoonful of chopped green peppers and just as the eggs begin to "set" sprinkle in the peppers. Stir two or three minutes until the white of the eggs is cooked and the yolks creamy.

Eggs and Fish.

Eggs With Lobster.—Cut four hard-boiled eggs in half, take out the yolks and pound them with an equal quantity of butter. Season with salt, black pepper and cayenne and add a large tablespoonful of canned lobster. Fill the halves of the eggs with the mixture, smooth the top to make it level with the white and after flouring the pieces of egg dip them into raw beaten egg and cover them with fine breadcrumbs. When the latter have had time to dry fry them in deep boiling fat and let them drain on soft paper as they are taken from the pan.

Temptingly Served.

Eggs In Butter.—Take a half dozen eggs, three ounces of butter, salt and pepper to taste, two teaspoonfuls of parsley and a tablespoonful of white vinegar.

Put one ounce of the butter in a saucepan. Make it hot without browning it. Break the eggs and slip them carefully into the hot butter. Dust them with salt and pepper and fry them till they are set.

While the eggs are frying melt the rest of the butter in a small pan. Let it get a deep golden tint.

Pull the parsley into small pieces. Wash and dry it well, then shake it about in the butter until it is crisp.

Butter a fireproof dish, slide the eggs carefully into it, pour over them the butter and parsley, put the saucepan again on the fire with vinegar in it, make it very hot and pour it over the eggs. Serve hot.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Story Of An Evening Star.

Galileo Studied With a Telescope.

UP in the sky a little white star came sparkling out.

"There is the little star that shines into my window every night," Evelyn said.

"Yes, and it shines into my window, too," Jack added. "Twinkle, twinkle, little star; how I wonder what you are!"

"That is not a little star," daddy said. "That is a world, a great big one, many times bigger than our earth, and it goes swinging around the sun just as we do. The name of your little star is Jupiter. The reason Jupiter looks so small to us is because it is so far away. The fastest express train, you know, travels about seventy miles an hour. Now, if there was an express train to Jupiter, traveling every single minute of the time, it would take you over 500 years to get there. That is a longer trip than any human being is likely to have, for there are few persons who live to be even a hundred.

"It would take one 300 years at least to reach Jupiter going by the fastest flying machines we now have.

"I don't believe the trip would be worth while anyway as a pleasure excursion. You see, wise men tell us that nobody can live there because it is too hot. They think that down under the layer of clouds that covers Jupiter all the time, so that they cannot get a good peek at it with their telescopes, this world is still redhot, not quite so hot as the sun, but just beginning to cool off so that it is not comfortable for birds and fishes and animals and human beings to live on.

"When the time comes for little boys and girls to live there it is nice to think that they will not have to go to bed in the dark. Why? Because with five moons such as Jupiter has it is always a lovely moonlight.

"At first people did not know that Jupiter had moons. It was Galileo, the great star gazer, who found it out when he made a telescope.

"When he told his friends about the moons of Jupiter they laughed at him, but one by one as they took a peek through his telescope they agreed with him.

"There was one very obstinate fellow who had been studying the stars all his life and thought that he knew just as much as Galileo. He didn't study with a telescope and see things with his own eyes as Galileo did because he did not approve of new fashioned things. He thought old ways were best. He hinted that Galileo saw the moons through his telescope because the telescope was wrong, not the old books from which he studied about the stars.

"One day this obstinate old man died. Galileo spoke of him very kindly, but he could not help saying with a little smile:

"'I hope at last he saw the moons on his way to heaven.'"

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES AND VOTES FOR JERSEY WOMEN.

In tracing the widening course of a stream it is a very mistaken observer who sits down beside some back eddy and imagines as she watches it that the great river has been turned from its course or has lost its onward impetus. The thing to do is to keep one's eyes on the main mass as it broadens and increases; the figue applies to great movements as to great rivers—and to the suffrage movement—above all.

The Seventh Congress of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance has just closed in Budapest. At the congress there were twenty-seven nations represented. In only one of these twenty-seven nations have militant measures ever been used at all to forward the cause of votes for women. But the notoriety given to the cause by these methods for an international congress to take some formal action which it did by a resolution unanimously adopted the first day, stating that "the International Woman Suffrage Alliance was constitutionally bound to preserve impartiality in matters of national tactics, and that, whereas revolution and revolt had never been used as an argument against men's suffrage, the Congress protested against the policy of the opponents of woman suffrage, to whom the tactics of a minority of one country is a welcome pretext to withhold suffrage from the women of all countries. This settled in a tactful and dignified manner what had most seriously troubled a great number of delegates and sympathizers."

Another significant fact connected with this international congress is the breaking down of religious barriers as revealed by the testimony of delegates and the prominent men of various religious bodies active in the meetings.

"The Belgian delegate, Mme. Brigode, communicated the fact that in the struggle for universal suffrage in her country, the Catholic party, otherwise its opponent, has come out in favor of universal suffrage, provided women are included."

"The Rev. Benno Haypal, a preacher of Budapest, who assisted the Rev. Anna H. Shaw at the inaugural services at church, was a speaker at one of the meetings. Rev. Alexander Giesswein, president of the Hungarian Peace Society, member of the Diet, and papal prelate, was on the platform on various occasions."

The only criticism on the congress seems to be the superabundance of things to be said and of speakers to say them. Neither the allotted time nor ordinary strength of mind or body was sufficient unto the embarrassment of riches that the program offered.

Some three thousand men and women were present at these meetings, and every one of these will go his or her way to spread the valuable lessons that this congress taught.

Here in our own country the granting of suffrage to the women of Illinois is the most significant of recent suffrage news. Are the Illinois women going to use the ballot now that they have it? Indeed they are, so Mrs. Carter Harrison herself, assures us. And does this state of mind obtain only in the regions of Illinois, where much suffrage activity has heretofore been carried on? By no means. Here are the facts:

"Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCullough has called attention to the fact that in none of the communities where Illinois women voted last Saturday had there been a bit of suffrage work done. She declared that the women who got out and stood at the polls waiting an opportunity to exercise their newly acquired right had been prompted by the spirit of the times only.

"The towns referred to by Mrs. McCulloch are Libertyville, North Chicago and Wamac.

"None of those places has ever sent a suffrage petition, she said. They have never sent a representative down to Springfield or to Chicago when we were having suffrage meetings. To the best of my knowledge no suffrage worker has ever visited those places trying to interest women in the ballot.

"The women voted simply because the interest is compelling and gripping and they wanted to show the State of Illinois that when women have an opportunity to vote they will surely exercise it."

And now with this new power in their hands must we fear a fever of office-seeking among these women? It would seem not if one may rely upon this paragraph in a New York daily.

"When Miss Addams returned from Budapest last week the first question asked her was whether she would run for mayor of Chicago. Her answer was: 'There are better ways for women to use their new privileges than by leaping at office. There probably are offices better filled by women than by men. But for some years at least they should be allowed to seek us out.'"

We have so persistently been told that the woman voter straightway forgets her home and goes off on all sorts of political tangents that it is almost startling to see what has been happening in Chicago of late:

"At dawn one morning this week two women, and incidentally two new voters, went forth to beard Chicago's bugaboo—the Chicago Reduction Company, in its lair, and to see if their eyes would view the same pleasing sight that Mayor Harrison and members of the Council saw when they visited about a week before the plant which takes care of the city garbage.

"The two women were Mary E. McDowell of the University Settlement, head of the Industrial Department of the Illinois Equal Suffrage Association, and Lydia Smith, both members of the Woman's City Club.

"Unlike the city fathers who went to investigate the plant in automobiles and with due notice served as to their intention, says the Record-Herald, the women went via street cars and without notification.

"The Council Committee and the Mayor found a plant as clean as a kitchen, the floors washed and scraped and practically no odor.

"As a result the Mayor strongly advised an extension of the contract with the company and lauded the plant as 'ideal.'

"The women sat on a lumber pile adjacent to the garbage plant for several hours and watched the manner of handling the refuse. Then they descended upon the plant, and without being suspected of being information gatherers, took their time about investigating conditions within the plant.

"As a result of their findings, so contrary to what the Aldermen found, they determined to appear before the Council Committee on Finance and urge that the contract with the Chicago Reduction Company be extended not longer than December 31, 1914. The company is demanding a five-year extension, and has the city practically at its mercy because of dilitory tactics employed in solving the garbage question."

Here is what Miss McDowell has to say about garbage and votes:

"The garbage question is a woman's question because municipal problems press in around the very walls of the home," said Miss McDowell. "Before the next primary we are going to have every alderman go on record on this question and then when election time comes we can see what will ahppen. I will vote for the alderman who is willing to cut down the death rate of babies which is increased every year by bad garbage systems."

What a menace to Chicago such an unsexed woman will be!

NINETY CENT GAS
CHEAP, SAFE FUEL

With gas available at 90 cents per thousand cubic feet, there is no excuse for coal fires this weather.

Neither is there any valid reason for bothering with fuels that create dirt, dust or odors or cause unnecessary work in filling or cleaning stoves.

If you have a gas range, a lighted match makes your fire ready in an instant. A turn of a valve stops the expense as quickly.

The same way, if you have a gas water heater, hot water can be had any time at a moment's notice. Ranges and heaters can be had at low cost and on small monthly payments.

Glass Cutting.

The layman who is introduced to the mysteries of cutting glass for the first time is amazed at the amount of work that the workman does entirely by his eye. The first stage of the bowl which is to be cut finds it in a perfectly plain condition, not a scratch upon it and only a half dozen or more marks in red chalk, which mean absolutely nothing to the unpracticed eye. But to the workman they mean the whole pattern. Perhaps the dish is a salad bowl. The marks in chalk will run from the edge, five intervals apart, down to the center of the bowl at the bottom. In one of the divisions of the bowl thus marked there may be a little further marking in the shape perhaps of a diamond. This indicates the pattern into which the bowl is to be cut, and it will be repeated in each of the five divisions. All the intricacies of the design the workman has in his head, and they develop on the glass in a way which seems to the looker on absolutely marvelous.—New York Times.

TY COBB SUSPENDED.

Crack Player Out Indefinitely For Run-in With Umpire.

Chicago, July 16.—President Ban Johnson of the American league announced the indefinite suspension of Ty Cobb of the Detroit club for his run-in with Umpire Hildebrand during Monday's Athletic-Tiger game. Cobb had completed a double play in the ninth inning on a fly ball which he claimed to have caught and which would have ended the game, but Hildebrand ruled that the ball was "trapped," the decision allowing Philadelphia to tie the score. Cobb directed some heated remarks at Hildebrand and the suspension followed.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Who is considered the best pitcher in the International Baseball League? N. M.

Answer—Lefty Aitchison, of the Newark Indians, has the best hurling average. The fans in their respective cities would undoubtedly pick a member of their own pitching corps if it were left for them to decide.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Who was the first Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court? What State was he from and how long was his term? C. M.

Answer—John Jay, of New York, was the first Chief Justice. He served from 1789 to 1795.

Sporting Editor:

Query—With a man on first base the batter hits to the first baseman, who steps on the first bag, and then throws the ball to second. Is the base runner forced out by such a play?

Answer—He is not. The base runner must be touched and has a right to return to first base or go to second, provided he is not touched out.

Sporting Editor:

Query — Where and to whom should I apply for a widow's pension? X. D. F.

Answer—Write to Miss Frances Day, agent, State Board of Children's Guadians, 15 Exchange place, Jersey City, N. J.

PETS WILL PLAY THE ABSTAINERS AGAIN

Elizabeth Team Will Be Padded to Win on This Occasion, However.

Manager Ernest Doerflinger, of the Plainfield baseball team, has scheduled a second game with the Elizabeth T. A. B. nine to be played at the latter place next Sunday afternoon, and the contest has already started a round of enthusiasm in circulation in local baseball circles. It will be remembered that the first contest was won by the Pets who rung up a count of 8 to 0 at the hands of the abstainers but a repetition of the weilding of the whitewash brush is not looked for, in Elizabeth at least.

The county seat manager has padded his aggregation to win this trip and if his plans work out as he expects them to the Plainfielders will be a badly beaten crew next Sunday night. Roman, a New York club twirler who defeated the Lincoln Giants last Saturday afternoon, will do the mound honors for the home aggregation, while Cliff Randolph will throw them over for the Elizabeth batters to bite on as they did on the first occasion. Practically the same lineup as played in the first contest will be taken to Elizabeth by Manager Dorflinger on this occasion and he also expects to land the bacon.

FRESH AIR CAMP PLAYERS WALLOPED THE JACKSONS

Piling up a mountain of hits, the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp's baseball team scored a 16 to 2 victory over the Jackson Baseball Club at the camp yesterday afternoon. A feature of the game that stood out above all the rest was the playing of the Fresh Air Camp's twirler, both on the mound and at the bat. His all around good work was to a large extent responsible for the victory.

MORE LEAGUE TEAMS FOR BRUNSWICK FANS

Result of Last Sunday's Game Has Caused Driscoll to Sign Two More.

Another argument in favor of Sunday baseball has come to light in New Brunswick within the past week and the city officials of that place will probably make no further attempts to squelch the sport following the result of last Sunday's contest with the New York Giants. While there wasn't a record breaking crowd at the park to witness the contest it was large enough to convince Dave Driscoll that the baseball public would patronize big league teams if given the opportunity and he accordingly has signed the Cincinnati Reds to play next Sunday, and the Chicago Cubs will be the attraction August 17.

Since New Brunswick defeated the Giants' Yannigans last Sunday, the town has received an abundance of free advertising all along the National League circuit and as a college gains its publicity through its football teams, so New Brunswick gains the same thing through Sunday baseball.

PHYSICAL BENEFITS WILL BE RECORDED

Wriston's Plan Will Show Results of One's Summer Exercise at Parker Field.

Through a plan worked out by Professor Wriston, of the local playgrounds, at Parker Field, the boys of Plainfield are to be given an opportunity to learn of just what benefit their summer exercise has been to them. Strength tests will be held next week and again in the fall and through a careful card indexing system comparative tables will be made up for those who avail themselves of the offer. The plan, while new to Plainfield, is one which has been in operation in other cities and in many of the colleges in the country for several years and makes it easy to demonstrate the practical advantages of the playgrounds.

Mr. Wriston, in talking about the matter this morning, said that beginning next week any boy who wished to take the tests would be permitted to do so. Various feats of strength will be recorded and a couple of months later the boys will be given another opportunity to try the same "stunts," the result of the latter effort being put in a parallel column on the same card as the first one. By a continuation of the plan at frequent intervals in subsequent years any boy who wishes to take the trouble to take the tests will have an accurate record of his growth.

It is expected that the plan will develop a great deal of interest among the boys of the city.

RACING AT WINDSOR.

Windsor, Ont., July 16.—With the stables filled with the best horses seen on the Canadian circuit this year the first of the two summer meetings of the Windsor Jockey Club was opened today and will continue until July 23. There are five stake events on the week's program, with the Frontie Handicap at one mile and a furlong as the feature. The other events to be decided are the D. and C. stakes, one mile, $1,500; the Pontchartrain, six furlongs, $1,500; the Edenwold, for two year olds, five furlongs, $1,500, and the Detroit, for two year olds, five and a half furlongs, $1,500.

"JAKE" STAHL OUSTED AS RED SOX MANAGER

Following 'Misunderstanding' With McAleer He Quit the Champions.

"Jake" Garland Stahl was ousted as manager of the Boston Americans last night by James McAleer, president of the club. Though differences, amounting to a serious "misunderstanding" with McAleer, were rumored causes of Stahl's release, both manager and president insisted that the demand of stockholders for a "playing manager" was the motive. Stahl's leadership technically included yesterday's game. Today, Catcher William Carrigan will assume charge of the team.

Stahl's release was unconditional, and he will give up baseball as a business although retaining his Red Sox stock, devoting his time in the future to his banking business in Chicago. He has played few games this season, an injured foot keeping him out of the field. He managed the team from the bench.

JIMMY CLINTON HERE TO OPPOSE THE PETS

High Bridge Will Have Clever Heaver on the Mound Next Saturday Afternoon.

With the announcement of the return of the High Bridge baseball team to its former berth in the Central New Jersey League comes the rumor that the aggregation will be entirely rejuvenated and that it will be of the calibre that will be able to give battle to any of the other nines in the organization. Heretofore High Bridge has been a poor pennant possibility but the management has made arrangements to bolster up the combination to a large extent and players already mentioned in accordance with this process appear to be of the kind that generally play on the winning side of a ball game.

When the team comes to Plainfield to lineup against the Pets next Saturday afternoon it will have the unbeatable Jimmy Clinton on the mound, and it is therefore a foregone conclusion that the Dorflinger clan will have the hardest proposition of the season to overcome. Clinton twirled the game that beat the New York Giants at Amusement Park, New Brunswick, last Sunday afternoon and is considered the highest-priced twirler in the Metropolitan district playing semi-professional baseball.

ALLAH'S HUNDREDTH NAME.

Only the Camel Knows It; Hence the Sneer on Its Face.

The 999 widows of the mosque of Sultan Selim remind one of the ninety-nine names of Allah. These ninety-nine names, the Arabs say, are written in the palms of the hands of all true believers. The explanation is interesting, and even an unbeliever can test it.

The Arabic numeral 8 is written like an inverted V of the English alphabet. By holding up your left hand, with the thumb and fingers bent slightly inward the lines of the palms will be seen to take the form of a rough A1, which makes the Arabic figures 81. Placing the right hand under the left in the same way makes the figures 18 (1M). The total is 99.

There ought really to be 100, but the hundredth is lost to every creature but one.

Why does the camel wear such a supercilious expression? The heavy pendulous under lip and the snarling curl of the upper give an expression of sneering contempt which can hardly be equaled in the brute creation.

No wonder. The camel alone knows the hundredth name of Allah, and he won't tell it.—Manchester Guardian.

Consider the Dew.

The question is often asked, Does the dew rise or fall? Dewfall is as admissible an expression as sunrise or sunset. In both cases the expression is at variance with scientific fact. Meteorologically, the formation of dew is not accompanied by motion in the vertical plane, hence there can be no question of rise or fall. Under certain conditions of wind, cloud and temperature variants dew is produced. Warm air charged with moisture comes in contact with a cooler surface. When in this contact the heat is subtracted from the air and the saturation point for that temperature is reached, the moisture, which in the air has existed as water vapor, is condensed upon the cooler surface at the point of contact. The dewdrop, also good English, although false physics, has no existence in the air, but comes into being upon the surface bedewed. It does not fall nor does it drop.—Harper's.

Like a Hen's Too.

The back to the soilers know all about farming before they tackle it. But their hired men, having been born on the farm, are often silly about the real science of agriculture. Have you heard about what Danny Young's factotum told him about the new horse? No? Then listen.

"That hoss you bought has came," announced the servitor.

"Ah," cried Danny; "I'm glad of that! Is he right?"

"Fine."

"How are his teeth? We must always look at a horse's teeth. Are his teeth all right?"

"Fine! I have a bargain, by hen!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Lawrence Took His Time.

The dispute about an unfinished Lawrence portrait recalls a story of that painter's dilatoriness. The Lord Mayborough of that time, after much letter writing about the portrait of his wife and child, said he could wait no longer. Lawrence pleaded for more time; he was well forward with the lady, but the baby wanted finishing; could he not have one more sitting? "My wife will be happy to give you another sitting whenever you like," was the answer, "but the baby is now in the guards!"—Dundee Advertiser.

The Quest of Health.

"I suppose you take excellent care of your health?"

"No," replied Farmer Corntossel. "I tried every kind of medicine I could get hold of for awhile. Then I gave up and forgot about my health, and I've felt better ever since."—Washington Star.

Generous.

"Man, how you do look! Why, you have a full beard."

"Yes; I have raised it for a birthday present for my wife."—Elk.

SLAIN GIRL WED TO JOHNS, REPORT

Couple Married at Atlantic City, It's Said.

WORKING HARD ON JOHNS

Detectives Seek to Break Down His Story—Trying to Fix Identity of Five Men Seen Near Boathouse When Girl Met Death.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 16.—Authorities are investigating the report that Alice Crispell, the girl whose mysterious death in Harvey's lake has resulted in the holding of her sweetheart, Herbert Johns, was married to Johns at Atlantic City in June.

The district attorney refuses to affirm or deny the alleged marriage, and detectives who are at work on the case refuse to commit themselves on this new feature. Every effort is now being made to determine the identity of five men who were seen walking from the direction of the boathouse a few minutes after the girl is believed to have met her death.

The detectives are working on the theory that Johns met the four men reported near the boathouse by two witnesses who saw Johns walking with an apparently intoxicated girl and that after leaving her he joined this party.

Want Johns Held.

The detectives are working hard to break down Johns' story. Application will be made to have him released on a writ of habeas corpus, and they wish to find evidence which will support their request that he still be held.

No incentive for the death of Miss Crispell has been revealed by the second autopsy which showed that she had been drowned. Of the three theories which the autopsy showed to be tenable, one, that she committed suicide, is generally held to be inconsistent with the ascertained facts. The other theories are that she met death by accidentally falling into the lake or was thrust into the water after a quarrel with some person, only slight force being used.

The organs of the girl's body have been taken to New York by Drs. T. D. Lehane and J. H. Larkin, the principals at the autopsy, for chemical examination. The uses of embalming fluid may make it impossible to determine whether the girl had been poisoned or drugged before her death without chemical analysis. From a cursory examination of these organs those at the autopsy said that they believed that the analysis would not show either poison or drug.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND.

Mrs. Hannah Gold, Who Disappeared From Train, Is in Buffalo.

Buffalo, July 16.—Mrs. Hannah Gold, sixty-five years old, who disappeared a week ago from a New York Central train on her way from St. Louis to New York and for whom a systematic search has been conducted by the police and private detectives, was found at the house of a woman who had befriended her.

Mrs. Gold, according to physicians, is a victim of aphasia. She left the train here and wandered aimlessly about the streets until picked up by a chance acquaintance.

JOY RIDING COSTS A LIFE.

Four Others Hurt, One Maybe Fatally, When Motor Hits Tree.

Elgin, Ill., July 16.—Joy riding cost one girl's life and resulted in the injury of four other persons, one of whom is in a critical condition. All were residents of Elgin.

Miss Ruby Wood, eighteen, was killed and Mrs. Nellie O'Connor, twenty-eight, and Robert Costello, Earl Martin and Lillian Volp, all aged twenty, were hurt. The party was returning to Elgin from the automobile speed way when the machine crashed into a tree. Mrs. O'Connor may die.

TO LEARN HOW 36 GOT KILLED

Court Investigates Causes of Husted Mill Explosion.

Buffalo, July 16.—An inquest into the Husted mill explosion on June 24, which cost thirty-three lives, was begun before Judge Thomas H. Noonan in the city court. The state department of labor was represented by Secretary Schlladay. Findings will be used as the basis of a special committee investigation to draft new factory rules and regulations with a view of preventing grain dust explosions and other causes that led up to the Husted disaster.

Miss Inez Milholland, beautiful New York suffrage leader and lawyer, was secretly married in London to Eugene Boissevain, a rich Dutchman of Amsterdam, who was described as having no occupation. PRESIDENT SIGNS ARBITRATION BILL

Newlands Measure to Avert Big Railroad Strike.

Washington, July 16.—By the signature of President Wilson the Newlands bill, designed to broaden and strengthen the Erdman arbitration act for the settlement of disputes between railroad companies and their employees, became law.

The bill was rushed through both houses of congress in record time, and there is a confident feeling in Washington that as a result of this prompt action the threatened strike of trainmen and conductors on the eastern railroads will be averted through the submission of their grievances to the board of arbitration which is provided for in the new law.

Secretary Tumulty states that the president will nominate the commissioner of mediation and conciliation and the two present officers of the government who are to serve with him "as soon as possible, consistent with the importance of the appointments."

Among the persons whose names are being discussed for the position of commissioner of mediation and conciliation are Martin A. Knapp, now presiding judge of the commerce court; Dr. Charles P. Neill, former commissioner of labor, both of whom have been identified with the settlement of wage disputes under the old Erdman act, and William Lea Chambers, who also has served as mediator under the law.

The house acted first on the bill in accordance with the agreement reached at the White House conference yesterday. Debate on the two minor amendments proposed lasted an hour, but there was no real opposition.

Then the bill was sent to the senate, which also adopted the amendments and passed the bill without a roll call.

I. W. W. SECRETARY ATTACKS STRIKER

Knock Down, Drag Out Scrap Follows War of Words.

MISS FLYNN'S LAST TALK

Girl Leader Suffering From Abscess and Must Seek Vacation—Manufacturers Think Strike Is Slowly Petering Out—Leaders Deny Fund Is Short.

Paterson, N. J., July 16.—Ewald Koettgen, I. W. W. secretary for Paterson, and Charles Renkell, a dyer on strike, had a knockdown fight in the strikers' Water street headquarters. Renkell interrupted Koettgen as he was talking to a reporter and wanted to know why the I. W. W. leaders had been sending his eleven-year-old boy on errands. Koettgen replied that he didn't know anything about it, and then Renkell, besides calling him names, shouted that "the I. W. W. was a bunch of crooks anyway."

The fight was not in accordance with the best accepted ring rules. They puched and clawed and butted and wrestled until they fell in a heap and rolled on the floor. It took ten men to pry them apart. Koettgen's collar and shirt were ripped off, and he bled from the mouth.

Koettgen said that the assertion made in Lawrence, Mass., that there was shortage in the strike fund there was without foundation. He said that the general executive committee will prove this when the case comes to trial in Lawrence. The amount of the alleged shortage, he asserted, was spent in traveling expenses to get monies with which to carry on the Lawrence strike.

John Marone, a strike picket, living at 213 Clay street, Paterson, was fined $100 by Recorder Carroll for calling Mary Walsh, a millworker, a "scab." He could not pay the fine and was sent to the county jail for 200 days.

Miss Elizabeth Gurley Flynn made what will probably be her last strike speech for some time. She is suffering from an abscess on the upper right jaw and must take a vacation.

Big Bill Haywood is also likely to take a rest, and Arturo Ettor of Lawrence fame will probably take charge of the strike situation. The manufacturers believe that the strike is slowly but surely petering out.

NEWARK LINEMEN SHOCKED.

Two Men Hurt at the Same Time When They Touch Live Wire.

Newark, N. J., July 16.—Albert Reinhard, twenty-eight years old, of 153 Stuyvesant avenue, and Harold Hauck, twenty-four, of 118 Bowery street, two telephone linemen, were working about 100 feet apart on the top of two sixty foot poles on Ferry street, near Lentz avenue, when they were shocked simultaneously by taking hold of a live wire. The fact that the men were strapped to the poles by belts around their waists was all that saved them from falling to possible death.

While the men hung suspended other linemen rescued Hauck, who was badly burned on the left hand, but was conscious. Reinhard, who was unconscious, was rescued by the men of hook and ladder company No. 8, the truck having been called by a still alarm when the plight of the linemen was discovered. The public service pulmotor was pressed into service on Reinhard, and after he was restored to consciousness he insisted on being taken home. Both of his hands are badly burned. The accident caused great excitement in the neighborhood.

CAUSE OF PARK "SPOONING"

Jersey Preacher Attributes It to the Crowded Tenements.

Elizabeth, N. J., July 16.—Declaring that much of the "spooning" done on the benches of Jackson park, is due to the fact that young men and women of Elizabeth's tenement districts are crowded out of the parlors of their homes by bad housing conditions the Rev. S. H. Jones, pastor of the Fulton Street Methodist Episcopal church and a resident here for a few months, scored tenement districts as breeding places for moral, physical and mental defects, in a sermon delivered at the church.

"Visit a city park within a few blocks from here almost any night," he said, "and you will find many young men wrapped in the arms of young women. To me the sight is touching. Unable to entertain their company at home because of congested conditions, young women are driven with their friends to the park."

Girl Leaps Into Sea.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 16.—The authorities are investigating the mysterious attempt of a young woman to end her life by a leap from the second decking of the steel pier. She was saved through the bravery of two youths who were seated with a couple of girls near by.

Mrs. Woolworth Dead.

Scranton, Pa., July 16.—Mrs. C. S. Woolworth, wife of the well known five and ten cent magnate, died at the Hahnemann hospital following an illness of pneumonia.

MERCHANTS WANT ARTISTIC POLES

Willing to Share in the Expense of Ornamental Lighting Plan They Proposed.

SUGGESTIONS OFFERED

Councilmanic Light Committee Met With the Merchants Last Night—President Wm. Jeffery Presided at the Session.

A representative delegation of Plainfield merchants headed by William Jeffery, president of the local Board of Trade, met with the councilmanic light committee in the Plainfield Business College, last night, and while the merchants accomplished little along the lines of real progress they were given a clear understanding and definite insight into the committee's accomplishments to date. Mr. Jeffery acted as chief spokesman for the merchants and Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed gave the information sought on behalf of the Council members.

In opening the meeting Mr. Jeffery explained the reason the invitation had been extended to the light committee to meet with the business men and reviewed the agitation which has been prevalent in this city for better lights, for the past ten years. He said that the present day light charges are excessive and have been so for years past, and in making this statement he voiced the general sentiment of all of the merchants present. He contrasted the amount spent for lighting New Providence with the amount spent in Plainfield on a comparative basis. "This city now has a contract with the Public Service Corporation calling for the providing of light for the local streets at a rate of $15.50 for each incandescent globe and $100 for the arc lights," said Mr. Jeffery, "and I think it would be only fair to the taxpayers to publish a copy of the contract so that they could see just what they are getting for their money today and the increase that has been noticeable each year."

Mr. Jeffery also advocated the installation of ornamental lights in the business section and even went so far as to state that the merchants of the town would be only too willing to supply the ornamental posts and light the top light at their expense, as some have already done, if the city would light the remaining two globes on each pole. A majority of the business men substantiated Mr. Jeffery in his statements and A. D. Edgar, of the light committee demanded that Mr. Jeffery guarantee to the city that the merchants would be ready to meet this expense without exception. This caused a wordy tilt between Messrs. Jeffery and Edgar and the former finally assured the councilmanic committee that his version of the case was really a plausible one notwithstanding Mr. Edgar's misgivings which were openly expressed.

Corporation Counsel Reed explained, on behalf of the committee, that the men intrusted with the light question were picking their way cautiously and were not at present ready to arrive at any definite conclusions, because of the fact that the matter is still hanging fire and they do not wish to make a hasty contract. He stated that the public buildings were lighted free by the Public Service Corporation and a discontinuance of the present contract with this corporation wou'd not only mean a possible payment for public lighting but new poles would have to be installed thereby making a double row of light poles on the city's streets. He expressed the opinion that time is needed for consideration.

A. E. Force, on behalf of the merchants, said that in the event of the Common Council securing 32 candle power incandescent lights for the city's streets it would be lauded sky high and he said that lights having from 60 to 80 candle power were needed for the business section. Mr. Force advocated the installation of smaller lights and the placing of the poles closer together.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart, who accompanied the light committee, supported the Common Council in its work to date and lauded the members for the allegiance to the light question. He said that the Council agreed on a 32 candle power lamp and he believes that the Public Service Corporation is prepared to meet the city in a strictly business proposition and the conclusions will be known very shortly.

The meeting was held simply for the purpose of offering suggestions and the light committee were given a thorough understanding of just what the merchants wanted.

FUNDS ARE NEEDED FOR NURSERY WORK

The needs of the dispensary which was established at The Day Nursery early in June, are becoming more apparent every day. Thus far a large number of children, as well as mothers have been benefitted. The number of children there during June was 544 and up to July 15, there were 244, doubling the number of a year ago. There are now five little children kept at the Nursery day and night and another permanent boarder is expected this week.

The City Union of the King's Daughters which has charge of the work, is much pleased with the support given by the physicians as well as others. The expenses are heavy and the King's Daughters are in need of contributions with which to purchase milk and other supplies. Certain physicians visit the Nursery on specified days to consult with mothers regarding the feeding of their children and at present between ten and twelve different formulas are prescribed to meet individual needs.

Any one desiring to contribute money to this work can send the same to The Plainfield Press and it will be transmitted to the proper person. Heretofore, the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield have been generous in helping this worthy charity and the King's Daughters are hopeful that this season will be no exception to the rule in the past.

BALDWIN IS FREED ON LARCENY CHARGE

Richard Baldwin, of the borough, charged by Myers Compton, of Watchung, with the larceny of some hay on July 2 last, was acquitted at a hearing before Justice Snape in the Borough Court, yesterday afternoon. After the State's witnesses had been cross-examined by S. S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Swackhamer & Bird, who was counsel for Mr. Baldwin, the case was dismissed on his motion without the defendant or any of his witnesses being examined.

Mr. Swackhamer argued that there was no evidence whatever that Mr. Baldwin had taken any hay belonging to the complainant and the court promptly discharged the defendant.

According to the complaint of Mr. Myers he had cut some hay on his land at Watchung and left it alongside the road, and that Mr. Baldwin had helped himself to it. However, he was unable to substantiate the charge.

In the interests of Camp Endeavor, where New York boys are being entertained during the summer months, Fred C. Lounsbury, Jr., addressed the mid-week prayer service at Trinity Reformed church, last night. He described the environment under which the average East Side boy is reared, referring especially to the lack of opportunity for the youngster to develop along physical, mental and normal lines. He also spoke of the good work being accomplished by the institutional churches in the city. The work of the camp was described, showing the great good being done for the guests.

ABRAMS AND DREIER ARE NOT CONCERNED

Nieberg, Lessee of "Movie" Show Structure Building Where Strike is on.

There is no change in the strike situation at the new theatre now in course of construction on West Second street. The carpenters are still out and will not return to work, at least, until after the meeting of the Building Trades Council, tomorrow night, when the disputed points will be settled. The carpenters objected to laborers doing their work, hence the strike.

Morris Abrams and Harry Dreier, owners of the property upon which the theatre is to be built, want it known that they have nothing whatever to do with the present troubles. They leased the property to Benjamin Nieberg, of New York, for a term of fifteen years, but beyond that fact they are not interested in the proposition. Mr. Nieberg proposes to build the theatre and operate it when completed.

It was William Lunger, the local walking delegate for the various trades, that discovered that parts of the work were "unfair," and the union men were called off the job. It is expected that an amicable settlement will be reached tomorrow night.

ORDERED TO VACATE CONDEMNED HOUSES

Owner Promised to Remodel Apartments But Was Too Long in Doing it.

Notices were served on the tenants in the frame dwelling located on the westerly side of Arlington avenue, taking in Nos. 300 to 314 inclusive, to vacate the premises within the next ten days. This was a second order issued by the Health Board on the same house, the first one having been posted a month ago when the dwelling in question was determined unfit for human habitation having no water supply and no proper toilet facilities. Upon the promise of the owner, William N. Van Dyne, of New York city, to better these conditions and connect the houses with the city water supply and sewage disposal system, the Health Board lifted the notice and the tenants were allowed to remain in the apartments they then occupied.

To date the owner has made no attempt to remedy conditions, however, and the health department do not propose to wait any longer for him to take action. Notices were posted on each door this morning and the householders in the condemned apartments will have to move this time.

A rumor was circulated this morning to the effect that the Crystal Ice Company, of Arlington avenue, was trying to purchase the condemned property and erect a large plant for the manufacture of ice on the ground now occupied by houses but an official of the company stated that it had decided not to bother with the tract of land in question this morning.

SOME MINOR CASES IN BORO POLICE COURT

Thre cases were heard this morning in the borough court before Recorder Gano.

Joseph Leioretta was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred against him by John Ammon, of Duer street. Leioretta, it is alleged, had struck one of Ammon's grandsons who had been playing ball on a nearby lot. Sentence was suspended.

Jeremiah Hefferan, a fifteen year old boy, was arraigned for having taken part in the crap game raided by Chief Weiss on Sunday. Young Hefferan, however, had escaped arrest and went to New York on borrowed money, returning yesterday morning. Recorder Gano gave the boy a severe lecturing and told him to go out and earn the fine of $2 which had been imposed.

N. VanWinkle appeared for lacking a license for a dog which had been kept on his place on Somerset street. He stated he had given the dog away and was released under a suspended sentence.

Mexican Ambassador Ordered to Report to White House.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, July 17—President Wilson, it was learned today, would not authorize any reply to the foreign inquiry as to the attitude of the United States toward Mexico until he has gone over in the closest detail the situation with Ambassador Wilson. The President is awaiting the ambassador's arrival with impatience and it was declared today that he was sorry that he did not send for the envoy sooner.

EXPOSED CATTLE GOOD FOR EATING

Examination After Slaughter Proves That Animals Were Not Infected.

MEAT IS ON SALE HERE

Local Butchers Sell Meat Under Endorsement of State Health Board—Cattle Were Exposed to Texas Fever But Not Infected.

Following the slaughter of thirty-six head of range cattle in North Plainfield yesterday as a protection against the live stock and dairy interests of the State, it has become known, upon examination of the dead animals by the local health authorities, that the animals were not affected with the splenetic germ as stated by Dr. Herbert Lowe, State Inspector, First District of New Jersey, acting for the New Jersey Board of Health. The animals were condemned and ordered exterminated by him simply as a protective measure, they having been exposed to the splenetic or Texas fever en route to Ernest T. Hand's farm at Fanwood.

Before they were shipped from Kissimmee, Florida, the animals were dipped in a Standard Arsenal solution but they were exposed to the fever after this step was taken. An examination of the meat following the slaughter, showed that it was fit for eating purposes and a large amount of it has been purchased by Plainfield butchers and is for sale in local markets today. A report was circulated last night that certain Plainfield dealers were trying to dispose of diseased meat, but this rumor has no foundation, however, for the statement issued by the State Health authorities this morning was to the effect that the cattle were not deceased and the step was taken simply as a precaution.

WEAVERS COMPROMISE WITH SILK COMPANY

Returned to Work Yesterday Afternoon When Settlement Was Effected.

Fifty weavers employed by the Jersey Silk Mills on Chatham street returned to work yesterday afternoon following a settlement of their demand for a ten per cent. increase in wages which was announced to the company's officials when they walked out at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. While it is understood that a satisfactory agreement has been arrived at, the terms of the compromise could not be learned this morning, but it is known that the looms belonging to the firm are again in operation and the striking employes have returned to their duties.

At a meeting of the strikers held outside the factory yesterday morning they declared that they would not return to work for the Jersey Silk Company under any conditions and as soon as they received their pay would move to Philadelphia where work awaited them. They evidently reconsidered this statement, however, for the men returned without exception this morning.

FRIENDS PAID LAST TRIBUTE TO WM. JUKES

The funeral service of William Jukes, who died at the home of John Benner near Galvin's Park, on Sunday, was held yesterday afternoon at 200 West Second street. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, officiated. The services were in charge of the Elizabeth Lodge of Elks, there being a large delegation present. This lodge, as well as Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., sent beautiful floral tributes, and the employes of the Potter Printing Press Company sent a large tribute bearing the words, "Shop Mates." Another tribute came from Councilman W. L. Gloak, who was a fellow-employe of Mr. Jukes for many years.

The burial was at Hillside cemetery, members of the Elizabeth Lodge of Elks being the pall-bearers. At the grave the Elks conducted a ritualistic service. Mr. Jukes was one of the best known machinists in this city and for many years he traveled all over the country erecting presses for both the Walter Scott Printing Machine Company and the Potter Press Company. He was a native of England and came to this country when a young man. He had lived in Plainfield for thirty years. More recently he was employed in Brooklyn.

JUVENILE FRUIT THEIVES REPRIMANDED BY COURT

A systematic practise of stealing fruit by a number of youths caused James Pantazi, a fruit dealer, of 106 Park avenue, to make complaint. Yesterday he missed a basket of plums and detected seven boys ranging in age from thirteen to seventeen years busily at work making away with the delicacies. The boys were arrested and when arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, they were allowed to go on suspended sentences after receiving a severe reprimand from the court and Samuel S. Swackhamer who appeared for the defendants.

Several of the youths have been before the court on other occasions for petty offenses committed in the city and in disposing of the case the judge stated that a repitition of the offense would mean commitment to the county jail. All of the accused promised to let Mr. Pantazi alone in the future and they were allowed to go. The boys were Edgar England, 16 years old; John Ferra, 15 years old; George Martial, 15 years old; John Desbvo, 13 years old; Wesley McCormick, 17 years old, and William Garretson, 15 years old.

WIFE OF DEFENDANT PAID FOR WTNESSES

So Admits Mrs. John Hreanwize When Husband is Found Guilty.

After a deliberation of two days, following the trial in the city court, Judge DeMeza found John Hreanwize guilty of a charge preferred against him by Overseer-of-the-Poor Henry L. DeForest, and held the defendant this morning in bonds of $30 to pay the city $2.50 for the maintenance of a child in the city court. The offense with which Hreanwize was accused was a serious one, and involved several Polish people in this town and the court examined many witnesses at the trial.

The defendant put up a stubborn fight to prove his innocence and even after his sentence maintained that he was not guilty of the charge. His wife, until this morning, stood by him in his protests against the treatment he was alleged to be receiving, broke down after the sentence was pronounced this morning and made some startling statements when questioned by Judge DeMeza and Chief Kiely. The woman stated that she had a bank account amounting to over $100 when the trial was started but it had since decreased to almost nothing. When asked what other expenditures had been made aside from the payment of the lawyer's fees she said that she had paid the witnesses for her husband $2 a piece to testify in his favor and all of the witnesses examined had perjured themselves in his behalf.

SHE GIVES $500,000 TO BROOKLYN Y. M. C. A.

Interest Among Local Y. M. C. A. Workers in Unusually Big Present.

Announcement was made yesterday of a gift of $500,000 by Mrs. Roxy B. Smith, widow of William Van Rensselaer Smith, of the firm of Arbuckle Brothers, coffee merchants, to the Young Men's Christian Association, of Brooklyn. This gift assures the erection of the $1,000,000 new home, which the Central Branch of the association has planned for Hanson, Fort Greene and South Elliott places, Brooklyn.

There is considerable local interest in this gift for the reason that Howard McWilliams, of this city, was chairman of this branch of the association for ten years. He is now vice-president of the local association, and is vitally interested in the proposed campaign for the association's new building to be built there.

The land occupied by the present building, at Fulton street and Hanover place, and owned by the association will be sold. It is planned to name the new structure the "Clarence E. Smith Memorial Building." The building will probably be the largest and most complete of its kind in the world, occupying a plot 200 by 105 feet, and will be from ten to twelve stories high. Besides the usual equipment of Young Men's Christian Association buildings, there will be three gymnasiums, two swimming pools, a large running track, four handball and squash courts, turkish baths, fifty shower baths and other features.

William Van Rensselaer Smith, a short time before his death, directed that $100,000 be given to the First Presbyterian church, of which he was a member, and after his death his widow carried out the wish. Clarence E. Smith, the son, after whom the building will be named, was senior member of the coffee firm of Smith & Walbridge, of Manhattan. He died, February 16, 1910.

DAUGHTER WINS DIVORCE FOR HER

Mrs. Hattie Arrowsmith Obtains Decree and Justice Hendrick Explains Why.

FORMERLY LIVED HERE

Court Reverses Itself and Wife is Freed—Husband Had Filed Counter Charges—Woman Makes a Statement.

New York, July 17.—Supreme Court Justice Hendrick reversed himself yesterday, and granted Mrs. Hattie Wolbach Arrowsmith an absolute divorce from James Lawrence Arrowsmith. The justice at the same time gave Mrs. Arrowsmith custody of her two small daughters.

The justice on April 17 dismissed Mrs. Arrowsmith's suit and a counter suit brought by her husband. In his suit Arrowsmith charged that his wife had been entertained at her home by John H. Mortimer, of Plainfield.

In Mrs. Arrowsmith's complaint she charged her husband with being imprudent in his attentions to Matilda Gannon, employed in the Arrowsmith home at Plainfield. The chief witness against Arrowsmith was his eleven years old daughter, Eleanor.

Before the conclusion of the trial Justice Hendrick tried to reconcile the couple for the sake of their children, but failed In his last opinion Justice Hendrick says:

"After carefully reading the testimony submitted and after announcing a dismissal of the complaint and counter-claim on the ground that the parties were in pari delicto, I am convinced that there is not sufficient evidence to sustain the charges made in the counter-claim."

In explaining the justice's reversal of himself his secretary, Gabriel L. Hess, said:

"When Justice Hendrik prepared the first decision he did not have before him the transcript of the court stenographer of the testimony, and as he left the bench fresh from listening to the mass of evidence given, it seemed to him that each of the parties had made out a good case against the other.

"Later Mrs. Arrowsmith's counsel had the case re-argued by Gilbert & Wessel, her new counsel, and briefs were submitted. Afer reading the evidence again the justice concluded that while the circumstances surrounding Mrs. Arrowsmith's friendship with Mortimer were suspicious, they did not conclusively establish her guilt."

Mrs. Arowsmith, who is in comfortable circumstances, was with her two daughters yesterday at her home No. 519 West One Hundred and Sixty-ninth street, when her attorneys telephoned her that Justice Hendrick had decided to grant her a divorce. She was smiling and very happy when seen later by a reporter.

"Of course it makes us all glad," she said. "The victory is complete. I knew that Justice Hendrick was going over the minutes of the case again and of course confidently looked for a favorable decision.

"I can never thank Eleanor enough for the part she played in the case. It was her testimony, I am sure, that won for us, and she did it so bravely."

WILLIAMS TO SPEAK ON COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

There will be an informal discussion of the commission form of government plan at the Washington School, tonight, in which H. H. Williams, one of the strong advocates of the plan, will be the chief speaker. It was hoped to have someone present to speak for the negative side of the question, but the committee in charge of the Social Centre work has been unable to secure such a person.

Mr. Williams is expected to explain in a general way the features of commission government showing the advantages over the present system. This is part of the plan of education which the advocates of this form of government adopted and it is expected that a large number of citizens will be present to hear what Mr. Williams will have to say.

ATLANTIC CITY HOTEL BURNED

Hundreds Forced to Flee, Narrowly Escaping Death.

DAMAGE TO REACH $50,000

Fire Gained Great Headway Before Being Discovered—Started on Upper Floor and Burned Downward, Thus Making Escape Possible For Many.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 17.—More than 100 persons were driven from their rooms, losing practically all their personal possessions, in a fire which destroyed the Devonshire hotel, at Longport, near here, with a total loss of not less than $50,000.

Only the fact that the blaze started on an upper floor and worked its way downward saved the persons in the hotel from serious injury, if not death, in the flames. The fire had gained great headway before being discovered and a panic resulted when the persons in the house were aroused.

Running from their rooms, the crowds stopping at the hotel found the corridors filled with smoke and the blaze roaring and crackling above them. Without stopping to return for clothing or valuables, they hurried to the street in all stages of negligee.

In the meantime an alarm had been turned in, and the firemen arrived and carried their hose up the stairways. The blaze could not be successfully combatted from this point and gradually worked down through the halls and corridors, while the refugees were taken in and cared for by persons living in the vicinity.

The slow spread of the fire from roof to ground floor gave every one in the hotel an opportunity to escape, though the excitement was intense and several persons narrowly escaped injury. None of the lower corridors or stairways was cut off by the blaze, and a clear path was open to safety when the first alarm was sounded.

Aged Founder of Asbury Park Destroys Bridge Leading to Theater.

Asbury Park, July 17.—James A. Bradley, who founded Asbury Park, Bradley Beach and most of the resorts along the coast here, went up to the dune over Deal lake and started to tear down a temporary foot bridge the city is building to take the place of one he tore down a few days ago when he discovered a moving picture place at the end of the boardwalk in Loch Arbour. He and his workmen were pulling up planks when City Engineer Rufus Savage and Howard Hulick, owner of the Loch Arbour hotel, to which the bridge gave egress, tried to stop them.

Mr. Bradley is eighty-three years old and not very strong, but that didn't prevent him from trying to push Savage and Hulick from the bridge and from engaging in a scuffle with them when they resisted. He did not desist until two policemen were sent there. He departed before the police arrived and so avoided arrest. Hundreds of summer visitors watched the row from the boardwalk.

BOX FULL OF ALIMONY.

Jersey Man Pays Former Wife 400 Pennies.

Jersey City, N. J., July 17.—There was fire in the blue eyes of Mrs. Florence Louise Patterson of East Rutherford when she appeared before Charles H. Hartshorne, advisory master in chancery, to continue her suit for separation against her husband, Frederick H. Patterson, a Newark manufacturer.

"He is the meanest man!" exclaimed the angry young wife. "Why, he sent me my alimony, the first installment of $4 which you told him to pay me each week, and how did he send it? He sent me 400 cents in a box, and I was kept busy for an hour or more trying to see whether it was all there."

MASHER SENT TO JAIL.

Jersey Man, Arrested on Girl's Complaint, Didn't Have $100.

Paterson, N. J., July 17.—Miss Mary Walsh complained to Recorder Carroll in Paterson that John Marone of 213 Clay street had tried to flirt with her on the street and had made himself offensive. "Flirts aren't popular in Paterson," said the recorder to Marone. "I'll fine him $100 or send him to jail for 200 days." Marone did not have $100 and went to jail.

Dead at Age of Ninety-three.

Long Branch, N. J., July 17.—Mrs. Katherine Sickles, widow of George Sickles, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. M. Edwards, in Oakwood avenue, in her ninety-third year. She was the daughter of John and Jane White and was born at Deal. She is survived by eight children, twenty grandchildren and sixteen great-grandchildren. The deceased was a life member of the Baptist church and was the oldest resident of the city.

JOHNS, SLAIN GIRL'S SWEETHEART, FREED

Was Suspected of Murdering Alice Crispell.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 17.—Herbert Johns, the suspect held in connection with the death of his sweetheart, Alice Crispell, whose body was found in Harvey lake, on July 7, was discharged from custody by Judge Fuller, in the quarter sessions court here.

His freedom was brought about on a writ of habeas corpus sued out by his attorney, immediately after a coroner's jury had refused to hold him responsible for the girl's death.

After listening to the evidence produced by District Attorney John H. Bigelow, on the habeas corpus writ, the court declared that sufficient evidence warranting the remanding of Johns to jail, pending action by the grand jury, had not been presented.

Johns mother, immediately after her son had been freed, rushed to his side, threw her arms about his neck and hysterically dragged him from the courtroom to his home, refusing to permit him to talk to newspaper men.

Several witnesses produced by the state at the hearing, one of whom had never before appeared in the case, testified to frequent quarrels between Johns and Miss Crispell.

This testimony, added to the evidence that Johns and the girl professed to have been married, was urged as a reason why the suspect should be held in jail for the action of the grand jury.

NEW MENACE OF RAILROAD STRIKE

Arbitration Peace Plans Suddenly Held Up.

ROADS TO MAKE DEMANDS

Seek to Abolish Extra Pay and to Provide Tentative Cuts In Wages—Acute Situation Again Develops as Executive Committee Meets.

New York, July 17.—Serious complications developed in the railroad situation. The roads' conference committee of managers forwarded to the chiefs of the conductors and trainmen working on forty-two roads east of Chicago and north of the Ohio river a list of eight proposed changes in existing rates of pay and working conditions which the committee declares must be arbitrated when their employees' eighteen demands are discussed under the Newlands bill signed on Tuesday by President Wilson.

A. B. Garretson and W. G. Lee, representing the conductors and trainmen, when they received the demands of the managers last night, tersely refused to answer any questions, stating that the employees' committee of a hundred would go into executive session at the Broadway Central hotel and would then give out a statement.

The new move on the part of the railroads, according to those well informed on the situation, probably will prevent the arbitration of the questions involved, and a strike is nearer at the present time than since the trouble arose.

Demands of Managers.

First.—When a minimum day's wage is paid in any class of service it shall entitle the railroad to the full mileage or hours of service paid for.

Second.—In no case shall double compensation be paid.

Third.—For fixing the basis of compensation—namely, whether passenger, through or local freight, yard, etc.—the same classification shall be applied to all members of the train crew.

Fourth.—All monthly guarantees shall be abolished.

Fifth.—That consideration be given to a reduction of existing rates of pay of yard brakemen and of passenger conductors and trainmen on long continuous runs where there is an opportunity to make excessive mileage in a limited number of hours.

Sixth.—Employees in two or more classes of service on continuous duty or under continuous pay shall be paid the rates applicable to the different services performed with a minimum equal to ten hours at the lowest paid service.

Seventh.—On passenger and freight trains, where under extra crew laws additional men are required, the rate of pay for all brakemen shall be 20 per cent below rates established for brakemen on trains not affected by such laws.

Eighth.—The rates and rules awarded by this arbitration shall supersede rates and rules now in effect which are in conflict therewith.

Stormy Meeting Held.

Yesterday morning the union leaders asked the conference committee to meet them in the Engineering building. The purpose was kept secret, but it developed that at this conference the only discussion was over the letter sent to the unions a few days ago by the roads in which it was stated that "all questions and rates of pay and working conditions" would be gone into. The meeting was a stormy one, and the two sides parted more determined than ever to stand by their guns.

When the new demands of the railroads were explained to the leaders of the men they declared that the only questions which they would allow to be arbitrated by the new board would be their demands upon the railroads.

In every one of the eight demands of the railroads, if awarded in their favor, a substantial sum would be taken from the men.

FREIGHT CAR IN HER ROOM

Girl Rudely Awakened When Train Crashes Into House.

Chicago, July 17.—Miss Clara Marasske was sleeping the untroubled sleep of a carefree school girl when a freight car tumbled into her room.

The Marasske home stands beside a railroad embankment, and when a freight train left the rails several cars tumbled down from the tracks. One of them tore through the front of the house and stopped directly in front of Miss Marasske's bed. She was not injured.

ADVERTISING A CITY.

More than $32,000 was spent recently by the Atlanta, Georgia, Chamber of Commerce in advertising the attractions of that hustling southern municipality. The result of this campaign of publicity is a great object lesson for according to the report of the advertising committee every dollar used brought more than a dollar's worth of benefits. We cite this fact because our local Chamber of Commerce for a long time has been considering plans for making known to the people who exist in New York the advantages and attractions of Plainfield as a suburban residential community. The only obstacle at the present time seems to be a lack of the necessary fund with which to carry on an aggressive and intelligent campaign.

Many people consider that the city itself as a government should make an appropriation for this purpose, but it must be admitted that there is a wide divergence in the views concerning the right and wisdom of the municipality expending money in this way. Of course, the public spirited citizens could be called upon to contribute the fund to be needed, but it is a question whether the full amount could be obtained in this way.

As to the wisdom of booming a city, an exchange very rightly says.

"Municipalities everywhere could advertise with great advantage to themselves. In many sections "booster clubs" are even now doing the work, but the number of communities that would profit handsomely by waging the right kind of advertising campaign are legion.

"It is just as appropriate for a town or city to advertise its attractions and commercial advantages as it is for a merchant to tell the people about his business.

"There are many fine cities in the United States that are known to hundreds of thousands of people, but only by name.

"The nation should know more about these municipalities, more about their natural advantages and resources, more why capital should locate there.

"And there is no better way than by using the newspapers."

IT AMUSES US.

It is a certain confession of inferiority in news service when a contemporary is forced to stop its press in order that some of its readers may obtain important local stories appearing exclusively in the Daily Press. If this sort of thing should happen only occasionally it might be simply a small matter, but when it is done constantly it is an humiliating confession on the part of our contemporary. Take yesterday's local papers, for instance. The Daily Press contained two important exclusive stories, the best ones of the day. One of these told of a judgment of $153,000 being obtained against Richard Haden Hood, who has figured much in print of late, and the other told of thirty-six head of cattle just purchased by E. T. Hand being condemned by the State authorities and ordered to be killed that day. And as we say, our esteemed contemporary stopped its press after this paper was on the streets to insert these stories although they had to confine themselves to the general facts. It is all very amusing.

When the Mayor, the President of the Common Council, the Corporation Counsel and the Councilmanic lights committee accept the invitation of the merchants' committee of the Board of Trade to spend an evening conferring on the light problem, doesn't it go to show that the authorities and the people have respect for and confidence in that live-wire civic body?

It is gratifying to the friends of District Court Judge Isaac P. Runyon to learn that the Supreme Court in handing down opinions on two appeals taken from his court has sustained his decisions unreservedly in each instance.

The fellow who is always talking about mistakes of the philanthropists and misdirected charity work is usually the fellow who wouldn't give a five cent piece to save a starving child.

Now that Asquith has named Sir Robert Bridges to that highly important post of poet laureate we may expect an ode against militant surfrage in recognition of the honor.

That hot-headed Mexican, de la Garza, Jr., who says that his nation could keep up a fight against us for fifteen years, had better have a little talk with Aguinaldo.

And it wasn't a woman who sent that $625,000 pearl necklace through the mails.

Keep that bow-wow off the streets or Mr. Dog Catcher will take him.

FREEHOLDERS WANT STATE TO ALLOW MORE ROAD MONEY

The county road committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders has presented to the State Highway Commission the request for two-thirds of $93,000, the sum it cost to rebuild Westfield avenue from Elizabeth to Roselle Park; North avenue from Cranford to Westfield, and South avenue through Fanwood township and borough. Decision was reserved by Colonel Stevens, the State road commissioner, and his colleagues until today. It is expected that his reply will be received in time for action at the special meeting of the board.

The reason the State's assistance is being asked is on account of the $195,406 increase in motor revenues during the first six months of the current year over the same period in 1912. This money is to be apportioned among the various counties. Union county's share was fixed at $36,000. The amount the committee considered not proportionate to the proposed work, and a meeting was arranged for Tuesday, at which the committee was given a hearing by the commissioner at Trenton.

A FAMOUS OLD HOAX.

Keely's Motor, With Which He Baffled Scientists For Years.

The story of the Keely motor hoax will live long. Its interest will be enhanced by the preservation in the Franklin Institute of the model of the remarkable motor that Keely built to deceive intending investors and enrich its inventor until the fraud was exposed after Keely's death.

For twenty-five years Keely astounded eminent scientists of Europe and America with the machine that he claimed had solved the secret of perpetual motion. The inventor of this machine would start his device going, apparently, by playing a tune on a mouth organ. He convinced many clever men that he told the truth, and stock in the new concern sold freely.

To the day of his death Keely declared that his discovery was a genuine one, and it was only when the house in which the machine was placed was thoroughly overhauled that the colossal fraud was discovered. Keely had wired the walls of the building. He ran his machine by high pressure hydraulic power. When the wires attached to the machine were the subject of investigation Keely would file them to show that they were solid and could not be used for any purpose other than that for which they were attached.

Pieces of wire thus filed are to be seen at the Franklin Institute. The broken pieces show that the wires were hollow and that the inventor of the wonderful motor carefully stopped his filing short of perforating the center, which would have exposed the fraud.—Scientific American.

FORMATION OF COAL.

Conditions on Our Planet While the Process Developed.

What may be said to be the strangest period through which our earth has passed is the one that was responsible for the formation of coal. The planet is described as having been at that time flat and smooth as to surface and peculiar as to vegetation. The continents were just beginning to rise above the ocean and the land had not yet become dry. Mountain ranges had not arisen from the swamps, and the atmosphere was thick with fog. In this state of affairs there sprouted and flourished the plants which were later to furnish the world with its coal supply.

These plants grew as big as our largest trees, taking deep root in the morass and flourishing like the lush grasses in moist meadow land and developed into the strange shapes now found in tropic vegetation. The forest looked, the scientists assure us, like dense growths of weeds, rushes and enormous ferns. Some of them grew in the shape of cacti, having spines all over them. This kind of vegetation was very rich in carbon, which it derived from the warm, moist atmosphere. Then the millions of years rolled by, the forests of giant weeds were buried by deposits of earthy material and the chemical change took place which slowly changed them into coal. This process ceased with the carboniferous age, so that when the present supply of coal is dug out of the ground there will be no more.—Exchange.

Sealed Orders.

The custom of having warships sail under sealed orders arose from the desire of maritime powers to prevent the plans from becoming known to the enemy. In the American navy such orders come from the president and are delivered to a commander of a ship or squadron by a confidential messenger who knows nothing of their contents. Sometimes they are in cipher, but they are always sealed with the official seal of the navy department, and the package cannot be opened until the time marked on it, which is usually several hours after the hour of leaving port. By this precaution the newspapers are prevented from disclosing prematurely the movements which may be of the greatest importance, and the spies of the enemy are rendered useless so far as their ability to discover the secret of such movements is concerned.

Primrose For Memory.

The primrose of old was credited with a medicinal as well as a superstitious value. Even now in some country parts a decoction of primrose leaves is supposed to restore a failing memory, and in 1654, when Culpeper wrote his "London Dispensary," the primrose was regarded as an almost universal panacea, curing "convulsions, falling sickness, palsies, etc.," and strengthening "the brain, senses and memory exceedingly." And even the healthy did not disdain to eat it, for primrose pasty was once a popular Lancashire delicacy.—Family Doctor.

"Father," said the fair girl, "I have arranged a very important interview for you this evening. Harold is going to call on you."

"Not at all. He wants to look you over and see how you would do for a father-in-law."—Washington Star.

AMENDMENTS MADE TO CURRENCY MEASURE

Washington, July 17.—Two important amendments were made to the House Currency Bill today. The committee struck out the provision authorizing the Federal Reserve Board to designate as rediscountable paper notes or bills having a maturity of not exceeding four months and secured by U. S. Bonds or bonds issued by any State, county or municipality. The elimination of this provision makes such notes and bills prohibitive. The committee extended the term of rediscountable paper from 45 to 60 days. The commitee also struck out section fourteen of the bill authorizing the Federal Reserve Board to allow the reserve bank of the district to discount direct obligations of member banks. The committee discussed a proposition to place government deposits with the highest bidder.

BACKUS A PEACEMAKER.

Trenton, July 17.—Acting Chancellor John H Backes does not always allow himself to be bound by the usual rule of legal procedure. Tuesday afternoon he dismissed two lawyers from chancery chambers and then affected a reconciliation between a husband and wife, who had been engaged in litigation. The suit was that brought by Mrs. Eva Miller to obtain alimony and maintenance from Henry J. Miller, real estate operator, of this city. Mrs. Miller claimed that her husband is worth nearly $300,000 and has an income of approximately $30,000 a year. Notwithstanding his means, she said that her husband treated her cruelly and failed to give her sufficient money to properly maintain her position in society. Mr. Miller denied his wife's charges and asked for the custody of his two children, who have been with their mother in Hartford, Conn. In obedience to an order of the court the children were produced at the hearing. After the case had proceeded sufficiently to enlighten the court as to the nature of the dispute, the vice-chancellor took Mr. and Mrs. Miller aside and gave them a heart to heart talk. After the reconciliation had been brought about the court dismissed the suit of Mrs. Miller and awarded the custody of the children to the father with the understanding that his home should always be open to the mother if she wished to visit the little ones.

TO SETTLE SHORTAGE.

Rahway, July 17—An effort is being made, it is understood, to settle the alleged shortage of Charles H. Angleman, former city treasurer and auditor, amounting to $26,301,09 in his accounts, with the American Surety Company, his bondsmen. Mr. Angleman's friends have been working with this end in view since the shortage became known. Mr. Angleman's wife is said to be willing to turn over her property, which came to her through the estate of her father, Nelson P. Carpenter, and amounts to $19,000, consisting in part of a residence at Jaques and Hazelwood avenues, this city, and two cottages at Avon, with the provision that her husband will not be prosecuted.

DENTISTS' PRESIDENT URGES HARMONY

Asbury Park, July 17.—At the forty-third annual convention of the New Jersey Dental Association in session at the New Monterey here, President William R. Thompson yesterday declared that the "gentlemen's agreement" entered into last year at the Cape May convention had not been lived up to. He entered a plea for harmony between the two factions. At last year's session both sides agreed to drop the court cases then pending, the legal expenses incurred to be paid by each faction.

The fight in the association has been going on for the last two years and originated between the younger members and what is known as the "Old Guard." President Thompson, who lives here, was elected by the younger men last year.

The difference between the two factions grew out of the election of two sets of officers at the 1911 convention in Asbury Park. Dr. Thompson was elected president by the younger element, known as the "insurgents," while the "old guard" elected Dr. William W. Hawke, of Flemington. Soon after the double election the insurgents appealed to the Court of Chancery to determine the rightly elected officers, and the cases are not yet settled.

At the convention in Cape May last year the "insurgent" ticket, headed by Dr. Thompson, was elected without opposition, and at the time it was fully expected that the factions would be united before the present meeting.

To effect the reunion of the factions, Dr. Thompson urged the adoption of a resolution requesting the secretary to ask counsel for each side to drop the litigation now under way, and authorizing the treasurer to pay the legal expenses incurred in the fight by both sides.

In his speech Dr. Thompson did not intimate in any way which faction may have been at fault in not keeping the agreement entered into at the Cape May convention.

Dr. Thompson advocated legislation requiring candidates for State licenses in dentistry to have had nine months' practical experience in addition to the required course in theory. This practical work, he pointed out, could be done in vacations during the college course.

It was also reported by the president that the treasury is in need of funds. He suggested borrowing from the fund for indigent dentists to meet expenses. Six per cent. interest should be paid by the society, he added.

AN ASTOR ANNIVERSARY.

New York, July 17.—One hundred and fifty years ago today there was born at Waldorf, near Heidelberg, Germany, the son of a lowly butcher who lived to stand before kings, and to acquire the largest fortune ever accumulated by a single individual in America up to his time. The butcher's son was John Jacob Astor, the founder of the Astor family in America. He crossed the Atlantic at the age of 20 and from the day of his landing he was an American. At first he acted as an agent for a London firm that manufactured musical instruments and he became the first dealer in musical instruments in the United States. By degrees he worked into the trade with furs, serving apprenticeship with a Quaker in the business. Then began his difficult and trying journeys to buy furs, and his conflicts with the strongly established Hudson's Bay Company. He extended his trade to the western coast of America and sent his ships to all parts of the world. He invested his profits in national securities and in land in New York city and its immediate vicinity. His investments brought him large returns. His fortune at his death in 1848 was $20,000,000, gained largely through trust and faith in his adopted country and in the future greatness of New York city.

DECISIONS UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

District Court Judge Isaac P. Runyon Sustained in Two Important Cases.

Two decisions of local interest have been handed down by the Supreme Court during the past week.

Several months ago Charles DuPlessis brought suit against Peter Moine for damages for holding his personal effects, and sought damages. Prior to this, however, he had instituted replevin, and when Sheriff and Deputy Major attempted to attach the goods they had a thrilling experience. Judge Runyon decided that the replevin suit was an election of remedies and since DuPlessis was not successful in that suit, he could not bring another action for damages growing out of the same alleged trespass, and gave judgment for the defendant. The Supreme Court has [illegible] Judge Runyon's decision.

Peter and John Bently, of Jersey City, represented the plaintiff, and Prosecutor Pope looked after the interests of Mr. Moine, the defendant.

The other case is one of unusual interest to farmers. Last May, James VahNest brought suit against Fred Dealaman for damages for the death of a cow caused by eating green corn in the field of the defendant. VanNest claimed that he and Dealaman had agreed on a division of the line fence between their farms; that his fence was in good repair, and Dealaman promised to, and did send his men to repair his share of the fence, but they did it in such a haphazard manner as to make it of little use as a fence against cattle. That his cattle got through Dealaman's fence and gorged themselves on green corn in defendant's field, from the effects of which one died. The case was defended by S. S. Swackhamer, of Plainfield, who contended that it was VanNest's duty to kep his cattle on his own land at his peril, and the fence act gave no remedy in damages for cattle injured while straying from home.

Judge Runyon decided that the fence act imposed the duty to build a partition fence and the failure of Dealaman to do so was such a breach of duty as entitled him to sue. He refused a non-suit and the jury rendered a verdict for plaintiff for $50. The defendant appealed and the case was argued in the Supreme Court by Winfield S. Angleman, and Swackhamer & Bird for Dealaman, and by F. A. Pope for VanNest.

In the opinion written by Bergen, J., the Supreme Court holds: "Where a land owner is under the duty of erecting and maintaining a division line fence, and because of a neglect of that duty his neighbor's cattle wander upon his land and thereby suffer an injury which is the consequential result of the non-performance of that duty, an action therefor accrues to the owner."

That the fence act "imposes on owners of lands lying adjacent an obligation and duty to maintain each a just proportion of a division fence except such persons as shall choose to let their adjoining lands lie vacant and open." And affirmed the judgment of the District Court.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO GATHER FOR RCONCLAVE

Denver, Colo., July 17.—Three weeks hence Denver will be the Mecca of tens of thousands of the most prominent representative citizens of the United States. From every part of the continent, from far-away Maine and Florida, from California and Oregon and from all the commonwealths between, the representatives of the Knights Templar will gather for their thirty-second triennial conclave.

For more than a year the local committee of reception and entertainment, composed of the most prominent and active Templars in this jurisdiction, has been preparing for the advent of the mighty hosts that will sojourn in this city during the second week of August. Today announcement was made of the practical completion of every detail of the conclave program. As in the past, the big fetures of the week will be the great street parade and the competitive drills. Dinners, receptions and balls will figure in the entertainment program, along with numerous sightseeing trips to the many points of scenic interest in the vicinity of Denver.

CELEBRATES 107TH ARREST BY ESCAPING FROM JAIL

Washington, N. J., July 17.—When "Rattlesnake Bill" Van Horn was thrown into the "calaboose" Monday night, after he had emitted much oratory on the highway, it was the 107th time that a jail had sheltered him. "Bill" celebrated his anniversary yesterday by escaping from the jail, taking the cell lock along with him as a souvenir.

Borough Marshal C. N. Shrope thinks "Bill" is an ingrate. He went to the lock-up at noon to release the prisoner, intending to take him before Justice of the Peace J. R. Lindaberry, who was to have reprimanded "Bill" and start him out of town, with a warning not to come back. Shrope found that "Bill" had waived the formality of a hearing.

PERSHING THE HERO IN MOROS CAMPAIGN

Bell Highly Praises the Brigadier in Philippines for His Effective Work.

Washington, D.C., July 17—Major General Bell, commanding the Philippine department, warmly praises Brigadier General John J. Pershing for the manner in which he conducted his campaign to disarm the Moros. It is not the first time that Gen. Pershing has been "mentioned in despatches," and when the history of the Philippines comes to be written it is probable to the fighter from Missouri will be given the credit for doing the biggest share of the "rough work" incident to the pacification of the islands.

General Pershing has been fighting in the Philippines the greater part of the past ten years. In 1906 he was singled out by President Roosevelt in one of his messages to Congress for his distinguished services in his fights against the Moros in the Lake Liano country. There, his senior officer being incapacitated the command of battalion devolved upon him. Captain Pershing was away from civilization and almost cut off from communication with the outside world. For seven months he kept open his base of operations, supplied his own subsistence and, with his men, fought every day and part of the night. He started at the lower end of the lake and fought clear around its circumference, exterminating hostile natives or making peace with their chiefs. Gen. MacArthur, then in command of the Philippines recommended him for promotion to brigadier general as the only recognition commensurate with his actual services. Thereupon the President jumped Captain Pershing over the heads of 862 officers of higher rank and made him a brigadier general in the regular army. Except in the case of General Funston, who was made a brigadier from the volunteers after his capture of Aguinaldo, there is no other instance upon record where bravery and efficient service have been so promptly and so extensively rewarded.

The latest despatches from the Philippines indicate that the recent fighting has been as severe as any that marked the early career of Gen Pershing in the islands. For days the American troops have been fighting in the mountain fastness with savages sometimes numbering between 5,000 and 10,000. Hand to hand combats have been frequent, in which not a savage surrendered, and the encounters were ended only by escape or death.

With a Package of Dye.

A package of dye and a little common sense—and you can work wonders with your old and faded clothes and house furnishings. Remember, when you go about dyeing, that different materials require different sorts of dye and different methods of applying it. If you buy the reglular package dye, be sure to get the sort for wool and silks, or the sort for cotton, according to the material you have to dye.

Stiff silk does not dye easily. It often cracks in the process and is therefore useless. However, in some cases, even taffeta silk can be dyed successfully; and if the dress to be dyed is useless as it is it is worth while trying to dye it. Messaline and soft silks and crepe de chine usually dye satisfactorily.

Feathers and Chiffon.

An easy successful way of dyeing chiffon, feathers, silk stockings, laces, artificial flowers and other odds and ends of finery is to mix oil and gasoline. Get enough gasoline completely to cover the article to be dyed and then mix oil paint of the color wanted, drop by drop, with the gasoline until the depth of color wanted is obtained. Mix it until the color is smooth, and then dip the articles to be dyed in it, and hang them in a current of air to dry. Do not wring them dry. The gasoline evaporates quickly, and wringing would streak the dye.

If you have an old pair of canvas slippers—or a new pair, for that matter—that you want to color, dip them in this gasoline dye. They color easily.

Rag Rugs.

Hit-or-miss patterned rag rugs are attractive; but even more attractive are those of single color, or two colors well blended. One way to get good results from dyeing rag rugs is to dye the rags before they are woven—some one color, others another color for the border. Another way to dye rag rugs is to have them woven in any colors you have on hand—bright red, for instance, with yellow for the border, or blue with a border of white. Then dip them into a dye of some neutral color—olive green, gray or some shade of tan or brown.

Remember, in dyeing anything, that to get the best results the things that you dye must be free from dirt. Boil them clean in a boiler of water and then rinse them thoroughly in clear cold water.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Jos. Smith, Mrs. Wm. M. Sandford, Jr.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

In a report recently made public, Dr. Maximilian P. E. Groszmann, of North Plainfield, of the United States Bureau of Education, stated that children of exceptional mental brilliancy are even greater dangers to society than those defective or abnormally stupid. As a remedy for the uplift of misguided juveniles, Dr. Groszmann advocates united effort on the part of educators, medical men, social workers, charity organizations, welfare societies and other agencies.

Boys know better than they do, often. So do Senators and Governors know better than they often do. Boys should have the sympathy of all good men when their immature judgment, unschooled will and thoughtlessness are taken into account. Let the boy who has "been caught" not despair. Wipe off the shame; pray heaven's pardon, go on to do well. When one thinks how heavy the loads of life become, the needless load of disgrace from thirteen years old onward makes a man's heart ache to think of. There is no form of Christian Endeavor work which deserves fuller approval than the Juvenile Court and parole for children.

Too many parents feel that because of modesty, sex subjects should not be discussed with their children. This is where the greater mistake is made. Many parents are not fully advised themselves in matters relating to sex hygiene. This is all the more reason why the subject should be earnestly and seriously discussed in the school room. Books on the subject can be obtained in the Public Library of our own city.

At a general session of the National Education Association in Salt Lake City Lee F. Hanmer, of the Russell Sage Foundation, gave striking facts about school evening centres as a paying community investment. He pointed out that students of corrective agencies claim that eighty per cent of all misdemeanors occur between the hours of six and eleven at night, and showed how the school-house evening centre is being made a strong counter influence by occupying this free time of the people with wholesome activities. He gave in detail the money cost of this new line of educational work, which totalled for the year throughout the United States 338 centres operated at an expense of $139,535.72, an average of $412.74 per centre. This is what it cost—what does it pay? The Playground Commission is probe done is to point out some of its products, the value of which to the individual concerned and to society every one may judge for himself. A tough dance hall in New York city was gathering in the young people of the neighborhood in which it was located. The Board of Education opened an evening recreation centre in one of its nearby schools and sent trained recreation leaders there to organize and promote its activities. After the centre had been in operation for some time the superintendent dropped in one evening when a social occasion for young men and women was in progress. He found three hundred young people having a delightful time under wholesome and elevating conditions, using their own school house. On leaving the centre he stopped in at the nearby dance hall that had been the neighborhood menace and found instead of a crowded ball room, just fifteen couples on the floor. Plainfield is rapidly taking its place as one of the foremost cities in recreation work. viding up-to-date playgrounds for the ing up-to-date playgrounds for the children and under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee the Washington School is open every night in the week for some form of public recreation.

There was a time when the heavy toll taken by death among babies was looked upon as a dispensation of Providence. But since it has been shown that careful mothering, intelligent care, healthful surroundings will cut the death rate almost in half, people are gradually beginning to realize that it is unjust to blame Providence for conditions that are obviously man-made. The next step has been to improve conditions and safe-guard the health of future citizens.

The Seventeenth Child-Welfare Conference recently held in Boston is fully reported in the Child-Welfare Magazine for July. No one could read the report without being convinced of the wonderful efficiency of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent Teacher Association and be filled with enthusiasm for the work in our own State. Copies can be obtained for ten cents from the Child-Welfare Magazine Co., 227 S. Sixth street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Thoughtful, modest women cannot walk through the streets of our large cities today without having their sense of propriety and decency shocked by many costumes commonly used at the present time. Can it be that good women are such slaves to fashion that they will use dresses that cause every passerby, whether man or woman, to turn and stare, always with some unfavorable comment? The immodest costume is too often supplemented by a rouged face. That this style of dressing has been adopted by women whose position and character should warrant a better example is one of the worst features of the present time. It is time for American women to be independent of the mandates of fashion-makers, when by following them one must sacrifice comfort, modesty and beauty. There is need for an educational propaganda by good women on the subject of dress. The schools have already begun it. At the School of Household Arts in Boston the girls made their own graduating dresses, choosing their own designs and spending within $5 for them. In California there are schools where but $2 is allowed for the graduating gown. The school has set the example for the home. It is for mothers to amplify and enlarge the school training by definite teaching as to what constitutes well-dressed women. Suitability of the dress to the occasion, modesty, comfort, beauty are fundamental requisitcs of the well-dressed woman.

Vacation should not mean three months of idleness. It should mean change of occupation. Of course every sensible parent will choose to have the children out doors as much as possible. Now is a fine chance for mothers to give lessons in home-making that every boy and girl should have. Cooking is a fine art which interests boys as well as girls, especially if it is taken in preparation for a camping trip or a picnic. Bread making should be taught to both boys and girls. In Cornell University a number of young men are taking the Domestic Science Course. Let the boy make bread one week and the girl the next. Let each child have some part in the preparation of at least one meal each day, until the whole preparation and service of a meal are perfectly easy for them. When they have learned, do not make it a drudgery for them. Bed making, preparation of vegetables, the care of a garden, are all arts children will enjoy and understand.

Some Cookery Suggestions

BEEF STEWS.

DINNER MENU.
Beef Stew With Dumplings.
Mashed potatoes. Peas.
Dandelion and Radish Salad.
Strawberry Charlotte. Coffee.

STEWS are nice if dumplings are added to them. Excellent dumplings may be made by taking one egg well beaten and adding to it a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and flour enough to make a fairly stiff batter. Flour, salt and baking powder must be sifted together.

The stew must be boiling when the dumplings are dropped in. Let boil for twenty minutes after that, then remove from over the fire and set on back of range until ready to serve.

Beefsteak For This.

English Stew.—Take two pounds of cheap beefsteak, one large carrot and turnip, two onions, one ounce of butter, a bunch of herbs, salt and pepper, half a gill of vinegar, half a gill of water or stock and two tablespoonfuls of flour.

Cut the meat into neat pieces about two inches square. Prepare the vegetables and cut them into rings or dice.

Melt the batter in a pan, add the vegetables and stir them about in the hot fat for ten minutes. Then add the meat, herbs, one small teaspoonful of salt, a dust of pepper and the vinegar and stock. Cover tightly and simmer very gently for at least three hours.

Serve with a ring of the vegetables round the dish, the meat in the center and the gravy poured round after it has first been thickened by mixing the flour smoothly with a little water, adding it to the gravy and then allowing it to boil well.

Use Any Cheap Cuts.

Yankee Stew.—Take any piece of beef good for stewing, cut it into small pieces, slice two or three large onions and put them into the stewpan with two ounces of butter or good beef dripping. When melted dredge in some flour, add the meat (also dredged with flour) and enough water to keep it from burning. When the gravy has thickened fill up with boiling water, let it come to a boil gently, skim the pot well, then add a spoonful of mixed spices and a bay leaf or two. Set the pan by the side of the fire to stew slowly for a couple of hours. This dish may be thickened, like Irish stew, with potatoes or it may be served with the addition of fried chopped vegetables.

Sonny Rides on the Wheelbarrow.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Little Sonny Helps With The Grass.

PERHAPS the lawn mower is heavy on a hot evening, as daddy said, but Jack and Evelyn merely chuckled when he complained because they had not come out to help him. They knew that daddy would not trust that lawn mower to either of them. When Evelyn hinted this to him daddy wrinkled his forehead in a funny way he has and said:

"But then you know you might have helped some. Sonny helped, and he is only two years old. If a little fellow like that could help his daddy, why couldn't you help me?

"It was one evening not long ago that I passed the house where Sonny lives. We are great friends, and when I saw him trotting along with a tin pail hanging over his arm I asked:

"'Whither away, Sonny boy?'

"Sonny lifted his blue eyes to mine and replied:

"'Dess tuttin' dwass.'

"Now, there are times when your daddy has trouble understanding Sonny, and this was one of the times.

"'What did you say, Sonny?' I asked again.

"I inquisitively peered into the pail Sonny was carrying, and, lo, it was half filled with grass.

"'Oh, you mean you have been cutting grass!' I said.

"'Less,' lisped Sonny, with a grieved air; 'tuttin' dwass. Me help.'

"When I reached Sonny's lawn I saw Sonny's daddy out there with the lawn mower and his mamma with a rake gathering the grass into little heaps.

"I stopped to chat, and Sonny trotted up with his pail, now empty. You would have thought from the air he gave himself he was doing all the work himself.

"'More dwass,' he said as he dived down into one of the little heaps of green and then, handful after handful, piled it into the pail.

"Gypie frisked around the pile, poking her nose into the midst of it and now and then scattering the grass playfully with her fore feet.

"'Naughty Gypie; mus' he'p tut dwass,' Sonny would warn the dog.

"'Sonny wants to help,' his mother explained, 'so I am raking up the grass in heaps. Then he can carry it away in his pail. You would be surprised to see how much he has carried over there.'

"I went across the road and looked at a little heap of grass on a vacant lot. By patiently plodding back and forth the little chap had carried it all over there. Later, when the lawn was mowed, his father would get out the wheelbarrow and, piling the cut grass into it, give Sonny a good time riding to and from the vacant lot. And I think little Sonny earned his rides. Don't you?"

When making the dots as eyelets first encircle by running a thread around the outline, pierce with a stiletto and work closely over and over. To make the ovals and leaves as eyelets run a thread around the stamped figures, then cut a slit lengthwise, then crosswise, push back the material and work closely over and over.

When making the leaves of solid embroidery pad the stamped figures by darning backward and forward lengthwise and then cover closely with over and over stitches worked in the opposite direction from the padding. The stems may be outlined.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Would you be kind enough to state the names of the three best sprinters, three best running broad jumpers and two best standing broad jumpers in this town and tell me to what club each belongs. J. B. C.

Answer—Because of the lack of open competition in Plainfield this matter is a difficult one to determine but I have kept in close touch with most of the athletes and can venture my own opinion which, while not based on records, will prove some where near correct. The three best sprinters are James Nash, of Leal School; William Peacock, of the Plainfield High School, and John Gates, of the Imperial A. C. of Orange who lives in this city. The three best running broad jumpers are Morris Mann and Arthur Van Zandt, of the Plainfield High School, and James Nash, of Leal School. The two best standing broad jumpers are Morris Mann, of the Plainfield High School, and Jack Fritts, of the Pastime A. C., who lives in this city. Nash at present is an invalid, however, due to an accident and if you are thinking about immediate competition you will have to look elsewhere for an opponent.

Query—How long will it take to go from the Morris Canal, starting at Branch Brook Park, Newark, to Lake Hopatcong, by canoe? Must one have a permit. W. S. E.

Answer—You ought to be able to do it in one day and you need no permit.

Query—What is the value of a half cent dated 1832? C. G. H.

Answer—You're just ahead one year, old top. Had your coin been dated 1831 you could have collected from ten to fifteen dollars, but the 1832 coin is worth just one-half cent.

OLD TIME BASEBALL RULES INTERESTING

Those of Sixty-five Years Ago Would Not Fill a Page in Present Code Book.

It will no doubt be interesting to the baseball fans of today to compare some of the rules of sixty-five years ago to those of the present time. When the rules were first framed, about 1845, they would not fill one page of the baseball guide of today. The Knickerbocker Club, of New York city, was the first one organized to play the now national game of baseball, and was the one from which the succeeding clubs derived their rules of playing. The organization bears the date of September 23, 1845, when playing rules were adopted, which are given below, and present a curious contrast to those now in vogue:

1. The bases shall be from "home" to second base, forty-two paces, and from first to third base, forty-two paces, equi- distant.

2. The game to consist of twenty-one counts, or aces; but at the conclusion an equal number of hands must be played.

3. The ball must be pitched and not thrown, for the bat.

4. A ball knocked out of the field, or outside the range of the first or third base, is a foul.

5. Three balls being struck at and missed and the last one caught, is a hand out, if not caught, is considered fair and the striker bound to run.

6. If a ball be struck, or tipped and caught, either flying or on the first bound, it is a hand out.

7. A player running the bases shall be out if the ball is in the hands of an adversary on the base, or the runner is touched with it before he makes his base, it being understood, however, that in no instance is a ball to be thrown at him.

8. A player running, who shall prevent an adversary from catching or getting the ball before making his base, is a hand out.

9. Three hands out, all out.

10. Players must take their strike in regular turn.

11. All disputes and differences relative to the game to be decided by the umpire, from which there is no appeal.

12. No ace or base can be made on a foul strike.

13. A runner cannot be put out in making one base, when a balk is made by the pitcher.

14. But one base allowed when a ball bounds out of the field when struck.

JOHNSON VEXED AT M'ALEER'S ACTION

American League President Surprised When Informed of Stahl's Release.

Ban Johnson, president of the American League, who left New York last night for Detroit, appeared both surprised and vexed to learn that Jake Stahl had been relieved of the management of the World's Champion Red Sox by President M'Aleer of the Boston club. Commenting on the release of Stahl, Johnson said:

"I deeply regret that Mr. McAleer acted so hastily. There was no reason for relieving Stahl of the management of the Boston team at this time, and he was entitled to every consideration the Boston club, and the American League could give him. Stahl won the World's Championship for the American League last fall, yet in spite of that fact he was released by Mr. McAleer in mid-season and right in his home city, Chicago.

"Stahl cannot be held accountable for the poor showing of the Red Sox this season. Gardner, Yerkes, Wagner, Lewis and Wood have all been out of the game on account of injuries, and Stahl himself was unable to play on account of an injury to his foot. I feel that the American League may be sharply criticised for Mr. McAleer's hasty and ill-advised action, and if I had been in Chicago yesterday Stahl would not have been let out in such a fashion.

"If it were absolutely necessary to put some one else in charge of the Red Sox it could have been done at the close of the season. As it is, Stahl has been humiliated in his home city, and the American League has been placed in the unenviable position of dropping in mid-season a manager who won the World's Championship last fall. Stahl was an honorable and competent manager, and was highly esteemed in our league."

CENTRAL LEAGUE'S DIFFERENCES SETTLED AT SOMERVILLE MEETING

A reduced guarantee was advocated at last night's meeting of the Central New Jersey Baseball League held in Manager Jack Torpey's office in Somerville, last night, and the league, which has recently been in a state of disruption, will be continued under these conditions. High Bridge was willing to continue under such conditions and the regular four-team circuit will finish the league's schedule in the event that no further obstacles present themselves.

It was stated at last night's meeting that the league was trying to cater to local talent, players in the cities which are represented in the league being the ones to secure the preference on all occasions, but as it now stands the Somerville aggregation is the only one made up of strictly local talent and the Somerville fans are boastful of this fact. While Somerville has its own players the support in the Somerset county seat has not been what it ought to be and it was announced last night that in order to continue in the league the team must be accorded much better support than it has heretofore been given in order to make the club a success. Somerville is now tied with the Plainfield team for first place in the league and enthusiasm will no doubt wax high as a result of this mid season deadlock.

Dunellen will play at Somerville next Saturday afternoon and High Bridge will come to Plainfield as a rejuvenated club. Those present at last night's meeting were Robert Bogardus, of Dunellen; Jack Torpey, of Somerville; Ernest Dorflinger, of Plainfield, and W. M. Williams, of High Bridge.

COLORED TEAM WILL PLAY SCOTCH PLAINS

Manager Pete Simmons Willing to Take Any Chance With Team He Signed.

Manager Pete Simmons' Royal Colored Giants are the attraction booked for Scotch Plains next Sunday afternoon to do battle against Manager Joe Albert's squad of huskies, and the dusky aggregation will be padded considerably when it takes the field against the nine that trimmed Plainfield last Sunday afternoon. Simmons has to win this contest in order to get a return booking at the Plains and he says that his team is due to take an awful drubbing out of the Sunday ballists of that place.

The Royals and Scotch Plains have always been the greatest of baseball rivals and a contest announced between the veteran foes always awakens a large amount of interest in local baseball circles. Simmons has the reputation of having strings on the best colored material in the metropolitan district and his ebony aggregation will no doubt give the Albert's proteges a stiff battle.

PRINCETON WILL GET OLD FRIGATE'S BELL

Washington, July 17.—Princeton borough will be allowed to keep the bell of the historic frigate "Princeton," which has figured in the centennial celebration of the borough. With the consent of the Navy Department and Congress, the old bell from the ship commanded by Commodore Stockton, will be given a place of honor in the local historical museum in the college town.

When the bell was sent from Philadelphia to Princeton for the celebration, boroughites asked Senator Martine if it could not be left there permanently. Secretary of the Navy Daniels was willing, but Senator Martine found an act of Congress would be necessary to carry out the project. So he introduced a bill to that effect, and Tuesday afternoon the Senate passed the bill. Under the Democratic caucus rule, permitting only certain legislation to be considered, the measure will have to be agreed to by the caucus before it can pass the House, but no opposition is expected to such a program, and President Wilson will probably have a chance within a few days of signing the law presenting the Princeton's bell to his home town.

SPRINKLES PEPPER IN HIS STATEMENT

Wittpenn Says Message to Public Will Be Emphatic and Strong.

Jersey City, July 17—Former Mayor Wittpenn was at his headquarters in this city yesterday and after a conference with Warren Dixon and other of his political advisers announced that he would be ready in a day or two with his statement setting forth why he should be the choice of the Democrats for governor next fall.

The statement was to have been made public last week, but the former mayor purposely delayed it until the decision of Attorney-General Wilson on the quo warranto proceedings to oust the present commission government administration had been announced. He believes that the action of the attorney-general in permitting Mr. Dixon to institute the proceedings is a big boost for his candidacy.

"My statement," said the former mayor, "will be very emphatic and very strong. In fact some of the passages are so strong that friends of mine have urged me to change it and make them less emphatic, but this I have refused to do."

JERSEY CITY LIQUOR MEN FACE FEDERAL PROSECUTION

Jersey City, July 17—Complaints against the 125 Jersey City saloonkeepers whose licenses were held up may be made by United States Internal Revenue agents before United States Commissioner James D. Carpenter, Jr., early next week, because of violations of the federal laws. The agents are now conducting an investigation throughout the city.

The city allows liquor dealers who have previously been in business to continue while their renewal applications are pending, but the Federal Government insists they shall pay their annual tax promptly.

This is payable on July 1, the day on which the city license expire. When the city renewals were held up by the city commission it is alleged by the government agents that the liquor dealers failed to pay their government tax for the ensuing year, fearing their renewals would be turned down and they would lose the $25.

RAHWAY COAL MAN FINED FOR GIVING SHORT WEIGHT

Rahway, July 17—George M. Friese, of 140 East Hazelwood avenue, a coal dealer, was fined on complaint of County Sealer of Weights and Measures Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth, $25 and costs, yesterday, by Judge John W. Buckley, on two charges of selling short weight coal.

Friese was charged with delivering July 12, a ton of coal, short ninety-six pounds, to Leslie Lupton, of 39 New Brunswick avenue, and on July 14, a quarter of a ton of coal, twenty-two and one-half pounds short, to John G. Beck, of 102 East Hazelwood avenue. On the same load in which Mr. Beck's coal was delivered from, was a quarter ton of coal five pounds short, for a Mrs. Miller, and a quarter ton, twenty-eight pounds in excess of the weight, for Thomas D. VanSchock, of Main street.

One count, for not having the proper duplicate slip with the delivery, was not pressed.

HE WILL NOT ORDER A PROBE OF ROADS

Trenton, July 17.—Satisfied with the letter of explanation received from State Road Commissioner Edwin A. Stvens, Governor Fielder has decided that there will be no investigation of the affairs of the road department. The request for the investigation of the affairs was made by two contractors, Thomas F. McGovern, of this city, and Thomas J. Barrett, of Bordentown, who recently wrote letters to the Governor, charging that the affairs of the road department were mismanaged and that there was general incompetence in its administration.

Both Mr. McGovern and Mr. Barrett had been disappointed in the awards of certain contracts or in the material specified for road building, and their complaints dealt largely with the particular subjects in which they were interested. The detailed answer made by Colonel Stevens convinced the Governor that the charges were not of such a character as to warrant the expense and trouble of an extended investigation, which would necessarily cripple the road department, now overcrowded with work.

Mr. McGovern has also made charges against the road department to the Economy and Efficiency Commission, and his complaint will be considered by that body at its next meeting in September.

HURRIEDLY CALLS MEXICAN ENVOY

President Summons Ambassador Wilson to Capital.

POWERS HAD PROTESTED

Said That European Nations Have Urged American Intervention In Southern Republic — President and Secretary Bryan Go Over Critical Situation.

Washington, July 17.—President Wilson instructed Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson at the City of Mexico to come to Washington at once for a conference, and in response to the summons Mr. Wilson left for Vera Cruz last night. Ambassador Wilson has not been recalled and so far as the administration knows now will return to the Mexican capital at the close of the conference.

Apparently startled into action by the disclosure to all the world of the action taken by the diplomatic corps in the City of Mexico and the request of at least one European power for a declaration of what the United States intends to do about Mexico, the president summoned Secretary Bryan to the White House.

Following their conference the announcement that Henry Lane Wilson is to be summoned to Washington was made. Incidentally Mr. Bryan brought his lecture tour into the discussion. He told the newspaper men that they should have assumed that he would not let his speaking engagements interfere with his duties at the state department. He added, however, that Ambassador Wilson's visit to Washington would not interfere with his lecture trip.

Content to Have Bryan Absent.

Consequently it is inferred that the president will be content to have Mr. Bryan absent when he discusses with the best informed man in the entire administration the most menacing problem of foreign relations confronting his administration. This action taken by the president is the first admission on the part of either himself or his secretary of state that there is a Mexican question which is worthy of his close attention.

Only foreign pressure, it is believed, and the publicity given the Mexican situation in the American press in the last three days are responsible for the president consenting to take up the situation at all, according to the general opinion here.

Heretofore it has been his endeavor to shelve the Mexican situation in order that he might devote himself exclusively to matters of domestic legislative reform—namely, tariff and currency.

It is expected that Ambassador Wilson will reach Washington in about ten days. He will have to come by steamship from Vera Cruz.

The order to the ambassador was sent after a conference between the president and the secretary of state. Previous to this, Oscar Braniff, one of the wealthiest men in Mexico and prominent in the progressive movement there, had had a long talk with the president in which it is understood he painted an alarming picture of present conditions in the republic.

Bryan Issues Statement.

Immediately after the conference with the president Mr. Bryan issued the following formal statement:

"Ambassador Wilson had been asked to come to Washington to confer with the president personally on the situation in Mexico. The embassy will be left in charge of First Secretary O'Shaughnessy."

It was understood that another European power had requested the United States to intervene in Mexico.

Secretary Bryan would neither affirm nor deny this statement. It was suggested to him that the country was Germany.

"I can't say anything on that yet," he said. "The process of elimination might be followed until I would have to give a direct answer."

Of prime interest to diplomatists here was the situation in Mexico and the knowledge that the Democratic administration would shortly be forced to a test of the Monroe doctrine.

The administration had hoped to stave off any action with regard to Mexico until after the October elections, when it was hoped that a new regime would be established in the republic which could be recognized by the United States. The general opinion here was that this hope was destroyed with the informal representations which have been lodged with Great Britain.

STUMPS CHAMPION SPELLER

"Pappatheodorokoummountoungeotopoulos" Proves Too Much.

Washington, July 17.—Representative Willis of Ohio, who recently carried off the palm at a National Press club spelling bee, was stumped yesterday. He received from his brother, who had heard of his orthographic ability, a business card on which was engraved the name:

"James J. Pappatheodorokoummountoungeotopoulos."

In a letter accompanying the card, it was demanded that Representative Willis justify his reputation by either spelling or pronouncing the name.

MULHALL RESUMES STORY OF LOBBYING

N. A. M. to Seek Privilege of Cross Examination.

Washington, July 17.—Attorneys of the National Association of Manufacturers may appeal to the senate through their friends for the privilege of cross examining Colonel Martin M. Mulhall, the self confessed lobbyist, and other witnesses before the senate lobby committee. They are convinced that the committee does not intend to allow them the privilege of cross examination.

Mulhall on the stand told the committee about a fund of $500,000 to $700,000 a year raised by the national council for industrial defense, an adjunct of the National Association of Manufacturers, for opposing legislation the manufacturers did not favor. He testified that he had no personal knowledge of the existence of such a fund, but declared that a collector for the organization had recently given those figures to the New York World.

Testimony by Mulhall served to accentuate the close relations of the N. A. M. and its officials with the leading figures in congress in 1908 and 1909.

James S. Sherman, later vice president; Senator Hemenway of Indiana and Congressmen Watson and Littlefield were the men on whom the N. A. M. placed chief reliance at that time. The counsel for the association, Mr. Emery, according to one of the letters read, had free access to the office of Speaker Cannon. Watson kept the N. A. M. informed of the condition of legislation in which it was interested, and in Watson's absence from Washington, it appeared, Hemenway looked after it. Senator Foraker called Mulhall to Cincinnati and had him make an investigation into the state of the public mind with reference to his (Foraker's) running again for the senate.

Necklace Vanishes In Mail From Paris to London Dealer.

London, July 17. — Scotland Yard learned of the theft of a rope of pearls valued at $625,000 while in transit from Paris to London.

The police refuse to give particulars of the case and withhold the names of shipper and consignee. Rumor associates the name of a rich American with the purchase.

When the registered package supposed to contain the valuable necklace was opened pieces of sugar were found instead, though the seals on the package had not been broken.

It is thought that the theft took place in France, as the sugar was of French manufacture.

SLAYER MADE VICTIM PRAY

"He Broke Up My Home," Says Jealous Man, "and I Shot Him."

Savannah, Ga., July 17.—One of the most sensational murders and one which for cold bloodedness surpasses anything in the criminal history of this city occurred when F. Lathrop George shot and killed Henry McClellan, a city employee, whom he found in the apartment of his wife, from whom Lathrop had been separated for a month. In speaking of the shooting later George said:

"I shot him, then let him pray awhile and then shot him again. I shot him three times in all. He broke up my home. I separated from my wife a month ago on account of him."

Biplane Kills Aviator of Twenty.

Chico, Cal., July 17.—Thaddeus Kerns, a twenty-year-old aviator, was killed when the engine of his biplane exploded seventy-five feet in the air. When the wreckage hit the ground the radiator crushed the aviator's head, while other parts of the biplane pierced his body.

The Incentive.

"Indeed! How do you manage to get in the right spirit?"

An Old Game.

"Has your wife found a house that suits her?"

"Yes; but don't say anything about it. Just now she's in bluffing the landlord that she won't take it unless he redecorates the parlor and three bedrooms."—Detroit Free Press.

ST. LOUIS WAITING FOR MARRIAGE DATE

Society of St. Louis, Mo., usually lacking any topic of unusual interest at this time of the year, now finds a measure of diversion in speculating as to the date of the marriage of Adolphus Busch 3d, grandson of Adolphus Busch, the wealthy brewer, to Mrs. Florence Parker Lambert, a divorcee, several years young Busch's senior. No intimation as to when the wedding will take place has come from either Mr. Busch or Mrs. Lambert, although both have confirmed the report of their engagement.

Mrs. Lambert formerly was Miss Florence Parker, of Richmond, Va. She was married in 1899 to Marion L. Lambert, vice president of the Lambert Pharmacal Company, and divorced him in May, 1912.

OFFERS SITE FOR COUNTY T. B. CAMP

Charles P. Sebring Would Make Gift of 'Mizzen Peak' to Somerset.

THREE ACRE TRACT

Charles P. Sebring, prominent man about town, politician and friend of the people in Somerset county, yesterday offered to give to Somerset county a three acres tract at the highest point of the Watchung mountain, back of Greenbrook, as a site for a tuberculosis sanitorium camp. His letter making this tender was read at a meeting of the Somerset county Board of Freeholders held at Somerville yesterday afternoon and early next month, if not before, the freeholders' special committee will inspect the proposed site.

Mr. Sebring's letter to the Board follows:

"I hereby submit the following proposition for your consideration. I will give a piece of land in Warren township, near the boundary line of North Plainfield township, to be used as a building site for a Tuberculosis hospital for Somerset county. The above referred to tract is situated at 'Mizzen Peak,' the topmost summit of the Watchung mountains. For centuries, this range of graceful wooded heights has been famed for the view of the broad plains it affords. When the Red Man roved the forest free unmolested, he loved to pause upon the lofty elevation and drink in the beauty and poesy of the scene. When Washington's Army was in camp in the valley beyond the range the great commander loved the solitude and inspiration of the mountain top. There he communed with nature and kept a vigilant eye on the movements of the army of the enemy who threatened his country's prosperity, and by his presence made the already hallowed ground historic.

"Today the Watchung Heights need no elaborate eulogy for they and the rare view they command are famous in the country round.

"But 'Mizzen Peak' leads all the range in the charm and superb magnificence of its residence sites. A hospital built on that summit would be a veritable castle in the clouds, a paradise among heavens. It is the most commanding spot of all the range, the choicest of the choice.

"'Mizzen Peak' takes in the mountain for half a mile, midway between Bound Brook and Washington Rock. Here the mountain top is broad and flat, and from each end of this half mile stretch the range curves backward, leaving 'Mizzen Peak' jutting out to the front and giving the eye of the observer on the peak a vast outlook, a prospect of exhaustless attraction.

"The extent to which the vision reaches is limited only by the curve of the earth's surface of the far off horizon. One stands at the edge of the high plateau and gazes for hours drinking in the delights of this matchless panorama. It is a witching scene. Skirting the woodland of the mountain range as the waves of a pacific sea, gently lap the sloping strand is the boundless plain. It stretches away as level as a dancing floor, till lost in the dim haze of distance. Fertile fields are these, meadows rich in golden grain, or green with thrifty corn or fruitful orchards. Well kept farmhouses and capacious barns, dot the green of the rural landscape. Country roads wind from hamlet to village to town. Yonder are larger settlements, residense of business growth of magnitude. Lincoln, Bound Brook, Somerville and New Brunswick.

"When one ascends to the crest of 'Mizzen Peak,' his vision is fairly astounded by the sweeping view across the plains to the Highlands of Navesink and in other directions. The country is rich in tree-embowered towns and villages of the level land, which stretches out at one's feet for a distance of twenty-five miles each way. The cares and worriments of life's humdrum existence drops from the pilgrim's weary shoulders and go bounding down the steep. Here one is free unfettered in body and mind. There is an exhiliration in the balmy atmosphere. The breeze never ceases blowing, but cools the heated brow, and fans into healthful flame the fair blush-rose that the stifling city was robbing from that lovely cheek. A place for a hospital is this and the gods are good to have revealed their garden to human sight, and to have granted to mortals its privileges.

"While one has been reveling in the natural beauties and evidences of mankind's thrift and the advance of civilization at the front of the mountain, he has been turning his back on other delights in the valley stretching from 'Mizzen Peak' to the second

COUNTY BUDGET IS NOW HELD UP

Democrats Accuse Republicans of Extravagance and Men to Share Expense.

TOTAL OVER $600,000

Recorder, Fire Chief, Council Clerk and Other Officials Want Local Newspapers to Renew Agitation for Union.

Elizabeth, July 18.—The Democratic members of the Board of Freeholders yesterday succeeded in holding up the budget of the board when it was presented at a special meeting. The spokesmen for the Democrats were Freeholders Fay and Hennessy. They charged their Republican colleagues with extravagance, especially in connection with the appropriation for road work.

Mr. Fay said it appeared that the Republicans felt the approach of a small board and were becoming exceptionally extravagant during their "last days." He pointed out that the budget calls for an increase of $165,000, or more than 25 per cent. over last year's appropriations. He said that the Republicans were giving much publicity to an appropriation of $20,000 for an anticipated special election for a small board referendum. The Democratic Freeholders declared that the county should be careful in its appropriation for roads so as not to burden the city of Elizabeth with an excessive tax rate.

If the increased county appropriation finally goes through it will mean that this city must raise about $75,000 more for county tax than it did last year. This alone would result in an increase of four points in the city tax rate.

The budget, which will now come up at the regular meeting of the board on August 7, calls for total appropriations of $615,000. Among the increases besides that for the anticipated special election are $50,000 for the maintenance of the Bonnie Burn Tuberculosis Sanitorium; $25,000 for a widow's pension fund; $10,000 for the sinking fund and $26,000 for county roads. The decreases include $5,000 from the general election appropriation, $2,000 from the mosquito commission, $1,500 from the register, surrogate, county clerk and sheriff offices, $1,000 from public buildings and grounds, $700 from the National Guard and $500 from the incidental account.

The board yesterday approved the purchase of the Heinrich farm in order to add facilities to the Bonnie Burn Sanitorium. The price of the farm was $4,000. The improvements will include the installation of a sewage system and the erection of cow barns, hog pens and chicken coops. There is a building on the farm, which can be used by employes of the sanitorium.

RAYMOND D. UNGER COMMITS SUICIDE

He was the Nephew of Herman Unger, Who Killed Himself Five Years Ago.

Raymond D. Unger, president and treasurer of the firm of Unger Brothers, manufacturing jewelers, of Newark, who committed suicide at his home in upper Montclair, was the nephew of Herman Unger, who committed suicide in 1908 at his home near Bound Brook, because of worry over the death of his wife, while his father, Eugene Unger, was killed in a fall from horseback at Madison in 1909.

In the death of Raymond Unger poison was the means used, cyanide of potassium. The body was discovered by a maid who went to call Mr. Unger at his request. It was learned that Mrs. Unger and children had gone to Chicago to visit her father, R. A. Dugan, but at the Unger office in Newark, G. LaRue Masters, brother-in-law of Mr. Unger, said that no motive could be assigned for the act, that so far as known Mr. Unger had no business or domestic troubles.

G. O. P. CHAIRMEN NOT FOR FUSION

Republican Party's County Leaders Also Decide Not to Endorse Any Candidate.

FLAY THE DEMOCRATS

Union County Men Appointed on Committees—Fowler Makes a Plea—Some Sentiment for Stokes For the People to Choose.

Trenton, July 10.—(Special)—The Republican County Chairman's Association, at its meeting here yesterday announced that the Republicans of the State will not be for fusion with the Progressives in the present campaign. This statement was made by Herbert W. Taylor, of Essex county. The associaion met here to formulate plans for the campaign and Mr. Taylor said that as he interprets the Geran law the fusion of the two factions upon the same candidates would not be legal.

He expressed the opinion that the Republican course should be to nominate high-class candidates from top to bottom of the ticket and then the voters of both factions, on their own initiative, would vote for these candidates thus accomplishing amalgamation.

President Taylor appointed five committees to act in co-operation with the State committee in directing the campaign. Those from Union county were: Executive, Hamilton F. Kean, of Elizabeth; finance, William Newcorn, of Plainfield; advisory, Peter J. Olde, of Elizabeth; publicity, John W. Clift, of Summit.

Former Congressman Charles N. Fowler spoke strongly against endorsing any candidates and this "scotched" the proposition. State Chairman Edmund Wakelee, who, it is understood, favored fusion, did not attend the meeting. There was some sentiment for Edward C. Stokes for the Gubernatorial nomination, but the decision not to endorse any candidate put a damper on this sentiment.

A statement was issued summoning the Republicans to immediate activity, praising the record of the party, arraigning the tariff record of the Democrats and demanding that the Republican party be placed in the hands of the young men who will lead it as "progressive and up-to-date advocates." Following the speech of Mr. Fowler, a paragraph was inserted stating that nominations should be made by the people.

HAVE BEEN WEDDED FIFTY-SEVEN YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray, Sr., Celebrate Anniversary of Their Marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray, Sr., of Central avenue, who are spending the summer at their camp, "Burnbrae," Wolfboro, N. H., celebrated the fifty-seventh anniversary of their wedding on Wednesday. The camp was attractively decorated with greens and cut-flowers. Japanese lanterns were hung at intervals along the verandas, while red fires were burned on the beach in front of the house.

There were fifty guests present, many of whom were from this city. They came from near-by camps and cottages in motor boats, canoes and a-foot and were all lavish in their congratulations and well wishes for the "bride and groom." Throughout the evening there was music, while later refreshments were served by an out-of-town caterer.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray celebrated their golden wedding at Wolfboro. At that time there were seventy-five persons present, but this year's festivities were said by all to compare favorably with the ones of that year.

Among the Plainfielders to extend their congratulations were: Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Miss Mary Rushmore, Miss Eleanor DeGraff, Murray Rushmore, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Sandford, Miss Saidee Roome Sandford, George M. Murray, Mrs. Augustus V. Heely, Lawrence Heely, Allan Heely, Mrs. James R. Joy and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Roome, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray are among the oldest residents of Plainfield, where their friends are legion. Mr. Murray is a veteran in the insurance business, but several yeas ago retired from the activities to live quietly at his home here. The couple have been accustomed to spending their summers in New Hampshire for a number of years.

DEPOSED BOARD HOLD A CONFAB

Will They Seek Compensation for Services or Work for Special Election?

The members of the small Board of Freeholders, who were subsequently replaced by the old large board through a decision of the courts, held a conference at the Berkeley Hotel, Elizabeth. No action was taken relative to the proposed bringing of suits against the county to test County Attorney W. R. Codington's opinion declaring the Griffin compensation act unconstitutional, or in relation to holding a special election next month on the small board referendum.

Those present at the meeting from Plainfield were Thomas J. Hughes and James J. McCann, who were members of the small board and John P. Owens, who was chosen county attorney under the former regime. The majority of those present favored a postponement of suits against the county, it being pointed out that there is no haste as the Supreme Court does not open until the first Tuesday in October. Twenty days prior to that date is sufficient time to file the declaration.

The sentiment was strong in favor of more deliberation on the question of circulating petitions for a special election. Only 1,200 signatures are required, and with several petitions in circulation in different parts of the county, the names could be obtained in a few days, it was thought. J. Logan Fay seems to be the most ardent advocate of holding a special election.

MERCHANTS ORGANIZE COMMITTEE ON LIGHTS

Ornamental Posts Assured for Front Street — Business Approval is Hoped.

Following the meeting of Plainfield merchants with the Councilmanic light committee in the Plainfield Business College rooms Wednesday night because of sentiment expressed at that gathering, President William Jeffery, of the Board of Trade, who presided, has named A. E. Force, Herman Schwed, Fred Endress, Edward Hardingham and Samuel Rothberg to compose a committee to further the investigation of the light question. Mr. Jeffery expressed an opinion at that meeting that the Plainfield merchants would be willing to share the expense of supplying ornamental posts for the lights in the business section and this committee will consult with the local business men and ascertain definitely which ones are willing to enter into negotiations.

A feeling of doubt was expressed by several of those who were present at the meeting held in the Business College but since then Mr. Jeffery has received the assurance of support from numerous Front street merchants and the artistic lighting scheme can be guaranteed for that thoroughfare. North avenue and Park avenue business men will be the next ones interviewed and from present indications the response will probably be gentral.

YOUTH IS INJURED.

James McCann, Jr., the young son of James McCann, of East Second street, while playing with his young friends this morning was severely injured by having his cheek punctured by a lead pencil which was being carried by one of the boys. It appears that the McCann boy had stumbled, falling into the pencil. Abcesses formed on the jaw of the youngster and lock-jaw is feared as a esult.

WHAT'S NEXT IN SEWER SCHEME?

Three Municipalities Through Their Governing Bodies to Approve Contract.

BONDS TO BE ISSUED

If Darling Farm Cannot Be Purchased Amicably Condemnation Proceedings Will be Resorted for the Site.

Now that North Plainfield and Dunellen have held special elections and authorized the governing bodies to join with Plainfield in the construction of a joint trunk sewage system and to issue bonds to cover the expense of the same, the next step will be for the three municipalities to approve the joint sewage contract, which has been before each council in separate form. This will probably be done within a short time.

After the joint contract is approved, the law provides that the governing bodies must hold a joint meeting and organize by selecting a chairman, secretary and treasurer who shall have full supervision of all future work in connection with the building of the sewage system and disposal works. Arrangements will probably be made for holding such a meeting in the near future so that no unnecessary time may be lost in establishing the system.

Then, in addition, each municipality must arrange for the issuance of bonds to cover the expenses of the work. Plainfield's share is 68 per cent., North Plainfield's 25 per cent. and that of Dunellen 7 per cent. The total cost of the work is estimated at $372,600.00, of which $33,000.00 is for the siphon from Rock avenue to Plainfield; $28 000.00 for the 24 inch outfall sewer from North Plainfield; $5 200.00 for an 8 inch force main from Dunellen; $103,000.00 for a 42 inch outfall line and siphon at the disposal works; $23,200.00 for an effluent outfall to Sebring's Mills, and $180,300.00 for the construction of the disposal works.

After an organization of the three municipalities is affected that body will have the power to employ such help as may be necessary to carry on the work and fix compensation. If the Darling farm where it is proposed to locate the disposal works, cannot be secured by direct purchase, it will be necessary to resort to condemnation proceedings. As the State Board of Health has approved the joint plans it is not believed that any protest or objection that Piscataway township or any other nearby municipality may make will defeat the joint proposition as the Supreme Court recently gave a decision in favor of Morristown against Herndon township, in which the case was identical.

SOMERVILLE YOUTH DROWNED IN RIVER

Herbert Elling, Aged 14, Loses His Life in Stream Near Weston.

Somerville, July 18—Herbert Elling, aged 14 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Elling, of North Grove street, Somerville, was drowned in the Millstone river, near Weston, yesterday afternoon. Early in the day the boy's father had taken several of the members of the family to Weston for a day's outing, the mother having gone visiting for the day. The boy went swimming in the canal, and it is supposed was seized with an attack of cramps. He sank in about eight feet of water. One of his sisters plunged in after him and succeeded in bringing him to surface, but was unable to resuscitate him. The members of the family rendered all assistance, but without avail. He was hurriedly brought to the office of Dr. W. H. Long, but he could do nothing. Besides his parents, he leaves a number of brothers and sisters.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE WOMEN FEEL HURT

They Get Bouquet With Card Containing a Most Insulting Message.

DISTURB A MEETING

Now Say, Girls, What's Going to Happen When the Women Who Won't Vote Gather on July 31 to Listen to Miss Goodwin?

While the members of the Plainfield branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage are a little annoyed at the persistent efforts of someone to belittle their efforts and disturb their meetings, they are not greatly alarmed over the matter. The antis held a monthly meeting at the Plainfield Public Library Monday afternoon, and it was learned today that the women were annoyed by several small boys who had gathered about the place.

These boys were standing about the door while Miss R. A. Lawrence, the secretary, was reading her report. This disturbed her to such an extent that the door was closed. At the same time one of the boys, whose name was not known, rushed forward and threw a bouquet over the transom and then ran away. The flowers bore a card with the following inscription:

"We desire to express our gratitude for the kind work which you are doing in our behalf and beg for a continuance of your favors.

"The Liquor Interests.

"The Child Labor Interests.

"The White Slave Interests.

"And other Vice Interests."

The anti-suffragists recognized the label as the caption of a recent cartoon in the Saturday Evening Post. They were unable to learn who sent the strange present. They thought that the bouquet sender was the same person who recently wrote with chalk upon the doorsteps of the home of Mrs. Charles Sykes:

"Here lives the president of the Women Traitors."

The scribbler wrote also the following upon the steps of the vice-president, Mrs. J. Constable Moore:

"To hell with the antis! Votes for Women! Hurrah for Mrs. Pankhurst!"

The antis are quite loth to lay the blame for this annoyance at the door of the suffragists, as one of them expressed it today, "I don't think they would stoop to such a little thing, but if the disturbance continues steps will be taken to put a stop to it." Suffragists are equally positive that members of their organization did not, neither have they ben harassing the antis. Among those who made such a declaration was Mrs E. H. Mumford, of Compton avenue, one of the ardent suffragists. She said: "All of the suffragists as far as I know them are women of dignity and refinement who would not stoop to such methods. We respect the anti-suffragists as women of sincere convictions, although they differ from ours."

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, one of the 'antis,' voiced her indignation publically right after the meeting adjourned.

The next meeting of the antis will be held on Thursday, July 31, when Mrs. Grace Duffield Goodwin will be the principal speaker.

FOR MERGER OF 2 MUNICIPALITIES

North Plainfield's Officeholders Would Give up Jobs for Consolidation With City.

MAYOR IS OUTSPOKEN

To Be Considered on August 7—Increase Would Be Twenty-five Per Cent at Least it is Pointed Out.

Suggesting a campaign of education through the publication of a series of articles in the local newspapers, Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., today, declared himself to be heartily in favor of the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield, and his sentiments were endorsed by Borough Clerk Charles M. Dolliver, Borough Recorder M. F. Gano, Chief Marshal George Weiss, Councilman Edward Rushmore, School Trustee Woodruff and others, all of whom happened to meet at police headquarters at the same time.

The very frank declaration by the Mayor came as the result of a question put to him by a reporter for The Daily Press, who asked him if, now that the borough had voted to join Plainfield in a sewage system, the time was not ripe to consolidate the two municipalities.

"There is no question about the advisability of such a move," said Mr. Clark, "and I would suggest a campaign of education through the publication of newspaper articles. When I was a member of the Borough Council about ten years ago I made a careful study of the question and I am convinced that so long as people are supporting the Plainfield merchants, using Plainfield's postoffice and its railroad station and even helping to support its churches, we might go a step further and effect a consolidation whereby we could have one big city."

"The borough is but a residential section of Plainfield, the residents of which support the Plainfield merchants, which sums up the argument for consolidation," was the comment made by Councilman Edmund Rushmore.

"If money can be saved by building a jaint sewage system, money can also be saved by consolidating the other borough and city departments," remarked Recorder Gano, "and for that reason I favor consolidation. Similar expressions of opinion were made by Mr. Dolliver and Chief Marshal Weiss, and all seemed to feel sure that should the proposition be submitted to the voters at the present time it would be carried.

CLARENCE BROKAW ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT AND BATTERY

Clarence B. Brokaw of De Lacey avenue, North Plainfield, was arrested in Elizabeth this morning charged with assault and battery by Mrs. Emily Beatty, who he was ordered to pay $1,000 last winter on a judgment rendered to compensate her for injuries received when hit by his automobile in Westfield last winter.

Brokaw started bankruptcy proceedings soon after the verdict was rendered and when the hearing in the case was given at Elizabeth, this morning, Mrs. Beatty became greatly excited and had him arrested for an offense she alleged was committed at the time of the accident. Two months ago a body execution was issued against Brokaw and he pleaded insolvency in court, saying that he was going through bankruptcy and was without any means. The arrest this morning was on a charge, alleging assault. Mr. Brokaw will be given a hearing before Judge O. P. Mahon in the Elizabeth police court this afternoon when he will probably be released on bail.

CLERGYMAN, 92, TAKES WALK, LANDS IN POLICE STATION

Morristown, July 18—Feeling as spry as anybody else around the neighborhood, Rev. Dr. J. Selden Spencer, the ninety-two-year-old rector emeritus of Christ Episcopal church, Tarrytown, N. Y., started out from the home of his son, Harold T. Spencer, at Mountain Lakes, for a little stroll. When he did not return for dinner his son called up the Morristown police and asked them to look out for his father.

About the time the police received the message, two employes on the estate of Alfred R. Whitney, near here, saw Dr. Spencer walking across the fields. He had walked ten miles, and was just thinking of turning his steps homeward when the farmhands arrived.

Thinking that a man of Dr. Spencer's age should be exhausted, the two suggested that he go to Morristown with them. The doctor, however, protested that nothing was the matter with him and that he felt as strong as anybody else. He reminded the two that he had been a good walker all his life and a ten-mile jaunt was nothing to him. He was finally prevailed upon, however., to go to Morristown, where he waited at police headquarters until his son drove down.

The Morgan celebration will be combined with that of the George Rogers Clark expedition and the explorations of Baron Steuben, in honor of whom the city was named. Survivors of Morgan's command ahd their former foes will take part in the celebration. Many of the famous old military organizations of the east have also been invited to attend the festivities.

He was picked up unconscious and taken home, his parents refusing to let him go to the hospital. He was injured about the head and body, and is believed to be hurt internally.

The B. G. Z. Company, of New York, the lessees, have been running the place without restrictions on Sunday, it is declared. There is a provision in the lease, which the company accepted, agreeing not to violate any State or city ordinance. President Lovell declares that the company has violated a State ordinance in allowing Sunday shows.

V. D. Story, secretary of the company, when asked regarding Sunday shows by Commissioner Marshall Woolley, who opposed the leasing of the park, said he would abide by the State and city ordinances.

SMALL BOARD REFERENDUM TO BE TAKEN BEFORE COURT

Hackensack, July 18—The Supreme Court is to be asked to give an opinion as to the validity of the law permitting Bergen county voters to vote on the small Board of Freeholders' referendum at the special Congressional election next Tuesday. The statement was made Wednesday by Freeholder Wendel Andreas, chairman of the legislative committee of the large board, that he would make the application because of doubt as to the constitutionality of the act.

In the special election proclamation by the Governor there is no mention of the freeholder referendum and Mr. Andreas questions the right to submit the proposition at this time. He also says he thinks a larger vote on the question would be polled at the general election in November.

ORANGE MAN ASKS DIVORCE.

Newton, July 18.—George L. Robinson, of East Orange, applied to the Court of Chancery Wednesday for a divorce from Edith Y. Robinson, who makes her home with her father, I C. Yawger, of Sussex county. The husband alleges desertion. The couple were married in 1896 and have a sixteen years old daughter.

AT LUNA, CONEY ISLAND.THE MID-SUMMER CROWD

Luna continues to be the centre of activity for summer amusements and the turn styles in front of its gates are clicking afternoon and evening recording an attendance unprecedented in the history of pleasure resorts. There seems to be no zenith to the popularity of Coney Island's big playground, as record after record is being broken there. The crowds have taken with delight the new idea of providing attraction where visitors can amuse themselves. The many novel devices where patrons can frolic independent of mechanical restrictions are causing roars of laughter. This idea really originated in the Witching Waves, the undiminishing popularity of which was primarily due to the principal of permitting patrons to virtually "paddle their own canoe."

The many rides have been thronged during the hot days. What could be more refreshing than a journey around the cool waves of the Dragon's Gorge or a ride down the fleet toboggan. Then of course there is the water chutes. Outings to Luna have become so numerous that hardly a day passes without an assemblage from this or some other city going there. Since the park has taken on the aspect of good old summer time in full bloom crowds have gone not only from New York but from all the surrounding country as well. Visitors from as far as New Orleans and Denver have been noted and parties from every city in New Jersey and Connecticut have been frequent.

The new fun-making device called "The Bouncer," which has been opened at Crazy Town has caught the crowd. Shouts and peals of laughter eminate from it. Just how to describe the new slide is difficult to determine. It is unlike any other contrivance of its kind being made of canvas instead of wood. This cloth being stretched on pliable strips of wood makes the "bounce."

LINEMAN HURT BY FALL.

New Brunswick, July 18—While he was at work on a pole of the New York Telephone Company in Neilson street, the pole gave way and fell, carrying with it Gus Herrel, a lineman. He was caught under the pole, and sustained a fractured jaw and other injuries. He was taken to St. Peter's hospital, where his condition was said to be serious. Samuel Adoff, of the New Brunswick Window Cleaning Company, while carrying a pail of boiling water upstairs in the New Brunswick Elks' building, fell and badly scalded his back and arms.

RAHWAY BOY DROWNED.

Rahway, July 18.—While he was out canoeing Wednesday afternoon with his father on the Potomac river at Brunswick, Md., the boat they were in capsized and William J. Bickett, Jr., nine years old, of Rahway, was drowned. The body has been recovered and it will be brought to Rahway for burial tomorrow. Details of the accident have not reached here, save that it occurred amid the rapids of the river. The lad was an only son.

BASEBALL NOTES

If McDonald, the Boston Braves' great slugger, could field as well as he can bat he would be in a class by himself.

Maybe it would help National League managers if they studied John McGraw's book on "How to Play Baseball."

Manager Stovall is the only member of the Browns who is able to stay up among the .300 hitters in the American League.

The Cardinals played in tough luck during their recent stay in Boston. Huggins, Mowrey and McLean were injured in the series with the Braves.

Kommers and Hyatt, of the Pirates, are giving McDonald, of the Braves, a good run for the batting honors in the National League.

Outfielder Robertson, of Mobile, leads the Southern League batsmen, with "Kid" Elberfeld, the Chattanooga manager, and Long, of Atlanta, following close behind.

Since the "bull" sign was put up in Sportsmen's Park, St. Louis, only two players, Eddie Cicotte and Ray Collins, have succeeded in hitting it.

In Boston they say that George Brickley, recently signed by the Athletics, is a better ball player than Eddie Collins and "Stuffy" McInnis were when they signed with Conie Mack.

Waterloo, Iowa, has a band of baseball rooters called the "Nut Club." A coconut attached to a blue ribbon is the official emblem of the nutty ones.

"Hy" Jasper, of the Dubuque club, who was recently purchased by the White Sox, is the best all-around pitcher in the Three-I League. He is a spit-ball artist, a fine fielding pitcher and a walloper of the pill.

Pitcher Snow, of the Winona team, in the Northern League, won thirteen of his first sixteen games. This is a better record than "Rube" Schauer, the Giants' $10,000 beauty, has made in the same league.

Around the American League circuit they call Walter Johnson the "Big Menace." When Walter goes into the box the opposing batsmen are as happy as an auto party stranded thirty miles from home.

Christy Mathewson and Eddie Plank, the veteran major league twirlers, will be all in next spring. They were all in last spring. In fact they have been through for several years, but they won't quit. A glance at the pitching records will continue anyone that the two old boys should have been at the Gettysburg reunion instead of taking chances on a ball field. This season Plank won only thirteen out of fifteen games, while Christy has hobbled in and copped fourteen out of eighteen games.

"A SALE"

Noah Webster defines the word "Sale" as meaning the exchange of a commodity for money of equivalent value.'

His definition hardly applies to "Sale" as used in the Rothberg sense; for during OUR Sales we are daily exchanging high grade, dependable commodities for LESS than their equivalent value, and we know that our customers will agree that at least one definition in the dictionary should be changed.

PROSECUTOR SPRINGS PUN.

Jersey City, July 18.—Second Assistant Prosecutor James W. McCarthy, of Hudson county, sprung a pun on Judge Mark A. Sullivan in open court yesterday, and wasn't even lectured for being in contempt of court. Anthony Botti had asked the court to parole a client who was charged with stealing a base drum from Diademo Cupo's band. "The State opposes putting this man on parole," objected McCarthy. "He is charged with stealing a drum and we are afraid he might beat it." While making a speech in the fall of 1911, when Andrew Knox was opposing Dr. F. N. Sauer for the Republican Mayoralty nomination in Jersey City, McCarthy sprang a joke that made Besel A. Farr laugh so heartily he burst a blood vessel and bled to death. This was the joke: "And now I ask you why is Dr. Sauer? Well, the reason is because Andy Knox."

COUNTERFEIT NICKELS.

Asbury Park, July 18.—Counterfeit buffalo nickels made their appearance in large numbers in this city Wednesday. They were passed principally on boardwalk shopkeepers. The police think they see connection between the appearance of the spurious coins and some excursions to this place. On the buffalo side of the money 1913 is impressed, while the figures are raised on the good coins. The counterfeits are also short in weight and soon lose their luster.

WILLIAM ABNER CORIELL.

New Brunswick, July 18.—The funeral of William Abner Coriell, son of the late Samuel G. Coriell, will be held today from his home, 104 Welton street. His mother survives him. He was a graduate of Rutgers College and a civil engineer.

ARE THEY SINCERE?

As a general proposition, the county chairmen of a political party keep in closer touch and are better informed on the trend of public sentiment than any leaders or men in the ranks for it becomes the duty of their office to know the people, know what they want, and know how to win. What effect this knowledge of the situation, for the time being, may have upon them in directing the destinies of their party is another matter. As a former Governor once said, most of the county chairmen have a baneful influence, and by the by, that Governor took occasion to add that the Republican party's chairman in Union county had proved an exception. But be, as they may, these men are the field marshals in political campaigns working together under their commander-in-chief, the State Chairman. Therefore, what they have to say is worthy of consideration for at least it gives evidence of the signs of the times.

Yesterday the Republican County Chairmen's Association met at Trenton. It was an unusual meeting inasmuch as its deliberations bore testimony to the fact that times are changing and changing for the better in politics as in other affairs of life, if we are convinced that these leaders are sincere. Granting that they are, the credit does not belong to them; it belongs to the army of voters who reluctantly left the party of Abraham Lincoln only when they found that it was controlled body and soul by political pirates and that the only hope lay in a call to arms to wrest from this corrupt power a government that belongs to the people.

Confronted by a legion of honest voters, formerly marching under the banner of their own party, these Republican field marshals, after a decisive defeat in November, see but one line of campaign to save themselves from complete annhiliation, at least if their sincereity, as we say, is not to be questioned. It is that the political oligarchy that brought the New Jersey brigade of the party as it did the whole army of Republicanism last year to a humiliating rout, be ended and that the voters composing that brigade, and for that matter the entire army, work out its destiny and command its fortunes. "We believe," say the chairmen in a resolution, "that nominations should be made by the people, and when so made at the primaries, it becomes the duty of the several county committees of the State to exert every effort to elect the nominees." And further and more to the point the resolution as mentioned declares: "We insist that hereafter the young men shall have charge of the party management as 'progressives'—mark you, as 'progressives'—and up-to-date advocates."

But resolves are easily made and as easily broken and past experience has given abundant proof that the Republican party—or to be more precise the oligarchy that has dominated that party in New Jersey—has not been sincere. It has not kept faith with the people; neither has its performances been in the people's interests. With this unsavory record, are the Republican field marshals any more sincere now? Time will tell.

Say, just listen to this before you ring off—"The party management in the course of time outgrows its usefulness" and—wait a moment, please, tell that other party to get off the wire—the reason is "because age loosens ambition and energy." That's culled from the resolutions passed yesterday by the Republican County Chairmen's Association in session at Trenton. As for the reason "why," isn't that rich? Scoop says, it has one on our office boy whose plea, when there is a baseball game on, is that his grandmother died.

The New York World has succeeded in having Mellen surrender his place as president of the New Haven system and moreover its effective campaign on behalf of the patrons of that system will result in an entire reorganization. That's great work for one newspaper and it goes to show the power of the press when championing the people's rights.

If William Turner, the colored convict, who tried the "hunger strike" stunt in the Union county jail before being taken to Trenton, attempts that sort of thing at State's prison he will find the custodians there have a more effective treatment for such cases than is usual in English prisons.

William Jennings Bryan took a day off yesterday from his little job down at Washington, where Uncle Sam hires him for $38.33 per day, and gave a short talk at Mountain Lake Park, Maryland. For that hour's gabfest he got about $500. Do you blame him?

Are anti-suffragists different from other women? Well, no. Some thirty of them at a meeting agreed to keep a secret. They kept it almost for four days and then—well, read the story today on the "attack" made on them.

If some of those editors who are so incensed because the Secretary of State is on the lecure platform could get as much for talking as he does they would talk themselves—and everybody else—to death.

Strange they haven't accused any local newspapermen of playing those pranks on the anti-suffragists. Bully copy, eh?

BELMONT'S TRACERY WON $50,000 STAKES

Sandown Park, England, July 18—August Belmont's Tracery won the Eclipse Stakes of $50,000 today. Lowvois was second and Bachelors Wedding third. Seven horses ran. Tracery was ridden by Danny Maher and was favorite.

WILLIAMS WINS.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Wimbledon, England, July 18—R. Norris Williams, of Philadelphia, was pitted today against B. P. Schwengers, of Canada, in the first match between the United States and Canada in the final round of the Davis cup preliminary tournament. Williams won the first set by six games to four and the second set by six games to two.

TAKEN TO PRISON.

Under a strong guard of deputy sheriffs from Sheriff Wright's office, William Turner, the local colored man who since his sentence last Friday has caused a great deal of trouble at the county jail, was removed from that institution to State prison. He was sentenced to serve not less than one year nor more than three for stealing a bicycle, and because of his past record.

KENNEY WOMAN RELEASED.

London, July 18.—Miss Annie Kenney, leader of the militant suffragettes and organizer of the Women's Social and Political Union, who was sentenced on June 17 to eighteen months for malicious destruction of property and conspiracy, was released today because of illness induced by a food and water strike.

WILSON CHAPEL FESTIVAL.

A successful festivalwas held last night at the Wilson Memorial Chapel, Watchung, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. A goodly number was in attendance despite the bad weather. Fancy goods, ice cream and watermelon were disposed of and quite a sum of money realized as a result.

SOME MORE LAND FOR BONNIE BURN

Freeholders Approve Recommendation of Doane's Committee.

The Union County Board of Freeholders at its meeting in Elizabeth, yesterday, passed the resolution to purchase the eleven to fourteen acres Reilly or Henrich farm, adjoining that upon which Bonnie Burn Sanitorium is located, for $4,000. This gives the county a total of eighty acres. The owner of the farm originally wanted $5,000 but he finally consented to accept $4,000.

The freeholders propose to build an enlarged chicken house and hog pens on the new tract, and if the county should adopt the plan of establishing a workhouse this additional land would meet the needs nicely, for it would afford an excellent place for the county prisoners to work.

The question of a sufficient water supply is still a troublesome one at the sanitorium. An expert made an inspection a few days ago and in his opinion the trouble is with the pumps. The freeholders have communicated with the manufacturers of the pumps and if upon further investigation the difficulty is found to be there the necessary changes will be made at once.

The county budget was not passed yesterday, the action being deferred until it is known positively whether there is to be a special election. The members of the small Board of Freeholders who were removed from office by the decision of the courts, are still talking about a special election and until that matter is disposed of the freeholders do not core to adopt the budget. It is estimated that a special election would cost the county about $20,000.

FINANCE PHASE OF THE TARIFF MEASURE

Washington, July 18.—The report of Senator Simmons, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, on the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill as amended by the Senate, was placed before the members of the Upper House today. The text of the report is largely devoted to a defense of the Senate Democrats act in reducing rates under the original House measure and to extensive tables showing the per centage and effect of these rates. The total outcome of the Senate Committee's Tariff Labor is a reduction of .27-64 per cent under the Payne-Aldrich tariff rates and of .4.22 per cent under the House tariff rates. Nevertheless, the report predicts that the business of the Government will be run at a profit. The official figures based upon compilations of treasury experts for the fiscal year, 1913,placed the total revenue exclusive of possible revenue from the Panama Canal. The sinking fund and the National Bank note redemption fund at $996,810,000 against an established disbursement of $994,790,000 for the same period. This would leave a surplus of $2,020,000. Concerning the steel schedule the report says, judged by all available tests, the American iron and steel industry is fully able to sustain itself without government aid. It has unrivalled supplies of raw material, it has the use of abundant capital, it is able to export in competition with foreign countries and the industry has the advantage of law costs. For this reason it may be regarded as well fitted as any industry capable of standing tariff rates figured on a strict revenue producing basis. This summarizes the keynote of the Senate tariff reductions in almost every case where they affect trust controlled products.

PROCTOR'S BIG SHOW.

The vaudeville show at Proctor's theatre this week comprises all big acts and the bill is by far the best offered at this playhouse in some time. "The Big Surprise" with a cast of seven people really offers a surprise in the form of a cabaret show in which the performers go about the audience. The Stroud Trio, which includes one of the most clever child actresses, is one of the big hits, while an acrobatic trio is also a topliner. A comedy pair in up-to-date baseball talk and an interesting sketch complete the fine bill. The feature photo-plays continue to please.

CHARLES B. PLITT, JR.

Becker's Press Agent Said to Have Made Big Exposure.

Predictions of a police expose greater than any that has gone before were made freely when it was announced that Charles B. Plitt, Jr., who was press agent for Lieutenant Charles Becker before the latter was transferred from the command of the strong arm squad to the Sing Sing death house, had begun a long disclosure of police graft in which he promised to connect up a high civilian official of the police department with systematic corruption. Plitt asserts he was the link between the uniformed force and this headquarters official. He also promises to deliver another police inspector and several minor policemen, according to authoritative information.

PLITT, PRESS AGENT OF BECKER, SQUEALS

Names Inspector and Civilian at Headquarters.

New York, July 18.—What promises to furnish the climax of the police graft investigation conducted by District Attorney Whitman during the last year materialized in a twenty-seven page typewritten statement from Charles B. Plitt, Jr., one time press agent for Lieutenant Charles Becker, who was convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal. The document was submitted to District Attorney Whitman by Assistant District Attorney Frederick Groehl, in whose presence Plitt dictated the contents.

According to reliable information, the statement accuses an inspector of police formerly in charge of the detective bureau at headquarters, a prominent civilian attache and several minor officials. The "squeal" is reported to supply the link so long sought by District Attorney Whitman in tracing the enormous annual police graft tolls to the men alleged to be at the head of the "system."

Plitt is said to have also turned over to Assistant District Attorney Groehl the names and addresses of persons who, Plitt contends, will corroborate important features of his statement.

HUNGER STRIKE BROKEN.

Jersey Jail Warden Knew How to Tempt Negro Prisoner.

Elizabeth, N. J., July 18.—The manner in which Warden Charles W. Dodd of the county jail broke up a hunger strike may carry a tip to the keepers of English prisons.

A negro named William Turner was the hunger striker. Following his detection in an attempt to break jail Sunday night Turner refused to eat.

At first the hunger strike was not taken seriously. But Turner grew weak and ill. Persuasion and threats were tried to no avail. Then Warden Dodd exercised his knowledge of human nature.

Turner was in his cell moaning and praying when the warden appeared at the door. The negro leaped to his feet and sniffed. In one hand the warden carried a steaming plate of fried chicken and in the other half of a fine juicy watermelon.

The hunger strike ended forthwith.

$1,000,000 STRIKE ENDS.

Paterson Silk Mill Operators In Rush For Old Positions.

Paterson, N. J., July 18.—The end of the great silk strike appears to be close. Most of the weaving mills are now in operation. They are taking back the hands a few at a time, and there was a scramble to get into the dye shops.

So great was the rush that the applicants had to be lined up at the Wiedemann, Auger & Simon and the Cole Bros. plants. Weidemann took back seventy-five helpers to man the vats. Auger & Simon took in sixty and Cole Bros. fifty-five.

All the small dye shops took on as many as they could find work for. At the big shops the men who were not taken on were told to come around Monday.

INSPECTOR ENDS LIFE.

H. B. Fenton of Palisades Park Fires Three Shots Into Neck.

Palisades Park, N. J., July 28.—H. B. Fenton, a customs inspector, committed suicide in the custom house, New York, by shooting himself three times in the neck with a revolver. Fenton, who lived here, was thirty-five years old, married and had two children. His associates could assign no reason for his act.

Since 1902 Fenton has been in the employ of the government as a customs inspector. There is no record of his ever having been in any trouble and his friends had every reason to believe that his life was a happy one.

Mangled to Death by Reaper.

Ewingville, N. J., July 18.—William S. Walker, superintendent of the E. V. D. Skillman stock farm, while working on a reaper and binder was stricken and fell inside the machine. His head was terribly mangled, and he died instantly. He was found an hour later by Mr. Skillman and his son-in-law, William G. Wherry. A widow and four children survive him.

TOO HOT TO LISTEN TO POLITICAL TALK

Commission Government Lecture Fails to Attract Many Plainfielders.

A very small but interested audience greeted Howard H. Williams when he appeared in the Washington School auditorium last night to present the features of the commission plan of city government and those who have been most closely affiliated with the movement in Plainfield and who have advocated its adoption, made themselves conspicuous by their absence. The speaker outlined the history of the commission idea since it was originally introduced at the time of the Galveston Flood and discussed the results and failures of the plan in the various cities where it has been given a trial, one of the most prominent being Trenton.

Mr. Williams discussed the underlying ideas of the commission plan and following his talk he answered a number of questions submitted to him by his listeners. At the conclusion of the speaker's talk, William Jeffery, on behalf of the Plainfield Board of Trade, of which he is president, and the several other civic organizations of the city offered a vote of thanks for the speaker and addressed the audience, saying in part, "I have no questions to ask but suggest that, instead of adding to theory, you bring out the essentials of the commission plan by putting them into practice. It would be better to get data from cities of Plainfield's size and we would then be able to see where we are at. The average citizen knows little or nothing about the city's government."

OFFER SITE FOR T. B. CAMP

range. 'Mizzen Peak' is the only spot on the entire range from which may be had this double view, this insight into the witching bloom and comeliness of the country on both sides of the mountain. It is as if one were perched upon a floating cloud of fairyland, with a prosperous and radiant plain on one hand and a most luxuriant and peaceful valley on the other. And beyond the valley are the endless emerald hills, undulating far away towards the North.

"The superb, the matchless view, is not the only attraction of 'Mizzen Peak,' though it is sufficient, since travelers who have visited every famous spot on the globe are enthusiastic in pronouncing this the finest pastoral panorama they have ever seen in any country.

"There are neatly kept and prolific vineyards managed by thrifty Frenchmen on the sunny southern slopes. Conveniently near to 'Mizzen Peak' is the famous camping ground of Washington. At the base of the mountain, reached by an easy path, are restful nooks along Green brook, which makes a detour from the distance and skirts the rising ground here and here only. There is a very pretty little lake known as Sebring's Lake, for bathing and fishing, formed by the brook at Sebring's Mills, and the stream is broad and deep enough for rowing for a considerable distance. The water from the Watchung Water Co.'s wells, located at Sebring's Mills, is sweet and pure and clear as a crystal and cool and refreshing. Stone and timber for building are at hand. The erection of a hospital on this site will be an easy task.

"If this tract of land meets with your approval, I will cheerfully convey the same to Somerset county, for the above-mentioned purpose."

UNION'S FORMER SHERIFF IN WASHINGTON HOSPITAL

Elizabeth, July 18—Freeholder Thomas J. Pierson yesterday received word from United States Senator James E. Martine to the effect that former Sheriff N. K. Thompson, of this city, is in the George Washington hospital, Washington, D. C., suffering with paralysis, with which he was stricken last Sunday night. The former sheriff's right side is affected by the stroke. Senator Martine said the patient was resting comfortably and no serious results are anticipated. Mr. Thompson is 72 years old.

The former sheriff was street commissioner in this city for several years. He was succeeded early this year after a long and bitter contest by William P. Neafsey. Shortly after that Mr. Thompson was appointed a doorkeeper in the United States Senate by Senator Martine. He has been in Washington for several months.

Mr. Pierson told many of the former sheriff's friends, who are legion, about his illness and there were many expressions of hope for a speedy recovery. A number of messages of sympathy were sent to Mr. Thompson.

NOTES FROM LABOR FIELD

The Cigarmakers' International Union has 50,000 members.

The Western Canada Postal Clerks' Association has organized with over 800 members.

Plans are being made to affiliate the 17,000 union miners of Iowa with the State Federation of Labor.

The latest reports show that more than 50,000 men are employed as coal miners in the Pacific Northwest.

The Amalgamated Associatio n of Street and Electric Railway Employes will hold its biennial convention in Salt Lake City in September.

The first lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was organized by eleven Erie Railroad firemen at Port Jervis, N. Y., in 1873.

The International Association of Machinists has begun a movement for the establishment of the eight hour workday for machinists throughout the country.

An increase of wages of from $2 to $6 a month has been granted its telegraph operators, tower men and station agents by the Erie Railroad.

A million dollar hotel for working girls and women employed in down town stores is the aim of a movement begun by the Chicago Chapter, D. A. R.

The Chamber of Deputies, at Montevideo, Uruguay, has recently approved a bill providing for an eight hour workday for all persons in the government employ.

A law that has just gone into effect in Ohio requires every employer of five or more persons to pay his employes at least twice a month, thus abolishing the custom of monthly paydays.

Working girls of Chicago who are now voters are going to open a campaign to eliminate from the State legislature every member who voted against the fifty-four hour bill or the minimum wage bill for women.

After being unsuccessful in three attempts to have John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers, mode State Labor Commissioner, Governor Sulzer, of New York, has appointed James M. Lynch, president of the International Tyographical Union, to the position.

After a series of conferences extending over several months, the officials of the Chicago, Peoria and St Louis railroad, and the telegraphers employed by the road, have arrived at an agreement whereby the telegraphers will receive an increase of wages varying from five to ten per cent.

Atlantic City will be a gathering place for many prominent labor leaders July 21. The executive council of the American Federation of Labor will meet there that day and also the executive councils of the railroads, building trades, union label and metal trades departments of the federation. The meeting will discuss plans for the next annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which is to be held in Seattle in November. The interests of the labor organizations as affected by the so-called lobby disclosures at Washington will also come up for discussion.

MISS WINCOSKE BRIDE OF WILLIAM F. TERRADELL

Somerville, June 18.—Miss Wilhelmina Wincoske, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wincoske, was married to William Francis Terradell, of Trenton, at the home of the bride's parents, this place, on Wednesday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. J. Wahl, pastor of the German Reformed church, in the preseace of a large number of invited friends and relatives.

The bride wore a hand-embroidered gown elaborately trimmed with Irish crochet, and a white leghorn picture hat, trimmed with French roses and duchess lace. She carried a beautiful flower bouquet of orchids and lillies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Loretta Terradell, sister of the bridegoom, was attired in peach colored chiffon cloth, over pale pink satin, trimmed with silk shadow lace and pink rosebuds. She wore a white picture hat and carried sweet peas and orchids. Henry Wincoske, brother of the bride, was best man. After the wedding luncheon the newly wedded couple left for the Catskills, and on their return will reside in Bound Brook, where the bridegroom is employed by the Public Service.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

The Stairs in Your Home.

Stair cleaning is a bugbear in many households. It is almost impossible to sweep them without raising a troublesome dust that usually makes it necessary to do the work twice in order to get them really clean. Moreover, they receive so much wear that they always seem dusty and soiled.

This state of things is especially troublesome when the stairs are carpeted. When they are bare they are easier to keep clean.

When There is a Carpet.

If a carpet is dessirable, as it is sometimes when there are old persons in the family—bare stairs are slippery—it should be a narrow strip of carpet fastened through the middle of the stairs leaving each end of each step bare. Sprinkle each step, beginning at the top, with dampened tea leaves, and brush each step clean, with a stiff whisk broom dampened in cold water. Brush the dust into a dustpan held on the step below. Brush the bare part of the steps at the same time, with a soft brush.

About half an hour after this brushing, begin at the top of the stairs again. This time use a dampened cloth and two oiled ones. With the damp one wipe the surface of the carpet and, lifting it at the edges as much as possible, run the cloth under it to collect any stray dust. At the same time rub the bare part of the step with the oily cloth and with the other oily cloth wipe the banisters and the woodwork. If stairs and woodwork are enameled instead of stained, use a damp cloth, wrung almost dry to clean them.

Allow a full half hour to elapse between the time of brushing the stairs and the time of dusting them, for it takes the dust a long time to settle.

Bare Stairs

If bare stairs are brushed every day with a soft brush, the dust being swept from each step into a dustpan, and then, half an hour later, wiped with an oily or damp cloth, they will stay in good condition. It may be necessary to have a stiff, pointed brush to keep the corners free from dust and dirt.

Stairs should never be highly varnished, as this finish makes them treacherous even to the sure footed, and highly dangerous to the old or infirm. White paint and enamel or an oil finish is the most satisfactory sort.

BAKED Asparagus With Eggs.—Cut the tender parts of asparagus stalks into short pieces and boil till tender in salted water. Drain and mix with a drawn butter sauce, seasoning with salt and pepper. Pour into a buttered baking dish, break five or six eggs on the top, dot with butter and salt and pepper and put in the oven till the eggs are set.

An Attractive Dish.

Asparagus Mold.—Take a teaspoonful of minced parsley and enough asparagus to fill a small baking dish. Pour three eggs beaten light into a dish. To these add a thickening made of two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour and one cupful of sweet milk or cream, a half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of paprika. Cook until well done and perfectly smooth. Add to the asparagus and when well mixed put all in a buttered baking dish, stand the dish in a pan of hot water to cook until firm. Turn out and serve with drawn butter sauce.

With Eggs and Cheese.

Asparagus and Poached Eggs.—Take two cupfuls of rich milk or cream, two tablespoonfuls each of pastry flour, of butter and of Parmesan cheese, half a teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of pepper, a cupful of cooked asparagus cut in one-inch lengths, six fresh eggs.

Make a sauce of the first five ingredients. Add the asparagus and when very hot slip the eggs in gently and poach them over hot water until they are set. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, strew with the grated cheese and serve on buttered toast.

A Vegetable Omelet.

Asparagus Omelet.—Take one large tablespoonful of flour and butter and stir together. Put in a saucepan over the fire, and when well blended, add one cupful of milk. Stir till smooth, add a teaspoonful of chopped parsley and take from fire and cool. Beat three eggs separately, add the yolks to the cold sauce with a little salt and cayenne, then stir in one cupful of cooked asparagus tips and the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Put a tablespoonful of butter in a hot frying pan. When brown pour in the mixture, break it in places with a knife to let the uncooked part run down. When it is set place in a hot oven for five minutes fold over and serve.

Towser Tore Up the Book.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Towser Paid For His Naughty Frolic.

THERE were short hairs all over Jack's clothing as he climbed to daddy's knee.

"Having a romp with Sheppie?" daddy asked.

"Yes, indeed," Jack replied.

"We haven't had a game with Sheppie for a long time. We were afraid he might be lonesome," Evelyn added.

"I trust our Sheppie will not get lonesome," daddy laughed. "When dogs are lonesome and have nothing to do they are apt to get into trouble.

"I must tell you of little Towser. He was a Scotch terrier, and both his mother and his mistress had brought him up very carefully.

"One day his mistress went for a visit to her grandma's. Towser was left all alone, and he couldn't think what to do with himself.

"First he went into the sitting room and stretched out on the rug. Then he yawned a very great deal. No; Towser did not care in the least that it is ill bred to yawn in public without making an attempt to cover one's widely opened mouth. At any rate, there was no one present but Mrs. Tabby, and she was watching what she believed to be a mouse hole in the corner.

"Towser noticed Tabby's tail waving gently in the air. Towser had had fun with Tabby before, and, with a bark, he sent her racing around the room.

"To save herself Tabby jumped up on the table and upset a bottle of ink. Then she leaped to the mantel and knocked down a nice vase.

"Tabby meowed with distress. She knew her mistress would be displeased.

"Towser romped around until he found a book on the floor. By poking his nose under it he managed to open it.

"'Now, see me read it,' he barked to Tabby.

"'You would better leave it alone,' Tabby warned. 'You know we are not allowed to meddle with things in here.'

"'Oh, fraidy, fraidy cat!' barked Towser. And to show he wasn't afraid he tore a few pages out of the book. He was having a splendid time when his mistress came in the door.

"'Now you will catch it,' Tabby exulted, and she jumped down from the mantel and slipped out of the door.

"'Mercy on us! Did you do all of this?' the lady exclaimed as she viewed the room.

"'You naughty doggie!' she cried. 'Oh, you bad, bad little dog!' she added.

"And then Towser was punished. Of course he had to be, and a very sorry little dog he was when Tabby met him a little later in the hall."

below, as shown. It is pretty, made from embroidered flouncing, but is also a good model for a plain material.

A great deal of crepe de chine is being used for underwear this season, and the girl who likes dainty garments will find this one of crepe de chine with scalloped edges a charming addition to her lingerie.

For the sixteen-year-old size the corset cover will take one and a half yards of flouncing fourteen inches wide, with half a yard sixteen inches for the peplum, or one and an eighth yards of plain material thirty-six inches wide.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes for girls from fourteen to eighteen years of age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 7910, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

Dolly Varden Dress.

The new flowered crape gives a quaint suggestion of other days which accords well with fichus, reticules and picture hats with long streamers, as fashion requires. This Dolly Varden gown of flowered crape is draped over flounces of shadow lace.

Sleeves in the cotton frocks are seldom full length. In many of the more dressy ones they stop just above the elbow. Necks are almost universally open, a summer fashion which deserves to be perpetuated. Some of the long sleeves have fullness, which is brought into a cuff, but this fullness does not form a deep pouch. Other sleeves have rather a wide mouth, something like a child's short sleeve.

Up to Date Clothes.

A moderately priced or even cheap material fashioned cleverly in the latest style is infinitely preferable to something expensive with a passe air about it. Indeed, it takes an artist at the trade to live up to the requirements of the fabulously high priced materials in vogue.

MELLEN RESIGNS FROM NEW HAVEN

Will Quit Presidency of Road Oct. 1.

DIRECTORS' LONG SESSION

Announcement Made After They Had Been Closeted Five Hours—Came From Northern Pacific, Where He Had Reputation as Traffic Getter.

New York, July 18.—Charles S. Mellen tendered to the directors of the New Haven system his resignation as president of the parent and subsidiary companies, to take effect not later than Oct. 1. No formal action was taken on the resignation, which will be considered at a meeting of the directors this afternoon. It was informally accepted, however, before the meeting yesterday.

The meeting, which began at 1 o'clock, lasted five hours. At its conclusion the following statement was given out:

"Mr. Mellen at a meeting of the board of directors tendered his resignation of the presidency of the New Haven road and all its subsidiary companies, to take effect at the pleasure of the board, but in any event not later than Oct. 1, 1913."

The statement was handed out by Edward G. Riggs, executive manager. Mr. Riggs was asked if the directors had acted on the resignation in any way.

"There is no further information at the present time," said Mr. Riggs.

Report of Elliott as Successor.

Reports that Mr. Mellen would resign were circulated on the Stock Exchange as early as March 20, when he denied the report by saying "it was too foolish to answer."

It was then reported that Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific, would succeed him.

A month later Mr. Mellen was facing the allegations made by David E. Brown, accountant for the interstate commerce commission during the commissions inquiry at Boston, implying that the New Haven's president had cleared $200,000 in certain transactions connected with the purchase and sale of stock of the New Haven and two subsidiary companies. This Mr. Mellen emphatically denied.

On May 1 he told the commission in repeating his denials of a $50,000 contribution to the Roosevelt 1904 campaign.

Mellen Elected in 1903.

Mr. Mellen was elected president of the New Haven on Oct. 30, 1903. He succeeded John M. Hall, resigned. Senator Depew, one of the directors, spoke flatteringly at the time of Mr. Mellen's capabilities as a railroad man and of his high personal character.

One of the inducements offered Mr. Mellen to leave the Northern Pacific was that he should have the same free hand in the management of the New Haven. He had had the reputation of being a wonderful traffic getter, as well as a safe financial manager.

He had built up three different railroad properties successively—the Boston and Lowell, the New York and New England and the Northern Pacific. For five years he had been second vice president of the New Haven and that company had let him go to the Northern Pacific with reluctance.

Since Mr. Mellen took charge of the New Haven severe criticism of his methods of management was made from time to time, culminating in statements by the interstate commerce commission to the effect that the policy of the road had been directed toward the maintenance of a monopoly of transportation in New England and connecting New England with the rest of the country, rather than to the improvement of the road's equipment.

To this was ascribed to a large extent the numerous wrecks on the New Haven.

On Feb. 1 last Mr. Mellen and Edson J. Chamberlain, president of the Grand Trunk, were arraigned in the United States court here on an indictment found against them charging violation of the Sherman act in an alleged traffic agreement between the two roads. They pleaded "not guilty."

They had been previously indicted and the bail of $10,000 was continued.

FIVE MEN TRAPPED IN MINE

Ten Others Rescued When Cloudburst Floods Shaft.

Eveleth, Minn., July 18.—Ten of the fifteen miners imprisoned in the Spruce mine by a cloudburst have been rescued. A crew of men under Captain Wilkins is dynamiting the drifts and it is thought they will reach the other five soon. It is believed that they are still living.

A crew of 200 men worked under Captain Wilkins' direction with pick and shovel in addition to the blasting and when the ten men were brought to the surface it was thought that the others would be found near by. It developed, however, that they were cut off before they could reach their more fortunate companions.

State Gets $4,000,000 Death Tax.

Albany, July 18.—Senator Wagner declares that the state will get $4,000,000 under the inheritance tax law from the J. Pierpont Morgan and Whitelaw Reid estates, and an additional $1,000,000 from the corporations tax.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is a pitcher charged up with losing a game after pitching a good game and then in the ninth his third baseman makes a wild throw which lets in the winning run? This was a feature play at the 'Plains Sunday. Randolph certainly pitched a fine game Sunday, when in the ninth it looked good for ten innings, but something happened. Conti throws the game away by a wild pitch, and he knew it too. Ask him? To be sure it was a pretty catch he made of Baldwin's hot liner, but he had lots of time to throw it over to first, but threw it wild. It does seem a shame to credit Randolph with losing the game. At any rate he wasn't charged with it on the Plainfield book by Conger who kept their score. W. H. C.

Answer—It is certainly regretable but Conger will get into trouble in figuring out his pitchers' records at the end of the season if he doesn't credit the defeat to whom it technically belongs. Randolph must be credited with a defeat.

"GRAND OLD MAN OF CRICKET."

London, July 18.—Dr. William G. Grace, known throughout the English speaking world as the "Grand Old Man of Cricket," received the congratulations of a host of admirers today on the occasion of his sixty-fifth birthday anniversary. "W. G." as he is familiarly called by devotees of the game, is universally conceded to be the greatest cricketer who ever played. In first class matches he has played no fewer than 126 three-figure innings—125 in England and one in Australia—and in all kinds of cricket he has hit as many as 217 hundred, a feat which no other cricketer has approached. He has also on seven occasions accomplished the double feat of scoring 1,000 runs and taking 100 wickets in one season. At the age of 65 Dr. Grace is still as keenly interested in cricket as he was in the days when he was learning the game in his father's orchard with three dogs to assist in the fielding.

SHOOTING TOURNEY.

Green Bay, Wis., July 18.—Many well known shots are taken part in the annual tournament of the Wisconsin and Upper Peninsula of Michigan Trapshooters' Association, which opened today on the grounds of the local gun club at Bay View Beach. The tournament will continue three days.

ANOTHER LOCAL CHAMPION.

The Plainfield boys at Camp Wawayanda scored another triumph in the second section athletic meet held on VanGelder oval and George King, of Plainfield, duplicated Godfrey Clay's stunt of the first section by making a clean sweep in the 95-pound class with three first places. He won a total of 224 points for his work.

After a week buffeting the waves and rejuvenated to finish the season as a four club league, Central New Jersey organization will resume hostilities tomorrow afternoon. High Bridge playing in this city and Dunellen at Somerville. In the event of Dunellen losing and High Bridge winning, the cellar occupants would mount to the third rung and Dunellen would fall back to fourth.

It has been rumored that Jimmy Clinton will do the twirling for the Pets' opponents tomorrow and there is a possible chance of the Plainfields slipping back behind Somerville if this clever heaver adorns the High Bridge mound. He has always been a terror for the local batters and he is a favorite with the Plainfield fans.

UMPIRE'S RARE DECISION WHEN WHITEHOPES CLASH

Second baseman McGee and left fielder Cathers of the St. Louis team, came to blows in a spirited altercation in the third inning of the second game with the Giants at the Polo Grounds yesterday. Magee criticised Cathers for not running in to get Doyle's fly which fell safe when three of the St. Louis players were near it.

The fight occurred on the St. Louis bench. Cathers resented Magee's remarks, and the men were soon clinched in a fight. The other St. Louis players jumped into the thick of the trouble and the men were separated after each had struck a few blows. Umpires Eason and Brennan then ordered both men off the field and the National League will probably take some action against the players involved.

The fight stopped the game for a time and the spectators who tried to jump over the boxes into the field were turned back by the policemen. Magee and Cathers went to the clubhouse accompanied by Larry McLean, who prevented the men from getting close enough to each other to renew hostilities.

Monroe Avenue and Hope Chapel, two of the greatest rivals in the Sunday-school Baseball League, and a couple that have played good ball in the organization since it started here two years ago, will clash in another diamond struggle tomorrow afternoon, the former fighting to get nearer the top and the latter to overcome the lead gained in the last two contests by the First Baptist aggregation and again take the lead in the race for the pennant.

The Baptists now lead the Chapelites by a margin of eighty-six points and in the event of the Hopes winning and the Baptists losing to the First Presbyterian nine, Hope could again take the lead.

FOUR-BASE SMASH FOR TOMMY MULLIN

Playing third base for the Brunswick team of the Empire League, Tommy Mullin yesterday afternoon, waded into one of the Thomasville's team twisters for a terrific clout that went for a circuit drive. Mullin's team won the game by a score of 2 to 0 and the Plainfield boy was the center of attraction in the victory.

His home run smash went over the left field fence and he received a tremendous ovation from the crowd of fans and incidentally something else that counts for more than cheers. The merchants and fans on the Empire League circuit are enthusiastic over the success of the minor organization this season and in every town the business men have offered merchandise and other rewards for extra base clouts. Tommy fell heir to a complete wardrobe yesterday and increased his popularity considerably.

"MAC" SAYS

Of all the sports I ever knew, the one I love the most is sitting in a baseball park behind a great big post.

If the baseball magnates had the interest of the public at heart (awfter) they would build grandstands with glass posts. Or they would furnish each man who sits behind a post with an X-ray machine.

Plainfield takes the field against High Bridge Saturday afternoon. There has not been an extra inning game in the Central League as long as we can remember. In fact we don't know whether the Central Leaguers are capable of playing more than the regulation number of rounds in one afternoon.

Although there is not much trouble along this particular line in the local leagues, a fact has been troubling our minds for some time past is why the magnates have not thought of charging extra for an overtime game. Chance to get even on the gate receipts, Dorflinger, if you play long enough. A get-rich-quick scheme.

The sensation of the year in the Sunday-School Baseball League is the fact that the Park Avenue nine has meandered into the middle of July without fracturing a single team's chances of victory. A trophy in the form of a wooden kimona would be appropriate at this time.

Quoth a headline, "Ball players oppose a cut in salary." Only another evidence to substantiate our contention that ball players really resemble human beings.

Ernest Dorflinger thinks the Pets will win the pennant in the Central New Jersey League. Thereby demonstrating that he is not an original thinker.

It is said that Frank Chance gains five pounds every time he wins a ball game. At his present rate he may, in the course of a few years, become heavy enough to classify as a featherweight.

MAYOR WILLIAMS WILL BE ON HAND TOMORROW

Jimmy Clinton Will Not Pitch for the High Bridge Team Against Plainfield.

Manager Ernest Dorflinger, of the Plainfield baseball team, received word from Mayor W. M. Williams, of High Bridge, that he would be on hand tomorrow afternoon at Parker Field to witness the game between the Plainfield and High Bridge aggregations of the Central New Jersey League. Mayor Williams is president of the Central League and he was the one who kept it from going to the wall this past week when he replenished the High Bridge Club's treasury, a thing that he has done on several previous occasions.

Another statement made by Manager Dorflinger this morning was to the effect that he did not think that Jimmy Clinton would be on the mound for the High Bridge ball tossers to heave the pellet to the Plainfield batters, and this is a gratifying fact to the Pets, for they have always looked upon Jimmy's shoots as unsolvable mysteries.

ROYAL GIANTS' LINEUP FOR WEEK END CONTESTS

Manager Pete Simmons, of the Royal Colored Giants, has issued the following lineup for his Saturday and Sunday games this week:

RUMORS THAT LOU DIXON HAS BEEN GIVEN RELEASE

Word coming from Brunswick, Georgia, this morning, to the effect that Louis Dixon, of this city, who has been receiving a try-out as backstop for the Brunswick team in the Empire League was received in this office and Dixon may be back behind the bat for Dunellen tomorrow afternoon.

Dixon has been replaced as catcher by Manager Kyte and even if he does not manage to stick it is doubtful whether he will get into many of the contests down South, as the manager is an excellent backstop and a favorite with the fans.

FORMER SENATOR KEAN REPORTS BUNKER CROP

"Speaking about crops," remarked former Senator Kean to a reporter, "I have this year on my farm at Ursino the finest crop of wheat, rye and oats that I think was ever grown there. The corn also is looking remarkably well although it is a little early to predict what the yield will be. Last year I raised abut 2,000 bushels of wheat, oats and rye.

"This year's product will far exceed that. All the grain was ground with a gas engine and to illustrate how cheap the use of gas is it only cost me $5.75 for the three months I used the engine. The gas came from the plant in Elizabeth and it was charged up to me at the same price it is sold to other consumers."

MEXICAN CONSUL FEARS DYNAMITE

Crosses Border Nightly to Texas to Sleep.

WILSON ON HIS WAY HOME

Germany Officially Denies That She Has Asked United States to Intervene In Southern Republic—Mexican Press Comment on New Move.

Eagle Pass, Tex., July 18.—The discovery of a plot to dynamite the American consulate and fear that his life is in imminent danger, is said to be tenor of a dispatch sent to Washington by Luther Ellsworth, United States consul to Piedgras Negras, Mexico.

Mr. Ellsworth is spending the nights at the army post in Eagle Pass. Official records of the consulate were removed to the American side of the border for safe keeping.

Mr. Ellsworth was said to have reported to Washington that he had been reliably informed that the conspiracy was hatched among constitutionalist leaders in Piedgras Negras. The consulate recently was moved from the main street to the bank of the Rio Grande, where it commands a view of the American bank.

Since discovery of the conspiracy a guard of United States troops has been stationed at night on the American side and a code of lantern signals arranged with the consulate. In case of a call for help from the consulate the guard was instructed to notify the commanding officer immediately.

The constitutionalist commandant, Mr. Calzado, has assured the consul he need have no fear. General Carranza has given his personal pledge for the safety of the Americans.

Fear Outbreak In Mexico.

Washington, July 18.—Satisfaction was expressed in diplomatic circles that Germany had put at rest the persistent reports that she intended to demand that the United States intervene in Mexico. The German foreign office made formal denial that Germany had demanded that the United States take drastic steps to protect foreign lives and interests in Mexico.

Henry Lane Wilson, United States ambassador to Mexico, has started on his way north in response to the call of President Wilson. In the most favorable circumstances he is not likely to reach Washington much before July 27. Before he arrives here to lay what information he has of affairs in Mexico and the status of the Huerta government before President Wilson it is feared that more serious anti-American outbreaks may occur in Mexico.

State department officials said that the protest of Governor Carranza, leader of the constitutionalists, against recognition of the Huerta government had not yet been received.

If the Carranza government should receive recognition as belligerents the Huerta government would be absolved from satisfying further claims made by Americans for losses in the country controlled by the constitutionalists.

Predict Huerta Recognition.

City of Mexico, July 18.—All the newspapers here, having been cautioned by an official of the Mexican government to treat the visit of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson to Washington carefully and conservatively, confine themselves to local stories and speculation that his going probably means early recognition of the Huerta government by the United States. They profess to believe that a successor to Ambassador Wilson will be named immediately, and in this way recognition will be achieved.

El Pais is the only newspaper to display bitterness. It confines itself chiefly to attacking Ambassador Wilson as an enemy of the Mexican government. It ridicules the idea of war, saying that Mexicans no longer are afraid.

FATAL AUTO COLLISION.

Woman Mortally Hurt When Car of E. H. Hooker Hits Another.

Greenwich, Conn., July 18.—In an automobile collision between a touring car owned by Elon Huntington Hooker, the well known National Progressive treasurer, and a touring car owned by George H. Curtis of 15 East Seventy-fifth street, New York, on the Boston Post road here, Mrs. Curtis received injuries which it is believed will result in her death. Her body was badly crushed and her skull fractured.

Miss Edith Adams, the seventeen-year-old daughter of R. F. Adams of 3 East Seventy-sixth street, New York, is also at the hospital with minor cuts and injuries, as also the Curtis chauffeur, James Lally. The Hooker chauffeur, Fred Smith, is held at the police station awaiting the outcome of the accident. Both cars were running at about thirty-six miles an hour, it is stated.

BIG RAILROAD STRIKE AGAIN THREATENED

Managers Charged With Acting In Bad Faith.

New York, July 18.—If the eastern railroads stand by their managers in insisting that the grievances of the railroads be considered at this time by the arbitrators who consider the demands of the trainmen and conductors then there will be no arbitration at all, but a strike that will cripple the freight and passenger traffic on all the lines north of the Ohio river and east of the Mississippi river. This was the statement made last night by President W. G. Lee of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and he spoke not only for himself and his own brotherhood, but for President A. B. Garretson of the Order of Railway Conductors. To the same effect was a prediction made yesterday by many others familiar with the wage controversy.

The managers' intention to attach eight stipulations of their own to the matters submitted to arbitration was implied by Elisha Lee, the chairman of their conference committee, as long ago as Monday afternoon, but it was not until Wednesday night that such intention was made definite by a plain statement and the issuance of the list of eight proposed changes in the rates of pay and the working conditions. The substance of this communication did not reach the brotherhoods' committee of a hundred until yesterday morning, and it increased the bitterness of the men to the highest point attained in the present dispute.

The anger first shown by the brotherhood leaders did not abate as the day wore on, and last evening the two chiefs, Garretson and Lee, were ready with their reply, a long letter to Elisha Lee, copies of which were not only distributed to the newspapers but mailed at once to President Wilson, to the secretary of state, to the railroad presidents and to every member of the house of representatives and the senate.

The burden of this letter is a charge of bad faith. In more temperate language President Seth Low of the National Civic federation wrote a letter of remonstrance to the managers. To-day he will go before them to argue that they must not at this time press their own grievances to arbitration.

WHOLE TOWN QUITS MEAT.

Newington, Conn., Demands Lower Prices and Butcher Closes Up.

New Britain, Conn., July 18.—The only person selling meat in the town of Newington has quit. He did not sell enough meat in the last week to buy shoes for his horse. Newington has decided to boycott meat until there is a fall in the price. Vegetables will be the standby.

Newington has a population of about 1,500 and is considered a wealthy town. The Maple Hill section is the home of many of New Britain's professional men.

'MOVIE' BUILDING ON 'UNFAIR' LIST

ASKED FOR FORFEIT

Morris Abrams and Harry Dreier, as Owners, it is Explained, Are not Concerned in the Dispute With Union Labor.

Following the meeting of the Building Trades Council, last night, it was announced that the building conditions on the new moving picture theatre being constructed on West Second street by Benjamin Nieberg, of New York, remain unchanged, in other words the job is still on the "unfair" list and no union labor can be employed while the present conditions exist.

The Building Trades Council made a proposition to Mr. Nieberg to settle the trouble, but he refused to accept it, it is said. The offer was that he should forfeit $200, the money to be divided among local charities, and then put the job on the "fair" list by employing all union labor. It is claimed by those in charge of the work that the masons now employed on the job are union men, but William Lunger, the walking delegate for the local trades, declares that they are non-union, with possibly one exception. He states that the job was "unfair" from the start and has remained so up to the present time.

Harry C. Runyon, representing Morris Abrams and Harry Dreier, appeared at the meeting of the Building Trades Council, last night, for the purpose of explaining to the members that neither Mr. Abrams nor Mr. Dreier are in any way responsible for the present trouble. He explained the agreement whereby his clients declare that they leased the property to Mr. Nieberg for a term of fifteen years, and that Mr. Nieberg alone is responsible for any labor troubles that may have developed. Messrs. Abrams and Dreier claim that they have nothing whatever to do with the employment of labor or the erection of the building.

It seemed to be the impression of the union men following last night's meeting that the building would be completed with non-union labor, as Mr. Nieberg declined to accept the Council's proposition. Masons and laborers are still employed on the job.

SECOND CONCERT PROGRAM ARRANGED BY COMMISSION

Following the successful introduction of the Sunday afternoon concert at Parker Field last week, the Playground Commission has arranged another first-class program of music for tomorrow afternoon and it is expected that the attendance figures will even surpass those of last Sunday which were far beyond the anticipations of the commission. Naylor's band will again be present to render instrumental music and the new equipment in the easterly portion of the playground will form suitable resting places for the audience.

The second program consists of these numbers:

Part 1—March, "Second Regiment;" overture, "Reception;" cornet solo, "The Holy City," Whitney Frazee; waltzes, "Over the Waves;" March, "Lost and Won."

MONKEY SHOW AT PROCTOR'S

Announcement is made of another big vaudeville show at Proctor's theatre next week. The feature act will be "A Monkey Cabaret," in which twenty-five of the brightest and funniest monkeys participate. They give a regular vaudeville show, including a monkey orchestra, the audience, the performers and a trained dog. This remarkable act comes direct from the great London Hippodrome, the house of many novelties. Both the children and grown-ups will enjoy this show. Other features of the bill will include Florence Herst & Co., in a comedy skit, "Fun in the Woods," in which there is a real rain storm. The characters are all "kids" and this will be another treat for the kiddies; Hillier and Hill, laughmakers; Weslyn Trio, in a skit, "A Little Bit of Everything;" Francis Wood, master hoop roller, while the photo-plays, five in number, embrace comedy, drama, scenic and educational features.

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, will take the month of August for his vacation, spending it in New York State.

PLAN ADJUSTMENT OF TOWNSHIP LINE

Warren and North Plainfield Twps. Committees Hold Session.

William deLaR. Anderson, Alexander Archibold and Albert Brokaw, comprising the North Plainfield Township Committee and John Cooper, William Mernagh and John Gunton, comprising the Warren Township Committee, met last night and agreed to go over the new line dividing the two townships for the purpose of making an equitable and just apportionment of the taxes and adjusting matters in general.

It was the opinion of the committeemen that the line as at present established was not satisfactory to either township, for in several instances it cuts up some of the farms into nothing more than garden patches. It was the opinion of some of the committeemen that it might eventually be necessary to go to the legislature to have the matter settled satisfactorily. However, the new line is not likely to be changed materially. The two committees will go over the line on Tuesday, after which some decision will be reached as to further action.

There was a report in circulation that one of the several reasons advanced for wanting to change the dividing line was to place Pedeflous' Hotel, now in Warren township, in North Plainfield township, the proprietor believing that it would be to his advantage to be in the latter township.

A resident of Warren township in speaking of this phase of the question said today that he thought the township had always given Pedeflous fair treatment, but he did not think it was any particular advantage to the township to have the hotel within its territory and if North Plainfield township wanted it ther would probably be no objection.

The original dividing line was laid out in 1872, it being surveyed by a men by the name of Drake. According to the residents of Warren township there has never been any substantial reasons for making a change.

HANNIGAN REPRIMANDED AND PLACED ON PROBATION TERM

Elizabeth, July 19.—In suspending sentence on Samuel Hannigan, a seventeen years old Plainfield youth yesterday in the Court of Quarter Sessions, for the theft of ice cream, Judge James C. Connolly severely repremanded the youth and said that if he appeared before the court again a sentence would be imposed on him.

He was placed on probation for three years, having already been in the hands of the probation officers and was told to obey his father.

A number of Plainfield young women held a canoeing party on the South Plainfield lake Thursday night, after which an enjoyable time was had at the home of Philip Smith, where vocal and instrumental music was rendered by members of the party. Mrs. Hilaire Blatz and Mrs. Smith, of Plainfield, chaperoned the party.

MEAT SCARCE, SUBSTITUTE FISH

The high cost of fresh meat has no terrors for Charles Jensen and his friends of Greenbrook road, for when the meat prices soar to lofty heights Jensen gathers a party of friends and sets out to rid the streams of the finny tribe. Yesterday, angling at Sandy Hook he and three friends, landed sixty-two fluke, or enough to supply the mand their neighbors with breakfast food for the next week.

RESCUED FROM WATER WHEN NEAR DROWNED

Small Boy Pushed into Tier's Lake and Caught as He Disappeared.

Having been induced by some older companions to set out on an exploing expedition along the banks of Tier's Lake, Harry Hardgrove, Jr., the four years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hardgrove, of Pearl street, was the cause of a lot of excitement at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he was pushed into the icy waters of the pond by one of the older boys, who said he did it as a joke and did not know the water was so deep. The victim, who is barely three feet in height, went in the water which was over eight feet in depth at the place where he was pushed from the bank, and was going down for the third time when the cries of the frightened companions attracted the notice of a Jersey City Company employe in the factory nearby, and he rushed to the boy's assistance, pulling him out by the hair as he was going under for the last time.

When taken to his home the youngster was unconscious and life was apparently extinct. Resuscitation work was tried, however, and after a great amount of rolling and rubbing the boy began to show signs of life and in an hour rallied so that he was pronounced beyond danger. When seen by a Daily Press reporter this morning the little fellow was apparently none the worse for the accident but he could not be induced to go outside of his own gate which is a short stone's throw from the pond.

KILLED FOUR DAYS AFTER HIS ARRIVAL

Native of England Met Death While Walking Railroad Tracks.

A body of an identified man was brought to Cole's undertaking parlors in this city at an early hour this morning, following an accident occurring on the Jersey Central Railroad at Cranford. The victim, in company with another of about his own age, was walking the tracks in the direction of Philadelphia and was struck from the rear by the train that leaves Cranford depot at 1:41. It was learned this morning that the dead man was Willard Follery who arrived in this country from Queenstown, England, four days ago.

His companion, who had met him in New York city, could give only meager details of Follery's identity but said that the dead man had told him that he was on his way to Philadelphia where he had relatives. The two men were walking along the tracks in a westerly direction and the train bore down on them so suddenly that Follery did not have a chance to step to one side, and his companion, who was walking on the outside of the tracks saw his body picked up and whirled through the air a distance of fifty feet.

MRS. CHAS. H. WETZEL DIES OF COMPLICATIONS

Mrs. Zilpha Wetzel, wife of Charles H. Wetzel, died of a complication of diseases, yesterday at her home on East Front street, following a long illness. She had been a resident of Plainfield for the past five years. Her husband purchased the Clarkson estate after coming here. She is survived by her husband and her brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Bettman. The funeral will be held at the late home, Monday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring will officiate and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

ORCHESTRA REHEARSAL.

The weekly rehearsal of the Municipal Orchestra will be held at the Washington school, Monday night, and among the guests will be Mayor Percy H. Stewart, and Dr. Leonard Waldo. The public is invited, including all musicians of the city.

STREET WORK UNDER WAY.

The street department under the direction of Street Commissioner A. T. Gavett is repairing West Seventh street, putting it in first-class condition. Other streets about the city in need of repairs are also being given attention.

GREAT CONTEST CLOSES TONIGHT

Herbert E. Parker, Frank H. Smith and Wm. G. DeMeza to Act as Judges.

Promptly at 10 o'clock tonight the great subscriptions contest of the Plainfield Daily Press and the costly and numerous prizes will be awarded by a committee of three prominent local men who have consented to serve as judges for the count of the ballots. These judges will be Frank H. Smith, Register of Deeds of Union county and exalted ruler of the Plainfield Elks; William G. DeMeza, City Judge of Plainfield, and Herbert E. Parker, secretary of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. All the contestants are invited to be present and watch the count man and the winners, as announced by the judges, will be given orders for the prizes.

The grand prize is a fully equipped Henderson car, costing $1,585, and there are two automobiles as awards—a fully equipped Overland car, costing $985, and a fully equipped Ford car, costing $525. But this is not all by any means. There are two prizes in the shape of bank accounts of $150 each in the Plainfield Trust Company and also two accounts of $35 each, on deposit at the same institution, and two $50 vitaphones. Moreover, two scholarships in the Plainfield Business College and two gold watches.

Not until the judges ascertain the fact will any one know the winners. During the last few hours of the contest, it is possible that some candidates may make a showing and this always adds to the uncertainty.

The judges will perform their task in the business office of the newspaper. If you are a candidate be sure to be on hand at 10 o'clock tonight.

DOGS KILL CHICKENS BY THE SCORES THERE

Somerville, July 19.—Owners of chickens are still complaining of the depredations of dogs, and it is estimated that fully 200 head of poultry have been killed within a week. One of the latest victims is Lucas Dailey, of South Bridge street, who had 35 head of fine Rhode Island Reds killed in one night. It is now being questioned that the killing is the work of dogs, and many are inclined to think that it is some other kind of an animal. On comparing notes it is learned that nearly all of the chickens have been killed in the same manner. The heads have been bitten off and the body not molested, and that generally one was taken when the animal departed.

AN ENTERTAINMENT.

A pleasant evening was enjoyed last night by the Dunbar Social and Educational Club when they met at the Washington School building. Solos were rendered by Misses Juta Codoze and Viola Jones who were accompanied on the piano by the Misses Alice Maynard and Gertrude Green. Dancing was enjoyed by those present until 10 o'clock when the club went into business session. The new by-laws of the organization were read and laid over until the next meeting.

OCCUPANTS UNINJURED WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

Two automobiles, both wearing New York licenses, collided at Park avenue and West Fifth street at 6 o'clock last night, one of the machines being completely wrecked by the terrific impact, although none of the occupants of either car was injured so as to necessitate medical treatment. A Ford runabout, traveling east on West Fifth street and driven by M. C. Schrank, of 16 West Forty-fifth street, New York, swerved to the right as it passed the corner and struck a big Reo touring car driven by Robert Daley, of 161 West 100th street, New York, the small car being sent a distance of ten feet to one side of the road by the impact.

The responsibility for the accident rested with the driver of the light machine for a momentary exhibition of recklessness on the part of Schrank, when he became excited at seeing the approaching Reo car, caused him to swerve his machine and smash headlong into the touring car which was much heavier and better able to stand the force of the blow. Eye witnesses of the accident exonerated Daley from all blame as he was traveling north at moderate rate of speed when the Ford car loomed up in front of him. In the Reo besides the driver were Dr. F. C. Turner, Dr. W. F. Dunlap and Vincent Long, all of New York city, and besides Schrank in the small machine was Samuel Rothberg, of this city. A satisfactory settlement was effected between the parties concerned and the Ford car was afterwards towed to a garage where it will have to undergo extensive repairs.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY REMEMBERED BY FRIENDS

A crowd of merry makers, numbering close to fifty, dropped in to help Miss Lillian T. Conover celebrate her birthday anniversary at her home on Jackson avenue last night, taking her completely unawares, although elaborate preparations had been made during her absence from the house in the afternoon and early evening for the affair. The guests turned the home into a scene of mirth and music immediately upon their arrival and the festivities were prolonged until midnight when refreshments were served and a birthday cake cut on a table decorated profusely with pink and white.

The library of the home was trimmed with green and the parlor had red for a color scheme. Vocal selections and the rendition of instrumental pieces by the guests furnished entertainment during the evening, after which dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

Somerville, July 19—William Hall, who formerly worked for J. L. Stryker, is being held for the action of the grand jury on a charge of stealing a quantity of lumber and cement from the new steel plant on North Bridge street. Mr. Stryker complained to the authorities that some one was taking the material, and a watch was put on and Hall was caught taking it. At his home in the lottery field a quantity of lumber and other material was found in the cellar, and a wagon load was carted away. Hall intended to use the material in making extensive improvements to his home.

HICKS MAY HAVE TO GO TO PRISON

Motor-truck Driver Pleads Guilty to Intoxication Charge.

SENTENCE POSTPONED

Recorder Gano Does Not Want to Send Prisoner to Jail Because of Latter's Family Needing His Money but Law is Mandatory.

George Hicks, of 179 Fairmount avenue, Newark, employed as a salesman for a beef concern of that city, was arrested by Chief Marshal George Weiss in the borough, yesterday afternoon, on a charge of driving a motor-truck while under the influence of liquor. When arraigned before Recorder M. F. Gano in the borough court this morning, Hicks entered a plea of guilty. At the same time the prisoner asked the court for mercy because of his wife and two children.

The case is the first of the kind which has come up in the borough court. The act under which the arrest was made provides for imprisonment of not less than thirty days and not more than six months upon conviction, entirely omitting any fine as an alternative. This act was approved March 12 of this year.

The act reads: "Any person or persons who shall operate an automobile or any other vehicle over any public street or highway while under the influence of intoxicating liquors, shall be adjudged to be a disorderly person, and upon conviction shall be punished by an imprisonment of not less than thirty days and not more than six months."

Recorder Gano explained to Hicks that according to the law he had no other alternative than to impose a jail sentence, but under the circumstances in the case he would adjourn the hearing until Monday morning, giving the prisoner an opportunity to secure the services of a lawyer. In the meantime efforts will be made to secure the release of Hicks on bail pending the hearing of his case.

The scene of the violation was on Grove street, where Hicks was found to be running his truck in a zig-zag manner endangering the lives of pedestrians. The matter was reported to the police and Chief Marshall Weiss placed Hicks under arrest.

LONG SENTENCE GIVEN TO NEWARK MAN IN UNION CO.

Elizabeth, July 19—A sentence of not less than three years nor more than twelve years in State prison was pronounced yesterday on William E. Schupe, of Newark, by Judge James C. Connolly in the Court of Quarter Sessions. Schupe was convicted on July 2 of an attempted assault upon Miss Mabel Jones, also of Newark.

Samuel Schleimer, counsel for Schupe served a writ of error immediately after his client was sentenced which acted as a stay of sentence. Schupe was then released under $2,000 bail, which was furnished by Samuel Walters, of Newark.

The crime for which Schupe was convicted took place in June, 1912, at Lyons Farms, while Miss Jones was automobile riding with the defendant. The girl testified that Schupe promised to take her to a store in Springfield avenue, Newark, when she got into his automobile.

FACTS AND COMMENT ON NEW YORK NEWS

New York, July 19—New York city now has under way in subway system construction work to the value of $83,000,000. Twenty-seven miles of this underground railway are under construction, and as nearly all of it will have four tracks, this means that about 10 miles of single track is being built. The work is being done by fourteen different contracting firms, who are employing on the average daily about 5,000 men.

Here are some more figures concerning the big city. Last year New York paved a little more than 211 miles of street. In addition to the actual placing of the roadways on a permanent basis the municipal engineers have had to consider the problems connected with regulating, grading and laying the sidewalks and curbs on streets in the newly developed sections of the city. Thus in Brooklyn alone forty miles of streets were improved in this way last year. Within the city limits there are now 1,600 miles of paved thoroughfares.

A company composed of representative Canadian business men have leased the Grand Central Palace for the last two weeks of next January for the purpose of holding an All-Canadian Exposition. It is planned to have the first floor during the exposition devoted entirely to the displays of the products of the soil and various sub-divisions will have attractive booths. This is the first attempt that Canada has made to bring itself in personal contact with the New York public by ocular demonstration.

After waiting twenty-four years for word that her fiance in America was ready to marry her, Miss Be Mann of London, England, is expected to arrive here at the end of next week, in time to be married on August 3 to James Russell Ross, of Islip, L. I., in the twenty-two years that Miss Mann has been waiting the word from him he married another woman, who died some time ago. Ross, while little more than a boy, living in London, became engaged to Miss Mann. Then he decided to come to America. Five years later he married a New York woman. Mrs. Ross died last January, and her husband, left alone, communicated with his forgotten love in London. She had never married. The long postponed wedding will take place in St. Mark's church at Islip.

No matter how big or how bulky the tag on a hotel key is it seems impossible to prevent some persons from forgetting to leave it behind. One finds numerous instances of this every day at the hotels in New York, where in some instances a locksmith is kept busy turning out keys to replace those which patrons take away. Some of the guests are thoughtful enough to return the keys to the hotel by mail, but the vast majority of those that are carried away are forever lost. Naturally one must wonder at the capacity or the architecture of a pocket which, besides a key, will hold a flat slab nearly seven inches long and an inch and a half wide so comfortably that its owner will never think of the key when he pays his bill.

A famous tragedy of fifty years ago was brought to the minds of some old New Yorkers recently by a court proceeding involving the estate of a man who made a large fortune in the tobacco business here. The tobacconist was the employer of Mary Rogers, a beautiful girl, who was killed in Sibyl Cove, near the Elysian Fields, in Hoboken. In those days "the fields" was a resort similar to Coney Island, except that it was much smaller. The one hotel of the place, "The Shades," a capacious colonial mansion, is said to have been in its earlier days the summer home of the first Astor. One night a man living near the place saw three men carry a woman from "The Shades" over toward the cove. The next day there was much excitement when it became known that Mary Rogers had been murdered. The police never caught the men responsible for the girl's death. The crime is likely never to be forgotten, since it forms the basis of one of Edgar A. Poe's great romances.

Trading in stocks is an open game. Every person is privileged to sit in if he has the price. If every brokerage house in the country were to decide against accepting a certain man's account it would still be the easiest thing in the world for him to deal with the Stock Exchange. He might be an active customer for years without ever appearing at a broker's office. It is only necessary for anyone desirous of buying or selling stocks to employ an intermediary to hide his connection with the account. A man who has figured very largely in some of the market movements in recent years would not be recognized if he were to enter the customers' rooms of the houses through which he has been buying and selling. A young man in his employ is down on the books as an active customer, but most of the orders are placed over the telephone by the principal, who gives his employe's name. A brokerage house became convinced sometime ago that it was handling business for a prominent bucketshop, and it started a quiet investigation. Its suspicions were partly confirmed, but the man in whose name the account stood, and who placed the orders was a reputable lawyer with a good practice and no grounds could be found for declining his business, even if the house had been anxious to find such grounds.

Two of the men who have figured most prominently in the story of David Lamar and the lobby investigation at Washington stand at the top of the list of New York lawyers who have become famous as the legal pilots of great railroad, financial, industrial and other corporations. They are Lewis Cass Ledyard and Edward Lauterbach. Mr. Ledyard, as the first two-thirds of his name would indicate, is a native of Michigan. He came to New York many years ago and began the practice of law. He was successful in forming connection with some of the gigantic corporations that have been formed in the past twenty years and has found these connections very profitable. He has been a director of the Northern Pacific, "Big Four," Lake Shore, Michigan Central and nearly a score of other railroads, and has served as an official or director of the big telephone companies, the express companies and numerous banks. Mr. Lauterbach is better known as a lawyer than a financier, though he has large financial interests in many big corporations. In his law practice he has made a specialty of railroad and maritime cases and for many years he has been vice-president and counsel of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

TARIFF BILL CLAUSE.

Washington, July 18—Senator Sutherland offered an amendment to the tariff bill in the senate requiring the withdrawal of merchandise now in bond at present rates of duty. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

SANCTUARY IN ENGLAND.

The Principle Still Survives to a Limited Degree.

Much water has flowed under London bridge since the British criminal could defy the strong arm of the law by the single expedient of escaping to the nearest church or hospital and claiming the protection of the "sanctuary," for down to the early Stuart days Great Britain had thousands of just such refuges for the criminal, from cathedrals and royal palaces to scores of towns and cities, where the man guilty of felony could laugh with impunity at the officers of law and justice for a period ranging up to forty days. If within that time he chose to go before the coroner, clothed in penitence and sackcloth, and confess his guilt, he was free to quit the realm without any hand daring to stay him.

Although no such asylum exists today for the criminal, the principle of the "sanctuary" still manages to survive. This privilege refers only to civil offenses and not to crimes as in the olden days, and yet the privileges are of considerable value.

No clergyman can be arrested within the walls of his church or while he is going to or returning from his duty. Bishops and archbishops are still more protected, for not one of them can be haled before a magistrate even though the cause is a crime, unless the king especially commands it. Nor even up to the present time has any warrant an effect within the precincts of any of the king's palaces.—Chicago Tribune.

COLORS OF THE SKY.

And Their Connection With Stormy or Sunshiny Weather.

In "Our Own Weather" Edwin C. Martin, after noting the indications of weather shown by barometric readings, the variations of the winds and their meaning, the ever changing forms of the clouds, shows how the colors of the sky act as weather signs.

Ordinary observation has gathered a great number of weather signs from simply the ever varying colors of the sky. Among the more familiar and reliable ones are:

A bright blue sky is the sky of fine weather.

A bright yellow sky at sunset promises winds, a pale yellow sky rain and a "sickly greenish" sky both wind and rain. A rosy sky at sunset promises fair weather, but a dark red sky at sunset promises rain. A red sky in the morning promises wind or rain. "A red sun has water in his eye."

"If the sun sets in dark, heavy clouds, expect rain the next day." Even a gray sunset indicates rain. But a gray morning indicates a fine day.

And, finally, what in this connection it would be perhaps the most reproachful of all posible omissions not to mention:

Rainbow at night,
Sailor's delight;
Rainbow in the morning,
Sailor's warning.

The Great White Shark.

The man eating fish par excellence is the great white shark. It is otherwise known by the name of man eater. Occasionally specimens are seen on both coasts of the United States, though its more customary habitat is in tropical waters. This frightful creature attains a length of nearly forty feet, and it is able to swallow a man whole. This fact is proved by an experiment which sailors are fond of making when such a shark is captured. The skull being preserved, they amuse themselves by crawling one after another through the distended jaws. It would be unsafe to do this, however, when the head has been freshly cut off, because under such conditions the jaws will snap together fiercely for some time afterward if anything is placed between them.

Legend of the Moss Rose.

A German tradition gives the origin of the moss rose as follows: An angel came to earth in mortal guise. He sought a place of shelter and repose after his labors of love, but every door was shut against the heavenly visitor. At length the angel, being very weary, sank upon the ground and over him a rosebush spread like a tent. It caught upon its outspread leaves the falling dewdrops which would otherwise have drenched the messenger of love. Waking, the angel said to the rose:

Thou hast yielded the shelter that man denied;
A proof of my love shall with thee abide
And the green moss gathered about the stem
While the dewdrops shone like a diadem,
Crowning the blushing flower.

Noah Webster defines the word "Sale" as meaning the exchange of a commodity for money of equivaient value."

His definition hardly applies to "Sale" as used in the Rothberg sense; for during OUR Sales we are daily exchanging high grade, dependable commodities for LESS than their equivalent value, and we know that our customers will agree that at least one definition in the dictionary should be changed.

DUC D'ABRUZZI.

Reported Fiance of Miss Elkins Heads Italian Navy.

The Duc D'Abruzzi, so popular among Americans and spoken of as the fiance of Miss Katherine Elkins, is now supreme commander of the Italian navy. The official announcement was made coincident with the retirement of the Duc di Genoa, brother of Queen Margherita, who has grown too old to fill the office with the proper supervision of ships and men. Admiral Viale, a very capable commander, follows D'Abruzzi in the flagship of the Spezia squadron.

NEAR WRECK ON NEW HAVEN CAUSES SCARE

Engine Jumps Track, but Passengers Escape Injury.

Meriden, Conn., July 19.—The eastbound express train on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad which left New York at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon was wrecked a mile west of Meriden at 7:10 o'clock last night when the big Pacific type locomotive left the rails after both driving rods had crumpled up and one of them had been sent flying through telegraph wires at the side of the track.

While no one was injured and only the locomotive left the rails, nearly all the passengers in the three Pullman sleeping cars and the three day coaches making up the train were badly scared. There was a stampede to get out of the train at the first shock due to the application of the emergency.

The engine was of the same type as No. 1,338, which got away from Engineer Charles J. Doherty at Stamford and caused the fatal wreck on June 12. Clouds of steam came back through the cars, due to the fact that one of the broken driving levers punctured the boiler. The emergency brakes, taking hold of the cars after the mechanism on the locomotive had been damaged, brought the train to a stop in a distance of 1,200 feet, a stiff up grade helping the brakes.

Every passenger deserted the train within a minute after it had come to a standstill. After walking a mile up the tracks to the Meriden station they were sent forward on local trains toward Boston.

2,500 STRIKERS DESERT I. W. W.

Paterson Ribbon Weavers to Act Independently.

WOMEN ON PICKET DUTY

Central Strike Committee Ignored and Rebuke Stings the Industrial Workers—Six Women Are Sent to Jail For Beating Girl Workers.

Paterson, N. J., July 19.—Twenty-five hundred striking ribbon weavers in Helvetia hall voted to disregard the central strike committee, cast aside the "one for all and all for one" idea conceived by the I. W. W., relinquish hope of the eight hour day and endeavor to effect a shop by shop settlement. The weavers will propose a settlement on the basis of the nine hour day and an increase in wages amounting to 17 per cent less than the scale that was effective in 1895.

The ribbon weavers are the most intelligent of the workers who struck and have consistently displayed ability to act independently and wisely.

The renunciation of the central strike committee is a stinging rebuke to the I. W. W., whose leaders have bossed the committee and only three weeks ago pushed through a referendum that resulted in the general settlement being chosen in preference to an attempt to have the individual shops settle.

Made desperate by the rapid depletion of their ranks, the striking silk workers renewed a show of force. A hundred women were in picket duty at the dye shops in the Riverside section. Seven were arrested and six sent to jail for twenty days or until they pay $10 fine imposed by Recorder Carroll. The seventh was sentenced to ten days in jail without alternative.

Five young girls, employees of the Weidmann plant, testified that they had been stopped and berated for "scabbing."

An attempt to burn the home of Peter Lawrence at 114 Jersey street was made.

BREAKS FOR LIBERTY.

Dashes From Police and Gives Them Lively Chase.

Jersey City, N. J., July 19.—Felix Wrubeski, eighteen years old, who said his home was at 123 Grand street, created considerable excitement in the vicinity of the city hall by trying to escape from the custody of the police.

Passing along a corridor leading to the elevators in the city hall Wrubeski, who had been docile from the time of his arrest, suddenly sprang into a side corridor and ran through it to the side entrance of the building. He ran out into Mercer street and to Henderson street to Gregory. Policeman Glock, blowing his whistle, followed, and others joined in the chase.

Michael Improcasse, driver of a police patrol wagon, heard the whistle, and joining in the chase managed to head off Wrubeski and capture him.

Wrubeski is charged with attempting to break into a store at 953 Garfield avenue.

WILSON UPSET OVER WITPENN

Trenton, N. J., July 19.—Following the conference with President Wilson at Washington on the gubernatorial situation in New Jersey, Democratic State Chairman Edward E. Grosscup in a statement said that the thing most apparent at the meeting was the determination of the president that the progressive Democracy of New Jersey shall not yield in any particular the advantage it has secured in the state.

The state chairman's statement contains not a word as to what was said about candidates, despite the fact that it is understood that the conference was held chiefly for the purpose of discussing the Wittpenn campaign.

DROWNED WHILE FISHING.

May Have Fallen From Boat While Suffering From Apoplectic Fit.

Bordentown, N. J., July 19.—William Hutchinson Bergena, an old time resident of Cranbury, was found drowned in Brainard lake at that place. He left home to go fishing in the lake. When he did not return home search was made for him and his body was found in the lake. It is thought he fell overboard accidentally, possibly while suffering an attack of apoplexy. He was sixty-six years old. He leaves a widow and one son.

Injured In Auto Accident.

Red Bank, N. J., July 19.—Four people had a miraculous escape from death on the Middletown turnpike near here when an automobile of a racing type collided with a five passenger touring car. Miss Mattie Wilson, daughter of William Wilson, a wealthy farmer residing on the turnpike near Keyport, sustained a fractured knee.

DENTISTRY AND ITS RELATION TO THE TUBERCULOSIS CRUSADE.

The history of medicine during the last three decades exhibits the most marked advance of all the arts, replete as this period is with great achievements, a period in which the world has been given so many inventions and discoveries which have been a blessing to mankind, and to these men who have left their imprint upon the development of the world's progress, there is one man, one of all the brilliant men who have accomplished so much for all of us, that we as a people owe a great and lasting debt to. Louis Pasteur, the French chemist, is the man, for it was he who not only advanced the theory of the existence of bacteria, germs as they are commonly known, but demonstrated their existence, and in certain instances proved conclusively their role in the causation of disease, and taught us methods by which we could not only combat successfully with certain diseases but better still prevent them. The theory and practise of medicine has been revolutionized by the discovery of the origin of bacteria of many of the transmissable diseases. The results obtained by these discoveries read more like fiction than a series of facts. Take several of the great scourges and you will readily see how medical science has practically conquered them. Diphtheria, the mortality of which was ten per cent. prior to the discovery of antitoxin; malaria, dreaded for so many centuries, but no longer feared, and the sleeping sickness or the scourge of Africa, the mystery of which has been solved by Robert Koch.

In a short time our nation will dedicate one of the most wonderful engineering feats ever undertaken by man the Panama Canal. We cannot help but recall the futile attempt of the French to build this canal. They abandoned the project not only through lack of finances and engineering skill for the canal is lined with graves of those who fell while in service with the scourge of Yellow Fever. The crowning achievement of the American undertaking has been the sanitation under the direction of Colonel Gorgas, of the Medical Corps of the United States Army, who with his engineers have so produced and enforced sanitary regulations that now Yellow Fever is practically unknown in the canal zone.

These are only a few of the dreaded scourges which have been conquered, but the greatest scourge of all is Tuberculosis or the Great White Plague. It may, perhaps, seem impertinent that dentists should treat this subject theoretically and professionally since so many physicians have been struggling against this disease, and they are accomplishing wonders. Yet the dental profession can lend and is lending no small help to the physicians in fighting Tuberculosis. As specialists of the oral cavity, they notice the taint of the gums and teeth and meet the conditions along scientific lines, for one of the requisites for a strong and healthy body is a clean mouth. As S. Adolphus Knopf, M. D., of the New York Post Graduate Medical School, writes in one of his papers: "The latest and most wonderful development of American dental science is dental hygiene, for dental hygiene means prevention and preservation and these have the closest relationship to the prevention of Tuberculosis."

One of the earliest and a very frequent symptom of Tuberculosis is impaired digestion. While bad teeth do not constitute the only cause of digestive disturbances, they are factors contributing to the pathological condition. Ulcerated teeth may give entrance into the bone of tubercle bacilli that have been inhaled or have been contracted by secondary infection.

The modern treatment of tuberculosis consists in the judicious use of fresh air, plenty of good food, plenty of good pure water inside and outside, careful regulation of work and rest and medical supervision. The proper feeding of the patient is one of the most essential factors. This, however, cannot be accomplished if the patient has bad teeth, for patients thus handicapped cannot masticate their food properly.

One of the main sources of tuberculosis is through the mouth, and is often the result of unclean and diseased teeth. We must recognize the evil results of decayed teeth, putrescent roots and abscesses, for every mouthful of food or liquid taken into the mouth under these conditions is tainted with pus, which is bound to impair the general health. Practically all of the varities of micro-organism abound in the mouth, and diseased teeth and gums are perfect incubators for germs. From the mouth these bacteria are carried into the stomach, lungs and circulation.

It is by far the most common of all diseases, afflicting to a greater or lesser degree one-third to one-half of the population of the earth. But we are reaching a degree of organization and co-operation among the people of all classes and professions, and we all look forward optimistically to the ultimate eradication of this awful scourge. We must realize, however, that the surest prophlaxis against it is to be obtained by keeping ourselves in that state of physical health where our cells and body fluids are sufficient in amount and in strength to overcome any chance infection to which we might be exposed, as the greater number of tuberculosis cases begin with digestive symptoms, loss of appetite, indigestion and nausea, and these symptoms are often caused by diseased conditions of the teeth and gums. If the teeth are properly taken care of, we would be able in many cases to prevent the decline of the general nutrition to the point where a latent process was enabled to become an active one. As Dr. Osler remarked before the Royal Dental Hospital of London: "You have just one gospel to preach, and you have got to preach it early, and you have got to preach it late, in season and out of season. It is the gospel of cleanliness of the mouth, cleanliness of the teeth, cleanliness of the throat. These three things must be your text through life. Oral hygiene, the hygiene of the mouth—there is not one single thing more important to the public in the whole region of hygiene than that."

MYSTERY OF THE PLAGUE.

How and Why Did It Disappear From England In 1667?

Why did the plague disappear from England? Mr. Bernard Shaw incidentally asks this deeply interesting question in a letter to the Nation, and we cannot say that we are satisfied with his answer. He says he "knows" that plague has been "extirpated" by "common sanitation."

Until the recent sporadic imported cases, the last recorded cases of plague in England occurred at Nottingham in 1667. In that year plague vanished utterly from England for two and a half centuries. No one who has examined the records of the seventeenth century can believe that it was "extirpated" by sanitation. Very gradually in the succeeding century and a half plague withdrew from Europe also.

The date of its disappearance from Constantinople has been fixed at about the year 1841. It remained endemic only in a few lonely places in the world, such as the highlands of western Arabia, Yunnan in China and Mesopotamia. Sanitation, though an excellent palliative, certainly never drove the plague from Stamboul and Cairo and the southern Mediterranean, any more than it did from England.

The shrinkage of plague is as great a mystery as the recent outburst which infected the whole world. Perhaps the explanation is that in a few years bacteria may go through the myriad transforming processes of evolution which in the case of humanity take eons to complete.—Pall Mall Gazette.

HIS VISIT TO MORGAN.

There Wasn't Much Said, but It Was All Right to the Point.

A well known insurance official said the other day at the Auditorium, in Chicago:

"In the beginning of my career, when I was only a humble insurance agent, I gained access one morning to the august and formidable presence of J. Pierpont Morgan."

"No!"

"Yes," the official insisted—"yes, it's a fact. Don't ask me how I did it, though, for that's a secret. But at 10 o'clock one morning behold me, a young insurance agent, standing before the desk of the great J. Pierpont with my big envelope of life and death statistics, twenty year endowments, and so forth, in my hand. I was, I have since learned, the first and only insurance agent who ever managed to meet Mr. Morgan face to face."

"Well, what happened?"

"'Mr. Morgan,' I began hurriedly, 'you ought to carry more life insurance. You see, sir'—

"And lucidly and cogently and briefly, wasting no words, I laid my insurance proposition before the great financier.

"He listened in silence. Those fierce blue eyes of his bored through me like lances. When I stopped at last all he said was:

"'How did you get in here?'

"'I walked in,' I answered.

"'Well,' said he, 'walk out.'"—New York Tribune.

Why Elephants Fear Mice.

It seems incredible that so small and harmless an animal as a mouse is able to frighten an elephant almost out of its senses. One little mouse in the hay on which they are feeding will stampede an entire herd. In their native land there are little animals, known as chacanas, which feed on a small, sour berry of which elephants are very fond. They live in settlements, something after the manner of prairie dogs, under the berry bushes. When feeding, the elephants trample the little towns, and the chacanas, in their fright, run up the tubes of the elephants' trunks. Their long, sharp claws catch in the flesh, and they cannot be ejected. The more violently the monster blows through its coiled trunk the more firmly the hooked claws of the little animal become imbedded in the flesh. Inflammation and death are the result. In captivity the elephants think they are in danger of the deadly chacanas when they see a mouse.

Malaria.

Malaria has been recognized since the days of Hippocrates as one of the most formidable and destructive of maladies, the more formidable because it was supposed, in accordance with the name which Macculloh adapted for it from the Italian less than a century ago, to be caused by a pervasive venom in the air. But since the epochal observations of Laveran, the labors of Golgi and his colleagues and the experiments and discoveries of Ross it has lost much of its mysterious terror, and the sure way to its prevention and extirpation has been revealed.—New York Tribune.

Making a Choice.

"Don't you love the merry prattle of the children?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Growcher, with some hesitation—"that is to say, I'd rather hear Freddie and Willie prattle than learning to play the bugle and the snare drum."—Washington Star.

Comparisons.

"Those old warriors must have looked grotesque in their elaborate armor."

"Yes; almost as grotesque as a man in a baseball catcher's outfit or a football suit."—Exchange.

At Sea In a Coffin.

It was the French assassin Lupi who escaped to sea from Cayenne in a coffin. He managed to get some nails, tar and cotton, and one dark night he got into the coffin shed. He selected a fine, stanch and seaworthy coffin and fastened the lid in order to turn it into a deck, leaving a cockpit sufficient to enable him to crawl in. He calked all the joints as well as he could, and when this work was finished he made a pair of paddles out of two planks. Then he brought out his craft with great precaution. Without much difficulty he reached the water's edge. Silently and slowly he proceeded in the hope of reaching either Venezuela or British Guiana, 150 nautical miles distant. Fortunately or unfortunately for Lupi, the steamer Abeille, returning from the Antilles, off Paramaribo picked him up half drowned and almost in a fainting condition, and a few hours later he was in irons in his cell.

Licorice Root.

Very few people, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, have any idea where the familiar licorice root comes from. As a matter of fact, the bulk of it hails from Syria. Here it is gathered and piled into great stacks, where it remains until it is thoroughly dry. It is then taken to the factory to undergo certain processes. The finished product is used for flavoring confectionery and beer, as well as entering into the makeup of many brands of tobacco. Some idea of the extent of the industry may be gathered when it is stated that on the average 8,000 tons of dry licorice root is shipped from Aleppo annually, while Bagdad yields another 6,000 tons, Antioch 4,000 and Damascus 500 tons.

A Close Resemblance.

Professor Barry once amused Judge Ball by an application on behalf of a man who was a dealer in horses and sugar sticks. The incongruity of his avocation struck the judge, who remarked, "What a strange combination of trades!"

"I see a close resemblance between horses and sugar sticks," said the witty barrister.

"In what way?" inquired his lordship.

"The more you lick them the faster they go," was the reply.—London Tit-Bits.

Snags In English.

A Russian artist who has so thoroughly mastered the English language that all its subtleties are as familiar to him as are those of the language of the czar was telling a few friends about the difficulties he encountered. "You have so many superfluous letters," he said, "that when I began to think I was becoming a master of your language I succeeded in having myself laughed at a dozen times a day. I began to learn English in Boston, its American fortress. One day while walking with a friend I saw a street sign. 'Oh,' I said, 'what a funny name for a street! Kneeland street!' I pronounced the K. 'You're wrong,' said my friend. 'You pronounce it "Neeland" street. The K is silent.' I took the lesson to heart. The next day I went into a restaurant. I looked over the bill of fare. 'Give me some "idneys,"' I said. The servitor looked at me aghast. Finally in desperation I pointed to the record of what I wanted. 'Oh! Kidneys,' he said. 'Excuse me,' I rejoined haughtily, 'the K is silent.'"

Gladstone on Disraeli.

G. A. Storey, A. R. A., recorded a touching incident he witnessed at the academy banquet of 1881 when a portrait for which Beaconsfield had sat to Millais shortly before his death was among the exhibits. "This unfinished work, pale and even ghastly, was in one of the side galleries. Gladstone, catching sight of the picture, went and stood long in front of it. * * * No one disturbed him. At the end of the feast Gladstone rose and in the finest and most feeling tone delivered a panegyric on the great man who had passed away. In a voice clear and sympathetic and full of emotion he told us of his admiration for the sterling qualities of the man who, though opposed to him in politics, was in no other sense an opponent. He spoke as only one generous in heart and of a broad and great mind could speak of another great man who had passed away. The speech surpassed anything I ever heard."—London Chronicle.

Fidelity.

Thomas Nelson Page, describing in Washington the devotion of the old time Virginia slave, said:

"They tell a story about a certain Chandler Moulton and his servant, Tom.

"It was in the days of dueling, and young Marse Chan had reached the age when he should learn to handle a dueling pistol. Accordingly every morning old Tom would load up a pair of pistols, and, crouching behind a stone wall, he would spring up suddenly, shout, 'Now, then, Marse Chan, one, two, free, fire!' and he'd bob down again before the youth could hit him.

"But Marse Chan improved rapidly. After a week's practice he could put a hole through old Tom's hat at every shot. This hugely delighted the faithful body servant.

"'Keep on, Marse Chan! Keep on!' he chuckled. 'And if ye kin git de hand up a leetle mite quicker, in another week ye'll be hittin' me in the shoulder, mahk my words!'"—New York Tribune.

How He Broke Into Literature.

Frederic Harrison was a close friend of George Eliot, and she often asked his advice in regard to points of law that came up in the course of her stories. She particularly needed legal advice in a vital part of "Felix Holt," for, conscientious worker as she was and as all really great artists are, she was not content to make a guess.

Mr. Harrison listened as gravely to the presentation of her problem as if it concerned real individuals. The next day he sent her a carefully and concisely worded opinion, which she used in her book just as he wrote it. In the story it is ascribed to "the attorney general" and is referred to as "final authority."

Mr. Harrison was both surprised and pleased to see his own words used. He expected that the novelist would wish to express his legal opinion in her own language. "Thanks to George Eliot," he said, with a smile, "I have written something that will live forever in English literature."

Gangrene.

Gangrene is the death of a part of the living body. Sometimes it results from an injury, such as burning or frostbite, or from a surgical operation. Sometimes it is the consequence of a physical condition, with such causes as diabetes or senility or embolism. Whatever the cause or whatever form it takes, it means that the obstruction to circulation has been so complete as to prevent local nutrition and to bring about the death of the part. As impaired circulation is at the root of the trouble, the treatment must try to restore the circulation and combat the inflammation. Local heat is the best means of restoring the circulation. Hot bottles or warm irrigations or bandages of hot flannels may be used. Gangrene is not a matter for home treatment except under the constant and watchful care of the physician, for in many cases operation is the only means of saving life.

The Foot of the Reindeer.

The foot of the reindeer is most peculiar in construction. It is cloven through the middle, and each half curved upward in front. It is slightly elongated and capable of a considerable amount of expansion. When placed on an irregular surface which is difficult to traverse, the animal contracts the feet into a sort of claw, by which a firm hold is secured. When moving rapidly the two portions of the foot as it is lifting strike together, the hoofs making a continuous clattering noise, which may be heard at a considerable distance. It is this peculiarity of the feet that makes the reindeer so sure footed and so valuable in rocky and uneven country, where almost any other animal would prove a failure as a beast of burden.

Happenings Due Next Week

Washington, D. C., July 19—With the exception of the proceedings in Congress, the week promises little of interest or importance in the field of politics and public affairs.

Some interest attaches to the special election to be held Tuesday in the Sixth New Jersey congressional district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative Lewis J. Martin. The Republican, Democratic, Progressive and Prohibitionist parties have named candidates.

A State election will be held in Arkansas Wednesday to select a governor to succeed Governor Joseph T. Robinson, who resigned to accept election to the United States Senate. The Democrats, Republicans and Progressives have named candidates. The election of the Democratic candidate, Judge George W. Hays, is generally conceded.

Pursuant to the call of Governor Colquitt, the Texas legislature will convene in special session Monday to consider and act upon various matters left over at the adjournment of the regular session. A proposition for biennial appropriations for the maintenance of the State government, an amendment to the law governing the operations of the State penitentiary system, and a law providing for the putting into effect of the constitutional amendment for the direct election of United States Senators are among the subjects to receive attention.

His eminence James Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, will enter upon his eightieth year Wednesday. The birthday anniversary will be of interest not only to the people of Baltimore, but to those of the whole United States, in which he is the primate of the Roman Catholic church.

Atlantic City will be a gathering place next week for many prominent labor leaders. Meetings will be held there by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and the heads of the several departments of the federation. There will be many questions to consider, not the least of which are the statements that have been made recently concerning the alleged activity of the labor organizations lobbying at Washington.

Other meetings of the week will include the annual convention of the United States League of Building and Loan Associations, at Milwaukee; the annual meeting of the southern branch of the National Dental Association, at Old Point Comfort, and the first international convention of Gideons, of Christian commercial traveling men, which will be held at Toronto.

Many events of interest to devotees of sport and athletics are scheduled for the week. Foremost on the list are the tennis matches for the Davis Cup, to take place at Wimbledon, England. The Northwestern international rowing regatta will be held at St. Paul, the annual meet of the Federation of American Motor Cyclists at Denver, the western amateur golf championships at Chicago, the national clay court tennis championships at Omaha, the inter-lake yacht races at Put-in-Bay, and the Grand Circuit race meeting at Fort Erie.

PERFORATED COINS.

Uncle Sam Tried Them Several Times, but Without Success.

Perforated coins were never in favor in the United States, though various efforts were made to popularize them. The first United States coin with a perforated center was a gold dollar issued in 1849, which had a square hole in the middle of the planchet. It was the forerunner of the gold dollar issued by the United States mint in 1849. The coin was engraved, not struck from dies.

The next United States coin with a perforated center was issued from the Philadelphia mint in 1850 and was of the denomination of 1 cent. It was about the size of the bronze cent now in use. At that time the large, old fashioned copper cent was in general circulation, and the perforated coin received the name of "ring cent." The designer reasoned that by means of the perforation the cent could be distinguished by touch from the dime. Another perforated cent issued the same year showed two rings in the field with the words, "Cent, One-tenth Silver." The reverse showed an olive wreath around the perforation and the words, "United States of America."

The mint authorities undertook to design a coin that would answer all requirements, and the pieces were struck with both pierced and perfect centers in silver, copper, nickel and composition metal, six varieties in all, without counting the various metals, but none of the designs was favored by the government authorities, and consequently they were never put in general circulation.

The only gold half dollar ever produced at the United States mint was struck in 1852. It had a perforation in the center, and the obverse showed a wavy circle around the perforation, with the inscription, "United States of America," around the border. The reverse was blank. The coin was exactly half the weight of the dollar. Regardless of the generally accepted idea the gold fifty cent pieces with which the public is familiar were not an issue of the United States, but were manufactured by California jewelers. There has not been any attempt to introduce the perforated coin in the United States since 1884. In that year two pieces of the denominations of 1 and 5 cents were issued at the Philadelphia mint.—Harper's Weekly.

Turkish Names.

On our visiting list are Mrs. Hyacinth, Mrs. Tulip, Mrs. Appletree and Mrs. Nightingale. I am also happy enough to possess the acquaintance of Mrs. Sweetmeat, Mrs. Diamond, Mrs. Air—though some know her as Mother Eve—Miss May-She-Laugh and Master He-Waited. This last appellation seemed to me so curious that I inquired into it and learned that my young gentleman waited to be born. These are not surnames, you understand, for no Turk owns such a thing. To tell one Mistress Hyacinth from another you add the name of her man. And in his case all you can do is to tack on his father's—you could hardly say Christian—name.—H. G. Dwight in Atlantic.

Wild Schemes of Dinocrates.

The most remarkable proposal ever made about Mount Athos was that of the architect Dinocrates. His plan was to cut it into the shape of a gigantic statue of Alexander the Great, holding in the right hand a city, in the left a tank that was to receive all the waters of the region. Alexander was much taken with the scheme. But it was eventually rejected on the ground that the neighboring country was not fertile enough to feed the inhabitants of the projected city. Another of Dinocrates' plans was a temple to the wife of King Ptolemy of Egypt, with a roof of loadstones that would keep an iron statue of her floating in the air.

The Earth's Shadow.

The earth has a shadow, but very few ever see it, except in eclipses of the moon, or else few recognize it when they see it. Nevertheless many of us have noticed on fine, cloudless evenings in summer shortly before sunset a rosy pink arc on the horizon opposite the sun, with a bluish gray segment under it. As the sun sinks the arc rises until it attains the zenith and even passes it. This is the shadow of the earth.

Premonition.

He was brought to Bellevue hospital with some injury to the skull, and a surgeon, having examined the wound, determined to keep the man in the ward for a day or two.

"Oh, doctor," cried the patient, "do you think that I'll lose my head?"—New York Times.

Too Slow.

"Why has your daughter dropped her hospital work so soon?"

"She found she'd have to nurse poor patients for two years before they intrusted her with any millionaires. So she's going on the stage in a musical comedy."—Kansas City Journal.

Utility.

Well, if there is only one out and it happens to be a long one it will scare a man from third.—Detroit Free Press.

Usual Result.

Silicus—Do you believe that two can live as cheaply as one? Cynicus—Well, after they get married I suppose they generally find they have to.—Philadelphia Record.

If a thing is proper and possible to man, deem it attainable by thee.—Marcus Aurelius.

Lexington Monuments.

All along the road to Lexington from Cambridge, Mass., in the United States of America, there are monuments to "rebel colonists" who slew British soldiers April 19, in 1775, but the most striking is that which is raised to the memory of Samuel Whittemore. He was eighty years of age at the time, and he killed three British soldiers with his own hand. The stone records that for this he received punishment of three kinds. He was shot, he was bayoneted and he was beaten. He was then, reasonably enough, left for dead. The old fellow must have had a magnificent constitution and a spirit which the most devoted optimist might envy. For the inscription goes on to say that he recovered and lived to the age of ninety-eight. 1695 must have been "a good vintage"—for men.—London Chronicle.

Their Passport.

A senator told at a luncheon in Washington a senate story.

"We'd be a hard lot, indeed, we senators," he said, "if we were as black as we're painted. I once heard a dreadful story against us.

"Two ladies, it appeared, came to the visitors' gallery and demanded admission, but they had no cards.

"'If you have no cards, ladies,' said the doorkeeper, 'perhaps you know one of the senators and can get a card from him.'

"'Oh, no, we don't know any senators,' they said hastily.

"The doorkeeper bowed low.

"'That, ladies,' he said, 'is very much to your credit. Pass right in.'"—Washington Star.

Why She Wept.

A young man who is very particular about his washing recently wrote a note to his washerwoman and one to his sweetheart and by strange fatality put the wrong address on each envelope and sent them off. The washerwoman was sent the invitation to take an auto ride the next day, but when the young lady read, "If you crumple my shirt bosom as you did last time I'll go somewhere else," she burst into tears and vowed she would never speak to him again.—Florida Times-Union.

Well Described.

Small Sadie was walking along the street with her mother when a ferocious looking but friendly bulldog approached. With a little scream she clung to her mother, crying, "Oh, mamma, look at the dog with the tangled face!"—Chicago News.

Consolation.

"Waiter, how do I know this isn't horse meat instead of beef?"

"You probably don't, sir; all kinds of people come here to eat."—Chicago Tribune.

Curious.

It is curious how much faster a street car humps along when you are running after it than when you are riding in it.—New Orleans Picayune.

—One of the next one hundred people who buy real estate in this city, would probably find that property of yours to be exactly what he wants. Give him, in a Press ad, sufficient facts to persuade him to investigate.

Ices Without a Freezer.

The hardest thing about making ices and ice cream is the grinding of the freezer. No matter how well oiled the crank or how light the action of the machine it is hard work. Moreover, it takes time to freeze the cream, remove the dasher, and pack it. For very warm or busy days one of the creams which does not need grinding is the easiest to make. These are roughly divided into mousses, glaces, parfaits and biscuits.

Mousse.

Mousse is as easy as any of them to make, and surely as delicious. It requires thick whipped cream. One sort that is refreshing is grape juice mousse. To make it whip a pint of cream until it is solid. Then add a cupful of grapejuice, mixed with three-fourths of a cupful of powdered sugar and a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt. Pour the mixture into a mould and pack in equal parts of ice and rock salt for three hours.

Coffee mousee, too is easy to make. Beat two eggs with a cupful of strong coffee and the same amount of granulated sugar, boiled together and cooled. Add a pint of stiff whipped cream and freeze, in a mould, for four hours.

Pineapple mousee is a little more complicated in the making. For it, use canned pineapple, shredded, and heat a canful of it and drain it of all syrup. To each cupful of syrup add a tablespoonful of gelatine (soaked in three tablespoonfuls of cold water) two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and a cupful of granulated sugar. Strain again and allow it to cool. Then, as it cools and thickens, add a quart of whipped cream. Pack for four hours.

Parfaits

White parfait is the simplest sort. To make it, boil a cupful of granulated sugar with a third of a cupful of water until it makes a thread. Then pour it slowly and carefully on the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. When this is cold, fold in a pint of thick whipped cream and a tablespoonful of vanilla.

Caramel parfait calls for half a cup of granulated sugar cooked to the caramel state, and scalded with a cupful of milk. To this add the yolks of three eggs, beaten with half a cupful of sugar and a little salt. Cook this mixture, stirring all the time, until it is thick then add a cupful of thin cream and cool. Strain it, add two cupfuls of whipped cream, a teaspoonful of vanilla and three tablespoonfuls of strong coffee. Mould it and pack it in ice and salt

Parfaits should be served in glasses, with a bit of whipped cream on the top of each glassful.

Rice Pudding Glace

Rice pudding glace is a wholesome dessert. To make it, boil a quarter of a cupful of rice in cold water for five minutes, and drain it. Put it in a double boiler with two cupfuls of milk and a little salt and cook until tender. Then add three-fourths of a cupful of powdered sugar. Cool the mixture and add a tablespoonful of vanilla, and a cupful and a half of whipped cream. Put it in a quart mould and pack in ice and salt two hours. This is delicious if served with raspberries or diced peaches in syrup as a sauce.

Some Cookery Suggestions

ICED CHERRY DESSERTS.

CHERRIES, like currants, are cooling to thirsty throats. They make delicious iced desserts in hot weather. Either the fresh or canned fruits may be used for these dishes. White or red cherries are best for these purposes.

Made With Whipped Cream.

Cherry Mousse.—Take a pint of cream and whip it, then turn into a sieve to drain. Reduce your cherries to make about a cupful of pulp, draining off the juice and mixing it with powdered sugar and the cream until it is of the consistency of ordinary whipped cream. Flavor and pour into an ice cream mold, lay a thin piece of paper over it before covering and pack in ice for three hours.

Cherry Bisque.—Take a pint of milk and pour into a saucepan. When hot stir in a pinch of salt and a tablespoonful of gelatin that has been softened in cold water. Take the saucepan from the fire as soon as the gelatin has been dissolved and strain. Sweeten to taste, and when cold beat to a light froth. Have a pint of cream beaten stiff, and after flavoring the gelatin mixture fold the cream into it. Beat again until very stiff, add a cupful of cherries that have been chopped and drained and pack in a mold. Bury the vessel containing them in ice and salt until ready to serve.

Two Novel Ices.

Cherry Frappe.—Take a quart of stoned cherries and to them add a pint of water and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Put them in a saucepan and cook until they are a pulp, then pass through a strainer. When cold stir in a tablespoonful of gelatin dissolved in a little hot water, the juice of two lemons and a little of almond flavoring. Turn into a freezer, and when half frozen add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and a few finely chopped cherries. Serve in small crystal cups.

Iced Cherry Cup.—Take a small pineapple, cut off the top and peel away the bottom so that it stands firm. Scoop out the pulp, and add to this one pint of stoned cherries, the juice of one orange and one cupful of sugar mixed together. Place in a granite saucepan and boil ten minutes. When cold stir in half a pint of whipped cream and turn into the pineapple shell. Place the shell in a tin pail with a water tight cover and pack in ice and salt for two hours. Serve in the shell, garnished with slices of orange and clusters of ripe, bright cherries.

The Farmer Put a Scarecrow In the Field

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Daddy Crow's Picnic Was Not a Success.

EVERY one likes picnics—that is, all little boys and girls do. When daddy asked Jack and Evelyn if they would like to hear about Daddy Crow's picnic they sat up and smiled.

"Mind," warned daddy, "I wasn't asked to the picnic, so, of course, I may not get things quite right. As I heard the story it was like this:

"Out in the country where Daddy Crow and his relations lived the fields had been plowed and planted with corn. The farmers hoped that the seed would soon come up. They watched every day until the green plant tips began to show above the brown earth.

"Not only were the farmers watching, but the birds were watching. Daddy Crow saw the plants first.

"'Now,' said he, 'the corn will taste nice. I am going to have a picnic.'

"So he started out to invite his guests to the picnic. He flew to the tall pine tree where his cousin, Jim Crow, lived, and he asked Mr. and Mrs. Jim Crow to come to the party.

"Then Daddy Crow flew to the tall oak tree in the top of which Jack Crow lived, and they, too, were asked to the party, and so were all the other crows—Tom, Dick and Harry Crow.

"Daddy Crow did not care much about Farmer Brown because the farmer always chased him when he caught him in his field. Farmer Brown had even put up an ugly figure in the middle of the biggest field. It was really nothing but an old broomstick dressed up in one of the farmer's old coats and hats. Farmer Brown thought this figure might keep Daddy Crow out of the farm.

"As she sat on the veranda one afternoon Farmer Brown's wife heard a great clatter out in the cornfield. She rose just in time to see a flock of crows flying wildly away from the field.

"Farmer Brown had gone to town that afternoon, and perhaps Daddy Crow had chosen just that time for his party purposely.

"Mrs. Brown walked out to the field to see how much of the corn the crows had eaten.

"She was just in time to see an odd sight. The big hat which Farmer Brown had placed on the scarecrow's head was walking around the field.

"It was Daddy Crow with the hat covering all but his yellow legs. The hat had blown off the scarecrow's head and almost covered him. He looked so queer that it is no wonder his guests left the picnic in fright.

"And that was Daddy Crow's last picnic, for Mrs. Brown's little boy came out to the field just then and caught Mr. Crow and put him in a cage."

THE ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

I am extremely sorry that I seem to have misquoted Mrs. Lewis, president of the National Girls' Friendly Society, in my article last week. I quoted from the Times and gladly accept Mrs. Feickert's correction which I give. Here is what Mrs. Lewis said as Mrs. Feickert quotes it. I trust it is not misquoted:

"Judge Lindsay is authority for the statement that ten years ago there was only one girl to twenty boys before the Juvenile Court. Now the number is steadily increasing." The words "feminine agitation" are not used at all, and the article makes no reference to woman suffrage, and deals with non-suffrage as well as suffrage states. It goes on to say that the reasons for the increase of crime among young people are lack of moral efficiency and self-control and conditions under which people live, making it practically impossible to elevate the children. It adds, "chep theatres, overworked mothers and the forcing of girls into business have been primary causes in the fall of girls."

As I said, I am much obliged for the correction for I consider it an argument on our side. One of the things which is most loudly insisted upon by the suffragists is the need of "economic independence" for women and much scorn is cast on the women, who supported by husband, father or brother, are sneeringly called "parasites." Now notice, the paragraph quoted above gives as a reason for the alarming increase in the proportionate number of delinquent girls, these causes:

I. Cheap theatres.

In Colorado, the theatres and moving picture shows (the latter uncensored) are open on Sundays. In many of the eastern States, notably New York and New Jersey, all such places of amusement are closed on Sunday. This minimizes the evil.

II. Overworked mothers and the forcing of girls into business.

That is to say, economic independence on the part of women. That too much of this is brought about by conditions which will take time, study and a good deal of educational work is only too sadly true. But "economic independence" is the slogan of a great number of the suffragists.

Just before we are told that the reasons for the increase of crime among young people are lack of moral efficiency and self-control and conditions under which people live making it practically impossible to elevate the children. Will the vote give moral efficiency and self-control? On the contrary, with overworked mothers having to look after the state, the chances are very great that the coming generation will be even less self-controlled and less morally efficient.

A man writing from Boise, Idaho, says: "The mothers of the town are busy segregating vice while their children roam the streets late in the evening." He adds: "I don't know that suffrage has anything to do with this," but we mothers feel that it is better to give our time to teaching self-control and moral efficiency to our children, and leave the men to pass the necessary laws for controlling the vicious. "An ounce of preventitive is worth a pound of cure."

So much is said by the equal-suffragists about the equal guardianship law of Colorado, that it is worth while to note that New York had this law a year before Colorado that it was put through without a negative vote in either house, and without any personal lobbying. Circulars containing the necessary information were sent to the Senators and Representatives and the thing was done before the suffragists knew anything about it. The following year a Colorado woman, having obtained from the woman responsible for the New York law all needful directions, secured the passage of a like bill in Colorado.

And this reminds me of something told me more than twenty-five years ago by an English woman prominent in prison reform work. Some question as to prison reform was to come up before Parliament. That morning every member received a letter giving all needed information and in due course of time the matter was satisfactorily atended to. A rather better way of calling the men's attention than smashing windows.

ELIZABETH B. SYKES.

The Antis in Westfield seem to be doing good work. At their first meeting they took two hundred slips and now, like Oliver, are calling for more."

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

It has been well and truly said that the style of the sleeves frequently marks the date of a gown; consequently it is all important that the sleeves should be up to date. Here are three new ones that are good which can be utilized both for the new frock and for remaking the older one.

The mousquetaire sleeve consists of one piece arranged over a plain foundation.

The sleeve with the overlapped edges gives a very smart tailored effect and can be trimmed just as illustrated or in any way that may be liked. The plain sleeve is practical for many uses and can be cut to any desired length.

For the medium size mousquetaire sleeves will require two yards of material twenty-seven inches wide or one yard thirty-six inches wide to cut without piecing, but one yard twenty-seven inches wide will suffice if the under portions are slightly pieced. The plain sleeves will require one and a half yards of material twenty-seven inches wide.

BRIEF FASHION NOTES

It is predicted that silks will be more fashionable than ever this Fall.

A charming parasol is covered with five one-inch ruffles of taffeta, with pinked edges.

A small round hat with an extension brim of tulle has two long quills posed on the extreme brim edge.

There is now a washable tulle, or net, which can stand going through the laundry almost as well as muslin.

Separate sashes worn with lingerie gowns are made of ribbon, bordered with flowers and bow-knots formed of narrow taffeta ribbon.

Crepe de chines, Canton crepes and charmeuse will be popular for street dresses this fall, according to the New York importers.

In a mid-summer model of white crepe de chine printed with futurists flowers a short loop and a tasselled sash end are amusingly placed.

Ratine, cretonne, linen, cresh and other washable fabrics have fulfilled the predictions of early spring that they would be among the popular hand-bag materials.

Many of the mid-summer hats are being trimmed with ribbons of velvet which hang in streamers down the back as far as the waist. All colors are used, but black is the most popular.

Soft silks of all kinds are generally accepted for street costumes. These materials are made up on the strict, severe lines of the tailored suit, the skirts being arranged to give grace to the wearer.

Among the novelties promised for the fall is brocaded moire, which is moire cloth with brocaded satin floral figures in old French designs. In the heavier materials velvets, chinchillas, plushes and velours de laine will be worn.

At a fashionable wedding in London recently, the bride's gown was made of the richest white satin charmeuse, trimmed with beautiful Limerick lace, and it had a girdle of jewelled silver gauze with long crystal and pearl tassels.

Ringer rings are enoying wonderful popularity in Paris. Not the small, modest kind, but rings with stones or settings as big as buttons. The largest stones are turquoise, or scarabs flecked with brown. The larger the setting the more popular the ring.

Stockings should match the color of the gown with which they are worn. And black shoes may be worn with hosiery of any color. Black colonial slippers and white stockings are frequently worn with lingerie frocks. Blue shoes are to be seen with white dresses and blue sashes.

For afternoon wear, white gloves are heavily embroidered with black. Embroidered or shirred arms are seen on some of the finest silk gloves. Very smart are the white gloves stitched with red. Lisle gloves are considered the best for all-round use in hot weather.

The wrist ribbon has almost taken the place of the strap on the modish handbags. Ribbons appear on leather bags as well as on silk ones. They are certainly more in keeping with the hot weather, and they can easily be renewed when too frequent use wears them threadbare.

For summer holiday wear nothing is more delightful than Shantung silk, whether in the form of coat or skirt costumes or travelling wraps. The color of the fabric is invariably becoming, while it is equally attractive on account of its dust-resisting qualities. A Shantung coat of smart design is trimmed effectively with groups of buttons and finished with a roll collar and cuffs of pongee in some contrasting shade.

An attractive frock combining various summer materials has a foundation of crepe-like Shantung, cream color, with a front forming a rather tight overskirt of very fine embroidered net. The corsage is made half of net, half of mousseline—in the same tone—with cuffs and a finish about the low, round neck of black tulle illusion in the form of a Pierrot, as the plaited flat collar is called. At one side of the ceinture, which is of Shantung, there is a loose velvet orchid in violet.

Dainty, coquettish Watteau hats are to be seen in Paris, simply trimmed with a bow of satin ribbon, and a posy of old-time flowers, while other hats of the Niniche category are tied with velvet ribbons and trimmed with huge bows of tulle or bunches of Nattier flowers. Several hats trimmed with black velvet and a profusion of ox-eyed daisies, have lately been seen on the boulevards, but the trimming of the moment is diaphanous tulle, fine black tulle, with which every other smart hat seen in the French capital is adorned in great gossamer-like loops, forming an aureole around the crown of the Louis Seize hat, or posed like a huge black butterfly on the crown of the Belgian or other small straw shapes.

Sandals the Thing Now.

This is the new ribbon sandal just arrived from Paris, where it has been worn at the races, the place where fashions are tried out. The ribbons are attached to a dainty satin slipper under the small cut steel clasps, and the ribbons lace across the instep and are tied above the ankle.

There is a fad among the ultra fashionables in this country to wear the sandal sans stocking, a radical notion that will not be universally adopted except in the privacy of one's home.

Be Generous to the Cobbler.

Economy in cobbler's bills never pays. The woman who realizes this is always well shod, provided, of course, she is able to buy enough shoes every year to keep her feet decently covered. And the woman who keeps her shoes well cobbled seldom suffers from uncomfortable feet. Tired feet, corns, bunions and even broken arches are all ascribed by foot specialists to shoes badly run down at the heel.

Many colds and chills and cases of pneumonia, too, have been ascribed to holes in worn shoe soles. What an array of ills this is to ascribe to unwise economy—bad looking shoes, foot ills and bodily ills, not to mention the unpleasant state of mind which results from an uncomfortable state of the feet.

Two pairs of shoes for street wear should always be kept on hand, that they may be changed frequently and that one may be left at the cobbler's whenever the heels are run down.

Keeping Copper Clean.

To keep a copper kettle clean rub with a cut lemon dipped in powdered bath brick. When all the stains have disappeared the kettle should be washed with warm, soapy water and finally polished with a soft cloth and powdered bath brick.

Query—Will you tell me where I can obtain a permit to carry a revolver for shooting purposes only, and also where there are a lot of bull-frogs? C. D. F.

Answer—The chief of police is not likely to be so handy with permits as to issue one to you in this case. Applicants for permits to carry such weapons usually have to give a pretty good reason. Why the necessity of shooting bull-frogs anyway? All one has to do is to pick them up after they croak. Lovely weather, um-m-m.

MARTY O'LOUGHLIN TO PLAY IN TEAM MATCH AT P. C. C.

There will be a good golf match at the Plainfield Country Club, this afternoon when Richard A. Smith, of the Brunswick club and Marty O'Loughlin, the professional of the local club, will play against Nick Williamson of the Brunswick club, and William Entwhistle, the professional of the Brunswick club.

There is considerable rivalry between Marty O'Loughlin and Mr. Entwhistle and no doubt they will play a side match.

Marty O'Loughlin will be a worthy opponent of Mr. Entwhistle as he has made the eighteen hole course of Plainfield in 68.

JOE TINKER'S "REDS" TO PLAY DRISCOLL'S TEAM

Manager Joe Tinker will bring his Cincinnati National League Club over from Philadelphia tomorow to play Dave Driscoll's New Brunswicks at Amusement Park. All of the regulars will appear in the game.

Last Sunday the New Brunswicks defeated the New York Giants, 3 to 1, in a stirring game, forcing George Wiltse, the veteran New York pitcher, from the mound in the fifth inning. Either Jimmy Clinton, who held the Giants to five scattered hits, or James Cameron, a reserve pitcher from the Boston Red Sox, will be on the mound for New Brunswick tomorrow.

CHANCE FOR JUNIOR BASEBALL PLAYERS

Parker Field Will Foster Two Amateur Leagues During the Summer.

Basebal players, ranging in age from 10 to 16 years, are wanted at Parker Field to aid in the organization of two amateur baseball leagues which will play at that popular rendezous all summer. Two leagues will be formed consisting of teams from different parts of town and some suitable trophy will be awarded to the teams winning the championship under their respective organizations. Yesterday, the senior league got under way, the Rovers and the Athletics appearing in the opening contests.

Several baseball magnates of the juvenile type in North Plainfield have gotten together and are organizing a team to represent the borough, another group are signing players to represent the east end, one for the west end and possibly one for South Plainfield.

If you play baseball or want to play it get in touch with one of these teams and have your name put on the list. It is not necessary to be a crackerjack performer in order to get into the National pastime as it is played on Parker Field, for one of the prime purposes of introducing a feat of this nature is to teach the game to those who want to become players. Everyone is eligible to wade into the fold, no matter where he lives or of what nationality he comes.

JUNIOR LEAGUE OPENING.

The Parker Field Junior Baseball League will get under way next Monday on the popular recreation field with an organization of four teams. There are still a number of positions open and juvenile ball players can play the diamond sport to their heart's content by applying to George W. Wristen, at Parker Field any week day.

WHO WILL FURNISH BASEBALL TO KEEP BOYS OFF THE PUBLIC THOROUGHFARES

With the organization of two amateur baseball leagues at Parker Field, one catering to juniors and the other to seniors, a problem has presented itself to Supervisor George W. Wriston which in its importance will have much to do with the successful running of the two circuits this summer. Boys who play baseball, need balls to play with, and as the playground commission's budget or the boys' bank rolls do not provide for these luxuries, the players have to voluntarily subscribe for each sphere that is used and as one ball is needed for each contest, at times it is hard to get the requisites of the National pastime.

The two amateur leagues when they get under way, will cater to nearly a hundred junior ball players, boys ranging in age from eight to sixteen years, and while these 100 youngsters are actually taking part in the contests, fully twice as many will be looking on as interested spectators. Thus, approximately 300 boys will be kept off the street five days in the week and will be able to seek the outdoor exercise and recreation they yearn for at the biggest playground in the State.

The supervisor has made a plea for baseballs and charitably inclined citizens can do their share in keeping Plainfield's future voters off the streets and away from places that will be determental to their chances of developing along the right path, by furnishing one or a dozen of these spheres. The balls are comparatively cheap in price but may be the means of saving 300 boys from the evils of the day. There value therefore, is inestimable, and the recreation received from a dozen balls will be divided among hundreds of youths. Those desiring to help in the work can communicate with R. A. Claybrook, 403 West Seventh street.

SENIOR LEAGUERS OPENED YESTERDAY

PARKER FIELD SENIOR LEAGUE.

Yesterday's Results:
Athletics 5, Rovers 1.

Standing of the Clubs:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Athletics	1	0	.1000
Rovers	0	1	.0000

A senior baseball league was opened at Parker Field yesterday afternoon when the Athletics put it over the Rovers to the tune of 5 to 1. Run getting in the first trio of innings won the contest for the Athletics, for they pulled four of their five counters across the gutta percha in these initial sessions. From the third inning on, the contest was a close one, each aggregation pulling a single marker across the registering station.

Both twirlers pitched excellent ball, Hersch allowing but six hits and McDowell seven, and each fanned a few of the opposition at different intervals of play. The infielding was good on the part of both contingents and the few errors that were made were not of the costly variety.

ANOTHER WEEK FOR STRENGTH TESTING

Supervisor Wriston Will Prolong the Work at Parker Field to Meet Demand.

Over half a hundred boys who daily attend the sessions at Parker Field have already taken advantage of Supervisor Wriston's new feature, that of giving strength tests, and the move has become such a popular one that Mr. Wriston has decided to continue the preliminary tests for another week and during that time he will be at the field all day to examine any applicants. The strength test records will be filed by him and an after season trial will be compared with the original records of the youngsters to determine any increase or decrease in their powers during the summer months.

The tests are arranged on the plan now in vogue in many of the large collegiate institutions and the athlete's faculties are tested for every movement of the body. The exercise during the summer is expected to benefit the development of individuals perceptibly and some astonishing records will probably be found when the tests are completed in the fall. The preliminary examinations have brought to light several splendid examples of body development.

How to Get Rugs Cleaned.

She told the agent for the vacuum cleaner that she really did intend to buy one, but could not decide which to choose. It was at this time that another agent, for another vacuum cleaner, came around the corner of the north side home. An argument ensued.

"This cleaner is nickel plated; it is light and compact, the rubber is the best vulcanized"—

"My machine, lady," interrupted the second agent, "is the lightest and most durable machine on the market. It is"—

"Excuse me," said the woman of the house. She was absent a moment, then reappeared with a rug.

"We shall see now which is the better," she said.

Ten minutes later she excused herself again and entered the house with a spotless rug. Two agents shook hands and swore they would "never tell."—Indianapolis News.

Hair High In the Air.

Women's hair used to be dressed to an amazing height in days of old. Formerly doorways had to be heightened to accommodate the eighteenth century woman of fashion. Marie Antoinette's hairdresser had to mount a stool in order to get above his work. Women of that time had to kneel in their coaches to get their head covering inside or drive with their heads out of window. Mme. de Genlis was caught by her hair while hastening to greet Voltaire at Ferney, but escaped Absalom's fate, her hair remaining on the bough. And the Duchesse de Chartres had room on her hair one evening for a miniature man-of-war in full sail, on another for a representation of her little son, Louis Philippe, sleeping in the lap of his nurse.

Gaelic.

Gaelic is the language of the highlanders of Scotland. The name belongs also to the sister languages of Ireland and the Isle of Man, but these have other names more commonly applied to them—Irish and Manx—and the term Gaelic is usually reserved for that spoken in Scotland. The three languages were originally one and now stand in much the same relation to each other that broad Scotch does to king's English.

FATE OF A WORLD

Its Course From Chaos to Its Hopeless Death Struggle.

THREE ACTS IN THE TRAGEDY

The First Is Shown by Jupiter, the Second by the Earth and the Third by Mars, While the Moon Shows the Empty Stage After the Play Is Done.

No stage was ever set for such a tragedy as the planet Mars presents. It is the last act in the drama of a world's history!

The first act in such a drama consists of scenes from chaos. The huge plan et Jupiter offers us a spectacle of that kind in its streaming belts of thick clouds and its whirling vapors, glowing like steam above a furnace.

The second act is represented by the earth, with its fertile crust, its cool, invigorating atmosphere and its life sustaining seas that give birth to the clouds which, condensing on the mountains, furnish the rains and set the rivers flowing.

The closing act is the role of Mars, where the seas have vanished, the at mosphere has thinned out, the rivers have disappeared, the continents have turned into deserts, and life, driven into a corner, is battling against final extinction.

That there is yet intelligent life on Mars is the universal belief of all the observers whom Mr. Lowell has gathered about him at his Flagstaff observatory, where the extraordinary phenomena of that wonderful planet are studied as nowhere else in the world.

More than that, they tell us with ever increasing emphasis that the people of Mars, compelled by necessity, have developed a command over natural forces which would seem miraculous if exhibited upon the earth.

With them it has become simply a question of brain power against the inanimate powers of nature.

They have nights and days of the same length as ours. They have seasons almost precisely corresponding with ours, except that they are each twice as long. But their oceans are dried up, no rains fall (though there may be dews), and nearly all the atmospheric moisture is alternately locked up in one or the other of the polar snowcaps.

In such a situation no vegetation can flourish unless artificially stimulated by a gigantic system of irrigation. And without vegetation animal existence is impossible.

But whence can the inhabitants of Mars derive the water needed for irrigation? The answer given is that they get it periodically from the melting of the polar snows. Being without seas and rivers they have no other source of supply.

On Mars the reign of universal peace must have begun ages ago, introduced not by moral or sentimental considerations, but by the necessity of uniting all the engineering skill, all the inventive powers and all the physical forces of the entire population of the planet in a common battle for life.

The only thought of their inventors is of improved means for controlling the slowly lessening supplies of moisture that once in about two of our years may be drawn away from one of the poles while the summer sunshine is dissolving its thin snows.

This universal concentration of mental energy upon a single aim is conceived as having developed upon Mars a knowledge of the hidden forces of nature such as has up to the present merely been dreamed of on the earth.

We have just begun to learn how to use electricity in the mechanic arts, but they may have unlocked the secret forces inclosed in the atoms of matter which our science has recently assured us exist without showing us how to utilize them.

Only by such suppositions can the "canals," hundreds of miles wide and thousands of miles long, be accounted for, if, as the Flagstaff observers insist, those objects are really of artificial origin. It should be said, however, that in Mr. Lowell's opinion the bands called canals are, in fact, irrigated belts.

The real canals within them are invisible, while the progressive darkening of these belts, as the polar melting increases, is due to the growth of vegetation, stimulated by the water.

After the world life drama closes there is left an empty stage, and this is represented by the moon. The lunar world has lost all its water. Its tragedy is finished. The actors are all dead. Millions of years ago there may have been a battle for life there like that which now appears to be raging on Mars. And millions of years in the future the stage of the earth will probably be set for a similar tragedy. For, to the eyes of the overlooking gods (to change a little Shakespeare's figure):

All the sky's a stage,
And all the worlds and suns are merely actors.

Folding a Coat.

Here is the way to fold a man's coat when you want to pack it in a box or a trunk. Lay the coat out perfectly flat, right side up. Spread the sleeves out smoothly, then fold them back to the elbow until the bottoms of the cuffs are even with the collar. Fold the revers back and double the coat over, folding it on the center seam. Smooth out all wrinkles and lay it on a level surface in the trunk.

RAILROAD MEN READY TO QUIT

Union Heads Issue Threat of General Strike.

CRUCIAL MEETING TODAY

Seth Low Pleads Employees' Cause With Heads of Roads—Strike Would Involve Forty-three Lines and Army of 100,000 Men.

New York, July 19.—A. B. Garretson and W. G. Lee, representing the 100,000 conductors and trainmen on the eastern railroads, in a bulletin notified the chairmen of all the unions involved to hold themselves in readiness for an immediate strike order.

After quoting the eight demands of the managers which the railroads wish to have submitted to arbitration, together with the men's demands, the bulletin says:

You will understand from this that the managers' committee really proposes a reduction in pay for every man now in the service, the greater portion of such reduction being directed against passenger men and local freight men in the abolition of all monthly guarantees and against yard and road brakemen in the insistence that the same classification shall be applied to all members of the crew.

It is needless to say that no arbitration embodying these propositions will even be considered, and if insisted upon by the managers only one result can follow—namely, the setting of the hour for retirement from the service.

Local chairmen will remain on duty until otherwise instructed by their general chairman or the undersigned and will remain where communications from their general chairmen by wire or letter will reach them promptly.

Seth Low Argues For Men.

The conference committee of managers went into session in the New Haven building in the Grand Central terminal and considered the last letter received from the trainmen. Seth Low took up his argument with the managers on behalf of the men.

At the same time that the committee gave out their call to the unions following their meeting in the Broadway Central hotel it was announced that the railroad employees would take no action on the issues before them pending the arrival in New York of William Lea Chambers, whom President Wilson nominated as commissioner of mediation and conciliation. Mr. Chambers will probably be in New York today. The committee of a hundred deemed it but courtesy to mark time until Mr. Chambers should arrive.

The committee, however, is skeptical as to the possible efficacy of Mr. Chambers' good offices.

BRYAN NOT RETIRING.

"Don't Buy Stock on Such a Rumor," Says McReynolds.

Washington, July 19.—Secretary of State Bryan expressed himself as highly amused over reports current on the New York Stock Exchange that he was about to retire from his post.

"I wouldn't like to buy stock on such a rumor as that," added Attorney General McReynolds, who was with Bryan at the time.

The White House made absolute denial of the report that the president was about to request Bryan's resignation.

CABINET DISCUSSES MEXICAN SITUATION

Decides to Await Ambassador Wilson's Report.

Washington, July 19.—Consideration of the Mexican situation took much of the time of the president and cabinet at a regular session. Mr. Bryan, secretary of state, had a long conference with the president before the other members arrived. Although reports are coming in from various sources, the administration is looking forward to first hand information from Henry Lane Wilson, the ambassador, on his way from the City of Mexico. It was again authoritatively stated that the attitude of the administration still is unchanged.

In response to the request of Mr. Hamm, American consul, for protection for Americans in the Durango section, the state department has demanded action from the Mexican federal authorities. The department went further than usual in that it requested the federal government to dispatch troops from Torreon.

Mr. Hamm has previously reported foreigners, irrespective of nationality, being held by revolutionists for ransom in Durango. The prisoners at one time included the bishop of Durango.

Say Diaz Is Being Exiled.

City of Mexico, July 19.—General Felix Diaz, who has been appointed special ambassador to Japan to express the thanks of Mexico to the Japanese for their participation in Mexico's centennial in 1910 is referred to by the newspaper El Pais in an editorial article as "the political emigrant." The article says Diaz is being sent out of the country and expresses the opinion that there will be no elections in Mexico in the time fixed.

El Independiente also frankly expresses the opinion that Diaz has been practically exiled, at least temporarily.

An unusual honor is to be paid to the new Japanese minister by the Mexican government, which is sending a commission consisting of one representative of the foreign office and two military attaches to meet him at the port of Manzanillo. Arrangements are being made up for a huge popular demonstration on the arrival in the capital of the Japanese diplomatist.

ENGLAND'S ENVOY TO MEXICO

Sir Lionel Carden, Who Married American, Appointed to Post.

London, July 19.—Sir Lionel Edward Gresley Carden, who arranged the Guatemalan debt matter and who is at present British minister to the Central American states, was appointed British minister to Mexico in place of Francis W. Stronge.

Sir Lionel, whose wife was Miss Anne Lefferts of New York, will leave for his new post in September.

DEAD IN ENGINE TENDER.

Railroad Man Believed to Have Fallen From Coal Chute.

Syracuse, N. Y., July 19.—In a kneeling posture the body of George P. Wood, Jr., a railroad fireman of 229 Bergenline avenue, Union Hill, N. J., was found in the tender of an engine at the New York Central roundhouse at Minoa as the engine was being made ready for a trip.

Railroad men believe Wood was smothered in a coal pile and his body dropped through a chute into the engine tender. The engine came in from Albany. Wood was seen at Ravena a few days ago.

Husband Need Not Pay Spite Bills.

London, July 19.—A judge in Westminster county court ruled that a husband is not responsible for extravagant bills runs up by his wife for spite and dismissed a dressmaker's suit for $315.

SENATE ROW ON BRYAN LECTURES

Secretary's Absence Bitterly Criticised by Republicans.

BRISTOW-ASHHURST CLASH

Washington, July 19.—One of the liveliest debates the senate has heard in a long while was precipitated when Senator Bristow's resolution was taken up criticising Secretary Bryan's statement that he was forced to supplement his salary by lecturing. When the resolution calling on President Wilson for information concerning Secretary Bryan's Chautauqua activities came before the senate in regular course the Democratic leaders were ready with a motion to table, and they succeeded in tabling the resolution by a vote of 41 to 29. It was a strict party vote except that Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Poindexter of Washington voted with the Democrats.

Manifestly the plan of the Democratic leaders was to shut off debate, but in that they were unsuccessful, for while the motion to table was not debatable and they were successful in shelving the resolution without debate, the Republicans started debate along other lines, and it promised to keep up for some time.

Senator Bristow, speaking to an amendment to the tariff bill in regard to cotton tier and cotton bagging, dwelt on the apparent neglect of duty which the secretary of state had been guilty of. Senator Vardaman of Mississippi, a long time friend of Mr. Bryan, inquired if Mr. Bryan's subordinates could not attend to the business as well as their chief.

"I want a frank, candid answer from the senator from Kansas," suggested Mr. Vardaman.

"I have heard it said," replied Mr. Bristow, "that the department of state would be better off if Mr. Bryan remained away all of the time, but as to that I do not know."

Senator Fall Attacks Bryan.

Senator Fall of New Mexico called attention to the fact that a resolution passed by the senate in April on Mexican conditions was still unanswered and suggested that if Mr. Bryan had remained at the department the senate might have had an answer.

Senator Bristow and Senator Ashurst of Arizona came into sharp conflict after the Bryan discussion got under way when the senator from Arizona accused Senator Bristow of having written a letter to former Senator Long of Kansas when he was a candidate for a federal appointment, suggesting that he desired something that would permit him to spend a lot of time in political work in Kansas.

Senator Bristow referred to the charge as an "exploded political charge" and retorted that Senator Ashurst had abused the free telegraph privilege of the senate by using the wires at government expense on private business.

Senator Ashurst denounced the charge as false. He was very white and apparently enraged. He dared Senator Bristow to specify the offenses and the senator from Kansas admitted that he had already called the attention of the proper senate committee to the offenses of the senator from Arizona.

Repeatedly the Democratic senators sought to call Bristow to order and end his speech, but he kept on. The resolution relating to tariff, on which Bristow was speaking, was twice read to show that he was not speaking to the matter before the senate. But he responded that the senate and the country were interested.

WITTPENN TURNED DOWN.

Hudson County Committee Comes Out For Fielder For Governor.

Jersey City, N. J., July 19.—The Hudson county Democratic committee, at a meeting held at the Democratic headquarters in this city, rescinded by a unanimous vote the resolution adopted last April indorsing the candidacy of H. Otto Wittpenn, ex mayor of Jersey City, for the Democratic nomination for governor and adopted in its stead a resolution indorsing the candidacy of Governor James S. Fielder.

In the new resolution it was cited that Governor Fielder held the respect and esteem of President Wilson and that he is a progressive.

WOULD TAX BONDED IMPORTS

Bill to Apply Present Revenue to Goods Held For Lower Tariff Rates.

Washington, July 19.—Asserting that $100,000,000 worth of imported merchandise is now held in bonded warehouses in New York awaiting the lower rates of duty carried by the Underwood-Simmons bill before being entered in the custom houses, Senator George Sutherland introduced an amendment to the tariff bill, making all such goods subject to existing rates of duty. The amendment was referred to the finance committee.

Weather Forecast.

Fair today and tomorrow; light to west to northwest winds.

—Renting a flat, or house, or other property, is strictly "a classified advertising matter." Any other way of finding tenants is impracticable, costly and—sometimes—impossible.

Are You Utilizing 100% of Your Advertising Possibilities?

Advertisers may fail in accomplishing the full measure of their possible earnings and handicap their growth by contenting themelves with less than their full selling capacity; others, by means of intelligent advertising, approximate the possible 100 per cent. volume of sales with no increase of "over-head" expense.

But how about the merchant who is advertising, but who is not realizing 100 per cent. of his possibilities?

In advertising, as in merchandising, the point must be reached where expense of operation is overcome and profits begin.

In advertising, as in retailing or manufacturing, it's the last certain per cent. of effort that counts.

Some very clever advertisers in Plainfield are spending large sums of money in advertising without securing 100 per cent. in results, and a few are hitting the "bull's eye." Waste is responsible for most advertising failures.

But what about the under-advertised business—the store that is on the right track, but limits its advertising to the development of 50, 60, or 80 per cent. of the sales of which it is capable.

This type of business most frequently is the specialty store that has sufficient capital and sufficient credit to do a much larger business, but is not willing to venture the needed ten, twenty-five or fifty per cent. added advertising effort to achieve the full results.

The store, for instance, that is doing a business of $40,000 or $50,000 annually, but with facilities for doing an additional $50,000 without added fixed expense, could well afford to spend $5,000 in advertising to get that $50,000 extra business. And the Daily Press would give it to him.

The Daily Press' circulation embraces the class and the best of the mass in Plainfield, and will yield rich returns to any advertiser who appeals to it intelligently.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof." The proof that the Daily Press readers respond to advertising is the year-in and year-out use of its space by discerning advertisers.

It is quite true that even an under-advertised business may pay a pleasing profit; but why not more profit, at no extra fixed expense, for the moderate outlay of a Daily Press advertising appropriation?

Think of the "pure v-e-l-v-e-t" business, entailing no extra investment except advertising, on which the net profits would possibly equal the net profits of the entire business now done on the under-advertised plan.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Absolute perfection is the unanimous verdict of play-goers who are viewing the marvelous photo materialization of "Quo Vadis?" Nothing quite so superb as this photo-drama has been offered the public since motion pictures became a reality.

Roman history is replete with incidents of pagan cruelty, but particularly blood curdling are the events chronicled during the last years of the reign of Nero, and no matter how vividly these scenes are brought home to us in the perusal of Sienkiewicz's powerful story, it fails to impress with the reality of these "Quo Vadis" pictures.

Here is seen the horrors of the Roman arena, common in the Eternal City 20 centuries ago, and no greater tribute to the combined art of the camera and stage manager can be furnished than the constantly crowded Astor theatre, where these vivid views are being shown.

Louise Brehany, the American singer, has put in the past year in Italian opera in Rome. A pupil of Franceschetti, she sang before the Royal Academy of St. Cecelia at Rome, on May 25, and was awarded a diploma and made a life member of the Academy.

ACKERMAN GIVEN COLBY'S ANSWER

Progressive Leader Replying to Republican Tells Why There can be no Fusion.

NO LONGER FACTIONS

He Makes It Clear—Says New Party Was Born Only After It Was Hopeless to Stay in the Old Party.

Hackensack, July 21.—Everett Colby's first platform address since his announcement of his candidacy for the Gubernatorial nomination on the Progressive ticket was delivered Saturday night before an enthusiastic audience in Oritania Hall, this city. In the course of his remarks. Colby made a reply to Ackerman, saying. "Some weeks ago I received a letter from former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of Union county, a Republican of unquestioned independence and courage, suggesting that the Progressives and Republicans change their policy of war to the knife and knife to the hilt, and agree upon a candidate for Congress in this district, on the ground that the true interests of the people and a correct solution of the economic problems of the day call for united action. In his request, made in good faith and with an earnest desire to serve the best interest of the State and nation, I see the attitude and wish of many men of the highest character in the Republican party, and we can not dismiss them with a sneer, a cuff and a kick without subjecting ourselves to the suspicion that our only weapon is the tongue; our only shield, abuse. They are entitled to an answer expressed with as much vigor as we please, but in the same generous spirit of courtesy as the offer was made. The fallacy in Senator Ackerman's suggestion is found in the premise that the Progressives and Republicans are simply factions of one great party, temporarily divided upon questions of party management. That is not the case.

Arraigns Republican Party.

"For seven years we did fight as a faction within the party, trying to vote on what we believed to be fundamental issues, but year after year our bills were either mutilated beyond recognition of rejected altogether. Civil service, direct primaries, popular choice for United States Senator, Public Utility Commission and taxation reform failed to receive support from the representatives of the party with a few exceptions, undaunted defeat stared them in the face, and then the bills that were introduced often had no teeth.

"But still we clung to the organization. We worked hard and carried the primaries only to be defeated by the party workers at the polls, not, I think, because we were personally obstructed, but because the things we stood for separated the party into those who meant business and meant to destroy the control of our State by special interests, and those who were either dominated by these interests or who did not appreciate in the slightest degree the meaning of the progressive movement.

"But still we kept on and took our punishment, until in Chicago, a year ago, it became evident that, with the control of the party in the national committee, things were absolutely hopeless and that we could do more useful work by getting out and organizing a new party bound together by a spirit of service. We did not act hastily. We were seven years deciding. This fact I think alone should prove conclusively that we offered every reasonable opportunity, during those long years, for fusion and for unity within the party.

"Now what is the condition? The leaders of the Republican party are divided into two groups: the Progressive element, now even more bitter in their denunciation of the old leadership than we were, and the reactionaries, who led the party on to the rocks. The Progressive element admit in most part that our platform is sound. Yet they are unwilling to join the party that has cleared the ground, drawn the plans and employed the expert builders to construct the house."

A helpful and eloquent sermon was preached yesterday morning at Trinity Reformed church by Rev. Dr. Isaac W. Gowen, pastor of Grove Reformed church, of Weehawken. He spoke on the subject of "Limiting God," using for his text the forty-first verse of Psalm 78, "they turned back and tempted God, and limited the Holy One of Israel."

PULPIT SUPPLIES.

The following pulpit supplies have been announced for Trinity Reformed church: July 27 and August 3, Rev. Dr. E. R. Johnson; August 10, Rev. Abram Duryea; August 17, Rev. Dr. I. W. Gowen; August 24, Rev. Dr. W. E. Davis.

MANY VISITORS AT THIS LODGE SESSION

Old Glory Council, Daughters of Liberty, Has a Gala Night.

With 150 members and visitors present, Old Glory Council, No. 62, Daughters of Liberty, entertained State Council officers at a meeting on Saturday night. THREE YOUTHS ATTEMPT A WALK TO HOPATCONG

Ralph O. Martin, of Leland avenue, and Ernest T. Bedman, of Ease Second street, two young pedestrians, accompanied by George Proll, of Somerville, started from that city Saturday afternoon intending to walk to Lake Hopatcong. After getting as far as Ledgwood, a distance of about fifty miles, the trio became foot-sore and weary and made the balance of the journey by trolley car. Considering that the trip was their initial long distance hike the three walkers are satised with their effort.

The start was from the Somerville county court house at 2.27 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Traveling through Green Knoll, Pluckemin, Bedminster, Far Hills and Peapack, a stop was made at Gladstone for dinner. After walking through Chester and Bartley, the trio put up for the night at the Flanders Hotel, Flanders, where they arrived at 10.30 o'clock. The pedestrians resumed their journey at 4.30 o'clock yesterday morning arriving at Ledgwood at 7.30 o'clock. The homeward trip was made on a Jersey Central excursion train.

AUTO AND MOTORCYCLE IN COLLISION ON PARK AVENUE

An automobile and motorcycle, both traveling at a moderate rate of speed, came together at right tngles at the junction of Park avenue and North avenues Saturday afternoon, neither of the drivers being injured but the motorcycle's front wheel was completely demolished. Raymond Becker, of 58 Watchung avenue, who was riding the motorcycle was running west on North avenue and instead of taking the corner on the right side of the traffic post he came through on the left, striking an automobile runabout driven by John Nicholson, of Oak Tree, a glancing blow on the side.

Although the front wheel of Becker's machine was smashed to splinters, the driver managed to keep his seat and held the machine up. A satisfactory settlement was reached between the two men immediately following the accident and the motorcycle was placed in the automobile and taken to a garage for repairs.

OLD PUMPING STATION IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Ignited by sparks from a passing engine, the old pumping station in the Borough of Middlesex, about two miles east of Bound Brook, which has been used by the Jersey Central Railroad for over twenty-five years, was burned to the ground last night before the fire apparatus of the surrounding towns arrived.

The fire was under headway before a railroad employe noticed the flames and set in an alarm of fire to the Lincoln and Bound Brook departments. The damage is estimated at $1,000.

DUNELLEN HAS SOME HUNGRY MISCREANTS

Petty Burglaries Reported and Eatables the Chief Loss in Most Cases.

Dunellen residents have been troubled during the past two weeks by a number of petty burglaries committed in the central portion of the town, and despite some active sleuthing on the part of the police department the miscreants have withheld their identity. Most of the places entered have been deprived of a quantity of foodstuffs by the thieves but silverware and other valuables have been left untouched.

The burglars appear to be after something to eat and the cupboards of a number of houses have been completely cleaned out in the early hours of the morning. Entrance is gained through an open window or door and in passing through the dining rooms and other portions of the houses the thieves have left the valuable fixtures unmolested. The censensus of opinion seems to be that the house breakers are either boys or hoboes who stop off passing freight cars for the night at Dunellen and incidentally seek something to eat and drink. Two weeks ago Samuel Woodruff, who gave his residence as Brooklyn, was caught trying to rob a house on Prospect avenue and committed to the Middlesex county jail at New Brunswick and since that time complaints have been received almost daily from residents who are troubled with the night workers. The police have instituted a vigilant watch, however, and expect to put an end to the stealing very shortly.

Andrew Hazlin's residence was entered Friday night and the thieves, after eating their full, departed with a case of beer, the box and bottles later being found in an adjoining lot. While attending a dance at Wayside Park Henry Vogel was relieved of a store of eatables by some burglars who entered his home in his absence. A large amount of sugar was Vogel's principal loss.

FORTY PLAINFIELDERS AT CAMP RAM'S HORN

West End Club Took a Trainload of Excursionists to Lake Hopatcong.

Members of the Reminiscent Club to the number of forty, went to Lake Hopatcong by special train yesterday to visit Tommy Muir, one of the members of the organization, who is the Halsey Island. A committee composed of the club's active members had been planning for the affair for the past month and an elaborate program of entertainment had been arranged which was carried out to the highest degree of perfection.

The excursionists had a great time going to and coming from the Lake in their special car and while at Muir's camp they passed the time playing cards, baseball and other games. Many of the members of the party took advantage of the bathing and others went boating and fishing. Immediately upon arriving at the Lake the men were treated to a chicken dinner at Camp Ram's Horn and this was the feature event of the day's outing, Tommy's cooks having prepared an excellent meal for the merry-makers.

INTOXICATED CHAUFFEUR GIVEN A JAIL SENTENCE

George Hicks, of 179 Fairmont avenue, Newark, who was arrested in North Plainfield, Friday afternoon, and remanded for further investigation after a hearing before Recorder Gano in the borough court, Saturday, was arraigned again the same morning and sentenced to spend thirty days in the county jail at Somerville. Hicks was charged with driving a heavy auto truck through the borough streets while in an intoxicated condition and the State's penalty for the offense left no alternative but a jail sentence.

Because of the financial condition of Hicks' family in Newark the borough recorder was inclined to be lenient in this case, but the minimum sentence he could impose was thirty days in the county jail. Hicks was taken to Somerville Saturday afternoon despite strong pleas on the part of friends who had come here from Newark.

KICKED BY A HORSE.

H. Craig Smith, of 977 Madison avenue, a veteran of the Civil War, while crossing North avenue near the railroad station Saturday afternoon, was kicked in the left leg by a balky horse belonging to a cabman. He was not badly hurt.

AUTO-TRUCK DRIVER SAVED SMALL GIRL

Swung Car Into Curb to Prevent Hitting Her—Thrown Out He Sustains Sprain.

Elmer Mitchell, of Arlington, an employe of the Castle Ice Cream Co., of Newark, while driving an automobile truck through this city yesterday, fell from the vehicle as he caused the heavy car eo swing around at West Third and Liberty streets to avoid running into a small girl whose name could not be learned. Mitchell's presence of mind undoubtedly saved the child's life and prevented another serious fatality in this city. The automobile driver received a badly sprained ankle, but continued on his way to Newark after being attended by Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, of Park avenue.

"I was proceeding at moderate speed along West Third street," Mitchell said, "when, as I neared Liberty street, a girl I should judge to be about nine years old suddenly ran from the sidewalk directly in front of my machine. I applied my brakes and swung the car to the right against the curb. The heavy truck almost toppled over and I lost my balance and fell in a peculiar position to the ground. I'm glad I didn't strike the kid although it would not have been my fault if I did."

ASTROLOGER SEES SOME CALAMITIES

War With Mexico, Strikes, Fires, Philippine Rebellion, Epidemics, etc.

Gustave Meyer, the Hoboken astrologer, whose predictions have somehow or other come true on more than one occasion, sends a letter to the Daily Press today prophesying trouble ahead for the U. S. A., including a war with Mexico, a rebellion in the Philippines, and an epidemic of diseases, strikes and what not and all of this before September 15.

His letter follows:

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

As an American astrologer, I am herewith sending the readers of your paper the following article, which, piece of astrological news, and food for thought, etc.

The zodiacal sign of Gemini rules the United States, and on the 29th inst. at 7 a. m. the fiery, evil and warlike planet Mars enters Gemini, and will not pass out of that sign until this September 15th, at 1 p. m. Hence during this period or evil transit of Mars through Gemini, I fear war for the United States with Mexico (a six weeks' war), also uprisings in the Philippines, much internal trouble, riots and great strikes, especially on the railroads, also an epidemic of small pox, scarlet, typhoid and yellow fever, if notcholera, and the most serious series of fires in history will sweep the country, hence, all of our fire departments should immediately see to it that they have a sufficient supply of "good" hose on hand to cope with the emergencies, otherwise, I fear a holocoust, especially so in New York city.

During this evil transit of Mars, there will be "Hell on earth with the lid off" in the United States, and serious trouble to our President and Government.

The most critical dates for the above-mentioned evil will be strongly in evidence on July 29th and 31st, August 1st, 4th, 10th, 11th, 16th, 18th, 22nd, 24th, 26th, 28th and 29th and September 1st, 7th, 8th, 11th, 13th and 15th. Great electric storms, if not a hurricane, will occur on July 20th, 22nd, 26th, 28th and 29th.

With compliments, I remain,

Sincerely

GUSTAVE MEYER,

Hoboken, N. J., Astrologer.

ALLEGED RIDE STEALER WALKS INTO A TRAP

Receiving word last night that a man was stealing a ride on a Jersey Central freight train, Chief Kiely sent Patrolmen O'Keefe and Nolan to the North avenue station to arrest the alleged trespasser. Seeing the local guardians of the law at the depot the man hopped from the cars as they came to a stop and made his escape. Shortly after 9 o'clock a man fairly dressed applied to police headquarters for a night's lodging. Patrolman Nolan placed him under arrest as the one who had stolen the ride.

The alleged offender gave his name as George Lane and said that his home was in St. Paul, Wis. He will be arraigned tomorrow morning before City Judge DeMeza.

EXPERT SWIMMER WAS DROWNED IN RARITAN

Floyd Smith Seized With Cramps and Sank Before Assistance Arrived.

While swimming in the Raritan River, near Sunnyside, yesterday afternoon, with a number of companions, Floyd Smith, nineteen years old, of Cherryville, was suddenly seized with cramps and sank before assistance could reach him. Smith and four other young men of about the same age were in the habit of swimming in the mill pond in the Raritan River every Sunday afternoon and the drowned youth was considered a leader in every kind of aquatic sports. The swimmers had been in the water for nearly an hour yesterday afternoon when Smith ventured far out into the stream several yards from where his companions were bathing but they thought little of the incident because of his adeptness in the water.

The other swimmers were attracted by a shriek and looked in Smith's direction just in time to see him throw up his hands and disappear under the waters. The men made frantic attempts to reach him but when the first man arrived at the spot the youth had gone under for the last time and his companions dragged the body to the shore and life was found to be extinct.

The dead youth's parents are summering at Asbury Park and they were notified immediately after the incident occurred. When the mother was acquainted with the real nature of the tragedy she became hysterical. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Smith, of Cherryville and was well known in the village in which he lived and in this city, where he has been a visitor on a number of different occasions.

STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR'S SESSIONS

Trenton, July 21.—The executive commitee of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor has issued the official call for the thirty-fifth annual convention to be held in the Assembly Chamber, in the State House in Trenton, on August 18, 19 and 20. Every local union in this State roganized on trade union principles and which is affiliated with the national or international unior of its craft and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor is requested to be represented. The basis for representation for every bona fide trade, federal or wage labor union is as follows: Unions of fifty members or less, two delegates; fifty to one hundred members, three delegates; one delegate for every additional one hundred members or majority fraction thereof.

The convention will be opened by Mayor Donnelly, of Trenton, who will make an address of welcome. There will be other addresses by well-known advocates of labor's cause. The annual report of President Cornelius Ford will be a feature of the first day's session. Mr. Ford, who has been the executive head of the federation for the past eleven years was appointed by President Wilson on June 10 as public printer of the United States. Other inteesting reports will be those of the legislative committee, constitution and by-laws committee and nominating committee.

There is much speculation as to who will succeed M. Ford as the chief executive of the federation. It is said there will be a host of names presented for election to that office and that a spirited contest is assured. Henry F. Hilfers, of Newark, is slated for re-election to the office of secretary, which he has filled with credit for many years.

WILSON EXPLAINS DELAY OF THE CURRENCY BILL

Judges Announce Awards in Plainfield Daily Press Subscriptions' Contest, Premiums Aggregating Over $4,000 in Value Being Presented Winners--Many Surprises and All the Contestants Are Satisfied.

George E. Ianson, of Somerville, Charles M. Mattoe, of Raritan, and Thomas Dorgan, of Plaineld, are the owners today of the three automobiles which the Plainfield Daily Press offered as prizes in the circulation contest closing Saturday night. While they have been amply repaid for their efforts on the part of this newspaper, the paper itself has added another 500 to the steadily growing army of readers who have been flocking to it since January 1, 1912, and the advertisers who use its columns will thus receive beter value for their money than ever before.

In the contest there was a total of over 18,500,000 votes cast, of which the winners of the cars polled over 4,000,000. In every way the contest was most satisfactory to all concerned, and the winners of the various prizes were delighted with what they had received for their efforts.

The Daily Press received most encouraging support from all sides in the contest. The Service Motor Company, Standard Auto & Tire Company, the Plainfield Trust Company, the Plainfield Business College and the Vitaphone Company all realized the splendid amount of publicity which they could receive from the contest, and assisted in making the entire undertaking the big success it was.

All of the contestants have asked the Daily Press to publicly express for them their thanks to the hundreds of friends who showed their interest and gave them their support in the winning of the various prizes.

Herbert E. Parker, secretary of the Plainfield Young Men's Christian Association, City Judge William G. DeMeze and County Register Frank H. Smith acted as judges on Saturday night in counting the final vote and they were over an hour completing the tally. During that time an interested crowd of spectators was present, and when the results were announced their was a handshaking "bee" on the part of the winners and losers.

The following letters of thanks were received today:

"We wish to take these means to thank all the friends who assisted us in the great race for the automobile which I am proud to say I won without a cent of cost but honest effort. I wish to also thank the Daily Press and the contest manager for the impartial advice given me throughout.

"Mr. and Mrs. Thos. A. Dorgan."

"As it is impossible for me today to personally thank all of those who have assisted me in the Daily Press contest which closed Saturday night, and as I wish to do so promptly, I take this means of expressing my appeciation to those who assisted me in the contest, and to the Daily Press for the prize I received, a $50 vitaphone.

"Arthur Briggs."

"I sincerely wish to thank all who assisted me in winning the Overland automobile in the Daily Press contest. I also wish to thank the Daily Press for the splendid prize won, also Mr. Fitch, the contest manager, as were it not for the urging I would have given up the race.

"Charles M. Mattoe, Raritan, N. J."

"Through this medium I wish to express my appreciation for the help rendered me by my many friends during my campaign for subscription in the Daily Press contest which closed Saturday night.

MINISTER ADDRESSES JR. O. U. A. M. COUNCIL

With a number of members of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., in attendance, Rev. Royal A. Stout, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, preached a sermon last night on the subject, "The Truth of America," using for a text the words of Solomon. "Buy truth, and sell it not."

The minister pointed out that the nation had been born in truth, its liberty having been bought by the blood of its worthy sons. The same truth must be preserved for the future generations by the same spirit that prevailed in the forefathers' time. He also recommended the reading of the Bible in the public schools as a means of instilling the truth into the hearts and minds of those who follow. Truth must be bought at a price today as in the past, and it should be carefully guarded.

Rev. C. C. Cain, pastor of Grace M. E. church, the speaker, brought a message of church attendance very vividly to his hearers. He declared that the American people are not following the example set for them by earlier generations. He suggested that these pause sufficiently long to give this important subject of church attendance its just consideration. Whitney Frazee rendered a cornet solo.

At the service next Saturday night, Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, will be the speaker.

Two Bullets Crash Through Window at Former Sweetheart's Party.

New Brunswick, July 21.—Harry B. Barlow, twenty five years old, son of Isaac Barlow, a well to do farmer, was arrested charged with having fired two shots at his former sweetheart, Miss Anna Grover, twenty years old, of Plainsboro, a village ten miles from this place.

Miss Grover gave a party at her home, but, it is said, did not invite Barlow. When the guests were enjoying themselves late in the evening two bullets crashed through the parlor window near Miss Grover, who sat at table. They went dangerously near her head, but did not hit her. The guests ran out of the front door, but no one was in sight.

SEEKS DEATH, BLAMES DAD.

"It Was You, Daddy," Young Girl Says After Drinking Poison.

Jersey City, N. J., July 21.—Margaret Muiry of 230 Grove street decided that seventeen years of life with her parents was sufficient. At a drug store she purchased a small bottle of iodine, and when she got to the street she opened it and swallowed the contents.

Antidotes were administered by those who had seen her swallow the poison, and her father was sent for. When he arrived the girl looked at him reproachfully and said: "It was you, daddy. It was you." At the City hospital, to which she was taken, it was said that she would recover.

12 ROOMS FOR 12 DOGS.

Mrs. Graves' Pomeranians Have Individual Beds and Rugs to Chew.

Brockton, Mass., July 21.—Twelve Pomeranians, each with a whole room to himself, housed in a house which they have all to themselves, take the prize for dog luxury, Brockton people think. The dogs have a valet, electric fans, individual beds, a bath twice a day, a back yard to play in, leather chairs and soft rugs to try their teeth on.

Mrs. E. V. Graves, a prominent business woman, owns the dogs. She is at the head of a factory here. It is asserted that she is more attentive to her dogs than Mrs. William Carter of Newport to hers, and Mrs. Carter got four doctors when her Pomeranian was nervous.

ONRUSHING TURKS TAKE ADRIANOPLE

Bashi-Bazouks Loot, Burn and Torture.

ADVANCE MADE ON SOFIA

Turkey Announces Her Purpose to Recover Conquered Territory Up to the Maritza River—Talk of New Peace Negotiations.

London, July 21.—The Turks have entered Adrianople after a short conflict with the small Bulgarian force, and the bashi-bazouks are burning, pillaging and committing atrocities, according to a Sofia dispatch. Roumanian troops are advancing in an easterly direction, threatening eastern Roumelia.

The events of the last few days indicate the complete collapse of the authority of the powers.

A Daily Mail dispatch from Sofia confirming the foregoing says that Enver Bey at the head of a Turkish cavalry force has arrived at Adrianople. The Bulgarian garrison of two battalions, about 2,000 men, had received orders not to resist the Turks.

The same correspondent reports that 30,000 Roumanian troops are advancing upon Sofia and have already reached Orchanijl, about twenty miles north east of Sofia, and Etropole, about thirty-eight miles northeast of Sofia.

Constantinople, July 21. The sublime porte has issued formal orders to the army to occupy Thrace and Adrianople.

In a note acquainting the powers with this decision it is announced that the new Turko-Bulgarian frontier will be the river Maritza. The porte saddles Bulgaria with the responsibility for any fighting that may ensue.

London, July 21.—The advent of a new Bulgarian cabinet comprising a coalition of the Liberal groups seemed to have brought a prospect that peace negotiations would soon be entered into. After vain attempts to negotiate separately with Roumania the Bulgarian government accepted the advice of Austria and Russia and offered Roumania an important territorial concession. Bulgaria also sent delegates to meet the Servian and Greek and presumably Roumanian representatives at Nish to negotiate an armistice and peace.

Servia, Greece and Montenegro were ready to participate in these negotiations.

Sofia, July 21.—The new coalition cabinet under the premiership of M. Radoslavoff, the Liberal leader in the Bulgarian parliament, has been constituted as follows:

Premier and minister of the interior, M. Radoslavoff; minister of foreign affairs, M. Gruenadieff; finance, M. Tontcheff; justice, M. Pochoff; war, General Vazoff; commerce, M. Blatcoff; public works, M. Dimcheff; railways, M. Morphoff.

WOULD RESTORE CAPT. POTTS

Washington, July 21. Senator Martin of Virginia introduced a bill to restore Captain Templin M. Potts to the active navy list. This is the first action taken in Captain Potts' case and indicates the nature of the endeavor which Captain Potts will make to be reinstated.

The case attracted attention following the selection of Captain Potts for retirement by the "plucking board." The action by the board was possible because Secretary Daniels deprived Captain Potts of his promotion. On March 26, after passing his examination for promotion to be a rear admiral, Captain Potts was informed that he had not had sufficient sea service to warrant promotion. Captain Potts was ordered to sea. It was announced that after he had served a time at sea he would be promoted, his new rank to date from March 26, 1913. By the deferment of his promotion, however, Captain Potts felt under the jurisdiction of the "plucking board."

SUICIDE'S CHARITY GIFTS.

James McGregor, Wealthy Utah Miner, Left Thousands to Schools.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 21. The will of James McGregor, a Salt Lake City mining man, who committed suicide a week ago while visiting at his old home here, contains many bequests to charity.

A fund of $100,000 is provided to help young men and women to obtain educations in nonsectarian and nonreligious institutions. The Union hospital gets $50,000; the mining school of the University of Utah, $50,000. Sums ranging from $15,000 to $50,000 are left to relatives, and the residue goes to Rose Polytechnic school of this city and the Indiana Normal school.

The estate is estimated at $500,000.

Denver Editors Indicted For "Ads."

Denver, July 21.—The executives of four of the city's daily newspapers were indicted on charges of printing certain kinds of medicine advertisements in violation of a state law and in reproducing pictures of bathing girls, especially Chabas' painting "September Morn." The charges were filed by the Citizens' Protective league.

MEDIATORS IN BIG STRIKE BEGIN WORK

Hope to Avert Threatened Railroad Walkout.

New York, July 21.—New and important developments in the threatened strike of 100,000 conductors and trainmen employed on the eastern railroads, following the arrival of William Lee Chambers, commissioner of mediation and conciliation, and his associates on the board, Judge Martin A. Knapp of the commerce court and G. W. W. Hanger, seemed certain. Conferences between the government mediators and the employees on the one hand and the managers' committee on the other, with joint discussion later, are understood to have been already arranged.

With the arrival of Mr. Chambers and his associates the railroad controversy assumed a new phase, but the crisis has not passed, it is said, and the men are standing firm by their determination not to permit the eight stipulations advanced by the railroads to be made subjects of arbitration at this time, thirty days' notice of such provision not having been given.

It was learned that the mediators will hold a conference with representatives of the men at the Manhattan hotel.

Officially this will be the first conference of Mr. Chambers and his associates in this city to prevent a strike.

While no one would say so, it is believed A. B. Garretson, president of the conductors, and W. G. Lee, head of the trainmen, will be selected to represent the men on the arbitration board. The board will consist of six members, two representing the railroads. The other two will be chosen either by the four already selected or, if they cannot agree, by the government mediators.

"We are all ready to go ahead with our side," said Mr. Lee.

THREE KILLED AT CROSSING

Jerseyville, Ill., July 21.—Mrs. Hattie Ryan, her five-year-old son, Stewart, and her three-year-old daughter, Lillian, were killed instantly when a buggy in which they were driving to church was struck by a Chicago and Alton passenger train a mile south of Jerseyville. Engineer Johnson fainted, and the train traveled almost a quarter of a mile before the fireman recovered from the shock and closed the throttle, stopping the locomotive.

On the pilot was found the mangled body of the boy, tangled in the shreds of the buggy top. Near Perring's crossing, where the accident occurred, the bodies of the daughter and Mrs. Ryan were found. The horse was killed and thrown thirty yards.

Farm duties kept the husband, Marcus Ryan, at home. He usually accompanied the family to church.

POISONED PIN HER WEAPON

Dr. Marie E. Equi, I. W. W. Agitator, Held For Deadly Assault.

Portland, Ore., July 21.—Having failed to live up to her agreement to leave the state, Dr. Marie E. Equi, the woman physician who led a "free speech" demonstration by women members of the I. W. W. on Thursday night, was charged with inciting a riot, carrying weapons and assault with a deadly weapon. She was held without bail.

Dr. Equi threatened to stab policeman with hatpins dipped in poison if they interfered with her. One man was scratched by a pin in arresting her, but the wound gave no evidence of poison.

STRIKERS WANT TO GO BACK TO WORK

Will Accept Old Places on Nine Hour Day Basis.

SPEECHMAKING STOPPED.

Miss Flynn Sick, Quinlan In Jail, Haywood Away and Strikers Disgruntled. Socialist Editor Scott Released From Jail on $1,000 Bail.

Paterson, N. J., July 21.—The central strike committee voted to sanction the return to work of the striking weavers and dyers shop by shop. This means that the mills will deal directly with their own employees and that the strike is now on its last legs. This action was taken in opposition to the advice of "Big Bill" Haywood, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn and other I. W. W. agitators.

The weakening of the central strike committee, which is composed of I. W. W. members and independents, is said to be due to the inability of the strike leaders to remain daily at their speech making tasks. Miss Flynn has been ill. Pat Quinlan is in the state prison, and Haywood has been compelled to be absent from Paterson much of the time.

The strikers have abandoned the idea of getting an eight hour day. They are now content to accept nine hours with an increase in wages. Increases of 10 to 20 per cent have already been offered by some shops.

The manufacturers have insisted that they were willing to discuss grievances with their working forces at any time, but they have refused most emphatically to deal with the I. W. W. as an organization.

Alexander Scott, editor of the Socialist Weekly Issue, under an indeterminate sentence of from one to fifteen years, was released from the county jail in $1,000 bail. He has been arrested twice since he was sentenced. He is now charged with referring to Policeman Nathaniel Love in his paper as the "Cossack type of drunken officer." His printed comments about Love followed the latter's arrest on a charge of assaulting two strikers.

It is generally believed in Paterson that the Passaic county grand jury will be called upon to inquire into alleged violations of the law at Haledon, where strike meetings have been held for many Sundays and where, it is claimed, much official sympathy has been shown to strikers by Mayor Brueckmann and others.

LOST LIFE SEEKING HAT.

Dominick Zanerdo Endangered Lives of Six Other Persons.

Burlington, N. J., July 21.—Attempting to save his straw hat which had blown overboard from a launch, Dominick Zanerdo, twenty-four years old, of 612 Delhi street, Philadelphia, was drowned in the Delaware river off Burlington and six companions narrowly escaped a similar fate, being drawn half dead from the river by rescue crews. The accident occurred near the government buoy, 500 yards from the Burlington Steamboat wharf, and was witnessed by hundreds of spectators ashore and in boats, many of the latter taking part in the rescue.

Zanerdo's hat flew overboard as the pilot of the launch Or You Chicken, owned by Folio Pie of Bristol and of which he was an occupant, turned the craft out of the path of the river steamer Springfield. Zanerdo reached over the side to get the hat, and his companions, eager to help, crowded to the gunwale and in a twinkling were thrown into the water as the boat turned turtle.

PLAINFIELD CAMPER WON THREE PLACES

Local Swimmer Got Three Ribbons and Third Place in Individual Records.

William Mumford, of this city, one of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. boys spending his vacation at the New Jersey Y. M. C. A. State Camp at Lake Waywayanda, added more athletic laurels to the Queen City boy's already long string Saturday afternoon by winning three ribbons in the second section aquatic meet held in the water of Lake Waywayanda. Mumford was entered in the unlimited class and won third place in the 25-yard swim, second in the 220-yard swim; third in the dive for form and was third in the final point standing of the contestants having a grand total of 187 points against the winner's events, the Plainfield boy had to race and dive against one of the speediest swimmers who ever entered the camp's races. This youth was Fred Woodruff, of Elizabeth, who broke the camp record for the twenty-three yard swim as well as that for the total number of points scored. He swam through in 13 1-5 seconds, which netted him 104 points in that particular event. In the 20-yard swim he had an easy time of it, making it in 3 minutes and 33 1-5 seconds. In the dive for form he again came out ahead, thus winning three first places and chalking up a grand total of 272 points.

In the 130 pound class, James Powers, known as "Husky" Powers, who played baseball against the Y. M. C. A. Ajax at the local Y. M. C. A. last winter on several different occasions, won the first two events in his class and had to be content with third place in the other, due to the fact that he thought he had finished when he still had two more yards to go. This deprived him of a perfect score and medal that went with it.

THE RAILROAD SITUATION.

Before the sun sets this evening, and not unlikely before, it appears quite probable that the country will know whether there is to be a strike of the 100,000 trainmen who demand an increase of twenty per cent. in their wages and better working conditions. The situation as presented when the representatives of the railroads and those of their employes gathered at the Hotel Manhattan this morning was critical in the extreme, for the employes' committee was emphatic in its protest against permitting grievances filed by the employers within the last few days being considered.

These grievances, eight in number, the trainmen realize would mean a material reduction in the size of their pay envelopes were they to be granted and hence they take the position that their presentation constitutes a breach of faith. This, they claim, on the ground that when they promised the President of the United States to submit to arbitration under the terms of the Erdman Act, as amended by the Newlands bill, there was no idea of any demands on the part of the railroads being taken up. Hence, if the railroads insist on having their grievances discussed, the conference will come to an abrupt ending and a strike will be declared. This power to order a strike was given the employes' conferes at a meeting of their committee of 1,000 and they can exercise it at any time they deem best for their interests.

The negotiations are conducted under the supervision of commissioners of mediation appointed by President Wilson and approved by the United States Senate. They are Judge Martin A. Knapp, Judge William Lea Chambers and W. W. Hangar.

The Newland-Erdman law amendment, by which the conference of mediation is being governed, provides for the mediation of all disputes affecting wages, hours of labor and conditions of employment of common carriers. It creates a board of mediation and conciliation, composed of a commissioner, with a salary of $7,500 a year, an assistant commissioner with a salary of $5,000 and not more than two other government officials designated by the President, whose offices for mediation may be invoked by one party to a dispute.

A controversy which cannot be decided by the mediation board may be referred to an arbitration board of from three to six members. If there are three members, one is to represent the employers, one the employes and the two to select the third. If there be six members, each side is to be represented by two members, the four to choose the two additional members. Both parties must make written agreements to abide by the arbitraors' decision and the findings are to be made a judgment in the United States Courts.

Those who think the stormy scenes in the United States Senate ante-bellum days warring members did not confine themselves to personalities—they used the fist to express their opinions.

Wittpenn and Fowler are alike in one respect. They both have an idea that they are in the running.

COMMISSION LEARNS TRAINMEN'S DEMAND

Managers Followed by Employes' Committee in Stating Railroads' Dispute.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)
New York, July 21—Following the adjournment of the conference with the managers, the commissioners named by the President for mediation said that they had nothing to say for publication pending the meeting of the labor representatives at the Broadway Central hotel at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon.

The railroad men began the conference with the federal board this morning. The leaders of the trainmen and conductors, Lee and Garetson, were notified to hold themselves in readiness to present their side of the case at the conclusion of conference with the managers.

REV. W. A. MACDONALD IS HEARD AT UNION SERVICE

A large congregation listened to Rev. Dr. W. A. Macdonald, of Brooklyn, who preached last night at the union service held at the First M. E. church, when he spoke on "The Uncertainty of Life." The text was taken from the second Epistle of St. John: "I would not write to you with paper and ink, but I trust to come unto you, and speak face to face, that our joy might be full."

Rev. Mr. Macdonald spoke of the fullness of the spirit of the Apostle. The abruptness of life was also pointed out and that life at best was very short. "Even with our great knowledge of science today," said Mr. Macdonald, "we do not begin to understand the mysteries of life, but these same mysteries, now unexplained, shall be revealed to us when we pass from this life into the life eternal." The preacher urged those present to make a further quest of knowledge that they might experience the fullness of life.

Rev. Dr. Philip A. Strong, of the First Baptist church, opened the service with prayer. Special music was rendered by the choir of the First M. E. church.

DISCOVERY OF OLD DEED SAVES CITY A TIDY SUM

New Brunswick, July 21.—The discovery that this city owns a valuable tract of land on Livingston avenue, the principal residential thoroughfare of the city, will save it thousands of dollars in the purchase of a site for a new high school building. The city bought two and a half acres back in 1818 for the oveseer of the poor for a burial ground, but never used it. The property for years has been looked upon as a common. Recently William H. Benedict, a former member of the Board of Education, in making a search at the county clerk's office, found the old deed.

The Board of Estimate has decided upon the property as a site for the new high school and authorized the purchase of adjoining land, so that a whole city block will be acquired for the school. A bond issue of $25,000 for the purchase of the other land has also been authorized.

BOYS CAPTURED BIG TURTLE AND REAPED SMALL FORTUNE

While fishing for "shiners" in the Watchung Lake, Harry Brocco, of East Second street, and several other boy companions landed a nineteen pound turtle which they afterwards disposed of to some Italians living in the notch for the sum of forty-five cents. The turtle was an unusually large one for these waters and was sleepily basking on a log in the sun when the boys, whose ages average twelve years, succeeded in getting it tangled up in some fishing tackle and dragged off the log and onto the shore.

The animal struggled desperately to get away but the boys built a barrier of huge rocks and were preparing to take their quarry home when the foreigners approached them and offered the startling sum of money for the amphibian.

THACKERAY'S KIND HEART.

The Author Was Called a Cynic, but He Loved Children.

Thackeray's words were satirical, and he himself was called a cynic, but the author of "Love Affairs of Some Famous Men" shows what sort of heart beat in the satirist's breast by quoting from the letter of one to whom the following incident happened:

"In the week following his death there appeared some genial memorial lines in the pages of Punch. Walking down the then unsavory thoroughfare known as Bedfordbury, my eye caught the open page of the popular periodical, and I stayed to read the graceful tribute to the dead moralist. Turning away at length, a poorly dressed man in working garb said to me:

"'I knew that man, sir.'

"'You knew Thackeray?' I asked.

"'Yes, sir. I keep that little baker's shop yonder,' pointing to the opposite side of the street, 'and many's the time Thackeray would come and buy a pound or two of cake of me. I cut it into slices for him, and then, distributing it among the crowd of hungry children, he would walk away and hide in that court over there, that he might have the pleasure of seeing their enjoyment. He didn't know I knew him, but I did. People used to call him a cynic, sir, but it wasn't true He loved the children, sir, and no man is a cynic who does that.'"

THEY NEVER SEE SPOOKS.

That Is One Consolation That Color Blind Persons Have.

Are you afraid of the dark? There isn't a chance of you seeing a ghost if you are color blind, which may furnish you a ray of comfort for the beauties of landscape and floral decorations you may have missed during your lifetime. Dr. August Lummer, head of the physical institute of the University of Breslau, in Germany, is authority for this.

Dr. Lummer explains the phenomenon in this way:

"The normal eye has an arrangement of tiny rods and cones in the retina. The rods perceive light and the cones color. When a person with a normal eye tries to see in a half dark place the cones, which are useless, interfere with the effective action of the rods, and consequently the confusion creates the effect of apparitions that come and go and change their shapes.

"The color blind person lacks the cones, and his rods act with extraordinary efficiency in the dark. The color blind person sees a clear, permanent outline of things as long as there is the least amount of light present. That means that he never sees ghosts."—New York Herald.

Made Two Foes With One Sketch.

Scutari in Albania is needlessly confused with its namesake on the Bosporus in Asia Minor because one place is always spelled and pronounced Skodra, except in western Europe. Edward Lear, the painter who invented "Limericks," had a quaint adventure here He had made a drawing of his host in Skodra costume when a younger brother of the model came in and wanted to be sketched. Lear for lack of paper was obliged to make a smaller portrait of him on the same page. Thereupon the younger exclaimed in a fury of indignation: "It is true I am younger, but I am not smaller than my brother. Why do you act so insultingly?" Before the amazed artist could apologize the elder brother added, "If you think to win my esteem by a compliment paid me at the expense of my brother you are greatly mistaken." Lear adds, "I had made two enemies by one sketch, the injured brothers bowing me out with looks of thunder."—London Standard.

TOMORROW ELECTION DAY IN SIXTH DISTRICT

Hackensack N. J., July 21.—The campaign in the Sixth congressional district of New Jersey closed today, preparatory to tomorrow's election of a successor to the late Representative Lewis J. Martin. The contest is attracting wide attention from the fact that it is regarded as the first real test of public sentiment on the Democratic administration and the tariff measure since President Wilson took office and the Democrats came into control of both houses of Congress last March.

Normally the district is strongly Democratic. The late Representative Martin, Democrat, was elected last November by a plurality of nearly 7,000 votes over his Republican and Progressive opponents. He received 15,216 votes, which was almost equal to the votes cast for both of the other candidates

The candidates who will be voted for tomorrow are; Archibald C. Hart, Democrat; Steven W. McClave, Republican; Herbert N. Bailey, Progressive, and Henry M. Dutt, Prohibitionist.

NEWSPAPER ENJOINS MAYOR OF SEATTLE

Court Orders Police Guard Withdrawn From Office.

Seattle, Wash., July 21.—Mayor Cotterill was obliged to withdraw the police guard from the building of the Seattle Times, the publication of which he sought to prevent, following an injunction issued by Judge Humphries, who also set aside the mayor's order for the closing of the saloons.

The move against the newspaper and resultant injunction followed the serious rioting by marines, seamen and civilians that resulted in breaking up meetings of Socialists and Industrial Workers of the World.

Meanwhile Mr. Daniels, secretary of the navy, has telegraphed that "the reference I made to the flag and my statement that the red flag meant danger had no reference whatever to local conditions in Seattle." Mr. Daniels is at the National Park inn, Mount Rainier. He wired that "I believe in free speech and a free press as the bulwarks of our liberty."

Mayor Cotterill said he ordered the closing of the Seattle Times because of the publication of a "garbled" report of Secretary Daniels' recent speech.

Rear Admiral Alfred Reynolds, commander in chief of the Pacific reserve fleet, said that he had no official knowledge of the matter.

"So far as I have learned," he said, "one of the men of the fleet was injured the night before last by the Industrial Workers of the World. It is possible that last night some of these irresponsible young fellows went to get satisfaction. Of course no one knows how these things happen. The men may have gone in crowds for their own protection."

BLIND 51 YEARS, SEES AGAIN

Operation Removes Cataracts From Michigan Woman's Eyes.

Hillsdale, Mich., July 21.—Mrs. Mary J. Welsh, sixty-seven years old, is able to see for the first time in fifty-one years. She had worked at a washtub for years in order to rear a large family, and there was joy in the household when the mother got the first view of her children, whom she formerly could only hear and touch.

When Mrs. Welsh was a girl of sixteen her eyesight failed gradually until she became totally blind.

When hope seemed gone she was taken to Wesley hospital, Chicago, for treatment. The surgeons found she was suffering from a double cataract. An operation removed the growth over the pupils of her eyes, and she was discharged from the hospital able to see.

FALLS 500 FEET TO DEATH.

Thousands See Parachute Jumper Drown In Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., July 21.—Francis L. Thayer, forty-seven years old, a parachute jumper, fell 500 feet before thousands of spectators and was drowned while making a parachute descent from an aeroplane as a part of the Potlach air sports.

He went up in an aeroplane with Johnny Bryant to a height of 600 feet, then dropped and his parachute spread above him. At a height of 500 feet he lost his grasp of the parachute bar and fell into the water. The body did not rise to the surface.

Thayer had been giving parachute exhibitions for twenty-five years. He leaves a widow, who is in Seattle and who witnessed the plunge.

Weather Forecast.

Fair today and tomorrow; light to moderate northwest to north winds.

—Renting a flat, or house, or other property, is strictly "a classified advertising matter." Any other way of finding tenants is impracticable, costly and—sometimes—impossible.

Are You Utilizing 100% of Your Advertising Possibilities?

Advertisers may fail in accomplishing the full measure of their possible earnings and handicap their growth by contenting themelves with less than their full selling capacity; others, by means of intelligent advertising, approximate the possible 100 per cent. volume of sales with no increase of "over-head" expense.

But how about the merchant who is advertising, but who is not realizing 100 per cent. of his possibilities?

In advertising, as in merchandising, the point must be reached where expense of operation is overcome and profits begin.

In advertising, as in retailing or manufacturing, it's the last certain per cent. of effort that counts.

Some very clever advertisers in Plainfield are spending large sums of money in advertising without securing 100 per cent. in results, and a few are hitting the "bull's eye." Waste is responsible for most advertising failures.

But what about the under-advertised business—the store that is on the right track, but limits its advertising to the development of 50, 60, or 80 per cent. of the sales of which it is capable.

This type of business most frequently is the specialty store that has sufficient capital and sufficient credit to do a much larger business, but is not willing to venture the needed ten, twenty-five or fifty per cent. added advertising effort to achieve the full results.

The store, for instance, that is doing a business of $40,000 or $50,000 annually, but with facilities for doing an additional $50,000 without added fixed expense, could well afford to spend $5,000 in advertising to get that $50,000 extra business. And the Daily Press would give it to him.

The Daily Press' circulation embraces the class and the best of the mass in Plainfield, and will yield rich returns to any advertiser who appeals to it intelligently.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof." The proof that the Daily Press readers respond to advertising is the year-in and year-out use of its space by discerning advertisers.

It is quite true that even an under-advertised business may pay a pleasing profit; but why not more profit, at no extra fixed expense, for the moderate outlay of a Daily Press advertising appropriation?

Think of the "pure v-e-l-v-e-t" business, entailing no extra investment except advertising, on which the net profits would possibly equal the net profits of the entire business now done on the under-advertised plan.

PRESIDENT FEARS CRISIS IN MEXICO

Arrival of Ambassador Wilson Anxiously Awaited.

REPORTS ARE CONFLICTING

Belief That Huerta Government Is Weak Has Caused President to Withhold Recognition—General Madero's Widow Reiterates That He Was Slain.

Washington, July 21.—Realizing that an actual crisis of a serious nature in Mexico cannot longer be delayed, the Wilson administration is plainly worried.

The lack of authentic information, or rather the contradictory reports received from American officials, including the ambassador and the long list of consuls throughout the country, has left President Wilson and his advisers in the dark as to the actual condition of affairs in the much disturbed republic.

Furthermore, hints from Europe that the United States must intervene to put an end to the virtual anarchy which persists under the Huerta rule are embarrassing the president, and his belief that the Huerta government, founded on intrigue and assassination, is weak has caused him to withhold recognition.

William Bayard Hale, biographer and trusted friend of President Wilson, has sent confidential reports of the Mexican situation to Washington. Persons who have talked with Mr. Hale assert that these reports are at wide variance with the official accounts of conditions furnished by Ambassador Wilson and hint that Mr. Hale's disclosures are of most startling description.

Doubt Story of Madero's Death.

While it is not denied that Ambassador Wilson has left the Washington administration in perplexity as to the situation, no official criticism of him has as yet been made.

Mr. Bryan, the secretary of state, has specifically denied that Ambassador Wilson's conduct was under investigation. It is a fact, however, that Mr. Wilson's prompt acceptance of the Huerta account of Madero's death has not been indorsed at Washington.

The president's refusal to grant recognition to the Huerta government is taken as sufficient proof that he did not accept the official story of Madero's death.

Mrs. Francisco I. Madero, widow of the late president of Mexico, who is in this city, declares that her husband was slain in his bed while he slept, instead of while trying to escape. She denies the statement that he was being transferred to the penitentiary and killed on the way. The actual assassin, she charges, was Colonel Cardenas, then a captain, and she asserts that this man has since exhibited a knife as the weapon with which he stabbed Madero.

"Mexico," said Mrs. Madero, "has come to a sad state when there is even discussion of such a man as Huerta for a ruler. Who accepts General Huerta accepts his acts."

Emphatic denial has been made by Senor Jose Yves Limantour, formerly minister of finance in Mexico, who is now in Deauville, France, of the report that he has been using his influence with European diplomatists in the hope of hastening American recognition of the Huerta government.

"I am not in politics," says Senor Limantour.

SEES FEAR AIDING SUFFRAGE

Ashurst Says Politicians Are More Afraid of Elections Than of God.

Washington, July 21.—Senator Ashurst of Arizona counts very heavily on his expressed belief that the "fear of God is less to a man in politics than the fear of election," so he announced that he would move that the senate take up the joint resolution providing for woman suffrage by federal constitutional amendment as soon as the tariff bill has been sent to conference.

"There may be three or four months of debate from time to time," said Mr. Ashurst. "The advantage in letting the matter go slowly is in the fact that elections are approaching and every member of congress will hesitate before casting his vote openly against so strongly supported a measure.

"Suppose the vote on it should come as late as next March. How many experienced politicians would want to go on record against the suffrage movement just before entering the primary campaigns in their home districts?"

U. S. GRANT, JR., WEDS WIDOW

His Sons Angry and May Contest Legality of Marriage.

San Diego, Cal., July 21.—It became known that U. S. Grant, Jr., and Nina America Will, a widow half his age, have been married for a week. The ceremony was performed by Justice Puterbaugh.

The sons of Mr. Grant are furious and have taken steps to stop the payment of money which he gave to the bride. They may contest the legality of the marriage.

The plans for the honeymoon are still undetermined. The announcement of the wedding was made at a dinner at the U. S. Grant hotel.

FOWLER TRAPPED IN ROOM WHILE THE HOTEL BURNS

Bridgeton, July 21.—Former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Union county, who came here in connection with his Gubernatorial campaign, had an exciting experience when the rear part of the Commercial Hotel, where he put up for the night, caught fire and the guests were hastily aroused.

Mr. Fowler, in the midst of the excitement found himself a prisoner in his room, and it was some time before he could get out. On retiring for the night he had locked the door and taken the key from it. When the porter rapped on his door and informed him that the hotel was on fire he sprang from his bed, but could not remember where he had placed the key. It was with great difficulty that he finally found the key and made his way to safety.

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Corset Economy.

Corset economy, like most other kinds of economy, is a rather complicated subject to take up. Whether it is cheaper to buy cheap corsets and buy them often, or whether it is cheaper to buy more expensive ones and buy them seldom is a question that is difficult to decide. One thing is certain: If you are plump, expensive corsets do pay. If you can possibly afford to do so, buy one at a reliable shop and have it fitted to you. This sort will last three or four times as long as a cheaper one, worn without fitting, and will probably not cost more than twice as much as the cheaper one. Moreover, it will fit—which is more than can be said of some of the cheaper ones.

Repairing and Cleaning.

The real question of corset economy has to do with the sort of care they receive, whether they be cheap or expensive. It pays to give corsets good care. If convenient, have two pairs, and wear them alternately. Like shoes, two pairs worn alternately wear more than twice as long as one pair worn constantly.

When they first show signs of wear, repair them, and when they are soiled, clean them.

The easiest way to clean them is this: If the lace or embroidery at the top is worn, rip it off. Also rip off the hose supporters. If they are soiled, buy fresh elastic and insert it in the old buckles, or else buy the necessary number of pairs of new supporters. Fill a basin with warm water in which a teaspoonful of borax or ammonia has been dissolved. Dip an old hand brush or clean, small scrubbing brush into the water, rub it with soap, and scrub the corsets, on a small rubbing board or a marble slab. They should, of course, be unlaced, and half should be cleaned at a time.

Scrub thoroughly, until all visible dirt is removed. Then rinse, either by dipping quickly into a basin of fresh, clear water, or by throwing water on them with a tumbler or dipper. But at all events rinse them thoroughly. Don't be afraid of getting them thoroughly wet.

Dry them quickly in the sunshine, out-of-door if possible.

Corsets cleaned in this way will be really clean. Of course, they may be slightly stained from perspiration or even from steel rust, and no cleaning can remove these stains. But you can rest assured that they are really clean.

When they are dry, replace supporters, and mend all broken places. To cover the breaks in the bone casings, stitch lengths of stout tape over the bones. Two thicknesses of the tape can be used where the break occurs.

QUAINT CAKES.

Toothsome Dainties Suitable For Summer Entertaining.

USE FANCY BAKING TINS.

Cake Making Beginners Will Have Better Success if Batter Is Cooked In Several Layers Instead of In One Large Square.

Little cakes for afternoon tea or for service with evening refreshments and for dessert can be made at home to rival those bought from the most expensive confectioner.

Small fancy tins come for the baking of little cakes, but it is very difficult for any one inexperienced in their use to grease them properly, with the result that the batter sticks and the shape is marred. Moreover, cake baked in such small quantity burns quickly.

The beginner will have better success if she bakes the batter in several layers in regular sized cake tins or in a square dripping pan or two and then cuts the layers into the desired shapes. To be sure, there is apparent waste in this method, but the results are much more satisfactory, and the addition of candied fruits and whipped cream to the odds and ends of cake gives a delicious dessert.

When the layers come from the oven take them from the pans and allow them to become cool. Then with fancy cutters, one shaped like a heart, one scalloped, one diamond shaped and others circular and oblong in outline, cut the cake layers in pieces.

The following recipe for cake batter can be followed with good results in little cakes: Cream half a cupful of butter with a cupful of sugar. Add the yolks of two eggs and beat. Gradually add half a cupful of milk and a cupful and three-quarters of flour sifted with two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Lastly add the beaten whites of the eggs.

When the batter is mixed divide it into four parts. To one part add chopped nut meats, to another a dash each of cinnamon, grated nutmeg and allspice, to another orange extract and half a teaspoonful of grated orange rind and to the fourth part half a teaspoonful of vanilla.

When the cakes are baked and cut and cool frost them. Prepare a stiff icing of the whites of raw eggs beaten stiff and confectioner's sugar. Beat the icing until it is creamy and smooth. Flavor it with a little vanilla and frost the nut cakes and the spice cakes. In the center of each nut cake place a nut meat or a candied cherry. Place small strips of citron on the spice cakes, in designs if desired. To some of the white frosting add a beaten egg yolk and a drop or two of orange extract, with a little more sugar, and with this frost the orange cakes. A little candied orange peel can be used to decorate these cakes. Melt grated chocolate with confectioner's sugar, beat it carefully into the remaining white frosting and ice the plain cakes.

Summery Cozy Corner.

The porch where the breezes blow and cool summer beverages circulate appeals more to the average person than the cozy corner which one associates with an open fireplace on wintry days, but here is a corner of bamboo that is delightfully comfortable for a bungalow living room.

Sardine Croquettes.

Sardine croquettes are an appetizing delicacy. To make them mash two dozen skinned sardines drained from the oil. Add to them four eggs, salt and pepper and plenty of paprika. Then add cracker crumbs, finely rolled, until the paste is thick enough to form into little balls. Fry them golden brown in butter and serve with tomato sauce well seasoned.

New Fruit Dishes.

Some fruit dishes and compotes of German china have the appearance of the old Dresden and a little of the white Coalport idea blended. They have the design with figures of boys in full relief. Both dishes and boys Richelieu Embroidery is Beautiful for Servign-Table Covers and Tea-Cloths.

The squares of Richelieu embroidery combined with Cluny or filet lace medallions and insertion can be used in many ways for embroidering dining-room linens. This style of embroidery is quite easy to do, will never go out of date, and can be used in so many different ways that it is quite worth while. Pattern 14114 includes eight designs, each 5 inches square and these should be stamped on squares of white or unbleached round thread linen, measuring 8 by 8 inches. The embroadery is done in eyelet work combined with ladder work. When the squares are all embroidered, join them together with lace insertion and sometimes squares of filet or Cluny dace are alternated with the embroidered squares.

These squares are sued, combined with the lace, on dinner-cloths of heavy Irish linen, on tea-cloths, luncheon sets, serving-table covers and platter cloths. The Richelieu squares are also used effectively on beautiful bed spreads, bolster covers, bureau-covers, lingerie pillows and bed-room table-covers.

The serving table cover in this illustration is 20 by 40 inches. On a table cloth or luncheon cloth the squares may be used to form a border or they may be used only in the corners, while on a bed-spread they may be arranged to form a square surrounding a medallion of plain linen embroidered with a monogram of plain linen embroidered with a monogram of four-inch letters.

Transfer patterns for stamping the pattern 14114 can be supplied to readers for fifteen cents each. Address Pattern Department, 615 West 43d street, New York.

Simple Frocks Built On Loose Comfortable Lines Are What the Small Girls Need.

Among smart women, there is a growing tendency to dress their children very simply. And this simplicity extends not only to the style of the frock, but to materials and colors as well. White muslins and dimity, and mulls, voiles and batistes for the "best" frock, and sturdy linens and ginghams and galateas for play-time. The English mother is considered the most sensible in the world about her children's clothes, but the American mother is falling right in line, and she gives to the very simplest frock or coat, some little smart touch that is lacking in the English ones.

The French designers make the most wonderful clothes for little girls, but so fussy and over-elaborate with hand work, that they fairly shriek their high price at you. It is really better to err on the side of simplicity than over-dressing, and the child will feel much more comfortable. It is a great mistake to allow little girls to be too conscious of their clothes. Dress them so that they won't feel uncomfortable among well-dressed children, but not so that they will be thinking continually of their finery. For the small girl, a frock made like No. 7801 is just the thing she needs for simple afternoon wear, as a change from the straight-hanging low-belted galatea and linen frock for romping in. White cotton voile or dimity, with sash of some gay ribbon would be pretty yet inexpensive, and the square neck and elbow sleeves are cool looking and comfortable. For cold-weather wear, the neck could be filled in with a yoke and full-length sleeves substituted for the short ones. There are three pattern sizes, 2 to 6, and the six-year old size will need 2½ yards 36-inch material. 10c.

An attractive suggestion for combining two materials is offered in the other frock illustration, No. 7835. Old blue linen, with a bit of the new printed cotton in Futurist effect would be pretty and serviceable, and allover embroidery in an open pattern would make a cool yoke. The blouse is finely tucked below a V-shaped yoke, and tucks the same size dispose of the fullness at the top of the straight skirt, which is weighted at the bottom by more tucks above a deep hem. This is a good foundation for the more fussy frock for party wear, as it can be elaborated with Val. lace insertion and edging. Four sizes, 6 to 12, and for the ten-year size 2¾ yards material 36 inches wide will be required. 15c.

Some Cookery Suggestions

COOKING CARROTS.

WHEN buying carrots choose the smaller ones. See that the leaves are green and fresh. Carrots are very nutritive. They contain 95 per cent of sugar and 3 of starch. They are excellent in stews and soups and boiled whole with meat. When preparing them for cooking, wash and scrape and drop them in cold water. They should be cooked in boiling water from thirty minutes to an hour.

An Attractive Salad.

Carrot Salad.—Boil three carrots and when half done throw out the water and finish cooking them in fresh boiling water. When done take out, cool and cut in half inch dice. Make a dressing of half a small teacupful of vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of butter, the yolk of a hard boiled egg, a saltspoonful of salt and half a saltspoonful of pepper. Line a dish with lettuce leaves, add two-thirds of the dressing, then the carrot dice, then the remainder of the dressing.

A Rich Preparation.

Creamed Carrots.—Take a large bunch of carrots, scrape them, tie in a piece of cheesecloth and put them in a saucepan of boiling water. Add a tablespoonful of beef drippings and a tablespoonful of salt. Cook until tender. Drain from the hot water and turn into cold water. Then melt an ounce of butter in a saucepan and stir in an ounce of flour. When smooth add half a cupful of thin cream or rich milk, salt and pepper to taste and a dash of grated nutmeg. Stir and cook until creamy and smooth, then remove the carrots from the cheesecloth and put them into sauce. Let them simmer for a few minutes. Serve at once while very hot.

Flavored With Peas.

Stuffed Carrots.—Take about eight young carrots, one egg yolk, one gill puree of peas, two and one-half ounces of butter, a pint of gravy and salt, pepper. Wash and scrape the carrots, put them into a saucepan of boiling water and parboil. Take up and let drain and cool. Hollow the center of each carrot. Melt an ounce of butter in the stewpan, put in the pea puree, stir until mixed, season with salt and pepper and stir in beaten yolk of egg. Mix and allow to cool. Fill the centers of the carrots with the puree. Melt two ounces of butter in the stewpan, put in the stuffed carrots, cover and cook gently for a few minutes; then add the gravy and simmer until the carrots are cooked. Serve in a pile or in a circle on a hot platter. Remove fat from liquor in pan and pour the gravy around the carrots. Serve hot.

Mr. Bear Grunted Because of the Heat.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Mr. Polar Bear Gets What He Deserved.

WITH a hop, skip and jump Jack and Evelyn reached daddy's side.

"Was it warm here today?" daddy asked.

"You just believe it was," Jack replied.

"Why, it wasn't so very warm," Evelyn answered. All afternoon she had been sitting in a cool corner of the porch making doll's clothes.

"We seem to differ about the heat," daddy remarked, smiling. "It could scarcely have been both hot and cold at the same time. Perhaps if Jack had sat down quietly as Evelyn did he would not have felt so warm.

"And while we are talking about heat let me tell you how happy the lions are at the zoo. They have been moved from their indoor house to the cage outdoors. There they can sit and doze all day while the crowds stare at them and admire the baby lion or remark on what a handsome fellow Mr. Lion is.

"The lions do not mind the heat. All winter they have shivered, while the polar bear, who has a cave all to himself, has strutted about in his heavy fur coat and told every one what fine weather it was. Of course, being indoors, the lions and bears do not see one another in the winter, but when summer comes and the park officials move the lions outside they can talk over their troubles together.

"One of the first things Mr. Polar Bear said to Mrs. Lion when they came out this year was, 'Your son would be a nice looking youngster, ma'am, if his coat were white instead of that dingy brown.'

"'White coats are not the fashion in the lion family,' Mrs. Lion replied stiffly.

"After that there was a coolness between the lion house and the polar bear cave for some time—not a coolness that the thermometer takes any notice of, but the kind that makes folks turn up their noses at one another and scarcely speak to one another when they pass.

"Then there came a dreadfully hot spell of weather, and Mr. Polar Bear in his white fur groaned and grunted and was so hot that he scarcely knew what to do. He would go down into the little pool of water inside his cage and turn around until all of his fur was wet.

"The lions were not suffering at all. They seemed to like the weather. Lions, you know, come from hot countries.

"'There is some comfort in wearing tan clothes,' Mrs. Lion remarked to her husband; 'one can keep neat and cool in them. Isn't that polar bear an old frump in his soiled white suit?'

"And Mr. Polar Bear, who heard her, wished that he had not been so nasty about the looks of the young lion."

FOR A SULTRY DAY.

A Tinkling Glass of Iced Tea Is Wonderfully Refreshing.

There is probably no drink more refreshing and certainly none that can be more attractively served than iced tea. It can be made before it is needed and kept on hand, always chilled, in the icebox, or it can be made at a moment's notice, provided there is plenty of ice, plenty of fresh boiling water and the right sort of tea at hand.

There are two methods of making iced tea, and both have their exponents. One says to put cracked ice in a glass and then to put in a slice or so of lemon and, if sweetness is liked, a sufficient number of lumps of sugar. Then make tea, rather strong, with freshly boiling water. After the water has stood on the grounds for four or five minutes pour the tea on the ice. A safeguard against broken glasses is to put a spoon in each glass. The spoon serves as a conductor of heat.

The other method for making iced tea is more economical, for according to it the tea is made and poured into a big bottle, fruit jar or covered jug or pitcher when it is sufficiently strong and then stood in the icebox until it is thoroughly chilled. Slices of lemon and sugar can be added before or after also to the sound of the tea—and nothing is more suggestive of refreshment when the mercury is climbing than the sound of tinkling ice and glass.

New Fuel For Use In Summer.

The wise housekeeper will lessen the amount of heat radiated in her kitchen as much as possible, and summer is just the time to try the possibilities of the small fireless cooker and denatured alcohol devices. By using a fireless most of the evening meal can be prepared in the cool of the morning and no coal stove be kept burning unnecessarily. Irons, using either denatured alcohol or gasoline, can be used on the porch or elsewhere without reference to any stove, and, besides saving an enormous amount of heat in the kitchen, they save the constant stooping to change irons heated on a range.

To Mend a Shoestring Temporarily.

Summer shoes are with us once more, and all of us know the aggravation of having the shoestring break in our oxford ties just when starting out somewhere. If you are at home the next time it happens or where you can get a needle and thread try sewing the ends together, neatly lapping one over the other. You will find the string will slip through the hole and

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is meant by a batter being "beaned?" A says it means that the pitcher is trying to hit the batter. B says it means that the pitcher is being batted all over the lot.—C. D. F.

Answer—A has the right idea. But it does not necessarily mean that the pitcher hits the batter intentionally. To be hit on the head is to be beaned and it sometimes does some people a world of good.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Can one visit a friend in the Rahway Reformatory? Is the reformatory represented by a baseball team?—C. G. H.

Answer—You can visit a friend at the reformatory, where there is a ball team.

Sporting Editor:

Query—A bets B that the rates at the Polo Grounds for admission are higher than those of any other major league park. A also wagers B that the Bronx has a larger population than either Cleveland or St. Louis. Who wins?—R. T.

Answer—The major league rules require club owners in every city to set aside twenty-five cent bleachers, which are termed general admission. There is a standard scale of prices through the major league. The population of the Bronx is 531,219, of St. Louis 687,029, of Cleveland 560,663. So B wins.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How can I get a job on the railroad?—R. U. F.

Answer—Apply at the general offices for an application blank.

Sporting Editor:

Query—At what age can a man marry without the consent of his parents? How much does a marriage license cost?—E. D. G.

Answer—A young man can get married without the consent of his parents when he is twenty-one years of age. The license fee is $1.

Sporting Editor:

Query—When does the crabbing season open? Is it better at night than in the daytime?—D. V. F.

Answer—Although crabbing has been under way for some time, the season really starts August 1, as they "run" much better from then until September 15 than at any other time. Day time is considered the best time to crab.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is the bite of a rat dangerous after the rodent has been in a wire trap for a day?—D. F. V.

Answer—The bite of a rat is apt to be dangerous, and you should treat the wound with some strong antiseptic at once, so as to be on the safe side.

"MAC" SAYS

The Dub's Lament.

"I am an awful duffer;
I've never gained renown;
The fans all call me Londen Bridge—
I'm always falling down."

Get the drift? It doesn't take long for some people to wake up to their own mistakes; others are faultless in their own estimation. Ball players are only human however, and what they do is not always accounted for on the score book.

Did you notice how much action some of those High Bridge youngsters really managed to get into a third strike?

Dorflinger caught dreaming on the ball field! This is what he thought he saw: Parker Field adorned by the greatest baseball stadium in the world leaning back against the foothills of the Watchuns (mountains?) and overlooking an expanse of green terra firma resembling a green velvety carpet. This great work of concrete and steel supports the forms of many thousands of rabid baseball fans with human voices who have come to Plainfield's great baseball rendezvous to brag about their team's chances of winning the Central New Jersey pennant. He sees two white uniformed figures handling the indicator and any player daring to wink an eyelash after a decision is made is promptly sent to a beautiful clubhouse, where the Hillside cemetery was the main attraction a few years previous. Each one of the eighteen players romping after a snow white pellet shows in his movements the poise and muscular control the highly trained athlete of 1925. Last of all he sees a tall, broad shouldered figure make his way to the center of the diamond and proceeds to warm up. The question comes from the bleachers, "Who is the pitcher?" and a wise guy avers, "Why he is Christopher Marquard, a combination of the greatest and the speediest of all twirlers." Then Ernie woke up.

Whad do you thinka those Pets? Opinions are varied, we will admit, but we might also state that they have just a wee small tiny little bit of a chance of getting a piece of that bunting again this year.

How about the pennant raising? There is a flag stored away in some corner from 1911. Presentations, etc., would be appropriate at this season of the year. Vacation time should not interfere with your baseball obligations.

Did you ever know that there was a whole lot of difference between beating a ball team and murdering it?

The way that "Big Six" Nelson holds out his mitt and allows the pellet to roost in it is a feature of every one of the Plainfield nine's contests. He doesn't exert himself because it's hot and not because he can't, for he's a pedestrian. They don't run trolley cars to New Market.

Some of the Central New Jersey League pitchers have been so wild of late that the managers have seriously considering introducing a diet of raw meat sandwiches.

Each one of the High Bridge players who appeared here Saturday afternoon should have been held in check by wardens, for their work on the diamond savored of a murderous assault on a poor inoffensive sphere of horsehide. If they had of been able to trap the pellet once in a while it wouldn't have been half so bad.

First Baseman Howley and Catcher Kiely appeared to be pretty near the whole thing, with Sculley and "Rocky" Davenport as middling performers.

Kiely showed his evident lack of baseball knowledge, however by orating to the bleachers. This is bad policy even for a player in the minors or sub-minors.

But then we can't always have what we want in life. High Bridge was rather distasteful to the fans.

PLAINFIELD ATHLETE LOST EXCITING RACE

Amphibians Cross the Finish Line With Wm. Schooley, in Fourth Place.

William Schooley, of this city, starting from scratch in the hurry-scurry event held in connection with the annual regatta of the Tuscarara Canoe Club, at Branch Brook Park, Newark, Saturday afternoon, found the going unusually stiff, and although he put up a desperate fight for first honors, was forced to accept fourth place by Fred J. Sutphen, who won the all-around championship during the afternoon by some excellent exhibitions of aquatic racing. Stephen beat the Plainfielder in the 10-yard swim to where the boats were anchored and scrambled aboard his canoe before the little blonde reached his shell.

McLorinan, swimming a strong race, was the second paddler to reach his boat. During the interval, however, Stephen had picked up a lead of several boat lengths and won without much effort. McLorinan was second to cross the line, Walker third and Schooley fourth.

The club members mustered four squads for the club fours race which was an interesting struggle from the outset. The brawn of Zeliff, McLorinan, Walker and Stephen was too much for the other crews and they won by two open boat lengths. The blue shell with Schooley, Sanwald, Spawn and Palmer was second.

J. WHITNEY BAKER MAKES A 71 IN SWEEPSTAKES

Golf sweepstakes attracted a good-sized field to the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, although a limited number of scores were returned. J. Whitney Baker returned the lowest net score, a 71, while Burnett C. Kenyon, H. R. Stockton and J. R. Evans were tie for second place with a net score of 72. These players were very evenly matched.

The leading scores returned were as follows:

J. Whitney Baker, 78, 7—71; Burnett C. Kenyon, 94, 21—73; J. R. Evans, 91, 17—73; H. R. Stockton, 81, 8—73; D. H. Rowland, 94, 17—77; H. G. Phillips, 99—77. In the evening the weekly phonograph

As a result of Saturday's games in the Central New Jersey Baseball League, Plainfield and Somerville are still deadlocked for first place in the standing of the clubs, both teams winning their week-end contests, Plainfield by an overwhelming count and Somerville by a single counter. High Bridge did the inevitable by coming to Plainfield with an amateur aggregation, consisting of schoolboys, who, while they played gamely, were by no means the equal of the Pets, and the local contingent pounded the offerings of Gerard, the High Bridge High School phenom, to the four corners of the lot.

The contest at Dunellen was only another chapter in that team's edition of interesting battles and the Somerville spectators were treated to some real baseball.

Dunellen the Victim of a 3 to 2 Trimming on the Somerset County Field.

SOME GOOD HEAVING

Home run Smash by Giddes and a Two-bagger by Jack. Torpey the Features—Fielding Was Good—Both Teams Got Three Hits.

Although Dunellen put up a stubborn fight against the Somerville ball-tossers at the latter place Saturday afternoon in an effort to root that combination out of first place and just by way of variation, mount to a higher notch that of third place, the little Dunellen contingent had to be satisfied with the smaller end of a 3 to 2 counter. The game was one of the lightest, as far as hitting was concerned, that has yet been played in this organization, for the sum and substance of the bingle garnered did not amount to more than six, a trio for each.

Both twirlers were in fine shape and handled the batters with rare disgression. Of the three bingles handed out by Kraft, one was a home run credited to Harry Giddes and was the bright feature of the contest. One of the three dealt out by McLaughlin was also a heavy crash, going as a two bagger to "Smiling" Jack Torpey, the pilot of the victors.

Not only were the teams on a par in the batting and run-getting sides of the battle, but they both did some excellent and near equal fielding, Somerville and Dunellen players being credited with two misplays apiece, none of which were exceedingly dangerous to their side's chances of victory as they came at times when the score could not have been changed perceptibly.

Dunellen opened hostilities and drew first blood in the initial frame and the visitor's one counter lead was good until the fifth stanza when Somerville jumped to the fore with a brace of tallies. The home nine held the advantage until the seventh, and in this stretch stanza Dunellen tied things up only to have their hopes squelched by a run tallied by Somerville which ultimately resulted in the loss of the game for Dunellen, and Somerville's chances of remaining deadlocked in the league standing with the Plainfielders.

BASEBALL FARCE WON BY THE PETS

High Bridge Put up a Poor Exhibition on Parker Field Saturday Afternoon.

SOME REAL AMATEURS

Score was 13 to 4—Pets Toyed With the Visitors—Gerard, the High School Phenom Roughly Treated—Stallings Does Relief Work.

An attack of stage fright indulged in by Mayor Williams' High Bridge Central New Jersey League ballists on Parker Feild last Saturday afternoon practically handed the game to the local contenders for the bunting, a margin of nine markers separating the two aggregations at the finish. The final score was 13 to 4, but this black and white decision does not come with a thousand miles of showing just how badly the visitors were trimmed. From the time the first Pet went to the gutta percha until the last man was put out, there was nothing to it but Plainfield, and the local nine pulled counters and pounded out bingles almost at will. So great did the comedy become toward the close that Eddie Stallings was sent to the mound to save Cliff Randolph's reputation, that twirler declaring that he would rather play the outfield and see some other heaver with less generosity take advantage of the High Bridge proteges.

Many of the visitors were yet in their teens, not only in age, but baseballically speaking. They have lots to learn and some are still learning it in business colleges and high tle burg when they grow up, but as yet they are too young to indulge in the pastime as it is being played by the three other contingents in the Central New Jersey organization.

Gerard, heralded by the High Bridge baseball fanatics as the greatest of all youngsters on the hillock, certainly had the stuff on the ball, but became excited at his surroundings and made many costly mistakes. Of course, he had to bear the brunt of the attack, both during and after the battle, but the other players were just as much to blame for the defeat as was the pitcher. "Rocky" Davenport, a former Plainfield High School baseball captain appeared at the difficult corner for the visitors, and he and Howley were the main cogs in whatever attack was put up by the High Bridge invaders. Plainfield's playing was just what it was forced to be under the circumstances and very little excitement was provided for the fans, other than that of the farcial nature.

WILLIAM P. TAYLOR PLAYS FINE GOLF AT P. G. C.

William H. Nischwitz won first honors at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, in competition for the President's cup, by returning a net score of 65. But the fact that he had a handicap of 30 accounts for his low net score. William P. Taylor with a score of 76, plus 4-80, returned a card that will be hard to beat this season. He has been putting up a fine game and conditions were just right lowering the course record. The leading scores posted were as follows:

W. H. Nischwitz, 95, 30—65; William P. Taylor, 76, plus 4—80; Charles J. Hand, 106, 26—80; H. H. Woodland, 90, 8—82; Dr. H K. Carroll, 91, 9—82; O. F. Marquard, 115, 28—87; Charles B. Morse, 99, 11—88; Samuel Townsend, 108, 18—90.

By defeating the West End A. C., contenders for the City League title, Saturday afternoon, the Saurer ball tossers crept back into their top running form and hope to keep it safe from now until rag end of the season by doing some sensational sprinting to ward Pennantville. When the Royals won over Spicer's aggregation, the colored ball tossers mounted to a tie for the second place berth with the West Ends, who had previously been pushed back a peg by the Saurer motor truck makers.

While the Royal Giants' contest was a one-sided affair from start to finish, the crowd was entertained by some brilliant hitting and spasmodic exhibitions of real baseball which, to a large extent, aided in redeeming the team for chalking up such a top heavy score. The Saurer game was a little closer but the winners experienced little trouble in annexing their weekly scalp even with the versatile Louis Slocum on the mound.

PERFECT FIELDING WON FOR SAURERS

Lou Slocum Twirled for West Ends But Was Accorded Poor Support.

Fielding perfectly and hitting the ball when hits meant runs although they were really outbatted, the Saurer baseball team won another contest in the City League, Saturday afternoon, this time taking the West End A. C. ball tossers into camp by a count of 6 to 1. Lou Slocum, recently returned from the Carolina League and formerly a member of the High Bridge staff of box artists, did the mound duty for the losers and while he was personally no mystery to the Saurers, his backers helped spill the beans by letting five bad errors blur their side of the score book.

The West Ends outhit the Saurers by a count of 10 to 7, but the opportune placing of bingles and the fact that three of the clouts figured in extra base gains, one a circuit smash and two others for three sacks, brought home the bacon rather easily without the topmost burden of swats. Perhaps the most brilliant feature of the whole contest was a spectacular stab by Jaeger over the keystone sack, hugging the pellet on the end of his two fingers (if you can imagine that) while it was traveling at a terrific rate of speed eight feet above mother earth. "Snapper" Bergen, the former Central Leaguer, put up a great game behind the bat handling Dixon's shoots, and his work with the wagon tongue consisted of a contribution of one four sack swat and one for three of the cushions. Williams, Wilson and Lambertson also did good work in their respective positions and the latter got a trio of bingles in the bargain. Corriell crowded into the limelight in the stretch stanza when he shot the ball from right field to home plate almost on a direct line, nipping Williams with an unusually accurate peg.

EXTRA BASE WALLOPS WON FOR THE ROYALS

Spicer Pitcher Clouted Unmercifully and Hits and Errors were Numerous.

Twenty runs separated the Royal Colored Giants' baseball team from its opponents, the Spicer aggregation, in their scheduled City League clash on the Filmore avenue grounds after the curtain was drawn at the end of the ninth stanza Saturday afternoon, the tally card reading 29 to 9 in favor of the dusky ballists. Not only were they proficient in the run-garnering but they also succeeded in getting a goodly store of bingles from the offerings of Jimmy Montross, the joint makers' heaver, a total of thirty of the life givers being checked up during the afternoon's engagement.

A pair of home runs, five three baggers and seven two sackers featured the contest, the losers doing part of the extra sack work. The long hits were of the clean variety in a majority of the cases and the spectators who yearn for some heavy swatting certainly got their moneys worth at that game. Not only did the Royal Giants have a total of thirty clean swats to aid them in the run getting, but the Spicer people contributed thirteen gilt edged errors that practically threw the game and everything at stake. As a successor to Hall, the Royals had one Andrews on the mound, although this ebony twirler was touched for thirteen merciless swats, his support pounded out more than he allotted and brought home the bacon for their hillock guardian.

Many new faces appeared in both of the teams' lineups Saturday afternoon and in most cases the additions proved to be strengtheners and will no doubt bolster up some weak spots when they get used to the action of their respective machines in the City League pennant race.

AMATEUR GOLF TITLE.

Chicago, Ill., July 21.—The fifteenth annual tournament for the amateur championship of the Western Golf Association got under way today on the links of the Homewood Country Club at Flossmoor, and will be continued through the remainder of the week. The program for the opening day called for an elimination round of 18 holes, medal play, the first 64 to continue at medal play tomorrow morning to qualify 32 for match play. The entry list, while not so large as at some of the former tournaments of the Western Association, is of a class that promises keen and interesting competitions.

LOCAL SOCIETIES MAY JOIN LEAGUE

Plainfield and Borough Catholice Societies Mentioned as Contenders.

TALENT IS PLENTIFUL

New Jersey Holy Name Society Baseball League in Progress of Organization—Enthusiasm at a High Ebb.

Members of the Holy Name Societies of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches in this city and borough, respectively, who have been advocating the formation of a ball team for the past two years, have now been presented with a genuine opportunity to get into the National Pastime in some real competition. A movement is now on foot to effect the organization of a baseball league to be composed of Holy Name Societies in this section of the State and both of the local societies have been suggested as possible contenders in the pennant race which will soon be started.

Among the societies who have already signified their intention of making application for franchises are St. Ann's, St. Benedict's, Dominican, St. James' and St. Rocco, of Newark; and St. John's, of Orange, and the organizations of Orange, Montclair, Summit and Chatham. It may be that one big league will be formed, or in the event of increasing interest which has already evidenced itself on every hand, the organization will be cut up into divisions, one for teams in the vicinity of Newark and the other for towns along the Lackawanna Railroad, the winners in the two branches to meet in special series to decide the real champion.

All clubs desiring to enter must have their own home grounds and applications for franchises may be submitted to Joseph Fitterer, 405 South Twelfth street, Newark, N. J. All applications for entrance should be made on or before July 26, after which a meeting will be called to effect the formal organization of the league, or leagues, as the case may be.

The Plainfield and North Plainfield societies have an abundance of stellar baseball material to pick from if they do decide to enter the race and their chances of landing the pennant would be exceedingly bright from present indications. Baseball has always been more or less of a side diversion for these organizations and some real ball games have been pulled off in this and adjoining cities by Catholic societies.

NEW BRUNSWICK EASY FOR TINKER'S REDS

Cincinnati Tamed Players Who Had Previously Defeated the Giants.

All puffed up over their victory over a squad of Giants last week, the New Brunswick ball tossers tackled Joe Tinker's Cincinnati Reds at Amusement Park, but with an entirely different result. Profiting by the experience of Wilbert Robinson's rookies, Tinker sent in quite a few regulars against the locals yesterday afternoon and won by 6 to 2.

Herbert, a recruit, was on the firing line, with Clarke at the receiving end to Garry Herrmann's hired men, while White tossed over the slants for the home crew, with Vandergrift, the old Eastern Leaguer, catching. Cincinnati jumped to the front in the fourth round with a brace of runs, but New Brunswick came back and sent the fans into a wild demonstration by tieing the score.

The big inning was the sixth. White who had been holding down the Rhinelanders in pretty good shape, suddenly lost his effectiveness and was thumped all over the lot for a total of four runs. Herbert participated in the bombardment and delivered a telling single that whizzed through short like a cannon ball. New Brunswick looked to have a chance to tally in the eighth and ninth, but Herbert tightened up.

The score by innings:

Batteries—Herbert and Clarke; White and Vandergrift.

COYLE DISSATSFIED SO QUITS DUNELLEN

William Coyle, the crack little second base guardian of the Dunellen, Central New Jersey League, team, announced yesterday that he was through with Dunellen baseball and would not don that team's playing togs again. Coyle quit in the middle of Saturday's game at Somerville, when he claims that the Dunellen manager refused to hand over some back pay that he alleges was due him.

Coyle has always been a good performer for the Dunellen team and is a favorite with the fans on the Central League circuit. He has been a member of the Dunellen combination since the team first came into real prominence in the summer of 1910 and during the three years he has played shortstop and second base. He started the season at short this year but was shifted to the keystone bag a few weeks ago, where his work was even better than in his natural position. Where he will cast his lot from now on remains to be seen but it is understood that a number of local teams are angling for his services. McDicken will take his place in the Dunellen lineup.

LOU DIXON RETURNING TO PLAY LEAGUE BALL

Has Been Released by the Brunswick Team and May Play With Dunellen.

Louis Dixon, the former Dunellen Central New Jersey League backstop, who hangs his hat in this city, is on his way home from Brunswick, Ga., where he has been receiving a tryout with the Empire League team of that place for the past two weeks. Dixon made a good showing in the several games he caught but the impromptu of Manager Kyte to the fold and his taking up the backstop duties made Dixon's services no longer needed, and he has accordingly been released and will probably finish up his 1913 career playing the game on the New Jersey circuit.

Tommy Mullin is the only one of the Plainfielders left in the south, Frederickson, Slocum, Grimes and Dixon having returned after short try-outs. Tommy is going well, however, and he is looked upon as a permanent fixture in the Brunswick lineup. Where Dixon will play upon his return is something that nobody knows just at present out it is more than likely that he will get back with the Bogardus crew. Hand, who has been taking his place, has done some excellent work behind the bat but his hitting has not come to Dixon's so far. McLaughlin can work to perfection with "Nibs" behind the bat, however, and for this reason he may be retained.

SECOND DECISION OVER ABSTAINERS

Plainfield Pets Again Come Out Ahead in a Sunday Contest at Elizabeth.

SCORING WAS CLOSE

Final Card Read 7 to 5—Moran and Boyd Did Some Good Fielding—Randolph Weak at Start but Tightens Up.

Plainfield scored another victory over the Elizabeth T. A. B. Society ball tossers at Elizabethport, yesterday afternoon, the Pets holding the upper end of a 7 to 5 score at the completion of nine innings of fine playing. A sprint in the seventh and eighth stanzas won the contest for the Queen City ball tossers, taking the lead after the home players had been tied by the Pets' one run in the fifth. The Abstainers started off at a merry clip, pulling two markers across in the initial frame after Plainfield had failed once during its first trip to the rubber. With the score one to the bad the Pets tied matters up in the second and both teams registered a brace in the third. The T. A. B. nine broke the ice in the fourth, however, and took a one run lead but could hold it for but one inning when matters were tied up and remained so until the Pets started a rally in the seventh and prolonged it to the eighth, sewing up the contest.

Cliff Randolph was again on the mound for the visitors and although he did not prove the mystery that the Tabs found him to be on the previous occasion, he tightened up when matters were tied up in the fifth and from that point on held the home sluggers completely at his mercy. Features of the game were brilliant catches made by Moran and Boyd, both of whom played excellent fielding games.

SLOCUM MAY LEAD THE WEST END A. C.

Local Twirler Asked to Manage That Team in the City League Race.

Although the West End A. C. baseball team has been looked upon as one of the liveliest contenders for the City League bunting all season, this aggregation has been traveling along practically pilotless most of the time, a new manager being installed after nearly every game. Edward Ginebtzer was the first choice; he was succeeded by Katz. Miller, then came Frank Stires and now Louis Slocum is mentioned by the varying nine.

Slocum was approached with an offer to guide the combination's destinies in the City League for the rest of the season and it is more than likely that he will accept the offer. Slocum twirled for the West Ends last Saturday afternoon and will probably do the box work next week. The managerial question will be settled the first part of the week, however, and if Slocum decides to accept he will be installed immediately.

Team standings as far as positions are concerned, remain the same in the Sunday-school Baseball League following Saurday's contests and most of the aggregations who are making a bid for pennant honors are little better off in figures han they were before the week-end contests. Hope Chapel trimmed Monroe avenue for the fifth time in two years, making it five out of six from their deadliest rivals and closest contenders for last year's pennant.

First Baptist, through some good hurling, beat the Presbyterians to the tune of 13 to 6. Park avenue was the idle aggregation this week and therefore did not get an opportunity to help some other contingent fatten its bating average or team figures.

A BITTER DEFEAT FOR MONROE NINE

Hope Chapel Turns the Trick for the Fifth Time in Two Seasons.

When Hope Chapel and Monroe avenue, two of the greatest rivals in local amateur baseball circles, clashed on the Clinton avenue field Saturday afternoon in connection with the Sunday-school League pennant race, history once more repeated itself and the Chapelites turned the trick for the fifth time in two years by handing the Monroes a bitter dose of nine parts to the loser's four parts. Six times these two teams have clashed as Sunday-school League contestants and despite the great rivalry and even distribution of feeling, the Chapelites have fell short in but a single contest and the Monroe boys always take their regular beating as a sour dose when administered by their neighbors, the Hope contingent. Last season it was Monroe who kept Hope Chapel tugging away for the flag at top speed, but it was Hope Chapel that won the play-off, and the hunting, a fact which the Monroes have never forgotten.

Hard hitting, aided by a half dozen spills credited to the Monroe fielders, sewed up the contest for the Chapelites in the early stages, five runs being made in the second and third innings. This lead was plenty to win the contest but, after wielding the whitewash brush for six long grounds, Schott let up for a moment and the Monroes were allowed to come within an ace of tying the score, only to have their spurt squelched by a quartet of counters pulled across by the opposition in the stretch stanza. Johnny Heron, Luthman and H. Terry were the leaders with the willow for the Chapelites and helped materially in disposing of Hefti and treated Hess to a few bumps when he made his appearance on the horizon as a successor to the opening pitcher. Walt Brown was the only Monroe player to pound out a brace of safeties, while five others got one apiece.

THIRTEEN LUCKY FOR BAPTIST BALL NINE

Have Little Trouble in Defeating the First Presbyterians.

"Thirteen" failed to prove a jinx to the First Baptist ball tossers in their scheduled Sunday-school League bout with the First Presbyterians Saturday afternoon, for in trimming the Presbyterians they pounded out thirteen hits and pulled thirteen counters across the pan against their opponents' six markers. Erratic fielding was a conspicuous part of the games put up by each of the aggregations and helped the rival contenders materially in their running getting.

Long hits featured the contest, there being two baggers, three three base clouts and a circuit trip made during the afternoon. Newell, who adorned the mound for the losers, was a puzzle to the Baptist sluggers at intervals but when hits meant runs they could generally find his delivery for the needed bingle and pull the marker across. Smith, on the other hand, was a complete mystery and after doing seven innings of toiling, relinquished the mound to one Bailey who held the side hitless during his short regime.

IDLE WEEK FOR FIGHTERS.

New York, July 21.—The dullest week the fight game has known in years is in prospect. From one end of the country to the other there is not a fight of any consequence carded for the ensuing seven days. Evidently the promoters think the weather too hot for a profitable show, or perhaps the knights of the squared circle are all on their summer vacations. All the fight clubs in the metropolis have closed their doors and will not resume business until about Labor Day. The Atlantic A. A., where the fight fans may enjoy their favorite sport and the cool breezes of Rockaway Beach at the same time, affords the only oasis in the barren desert. The Atlantic A. A. managers have arranged to give a show tomorrow night with a 10-round bout between Billy Bennett, hailed as the lightweight champion of Ireland, and Harry Condon, of Brooklyn, as the main event.

VARIETIES PICNIC FOR TROLLEYMEN

Well Balanced Program of Events for Wayside Park Tomorrow.

ATHLETICS A FEATURE

Robert Fitzsimmons Will Umpire a Ball Game—Running and Swimming Races for Handsome Prizes—Outing Open to the Public.

Athletes, especially sprinters and cinder path enthusiasts, are invited to compete in the program of events planned in connection with the trolleymen's outing at Wayside Park, Dunellen, tomorrow afternoon and evening, indications pointing to the greatest affair of this kind ever held in this vicinity taking place at that time and at that amusement rendezvous. It is expected that 2,700 employes of the Public Service Railway Company and their families will take advantage of the elaborate program that has been planned for the picnic and nearly half that number will compete for the handsome prizes offered for athletic competition.

The trolleymen have formed a club for promoting their social and recreative interests and this is the first of a series of events which will be held under its auspices. The company has sanctioned the affair and many of the official will be present tomorrow and take an active part in the program of events. The affair is opened to the public and anyone is invited to attend the affair and witness the athletic stunts scheduled to be run off. Entries for all events will be received up until the time for contesting them and handsome prizes, of money and merchandise, have been offered to induce competition. The races will be handicap affairs and the official in chage has had his troubles already, trying to allot the fairest possible advantages to the weaker contestants.

Aside from the program of athletics already arranged a number of races will be added during the day and several of the sprints will be run off in the evening, the park having been brilliantly illuminated for the occasion. The quoit contest will start at 7 o'clock and entries for this game will be taken on the grounds by the committee in charge. A second quoit match will be arranged to be played in the evening if a sufficient amount of interest is shown and enough entries received during the day.

There will also be a greased pig race, a soaped pole climb, amusement games brought here from Boynton Beach, and dancing from 3 o'clock to 6 o'clock and from 8 o'clock until midnight. A baseball game will be played in the afternoon between the Bergen and Elizabth teams, and Robert Fitzsimmons, the former heavyweight champion pugilist of the world will officiate in the capacity of umpire. Swimming for those who own full bathing suits will be an added feature.

A special 100-yard handicap race has been arranged for the motormen and conductors and the winner will receive a handsome uniform, donated by Browning, King & Company, the New York clothiers.

CITY'S ORCHESTRA PUBLIC REHEARSAL

Municipal Musicians Preparing for First Concerts on Saturday, Sept. 6.

Holding one of their most satisfactory rehearsals to date, thirty-five members of the Municipal Orchestra last night at Washington School practiced a number of new selections, among which was a melody of national airs, and the "Military Symphony." These were well received by the audience which had gathered in the school auditorium. Dr. Leonard Waldo, of West Eight street, addressed the musicians at the conclusion of the rehearsal and complimenting them on their good work, he urged them to continue in their endeavors.

It was definitely announced last night that the first public concerts of the orchestra are to be given Saturday, Sept. 6 at the City Park, both afternoon and evening.

To Martin A. Korff, who for many years led a similar organization at the Y. M. C. A., belongs the credit for the Municipal Orchestra. He has been devoting two nights a week for the past few months to this work. The orchestra is but one of several helps in the social centre work now being conducted in the public schools of the city. The junior orchestra will meet tonight.

SOCIALIST MAYOR OF HALEDON INDCTED

Charged With Unlawful Assemblage and Malfeasance is Alleged.

Paterson, N. J., July 22.—William Brueckman, the Socialist mayor of the borough of Haledon, adjoining this city, was indicted by the Passaic county grand jury for unlawful assemblage in connection with his activities on behalf of the striking weavers and dyers. It is also said that a second indictment will charge him with malfeasance.

A large number of witnesses told the jurors a running story of the occurrences in the borough since the strike began. Some of the testimony concerned the Sunday meetings of strikers, and other witnesses dealt with disturbances on the picket line at the Cedar Cliff mill. It was testified that the mayor went on the picket line himself and that he took from Chief of Police Emil Saner, Haledon's police department, the latter's revolver, so that nothing could happen to the strikers.

Mayor Brueckman was arrested last week on a John Doe warrant charging him with unlawful assemblage. The complaint was dismissed by Justice of the Peace Keyes. Brueckman insists that he has not been guilty of any violations of the law.

He said that the only disturbances which have occurred in Haledon were caused by the special deputies sworn in by Sheriff Radcliffe.

Brueckman went to the Cedar Cliff mill with a committee of strikers to seek a settlement on behalf of the workers. He was told that the concern would have nothing to do with him, and he sadly departed.

The grand jury threw out the complaint of murder against Ferdinand di Napoli, who shot and killed Vincenzo Madonna on June 19. It was held that Di Napoli acted in self defense. Madonna, with four other men, called at Di Napoli's house. Mrs. di Napoli jumped in front of her husband, and one of the callers, supposedly Madonna, shot her in the thigh.

It was estimated that a thousand strikers have returned to work in the last few days. About 250 were dyers.

About 2,000 dyers, mostly Italians, say they will stick, and trouble is feared from them.

Arturo Ettor and Carlo Tresca, the Italian strike leaders, made a trip along the big dye shop picket lines and tried to put strike courage into those who were looking for their old jobs. Of the 600 who appeared at the Weidman plant only 175 were reinstated. The rest were told to come back at some future date, as the plant wasn't ready for them.

It is apparent that the dyers and dyers' helpers and the broad silk weavers want to go back to work. The ribbon weavers are undecided. It is believed the end of the strike is not far off.

FIELDER'S PETITION FOR GOVERNOR FILED

His Name to Appear on Primary Ballot as a "Progressive Democrat."

Trenton, July 22.—The petition formally placing Acting Governor James F. Fielder in nomination at the September primary for Governor on the Democratic ticket was filed with the Secretary of State yesterday. The Governor filed his petition in person, going to the office of Mr. Crater and handing him the document. There were 140 separate petitions from all sections of the State, containing 9,083 names. Only 1,000 names were required.

The petition shows that Governor Fielder is going to run as a "Progressive Democrat," he having requested the Secretary of State that this designation be printed opposite his name on the primary ballots.

The Governor named the following as his campaign committee: Former Congressman B. Frank Stires, of Bridgeton; former Mayor George A. Viehmann, of New Bunswick; former Errors Court Judge John J. Treacy, of Jersey City; Samuel Alan Muta, Mayor of West Orange; and John J. O'Leary, of Passaic. These men have all accepted the appointment. This committee, under the Geran act, is authorized to receive, disperse and audit all the money contributed to Governor Fielder's campaign.

This is the first petition filed nominating a candidate for Governor, and Governor Fielder having taken the designation "Progressive Democrat," no other candidate can use these words.

TABLES ARE TURNED; COMPLAINANT IS FINED

Hickman, Who Accused Smelson of Assault and Battery, Becomes the Defendant.

On the complaint of Abraham Hickman, 21 years old, of West Third street, Samuel Smelson, proprietor of a local restaurant on Somerset street, was araigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning on a charge of assault and battery. The testimony showed that Hickman was the real offender and before he left the court room he had been made defendant and was eventually fined $5, which he paid.

The origin of the trouble dated back to Sunday morning when Hickman was refused a cup of coffee on the credit plan. Smelson claimed Hickman owed him $8.45 and when his debtor failed to pay after repeated promises ejected him from his establishment. Hickman then charged the restaurant-keeper with asault and battery. The evidence showed that Hiskman after leaving the Smelson place, returned and assaulted the proprietor. The charge against Smelson was dismissed.

HERE IS AN APPEAL FOR A WORTHY FAMILY

For a month or so, P. A. Murray, of Terrill road, has been supporting his mother, Mrs. Ellen Murray, and her other eight small children by conducting a garbage collecting business. In this manner the family has been able to partly substitute the support given by Mrs. Murray's husband, Peter Murray, who was killed over a year ago when struck by an automobile owned and driven by Charles E. Faber, of North Plainfield, who has since been acquitted of any criminal charge after being indicted by the Grand Jury.

In a letter to the editors of the Daily Press today, Mrs. Murray asks this paper to assist her in increasing the garbage collection business, saying that the earnings of the enterprise to date have hardly been enough to keep the wolf from the door. With the departure of many residents to summer resorts the business has decreased and for this reason Mrs. Murray again asks for new patrons through the Daily Press. In soliciting new business, Mrs. Muray also thanks those who have favored her in the past.

Accompanying Mrs. Murray's communication was a statement from a prominent business man and public spirited citizen who remarked that if all collectors of garbage were as well equipped for the work as Mrs. Murray's son, there would be little need of a municipal system of garbage collection.

All who wish to help the Murrays in their destitute condition address the Daily Press, or P. A. Murray, Terrill road. His charges for the service are very reasonable and it matters not in what part of the city his customers live.

GOVERNOR'S LETTER TO MAJOR CORBUSIER

Field Hospital Commander Receives Congratulatory Message From Fielder.

Major Harold Corbusier, of Plainfield, commander of the First Field Hospital, which returned to Elizabeth Saturday evening after spending a week in camp at Sea Girt, received a letter from Acting Governor Fielder previous to leaving the State grounds congratulating the detachment for its excellent work.

The work of the hospital during the week was watched with no little interest by Regular Army and National Guard officers. As New Jersey is one of the five States in the Union which has a field hospital as an adjunct, the work carried on during its first encampment will not be overlooked in the general summing up of the efficiency displayed. The corps has received but little financial support from the State since it was organized, but it is expected that the showing made last week will result in the organization receiving proper aid next year.

Major Corbusier is highly pleased with the work of the men while in camp. During the week Governor Fielder and his staff made a thorough inspection of the entire equipment and that he was favorably impressed is demonstrated by the letter to the commander. Mrs. Fielder and a party of friends spent an afternoon in the camp and was greatly interested in everything connected with the hospital.

SPECIAL ELECTION ON SCHOOL BUDGET

Borough Taxpayers Will Cast Ballots Tonight in Somerset Street School.

All legal school voters in North Plainfield, both men and women, are eligible to cast a ballot at the Somerset street school at 8 o'clock tonight when a special election will be held to give the taxpayers an opportunity to reject or endorse the school budget adopted by the Borough Board of Education at its last meeting. The polling time has been set for the evening in order to give all boroughites a chance to cast their ballot and the Board has made a request that as many as possible make it a point to vote some time during the evening, preferably as early as possible.

A budget with items amounting to $23,500 was accepted by the North Plainfield voters last year and the fact that the total is $370 less this year, or $23,130, practically assures the passage of the document. The estimated expenses for runing the borough schools during the coming year is estimated as follows: Teachers, $32,550; repairs, $2,000; books and supplies, $2,250; fuel, $1,300; physician, $200; clerk, $250; supply clerk, $100; janitors, $2,300; insurance, $300; incidentals, $1,000; athletic hall, $300; commencement $150; furniture, $200; water, light and power, $600, and manual training, $3,460, making a total of $46,960. The anticipated receipts from the State amount to $20,700 for school purposes, $1,730 for the manual training fund and $1,400 from tuition charges, making a total of $23,830 and leaving $23,130 to be raised through taxation.

A SMALL FIRE.

A fire took place this morning in a shed in the rear of Christian Gloekler's building at West Font and Somerset streets, at 10.45, this morning. The attention of Chief T. O. Doane who was near the scene at the time, was attracted to the blaze which was put out by Daniel H. Keiderling, the chief's driver. A garden hose was used for the purpose. Little damage was done by the fire.

ONE GREAT CHANCE FOR A FINE OUTING

Big Excursion to Asbury Park on Thursday Affords an Opportunity.

For the tired and weary worker, and this includes the housewife as well as the man who earns the daily bread, an exceptional opportunity to enjoy a day of rest and recreation combined with a change of scenery will be afforded on Thursday. On that day the Sunday-schools of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Holy Cross Episcopal, Seventh-Day Baptist, New Market Baptist and Dunellen Presbyterian and Bethel chapel will hold their annual excursion to Asbury Park, where the season is at its heighth and where the attractions are more numerous this season than at any time in the history of the popular resort.

The train will be run in two sections. The first will start from Dunellen and will make stops at Clinton, Grant and North avenues. The second section, however, will start from North avenue and will make no other stops. It should be remembered that on the return trip, both sections will make stops at North avenue, Grant avenue, Clinton avenue and Dunellen. The time schedule for leaving in the morning follows:

Dunellen, 8:04; Clinton avenue, 8:05; Grant avenue, 8:09; North avenue, 8:15.

One does not need to be identified with these religious bodies to make the trip—it's for everybody and everybody means papa and mamma and the children.

TO LAUNCH FIELDER BOOM IN UNION CO.

Mayor Stewart Among Those Issuing Call for Conference Tomorrow Night.

What may be considered as the first decisive step to be taken in Union county in the interests of the candidacy of James F. Fielder for the nomination for Governor of the State, was taken yesterday when a general call was issued to Democrats throughout the county to attend a conference to be held in the Elks' Club, Elizabeth, tomorrow night.

The call, which is being sent out in circular form, is signed by five of the most prominent Fielder men in the county, men who have came out and publicly stated their stand in the Gubernatorial fight and have thrown the weight of their influence on the side of the present Governor. They are General Dennis F. Collins, State committeeman from this county; Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., of Westfield; Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of Plainfield; Mayor Thomas F. Fyffe, of Rahway, and former Freeholder William H. Swain, of Summit.

The purpose of the conference will be to decide upon some action that will best advance Governor Fielder's candidacy in this county and it is quite probable that it will terminate in steps being taken toward the formation of an organization to push Governor Fielder's candidacy for the nomination as strongly as possible.

The result of the conference is expected to show just how the Democrats of the county will line up in the campaign and some indication of the result at the primaries in the fall may be had as a result of the response to the call now issued.

LOCAL TALENT AT PROCTOR'S.

Master Charles Pagluica, a seven-year-old local youngster, made an auspicious debut on Proctor's stage yesterday afternoon and evening. his singing and dancing act scored a big hit with the many patrons who witnessed it. Pagluica is an exceptionally clever dancer and is bound to be a leader elsewhere as he has proved to be with local audiences. The children's delight, "A Money Cabaret," was the cause of screams of delight at yesterday's shows and the monkey orchestra rendered some excellent numbers. Hillier & Hill, "The Sport and the Messenger Boy," is a novel singing and dancing act and the near Salome dance of the messenger boy produces a barrel of mirth. Florence Horst and Company in the rural kid act, "Fun in the Woods," and Frances Wpod, the clever hoop manipulator, exhibits some fine control over the rolling objects. The feature reel for Wednesday is "When a Woman Loves."

EDDIE GRAY RESIGNS.

Edward W. Gray, of Newark, has resigned as secretary of the State Republican Committee, and action will be taken at a meeting of that body to be held in Newark on Thursday. Gray has served in that capacity for many years. He refuses to give any reason for his action.

ALL 5 CHILDREN WERE TAKEN ILL

Family of Mr. and Mrs. Deutsche Stricken With Scarlet Fever.

ONE BOY SUCCUMBS

All the Youngsters Rushed to Muhlenberg Hospital Since Sunday—Benjamin First to Pass Away—Condition Critical.

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Deutsche, of 525 West Third street, this morning buried their six-year-old son Benjamin, one of their five children who have contracted scarlet fever and have been sent to Muhlenberg Hospital within a period of a trifle over twenty-four hours. Together with his three brothers, Benjamin was taken to the institution late Sunday night by direction of Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, of Park avenue. Another child Esther Deutsche, after playing with many children of the neighborhood all day yesterday, was hurried to the hospital late last night shortly before her brother died.

In their small but tidy home in the rear of a butcher shop at the West Third street address the parents sat this afternoon with bowed heads, perchance fearful that the hands of death would grasp another of their loved ones from this earth. They had just come from the grave and sat silently unheeding the approach of a Daily Press reporter, until the latter made an inquiry.

"No," Mrs. Deutsche said. "we do not know where or how our dear children contracted the disease. They all seemed to get sick at once and I told my neighbors, who sent for a doctor."

The authorities at the hospital say they have hopes of saving the lives of the other children who range in age from three to eight years, although all are said to be in a serious condition. Eight persons altogether are now confined in the contagious ward with scarlet fever.

At the local Board of Health office it was stated that the source of the Deutsche cases are mysteries despite a thorough investigation. Told that the Deutsche children had been playing with other boys and girls of the neighborhood only several hours previous to being taken seriously ill, and asked if any unusual precaution would be taken to prevent the spread of the disease or a possible epidemic, the health authorities said they would have to await developments.

In the direct vicinity of the Deutsche home is a small foreign colony. Numerous children poorly dressed play continually in the streets and yards. Whether many of these youngsters have become infected due to association with the Deutsche children is a question many anxious mothers are asking and have only "future developments" to rely upon for an answer.

APOLOGIZES TO "COPPER"; SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

When William B. Nash, a New York broker, living at 904 Grant avenue, was accosted Sunday by Patrolman Flatley and told he was violating the auto laws by driving his automobile with its muffler open, he and his friend, G. H. O'Donnell, of 740 West Seventh street, invited the "copper" to shed his uniform and settle the matter in fistic style, so it was told in court. As a result Nash was arraigned before City Judge De Meza this morning charged with disorderly conduct as well as for violating the motor vehicle laws.

Judge De Meza told the defendant to apologize to Flatley and after asking if such action was necessary and receiving an affirmative reply from the bench, Nash asked the patrolman's pardon. He then received a suspended sentence. O'Donnell, who was in court, had previously sent a letter to the Judge stating that he was a witness and that Patrolman Flatley's manner was offensive.

FINED $5 FOR SELLING WITHOUT CITY LICENSE

"Any rags, any bones, any bottles today?" Rubin Dymo, of Brooklyn, sang, yelled and hollered it through the streets of Plainfield yesterday. The noise attracted Sergeant Maurice Higgins, who asked Dymo to show his peddler's license. Dymo had none and was arrested for violating an ordinance of the city.

Arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza he was fined $5, which he paid, after promising not to buy or sell anything in this city again without first securing the necessary permit.

SENATORS FLAY TARIFF MEASURE

Smoot Says It Favors Cheap Oriental Labor.

CHARGES FOREIGN LOBBY

Senator Burton Predicts Measure Will Fail In Its Purpose and Says Protective Tariff Isn't Responsible For High Cost of Living.

Washington, July 22.—Senator Smoot Republican member of the finance committee, made a vigorous attack on the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill. He painted a picture of mills shut down, workmen unemployed, investors ruined and an era of general financial and industrial depression as the result of the leveling of tariff walls. European nations, he declared, were not so much to be feared as competitors as were the nations of the orient.

"There has been a lobby here in behalf of foreign manufacturers," he charged, "such as was never before witnessed in the history of the nation, and they have got even more than they asked for. The Italian chamber of commerce of New York asked for certain reductions, and the Democrats in nearly every case have given them more than they asked."

The senator assailed the increase in the free list, especially with reference to sugar, wool, pig iron and textiles. He charged that the sugar industry of Hawaii and Porto Rico would be ruined, with consequent benefits to the so called "sugar trust," and that China, with its great steel plants, would capture the steel business of the western hemisphere.

"All the world knows how this country suffered as a result of the Wilson tariff law in 1896," he continued, "but the average rate of duty now is over 2 per cent lower than was the case under the last Democratic tariff, when the business of the nation was paralyzed and 3,000,000 persons thrown out of employment."

China and Japan Competitors.

The senator launched into a detailed comparison of the cost of production and the wages paid in the United States and abroad and asserted the removal of duties was an open invitation to foreigners to use the United States as a "dumping ground" for their surplus products.

China and Japan, he said, with their ever increasing mills, would prove disastrous competitors in the home market, especially in the steel industry. He said that "the question of the future will be that of competition with the starvation wages of Asia instead of with the low rates of Europe.

Denunciation of free trade as a timely policy of the United States, a prediction of failure in its purposes for the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill and an attack on an ad valorem tariff system were voiced by Senator Burton of Ohio.

Senator Burton further declared that the Democrats had framed a bill which literally tears to pieces the fiscal policy of the nation in order to satisfy the craving for lowering the cost of living and to justify the declaration of their party platform that the chief cause of the high cost of living was "the existing protective tariff enacted by the Republican party."

The belief of many persons is a delusion, the senator said, that the protective tariff is responsible for the high cost of living.

MEAL WILSON DIDN'T EAT.

It Was His Chauffeur Who Patronized the Dairy Lunchroom.

Washington, July 22.—A big touring car bearing the crest of the president of the United States was standing in front of a dairy lunchroom in G street, near Fifteenth street, between 12 and 1 o'clock this afternoon. A curious group peered into the lunchroom in the hope of seeing President Wilson getting a frugal meal.

It was the president's chauffeur, however, who was enjoying pie and milk.

CHINESE REVOLT SPREADING.

Rebels Very Active, State Department's Dispatches Say.

Washington, July 22.—Spread of Chinese revolutionary activity was indicated in state department dispatches. Consular reports said that Kwangtung province had announced its independence of the central government. Chun Chiung Ming has been named by the government to proceed against the rebels. At Canton the government is preparing to rush 15,000 troops to put down the various revolts.

TO SELECT ITS 5TH GOVERNOR OF A YEAR

Unique Distinction for Arkansas Where Election is Held Tomorrow.

Little Rock, Ark., July 22.—The State campaign in Arkansas closed today. Tomorrow the voters will select a governor to succeed J. M. Futrell, who has been filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Governor Joseph T. Robinson, now United States senator.

The Democratic candidate for the governorship is Judge George W. Hays, of Camden, and his election is generally conceded. Judge Hays is opposed by Harry H. Myers, the Republican candidate, and George W. Murphy, the nominee of the Progressive party.

Tomorrow's election will give Arkansas the rather unique distinction of having five governors in 1913. The unusually large number of executives is due to the fact that heretofore Arkansas has had no lieutenant governor to succeed to the governorship in case of a vacancy. The president of the State senate has been called upon to serve in the gubernatorial chair until a governor is regularly elected. The recent session of the Legislature took steps to provide for the election of a lieutenant governor at the same time a governor is elected, which is expected to obviate the complications that have occurred this year.

OCEAN GROVE'S LOCAL LAW LIFTED FOR FAMOUS DIVA

Ocean Grove, July 22.—The gates of the grove, closed by local law on Sundays to all vehicles except those in use by doctors and undertakers when on business, were opened Sunday to admit an automobile containing Mme. Schumann-Heink, the opera singer.

Dr. W. W. Beveridge, of Asbury Park, had announced that it would never do to have the singer walk from the entrance to the Arlington Hotel, a distance of nearly half a mile. Her son, Henry Schumann-Heink, however, was obliged to walk.

When the diva, who gave a concert at the auditorium here last night, arrived with her son at the main station in Asbury Park they were met by the musical director of the institution, Tali Esen Morgan, and Dr. Beveridge, who was in an auto.

DUNELLEN MANAGER DECLARES COYLE'S CHARGES UNTRUE

Sporting Editor,
Plainfield Daily Pess:

According to an article printed on your page of yesterday's issue Coyle told you that he was through with the Dunellen team and gave as the reason for his quiting the fact that some back pay was being withheld by me. He also told you that he quit in the middle of Saturday's game. Of all the experiences that I have had with ball players during the past five years I have never had a player lower himself to such an extent as to make such a contemptible accusation through the press. The facts of the case are as follows: Coyle's compensation was $2.00 per game. On the Fourth of July I was not in charge of the team.

The acting manager on that date at the close of the day mistaking one of my two's for a three gave Coyle $6 for the double header instead of $4. Noticing his mistake shortly afterward he called Coyle's attention to the mistake. Instead of handing over the $2 the way he should have done, Coyle told the acting manager that he would see him later. Well, the gist of the whole matter was that the acting manager made the mistake good out of his own pocket. Being informed of the error, instead of paying Coyle his compensation of $2 at the close of the game on the succeeding Saturday I turned the $2 over to the acting manager to make good his mistake. Coyle immediately put up a kick but it did him no good. His attitude seemed to be that the acting managed made the mistake and that he should abide by the same. At any rate Saturday, July 19, came around, the date on which we played Somerville at Somerville.

Coyle put in his appearance on the field and practiced with the rest of the team. When the umpire called the game Coyle approached me and said, "Unless you pay me the $2 that you didn't pay me last Saturday, you can erase my name from the score book."

This I accordingly did at once. When Coyle found out that I didn't care whether he played or not he was then very anxious to play. I finally yielded to his solicitations and gave him a half game, which he was very lucky indeed to get.

Regretting very much that I have found it necessary to make the facts of the case public, I am,

Yours truly,
ROBT. BOGARDUS.

DIXON HOME TO PLAY WITH DUNELLEN SATURDAY

Lou Dixon, who returned home after his experience with southern baseball, has gone to Avon for a few days in order to gain strength to don a Dunellen uniform Saturday. "Lou" has lost several pounds of avoirdupois and is in poor health through malaria.

While down South Dixon played about twelve games, playing his best at first base. "Lou" says our hometown pitchers have it all over the ones they brag about down there.

Manager Bogardus, when seen this morning, was anxious to hear of Lou's return, so it is a sure thing Dixon will play with Dunellen.

"RIVADAVIA" READY FOR FINAL TESTS

Boston, Mass., July 22.—When the Argentine dreadnought Rivadavia leaves Quincy next week for the Brooklyn Navy Yard, there to be cleaned and painted preparatory to her final trials for speed and other acceptance tests, she will at once engross the undivided attention of naval men.

Interest in the Rivadavia lies chiefly in the fact that she and her sister ship, the Morena, under construction at Camden, N. J., are the first so-called dreadnoughts to be built in the United States for a foreign country. When, three years ago, the Fore River Shipbuilding Company and the New York Shipbuilding Company received the contracts for building the Rivadavia and the Morena, respectively, the shipbuilders of the United States won their first important victory in bidding for the construction of warships in competition with representatives of the leading nations of the world.

By courtesy of the Navy Department the Rivadavia will be drydocked at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and put in shape for her final speed trials. It is expected these trials will take place off the Maine coast week after next. The ship is required by contract to make at least 22½ knots an hour, and the tests prescribed for her are the same as those for United States warships.

The Rivadavia will be the equal in size and fighting strength of any battleship now afloat. She has a total displacement of 27,500 tons, is 585 feet long, 98 feet in breadth and has a normal draught of 27.6 feet. Externally she resembles vessels of the class of which the United States battleship Arkansas is a type.

The batteries of the Argentine dreadnought will consist of twelve 12-inch guns, which constitute the main battery; twelve 6-inch, six of which can be fired broadside at the same time the main battery is fired; twelve 4-inch guns, besides several guns of smaller calibre, and two 21-inch submerged torpedo tubes.

FIELDER TO INVADE SOUTHERN SECTIONS

Candidate Feels Northern Part is His and He Will Battle With Katzenbach.

Sea Girt, July 22.—Acting Governor Fielder feels that northern New Jersey is safely his and will accordingly devote his campaigning time for the great part to southern Jersey, particularly the sections where the Katzenbach sentiment is most noticeably prevalent. He made this announcement here Sunday, stating that he would, however, make several addresses at points in the northern part of the State in the interest of his campaign. He is going to make a vigorous bid for the Atlantic county following, as well as Mercer, Katzenbach's home county; Gloucester, State Treasurer Edward E. Grossoup's home, and Camden county.

In discussing the situation in northern New Jersey the Governor said that conditions up there were so satisfactory that he did not think they required his personal attention as much as some districts which contain followings in support of Katzenbach, whom he is now accepting apparent as his only formidable opponent in the field. If he does not think that H. Otto Wittpenn is out of the running for the nomination he is not worrying over his activities in the least.

The action of the Hudson County Democratic committee in passing up Wittpenn in favor of Fielder has strengthened the belief that the Wittpenn boom is soon to be a thing of the past. Whether he throws his support over to Katzenbach or to Fielder is a matter of speculation.

Governor Fielder has declined to make any statement concerning the action of the Hudson county committeemen further than to express his pleasure at their action. He says their turning over to him was entirely without any solicitation from him and was only the result of their personal convictions.

TEST VALIDITY OF JERSEY CITY RULE

Wittpenn's Supporters, Thru Attorney-General, Bring Proceedings.

Trenton, July 22.—The much-talked-of quo warranto proceedings to test to validity of the commission government in Jersey City were instituted by Attorney-General Wilson in the Supreme Court yesterday.

The proceedings, backed by former members of the Wittpenn administration, are directed against the five city commissioners, Mark M. Fagan, James J. Ferris, George F. Brensinger, Frank Hague and A. Harry Moore.

Only one point is raised in the litigation, namely, that at the special election of April 15 the required thirty per cent. of the vote at the last general election was not polled; that the provisions of the Walsh act were not legally adopted, thereby invalidating the establishment of the city commission.

At this election 11,422 votes were cast in favor of the adoption of the Walsh act, 7,116 against it. At the preceding regular election it is stated that 39,680 voters cast ballots for members of the General Assembly, and that therefore the vote cast for members of the Assembly amounted to 101,484.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

John Cort will make one of the first new productions of the season of 1913-14 when Zellah Covington and Jules Simonson's comedy, "The Elixir of Youth," will receive its premiere at the Cort theatre Chicago, on August 3, with Frank Bacon in the principal character of the chemist. Others in the cast will be Amelia Sumers, Marie Taylor, Bessie Bacon, Winfred Bryson, Eugene O'Rourke, Joseph Brennan, Harry Mestayer and George Barnum. Mr. Cort will revive on an elaborate scale George V. Hobart and Jean Schwartz's musical comedy, "The Ham Tree," with McIntyre and Heath starring in their familiar characters, Alexander Hambletonian and Henry Jones. McIntyre and Heath have been comedy partners for forty years and their return to what is probably their greatest success is of more than usual interest. Mr. Cort will surround his stars with a carefully selected company of principals, while the twenty-four dancing girls have been chosen from over one thousand applicants. The tour will begin at the Shubert theatre, Boston, September 15. Ned Weyburn will stage the production.

"The Menace," a new comedy by Anne Crawford Flexner, author of the stage version of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," is another production which Mr. Cort will make early in the season. In addition to the above productions Mr. Cort will send on tour at least two vaudeville road companies. Contracts for a long period of weeks have been made with such head-liners as Anna Held, Lillian Russell, William Farnum, George Beban and Ching Ling Foo. These companies will tour both east and west, beginning their season in September.

MURDER SUSPECTS SEVERELY GRILLED

New York, July 22.—Five Italians were taken to the Atlantic avenue police station, Brooklyn, and grilled for hours by Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty and the detectives seeking the murderer of Policeman John E. Cahill.

From them they learned nothing and Mr. Dougherty admitted after working all night that the police had made no advance since the policeman's body was found in the rear of the church.

CARDENIO F. KING.

Former Stock Promoter Dies as His Pardon is Arranged.

Cardenio F. King, the former stock promoter who was serving a sentence of from ten to fourteen years for the larceny of large sums of money from customers, died at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the State farm at Bridgewater, Mass. Governor Foss upon being informed that King was in a serious condition and could live only a few hours at most communicated by telephone with all but two of the members of his executive council and secured their approval of a pardon for King. Attorney General Swift, however, held such a proceeding illegal on the ground that the council must be "in meeting assembled." Governor Foss at once called a special meeting of the executive council for this morning, but King began sinking rapidly at 3 o'clock and lived only an hour.

HUERTA GOVERNMENT REPORTED TOTTERING

Washington Hears of New Crisis in Mexico.

Washington, July 22.—The Huerta government in Mexico is tottering to its fall, and the government of the United States knows it. This was disclosed here from a source completely authoritative.

The advices which are coming to the state department and the White House from reliable sources are to the effect that Huerta's regime cannot last much longer.

Much criticism has been heard of late because the administration, despite the fact it has many diplomatic, consular and other agents in Mexico, admitted it was not informed about conditions. The explanation given is that the information which comes to the government from consular and diplomatic representatives is colored by events in the particular locality whence the information comes.

Lately from sources the administration feels it can trust what are considered the real facts are coming in. They make a showing unfavorable to Huerta. Many phases of the situation are still not clearly illuminated. For instance, little is really known here about the design of the revolutionists or their exact situation.

It is known, however, that President Wilson and the state department feel the support in Mexico of Huerta is so weak that the American policy of non-recognition is fully justified. It can be set down as a fact that the Huerta regime, as things stand now, has no prospect of recognition by this country. No doubt the more clearly this becomes understood in Mexico the more difficult will it be for Huerta to maintain himself.

SAYS MRS. GRANT IS RICH.

Mother Discredits Reports of Antenuptial Settlement.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 22.—Maintaining that her daughter was possessed of an independent fortune before her marriage to U. S. Grant, Jr., Mrs. M. E. Deering declared that she believed all reports concerning an antenuptial arrangement between Mr. Grant and her daughter to be false.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant arrived in San Francisco. They spent several hours in San Pedro on their way from San Diego, and Mrs. Deering had luncheon with them.

According to Mrs. Deering, Mr. Grant became very angry when she mentioned the reported agreement and asserted that the thought of cutting his children off from his fortune had never entered his mind.

New Orleans, July 22.—Ordered to go into the ship's hold, where the temperature was 110 degrees, twenty-six Chinamen on the Southern Pacific steamship Comus, from New York, mutinied. In a pitched battle with officers of the ship and city police three Chinese were fatally wounded and six others badly hurt. First Officer Proctor of the Comus was also badly hurt.

MULHALL SWEARS WATSON GOT $500

Paid to Put Through Tariff Commission Bill.

READS BLACKLIST OF N. A. M.

Lobbyist on Stand Says Representative Watson Had Been Promised $10,000—Declares Wife Was Driven Crazy in Sixth New Jersey Campaign.

Washington, July 22.—That James E. Watson, formerly a representative from Indiana, was employed in 1908, while a member of the house, to help "put through" a tariff commission bill at a retainer of $500, $250 a week and $10,000 if he got the measure through congress, was testified to before the senate committee by Martin M. Mulhall, lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers.

Schwedtman wrote Mulhall in October: "I do hope that when James E Watson (of Indiana) gets in the governor's chair he will lay a half dozen of his good friends (?) over his knee and spank them to beat the band, including your special friend, Senator Beveridge. I hate false friends more than I do the worst enemies."

Mulhall said all his accounts were kept by an expert who accompanied him on his trips, evidently his wife.

"She was driven crazy in the Sixth New Jersey campaign," said he. "She kept all my accounts, and she was the best politician I ever knew."

A Mulhall expense account, dated Oct. 31, 1908, showed an item of $300 "paid to William M. Walsh of the executive board in the Tenth, Eleventh and Fifteenth congressional districts of Pennsylvania, to do general campaign work."

Mulhall wrote Schwedtman: "We have obtained in the person of George R. Malby, a representative from New York, a man who fills the bill entirely in Judge Jenkins' place when he finishes his term as chairman of the judiciary committee. This has been entirely satisfactory to Mr. Emery, and I think it is a splendid move."

Reads Long "Blacklist."

A long "blacklist" of representatives, both Republican and Democratic, who had incurred the enmity of the National Association of Manufacturers and who were to be opposed when they came up for re-election was presented by Mulhall.

William Hughes of New Jersey, now senator; William Wilson of Pennsylvania, now secretary of labor; Thomas D. Nichols of the Tenth Pennsylvania, George A. Pearre of the Sixth Maryland and John L. Burnett of the Seventh Alabama were described by Mulhall as being on "the permanent blacklist, because they were always in favor of labor legislation."

"Against all these men we made every effort to drive them from public life," he said.

On another list Irvine L. Lenroot and Henry A. Cooper of Wisconsin, Augustus P. Gardner of Massachusetts, Herbert Parsons of New York, William S Greene of Massachusetts, Victor Murdock of Kansas, James T. McDermott of Illinois, Champ Clark of Missouri and Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa were described as "Cannon's list" and were in disfavor with the organization. Mulhall swore, because of their opposition to Speaker Cannon. On another list were "Morse and Nelson, Wisconsin;" Harry L. Maynard of Virginia and Loudenslager of New Jersey. Mulhall swore that the names had been furnished by Representative Watson or by "Mr. Childs," a clerk to the house committee of war claims, in 1910.

SHOOTS HIS STEPMOTHER.

Son of Wealthy Chicago Manufacturer Then Commits Suicide.

Knox, Ind., July 22.—Martin Strasburger, son of Frank Strasburger, a wealthy Chicago manufacturer, shot his stepmother through the head and then committed suicide at the summer home of his father on Bass lake, near here. Mrs. Strasburger is not expected to live.

The father was in the garden, and, hearing the shots, started on a run to the house. He met his wife near the door, and she fell in his arms. Young Strasburger had been living a fast life in Chicago, and had been drinking heavily. It is believed that his excessive use of alcohol caused him to become mentally deranged.

LIVED ON MOTHER'S BREATH.

Oklahoma City Infant's Case Puzzles Hospital Physicians.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 22.—In the desperate hope of saving her six-weeks-old child Mrs. J. H. Spaulding of Oklahoma City for ten days kept the spark of life aglow in the infant's body by breathing into its mouth whenever it seemed to be sinking. The child died, however, in the Children's hospital. An affection of the heart had developed soon after its birth, and death would have come long ago had it not been for the mother's heroic efforts.

Weather Forecast.

SINKING STEAMBOAT SNAPPED ON HUDSON.

With her bow stove in, the planking ripped off her bottom to a considerable extent and a big hole below the water line as the result of striking a reef off Esopus island, near Staatsburg, yesterday the steamer Tremper of the Central Hudson Steamboat company raced for shore a mile and a half away with her hold rapidly filling and in danger of sinking at any time, with many passengers aboard. Those aboard the sinking boat were lowered in lifeboats and taken safely to shore.

TO EXTERMINATE MOSQUITO.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 22.—If plans of the County Mosquito Extermination Commission are successfully carried out Atlantic City and vicinity will soon be freed from the mosquito pest, which has long given the New Jersey coast an unenviable reputation. Tomorrow the commission will receive bids for the excavation of 20,000 square feet of small ditches to drain the meadows between the city and the mainland. Twenty thousand dollars will be expended in the work of draining the meadows, which are the breeding places for the mosquitoes.

CARDINAL GIBBONS BIRTHDAY TOMORROW

Distinguished Prelate Will Begin His Eightieth Year.

Baltimore, Md., July 22.—Cardinal Gibbons will enter upon his eightieth year tomorow, having been born July 23, 1834. His eminence was ordained in 1861 and began his priestly labors as curate at St. Patrick's church, Fells Point, Baltimore. Six weeks later he was appoined pastor of a church at Locust Point. This was his only experience as pastor. Those were trying days for the young priest, the first days of the Civil War, but he performed his duty faithfully and regularly. He served as chaplain of Fort McHenry, which was then used not only as a fort, but also as a prison for Confederates. As a result of his good work he was appointed, four years later, secretary to Archbishop Spalding of Baltimore. Thence forward honors and promotions came to him rapidly. In 1868 he was consecrated bishop of Adramyttum. Four years later he was transferred from the vicariate of North Carolina to the bishopric of Richmond. In May, 1877, he became co-adjutor archbishop of Baltimore and a few months later he succeeded to the see. In 1886 he was created a cardinal.

Cardinal Gibbons occupies a unique position in the city and State, with which he has been identified for so recognized as one of the foremost Americans. It is doubtful if any other citizen of the United States has exerted such a strong influence abroad as he. To mention his name anywhere in America or Europe evokes tributes which come equally from Protestants and Catholics.

That he is held high in the esteem, not only of the Catholic Clergy and laity, but also those of other denominations, is shown by the many congratulatory messages which are being received at the archiepiscopal residence in anticipation of his birthday. They express the hope that he will live to see many more celebrations of his anniversary.

The Cardinal continues to live a busy life, despite his advanced age and is in good health. His vitality has caused expressions of amazement and his vigor is attributed to his systematic method of living. In addition to carrying on the work of his high office regularly, he has found time for the performance of many ceremonies and to assist at commencements, celebrations in honor of priests and sisters, first masses of young priests, weddings and other exercises. Last month he was present at a dozen or more commencements, in different parts of Maryland and in the latter part of the month ordained nearly fifty students to the priesthood. Almost every day he has a walk for an hour or more, and this doubtless accounts in part for his good health.

FINE MEMORIAL ORGAN DEDICATED AT ST. PETER'S

The church organ given to St. Peter's Lutheran church by Dr. Richard Moldenke as a memorial to his daughter, the late Miss Elsie Moldenke, was dedicated at the morning services held Sunday in that edifice. The pastor, Rev. C. F. E. Blunk, spoke briefly on the usefulness of the instrument and the motive which prompted its donor to make the gift.

Miss Moldenke, in whose memory the beautiful organ was given, died on October 31 last. She was a student at the Mary J. Drexel School, in Philadelphia, and a talented musician.

A meeting for prayer and Bible study will be held tonight at 7.45 at the German Reformed church. H. L. Turner, of Nyack, N. Y., will be the leader.

BEST KNOWN JERSEYMAN.

Of Colonel Dickinson Editor James Smith, Jr., says: "He returns from a long absence in foreign parts to find that he is almost a stranger in the scenes in which he was once a conspicuous and potent figure." Stranger? Rats! Colonel Dickinson knows as many people in New Jersey, politicians, statesmen and such, as they run, as does, say, James E. Martine or even Editor Smith himself.—Jersey City Journal.

Possibly the Colonel may know as many people in New Jersey as does the former Senator, but we'll wager that James E. Martine, the "farmer-orator" and old war horse of Democracy, knows more and is known by more people than both Dickinson and Smith put together. It is no exaggeration to say that it would be strange for Martine to walk along a single block in any city in the State without being recognized and greeted and as for the rural districts, where they love him best and where he has been heard preaching the political creed he calls his religion for the last forty years, he is known to almost every farmer and every farmer's son. A grangers' meeting without him would seem as impossible as an ocean without water.

Once when asked what was the greatest disaapointment of his life, Martine surprised his newspaper friends by declaring that it was not that he had run for about every nomination and election in the gift of the people of his home city, county and district and had always gone down in defeat. "It was like this"—quoting as near as we can recall his words—"a short time ago I was walking along in the extreme west end of my own city when I spied a boy pushing a wheelbarrow loaded with some very choice apples. Being a farmer, I questioned him thinking of buying a few for my own use. My first question to him was as to where one could get such fine apples and to my surprise the little fellow answered, 'down to "Jim" Martine's, you can get all you want there and he won't mind.' "Now," said Martine, "I didn't give a darn whether that boy stole my whole orchard, but I was keenly disappointed that he didn't know me."

There can be no question about it—Martine is the best known man to Jerseymen in the whole State.

You should not forget that "charity begins at home" and this may be interpreted that while away enjoying your vacation you should think of the unfortunate little ones in your own town who must suffer during this hot season unless there be some means to provide for their comfort. The City Union of the King's Daughters furnishes these advantages, alleaviating the suffering of the poor little youngsters, but it takes money to do this and to support the work being carried on at the Day Nursery the King's Daughters depend on voluntary contributions. If the undertaking appeals to you send a dollar or so to the institution.

The thousands of gulliabe ones who blindly followed the I. W. W. agitators at Paterson have learned an expensive lesson and are eager to go back to their honest toil. There is room enough in the Silk City for them all but there should be room nowhere in America for the Flynn woman, Haywood, Ettor, Quinlan and disturbers of their ilk.

Some of these days the laws will be more liberal and then the mass of people who spend their Sunday afternoons at Parker Field listening to the public band concert may be allowed to purchase some soft drinks.

HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINER STOPPED BY SIXTY WHALES

Hoboken, July 22.—A school of about sixty whales, the sailors of the Hamburg-American liner Prinz Sigismund say, caused that ship, which got in Sunday night from the West Indies, a lot of trouble off Sea Girt late Sunday. It was about 5 o'clock, and the Prinz Sigismund was headed full speed for the Ambrose Channel entrance, when the lookout in the crow's nest shouted that there was a "terrible commotion dead ahead."

The officer on the bridge saw the water about 10 yards ahead being churned into a foam, with now and then a big, black, shining back showing. The officer did not relish a collision with a school of whales, and he rang for full speed astern. The sudden maneuver brought the passengers running to the deck, while Captain De Wall, who was in his cabin, rushed out on the bridge.

The Prinz Sigismund's skipper then changed his course to the southward.

VINDICATION SOUGHT BY MINISTER THROUGH COURTS

Elizabeth, July 22.—The Rev. Thomas E. Bell, formerly pastor of Hilton Heights Baptist church, has filed a suit for damages of $500 against George Kirkely, also a member of the church. It is alleged that Kirkely at a meeting of the church told the pastor that he was not a fit man to preach, and accused him of indictable offenses. In fact the accussations were so grave that he became disqualified from fulfilling his contract with the church and was practically forced out of his profession.

The Rev. Mr. Bell claims that when he sought the pastorate of the Baptist church in Rutherford, Mr. Kirkely went there and informed one of the trustees that the minister was guilty of indictable offenses, including immorat acts. As a result he lost the pastorate. The suit is for vindication.

ROMAN CATHOLICS REPLY TO MENACE'S CHARGES

Resolutions adopted by the Holy Name Societies of the diocese of Newark, attacking the Menace, a weekly American Protective Association newspaper published by the Rev. Theodore C. Walker and Marvin Brown at Aurora, Mo., were published today. The Menace has attracted attention by is virulent attacks on Roman Catholicism.

A recent article recounted an alleged episode in Mexico when General Scott led an expedition into that country, saying the battle was nearly lost because a number of Irish-Americans crossed to the other side, preferring to "fight for their church than for their country." The resolutions ask that the paper be excluded from the mails.

MASON'S CAMPAIGN CRY IS "ECONOMY"

Prohibition Candidate for Governor Would Reconstruct State's Taxing System.

The Rev. J. G. Mason, the militant parson, who is the candidate for Governor on the Prohibition ticket, has opened headquarters at Allenhurst, and in a statement he gives expression to his principles, and tells "what he would do if elected Governor."

"I will seek to have our whole tax system reconstructed," is his first utterance, or plank number one. Then continuing, the fiery expounder of the gospel and temperance, says:

"I will seek to reduce the expenses of the State and county administration. New Jersey is guilty of a senseless and criminal waste of her financial resources and it is conservative to say that at least $230,000 is needlessly taken from the State treasury to pay for sinecures, duplicated official services and extravagance in supplies.

"I will seek a better enforcement of the excise and others laws; more power in the Government to remove unfaithful officers, as our laws are defiantly and openly violated, especially in cities. Of course, this as well as our increase in taxes, comes from the liquor traffic.

"I will enforce every law with power now possessed and seek to obtain more power to enforce law. I will seek to outlaw, and so far as possible, to limit the liquor traffic. I will seek better control of big corporations in the interest of the public welfare. In every way I will carry out the progressive platform of the Prohibition party in the interest of the people of New Jersey."

MIDDLESEX BOROUGH OPPOSES JOINT SEWER

The fight to be waged by the newly-formed Borough of Middlesex against the construction of a sewerage disposal plant at the Darling farm in that municipality, as proposed jointly by Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen, was delayed last night, when a special meeting of the Middlesex Council was postponed because of the enforced absence, due to illness, of former Judge William A. Coddington, its corporation counsel. The next meeting to combat any efforts to make "a dumping ground of Middlesex," as the residents term it, will be subject to the call of Mayor George Harris.

The Council of the Borough of Middlesex has practically pledged to the citizens of its community that every effort will be made to have the sewerage disposal plant placed elsewhere. Wealthy and influential citizens and business men are aiding in the fight with both action and funds. They claim that even if they lose the "battle" that they can delay the construction of the plant for at least five years.

ADRIANOPLE CAPTURE DENIED BY BULGARIANS

Sofia, July 22.—Official advices from Adrianople received by the Bulgarian Government today declare that the Turkish troops have not reoccupied that city. Wired communication with the fortress was restored today. The advices say that the Turks arrived at the city but soon retreated. The Government has ordered the Bulgarian officials there to resume their posts.

London, July 22.—A despatch from Vienna says thatt he Bulgarianl egation there this afternoon received the following message from the home government at Sofia:

"The Government has decided to surrender Adrianople to the Turks. A message from Constantinople says that Haji Adil Bey, former minister of the interior, has been appointed governor of Adrianople."

SETTLING R. R. STRIKE.

New York, July 22.—The Commissioners of Mediation and Conciliation met the officials of the Erie Railroad at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Washington, July 22.—The Republicaan attack on the tariff offered a temporary setback today through the unpreparedness of the minority to address the Senate. Senator Simmons, chairman of the Finance Committee, said if the Republicans were unable to find a spokesman to follow Senator Smoot he would move that the bill be taken up paragraph by paragraph.

Dr. Herbert Stillwell, pastor of the largest Baptist church in Cleveland, Ohio, will preach at both services of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of this city, next Sunday.

JERSEY FRUIT CROP SHORT.

Jack Frost Gave It Setback Which Sunshine Can't Overcome.

Glassboro, N. J., July 22.—Vacationists and summer dwellers in the rural districts of South Jersey will not be overfelted with fruit this year, although the supply is plentiful enough to add to the joys of country life and to make the farm markets an improvement over the city stalls, where peaches, plums and pears are sold out by the small measure at high prices. The most popular of the summer fruit, the peach, is scarce this year, and there will be hundreds of baskets of the luscious fruit where there were thousands of baskets picked in overladen orchards last year.

Jack Frost has been responsible for spoiling the greater part of the peach crop in this region, and there are few orchards that will yield anywhere near normal. Growers say that it's a miracle that there are any peaches in South Jersey at all this summer, in view of the many adversities.

"CRY AND YOU ARE DEAD."

Burglar Commanded Nurse to Keep Quiet at Risk of Life.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 22.—Surprised while ransacking the home of Mrs. Rachael Turner, eighty-six years old and one of the city's wealthiest women, a burglar pointed a gun at the head of Miss Margaret Rosollo, a nurse.

"You make any outcry in the next ten minutes and you are dead," the burglar told her and then compelled the nurse to walk ahead of him about the house while he gathered up $1,000 worth of jewelry. He coolly made his loot into a bundle, locked the nurse in the parlor of the house and left. The house is near the Brighton hotel.

Hoffman, will be tried in the Mercer county court. A CZAR IN AN ATTIC.

Room in the Winter Palace Where Emperor Nicholas I. Died.

The Winter palace of the czar surpasses any other palace in Europe. It is on the banks of the Neva and owes its existence to the Empress Catherine II., that most extraordinary woman, extraordinary in ability and in vice, the surprise of all her contemporaries and the wonder of all who have studied her character. The building is four stories high, of a light brown color and highly ornamental in architecture. It is a wilderness of halls, stairways and apartments. The Nicholas hall and the St. George's hall will never be forgotten by those who have seen them.

One of the most interesting rooms is that where Nicholas I. died. It is in the upper story of the northeast corner of the building and is approached by four doors and finally by a narrow passage. It is a small room, only about eighteen feet long and twelve feet wide, with two small windows, and is the place where the emperor spent most of his time when not officially employed. It is the room in which he died, some say by poison administered by himself in a fit of melancholy induced by the outcome of the Crimean war.

EQUAL TO OCCASIONS.

A Man of Quick Wit and Prompt Action Was Lord Whitworth.

Lord Whitworth, who held various posts of honor in English diplomatic circles, was a kindly, gracious gentleman as well as a wit and a man of the world. He had indeed almost measured swords with Napoleon at the Tuileries when that despot railed at England for not having evacuated Egypt and Malta, accused her of having violated treaties and ended by flourishing a cane dangerously near the face of the English ambassador.

Lord Whitworth put his hand on the hilt of his sword.

"What would you have done if the emperor had struck you?" he was afterward asked.

"I would have felled him to the ground," was the quiet answer.

Perhaps the best story told of him is one showing how his quick wit disposed of a rival. When he was at the Russian court, Fox sent there as a sort of ambassador of his own a man named Adair, the son of a surgeon.

One day the empress, speaking in French, said to Lord Whitworth:

"Is he a very important man, this M. Adair?"

"Not so very, madame," replied Lord Whitworth, "although his father was a grand saigneur," a remark which readers of French will recognize as a very good pun, for the word used by Lord Whitford means "blood letter," while by its sound it also meant a great lord. —London Standard.

"Discovery."

According to some wonder mongers, whenever you tell a story asserting the existence of something new and astonishing you "discover" it. But that is not the sense in which the word is used by scientific investigators. When Professor and Mme. Curie "discovered" the wonderful element "radium" they placed it, so to speak, "on the table," and every one has been able to examine it and to prove that the statements made about it are true. When Dr. Laveran of Paris "discovered" that malarial fever is due to a parasite in the blood he showed the parasite and showed how one can always find it, and thus he enabled any one and every one to see it and to examine its relation to malarial fever. Those are instances of "discovery." Mere guesses and assertions without proof are not "discovery."—London Telegraph.

Pretty Useful Shoes.

It would be difficult to realize what the Frieslander would do without his klompen, or wooden shoes, for they have a hundred uses. With them he bails out his boat, corrects his children and scoops up a drink of water wherever he may be. He places in them his worms for fishing, uses them as missiles in a free fight, digs with them, measures dry goods with them, and a hundred other things. The klompen are cheap; they cost about fifteen pence a pair, man's size, and Dutchmen's feet are not Cinderella-like by any means.—Wide World Magazine.

Used to Dodging.

"You never hear of a wealthy bachelor being run over by an auto."

"That's so. I wonder why it is."

"To a man who is used to dodging mothers with marriageable daughters dodging automobiles is merely child's play."—Houston Post.

A Stickler For Good Form.

"Of course you looked up the new girl's references?"

"How could I, dear? They were from a lot of women I don't know."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Estimating It.

"I hope I haven't kept you waiting too long," gushed the girl.

"Only about $3 worth," estimated the young man with the taxicab outside.—Pittsburgh Post.

An Incentive.

WOMEN ON HORSEBACK.

They Cut a Queer Figure Before Sidesaddles Were Invented.

Before Queen Catherine de' Medici started the fashion of sidesaddles by having a board slung on the left side of her horse to support her feet all poor women rode on a pillion behind a man. All women of the better class rode astride.

A lady to prepare for riding bent forward and took hold of the lower hem of the back of her dress skirt, drew it through between her legs and wrapped her skirts around her legs down to her knees, then folded the rest of her skirts across the front of her person.

Then she drew on a pair of large trousers, the legs of which ended just below the knees, where they were sewed to the tops of a pair of clumsy riding boots. The upper part of the trousers was open in front, and the flaps folded across the person and fastened by a band around the waist. A hood was worn on the head, and a mask protected the face from sun and weather. She rode on a man's saddle and wore spurs and carried a quirt (riding whip) looped on the right wrist. The same style and kind of quirt is now used by our western cowboys and plains Indians and was formerly carried by the Cossacks.

A lady in riding costume, whether on foot or on horseback, was anything but a graceful figure.

Our great-grandmothers rode on sidesaddles, but their great-great-grandmothers rode astride if they belonged to the gentry class.

Our plains Indian women, even when they changed their buckskin skirts that came to the knee and their buckskin leggings for the long calico skirt of white women, always rode astride.—Washington Post.

THEY DIDN'T MIND DIRT.

In the Days When Clothes Were Dyed, but Never Washed.

In the matter of the washing of clothes, not to say the washing of themselves, our ancestors were a trifle lax. The laundress of the twelfth century must have held a position which was practically a sinecure, while it seems within the bounds of possibility that in those days she did not exist at all. There were, insooth, few garments which would stand washing, and the dyer was driving a brisk trade before the laundress was even thought of. A little dye must indeed have covered a multitude of spots.

In the days of the Tudors and Stuarts washing was a trifle more in evidence than formerly, but those articles which were permitted to find their way into the "buck pan"—as the washing tub used to be called—were few and far between. The wealthy of the middle ages got over the difficulty of obtaining clean underclothing with primitive simplicity by not wearing any, while the lower orders wore coarse woolen garments that would no doubt have "shrunk in the wash." To prevent any casualty of the kind they remained unwashed.

Velvets, taffetas and richly dyed silks, such as those worn by the nobility and gentry, could not, of course, be washed, and should any person of high degree be the possessor of a linen shirt it was a thing which was carefully made known to all his friends and relatives as being extremely la mode and a fit subject for congratulation, but washed it never was for fear of injuring its pristine beauty.—London Tatler.

Witchcraft.

In many parts of the world—Greece, for instance—the believer in witchcraft still gets hold, by hook or by crook, of hair, nail parings and so forth from an enemy's head and hands and burns, buries or does something else with them in order to entail unpleasant consequences upon that enemy. And universal folklore reveals the concern of savages to dispose of their own hair and nail clippings to prevent an enemy from getting at them. Australian native girls, having had a lock of hair stolen from them, expected speedy death as a certainty. — London Telegraph.

Virtues of the Nurse.

Sir William Osler in a lecture at Johns Hopkins training school named the seven virtues of the nurse: "Tact, without which no woman can be successful and her chief protection in the mechanism of life; tidiness, it being the primary duty of a woman to look well; taciturnity, which should be cultivated as a gift; sympathy, gentleness, the birthright of a nurse; cheerfulness and charity, the last and greatest of all."

Vague.

"I didn't exactly know how to take the missis this morning," said the lady's maid to the cook.

"What did she say?"

"When I remarked that I was afraid her complexion could not be improved by cold cream she told me I needn't rub it in."—Baltimore American.

Most of Them Do.

"It only needs determination to liv a hundred years," says a well know health writer. A great many peopl have determined to live a century o die in the attempt—and they have die in the attempt.—New Orleans Picayune.

It is a good plan while waiting for your ship to come in to kill time by going to work to earn something.—New Orleans Picayune.

OSBORNE ONCE MORE CHALLENGES COLBY

He Persists in His Offer for a Joint Tour of Rival Progressive Candidates.

Newark, July 22.—Returning from his campaign in the Sixth District, where he has been speaking for Herbert M. Bailey, Progressive candidate for Congress, Edmund B. Osborne has written another letter to Everett Colby again urging him to tour the State in joint discussion.

Mr. Osborne's first invitation was not accepted by Mr. Colby who declared he will not make an extensive campaign. Mr. Osborne, however, is of the opinion that the Progressive party will be greatly benefited if both candidates for the nomination for Governor appear in every part of the State together.

He assures his opponent that the discussions will not degenerate into a "personal wrangle," and also reminds Mr. Colby of the fact that in 1908 when he ran against Judge Raymond for the nomination for State Senator on the Republican ticket he urged Raymond to debate with him and said that candidates should be ready for a rough and tumble fight if necessary.

Mr. Osborne's letter in part follows:

"Acknowledging your recent letter declining my proposition that we campaign together, speaking at the same meetings throughout the State, I trust you will reach a differnet conclusion after considering the many reasons why such a campaign will be greatly to the advantage of the party and the candidates—especially the one who gets the nomination. * * *

"If, as your letter suggests, there is not enough difference between us, about principles, to be worth debating, then there would be no debate—we would simply divide the time, each of us presenting his views in his own way and without any 'summing up' or 'rejoiner.'"

E. C. STOKES IS COY; HE WOULD ACCEPT

Hadley, Borah and Other Progressives Would Stump for Him.

Trenton, July 22.—Former Governor Edward Stokes said in an interview in this city that if the rank and file of the Republican party of the State wishes him to become a candidate for Governor he would give the matter his most serious consideration. This statement is taken by prominent politicians here to mean that Stoke's will heed the party's call, as it is frankly admitted that he is the hope of the party as far as the governorship is concerned. The nominating petitions must be filed by August 23, and therefore something definite must be done soon.

Stokes said that while he was deeply appreciative of the reports from the various counties received at the recent meeting of the Republican State Association of County Chairmen in declaring for him, he indicated that these repots did not satisfy him to the extent of boldly proclaiming his candidacy. He would like to receive the call, he said, from the rank and file of the party.

The former Governor said he would not care to accept the nomination solely on the indorsement of the men at the top of the party. Stokes, however, is in a receptive mood, and it is believed he will be prevailed upon to enter the lists.

If he should become a candidate a notable campaign will be planned. It will include a series of addresses in many parts of the State by former Governor Hadley, of Missouri; United States Senator Borah and other Progressive Republicans.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Look To Your Water Supply.

Typhoid fever is a rather usual autumn disease. Many doctors attribute this fact to the water drunk carelessly by their patients in the summer.

When you are away on a vacation and are thirsty, do you not generally—that is to say, if you are only normally careful of your health—stop to wonder where the water comes from that is set before you. Perhaps, if you intend to stay for several weeks at some country resort, you do make inquiries about the water. If you are at a hotel perhaps you drink bottled water. But often enough to cause trouble you unsuspectingly drink whatever water you can get.

Of course, boiling is one of the best ways of making sure that you will not imbibe any living typhoid germs. Before vaccination against that disease came in boiling was the safeguard of the army—boiling and screening against mosquitoes.

So if you are forced to use water from a source of which you are not quite sure, conquer your thirst long enough to boil the water you drink. Don't just let it come to the boiling point, and then bottle it in bottles which have been sterilized in boiling water.

There is no sure test for impurities that can be made by an amateur. Sometimes the best looking water is the least pure, and so looks cannot be relied on. But an unpleasant odor from water at least makes it unwise to drink that water. It may be safe enough, but it may be dangerous, so it should not be touched until it has been boiled.

Occasionally water tastes unpleasant after it has been boiled. If this is the case, you will probably get used to the flat, disagreeable taste in a short time, and until you do a little lemon juice can be squeezed into the water before you drink it.

For Washing.

Sometimes the supply of water in the laundry and bath room of the summer cottage is of very hard water, with which it is difficult either to bathe or do laundry work. In this case, it can be softened for laundry work with a little borax or ammonia, and a very little borax or a few drops of benzoin will make it pleasant for bathing.

If it is possible to collect rain water for the laundry work this will be found more satisfactory than hard water. It should be caught in a place not near any building or trees, so that the rain will not be full of dust washed down from them. The tank or tub in which it is caught should then be covered tightly with gauze, so that it will not become a breeding place for mosquitoes. It should not be covered with anything which keeps the air out, however, as water so covered soon acquires an unpleasant odor.

NOVELTY IN BELTS.

A Military Suggestion Has This Nifty Frock.

BECOMING MODEL FOR GIRLISH FIGURE.

Decidedly new is this belt arrangement, which should be particularly becoming to a slender, girlish figure. Alternate straps on skirt and bodice button upward and downward over a sash of bright colored futurist silk, the gown being of neutral colored material.

A Clover Party.

The hostess who has a clover dotted lawn should not let the opportunity slip by to entertain with a "clover party." The invitation should be done in water color, or real pressed leaves may be pasted on. The hostess may receive her guests on the veranda, which has been prettily decorated with large wicker jardinieres filled with quantities of the long stemmed clover blossoms. Over the main porch entrance suspend a large horseshoe made of the pink and white clovers.

Partners for the clover hunt may be found by matching numbers on little brown twig baskets. On the lawn or in the adjoining orchard, wherever the clover patch happens to be, swing seats and cushions should be in evidence. At a given signal from an old time dinner horn the hunt for four leaf clovers should start. Naturally the little baskets are for holding the finds.

During the counting of the good luck emblems lemonade may be served. At 6 o'clock a supper served at small tables on the veranda or under the trees could carry out the clover idea. On each table have quaintly shaped white wicker or pink baskets filled with the long stemmed clovers and plenty of the foliage around them. The supper might consist of cold meats prettily garnished with the clovers, and the salad could be molded to represent a large four leaf clover. The sandwiches could be cut clover shape, and also the little cakes, while the ice cream might be the individual pink blossoms or the green leaves. The prizes given for the lucky clover hunter might be a silver picture frame, with the clover design engraving. The couples with the empty baskets might be rewarded with a corsage bouquet and boutonniere of clovers.

Activities of Women.

New York now has a women's walking club.

France has over 4,150,000 women workers.

Baltimore is the latest city to provide for women police.

New York actresses are going to have a club with a billiard room and a bar.

Despite the vote of the women, Phoenix, Ariz., will continue to be "wet."

Schoolteachers in Cincinnati will soon receive an increase of 10 per cent in their salaries.

Miss Hazel Schmoll has been appointed assistant instructor of biology at Vassar college.

Woman Champions Man.

Miss Beulah Kennard, a member of the board of education of Pittsburgh, proved that women will not always vote for one another when suffrage is granted them by her speech for the superintendent of schools. Women teachers had borne testimony before the board against the superintendent, implying that he had flirted with them. Miss Kennard bravely faced the accusers and declared the whole thing a political plot.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SWEET POTATOES.

To know the sweet potato at its best one must have eaten it in Dixieland, where grow sweet potatoes that are said to far excel the famed Jersey sweets and where cooks are skilled in ways of serving this delightful food.

Sweet potatoes should be cooked slowly. Much of the flavor is impaired by cooking them too quickly. Some cooks think an hour in the oven is not too long to bake them.

The Secret of Boiling Them.

Boiled Sweet Potatoes.—Wash the potatoes well without breaking the skins. Put them in a kettle of boiling water and let them cook until without being soft they can be pierced to the center with a fork. Drain off the water and set the kettle back on the stove or in the oven, with a cloth thrown over the top and let steam about five minutes, then they will be mealy. Peel them at once and serve plain with roast pork or beef. When served with fried or broiled fish, accompany them with a drawn butter sauce or cut them in thick slices, butter and set in the oven a few minutes.

Glazed Sweet Potatoes.—Scrub the potatoes, put them into boiling water and boil until tender. Remove the skin, cut in halves, put in the oven for ten minutes; then pour over each half a little melted butter and sprinkle with granulated sugar. Place in a hot oven and bake until brown, basting with the butter in the pan.

Cooked a la Casserole.

Baked Sweet Potatoes.—Steam four sweet potatoes until tender or slice them raw and cook in a little boiling water for ten minutes. Drain from the water and place a layer in the bottom of a casserole dish. Sprinkle with sugar and spread with butter. Add another layer of potatoes, more sugar and butter. Fill the dish up in this manner with sugar and butter on top. Then nearly cover the potatoes with the water in which they were boiled, and place in a hot oven for three-quarters of an hour.

Sweet Potatoes a la Maryland.—Take some boiled sweet potatoes while still hot, brush them over with melted butter and roll in sugar. Place them in a pan and put them into the oven. Let them stand until they become very brown; then remove them and set the pan containing them on the top of the stove. Put the potatoes into the serving dish. Add some boiling water to the melted butter and sugar. Let it cook down to a brown sirup and pour it over the potatoes.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Thoughtless Jimmy And the Little Memory Elf.

The Elf Grew to Be Very Tall.

JACK had lost his ball, and the next day the little boys who belonged to his team were going to play a game. They needed the ball; but, alas, Jack could not find it.

"Wish I had a fairy around to do my remembering for me," Jack grumbled as he and Evelyn came up for their bedtime story.

"Do you, sir?" daddy answered. "Well, I'm very glad you haven't. I can tell you a story about a little chap who had just such a fairy.

"He was one of those boys who are always forgetting. When one day he went to school without his books he was punished for forgetting them, and he wished, just as you are doing, that he could have some one to do his remembering for him.

"He made the wish out loud as he was coming home from school. Somebody snickered just behind him, and, turning round, he saw a tiny little elf.

"'I'll do your remembering for you, Master Jimmie,' the elf offered.

"'Say, I just wish you would,' Jimmie urged eagerly.

"The elf told Jimmie that it would have to go around with him everywhere and that, though he might be able to see it, no one else could.

"Jimmie thought this a very fine way to do, for his parents had what he thought an unpleasant way of insisting that he should do his own work.

"'There are several things that you have forgotten now,' the elf suggested, and, quick as wink, Jimmie recalled the errands his mother had asked him to do for her.

"'Well, I'm nearly home anyway. I don't want to go back,' Jimmie said.

"The elf grew a little taller every time Jimmie shirked doing some task. By and by the elf was as tall as Jimmie, and in a short time he had shot up until he was as tall as a man. And the funny part of it was Jimmie could scarcely remember anything if he tried he was so used to allowing the elf to do his remembering.

"When the elf got as tall as a tree Jimmie began to be afraid to have such a giant around. He was a good deal in the way.

"'There's only one way to get rid of me,' the overgrown elf chuckled, 'and that is to do your own remembering without my help.'

"'I'll do it,' Jimmie declared.

"At first it was dreadfully hard work, but as he saw the elf shrink each time he succeeded he tried harder and harder. At last the elf was almost his natural size. One day when he went out to walk Jimmie lost him. He has never seen him since. And now when Jimmie is asked to do anything or has any little duty on hand he can remember splendidly. He is afraid the elf may come back and grow again to be a giant."

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns

The finest pattern articles in the world printed exclusively in Plainfield in The Plainfield Daily Press. Ladies' Home Journal Patterns are on sale at A. E. Force & Co., "The White Store."

Two Designs for Embroidering Towels or Pillow Cases.

Embroidered towels are most acceptable gifts to any housekeeper or bride-to-be for she can never have too many. The snow-drop design, 14334, is 22 inches long and may be used on a pair of towels, a pair of pillow cases, a sheet or a bureau scarf. So by using several of these patterns you can embroider an entire set of bedroom linens in the same design. The pretty little flowers may be worked, either in well padded solid work, or more effectively in large, open eyelets. A three-inch initial or a monogram of two-inch letters may be placed between the sprays at the center and a letter from pattern 14266 is illustrated on the towel at the top of the page. This block initial pattern includes several sizes of any one initial, 12 transfers of the half and one inch sizes and 6 transfers each, of the 2, 3 and 4 inch sizes for ten cents.

The more elaborate design, 14333, should be used on a towel of the finest of huckaback or damask and it may be adapted to pillow cases, a bureau scarf or sheet. This design may be carried out in solid and eyelet work or solid work alone and a 2-inch initial or monogram may be placed in the center wreath. Each pattern includes transfers for stamping both ends of two towels.

Hot iron transfer patterns for stamping 14334 and 14333 can be supplied to readers at ten cents each. Address Pattern Department, 615 West 43d street, New York.

Afternoon Frocks For the Fashionable Woman.

At this time of the year when one needs so many frocks, how important it is that they should be thoroughly dainty and up-to-date, since there are so many places to wear them. The evolution of successful dressing has proceeded space during the past few years and nowhere has reached more artistic development or achieved more brilliant results than in the beautiful creations that are featured on this page. With this tremendous advance in the great art of dress, it is also most satisfying to note that each season the materials are more fetching in color and texture and more and more in variety.

In the figure No. 7660 we find a ladies' dress closing at the back, with frilling at the low, rounded neck, thus featuring a simple and charming model. The sleeves are elbow length finished with narrow bands of lace or cuffs of self-fabric. The fastening is accomplished under an invested pleat so that it does not detract from the appearance of the gown in any way. The bodice blouses slightly at the waistline. The girdle may be of contrasting or self-fabric, trimmed with the plain silk. The skirt is a one-piece affair, with or without trimming. Dotted silk or crepe are both suggestive for this style of costume, the design being the latest from Paris. The patterns are cut in 5 sizes, 34 to 42. Size 36 requires 5¾ yards, 36-inch material. The belt and sash ends could be made of 1½ yards silk cut on the bais. 15 cents.

The tier skirt is the newest type of fashion and it is being brought out in an endless number of styles. Figure No. 7836 is a charming idea developed in brocade or lingerie. The bodice in surplice effect closes at the side-front. It has a shoulder yoke in front, large armhole, V-shaped neck elaborated with a Medici frill of lace or net, sleeves three-quarter in length with frill falling over the end and Moire silk girdle with smart bow at the side. The skirt is composed of two pieces and has four tucks with the lace-edging which accomplishes the tier effect. This pattern is cut in 3 sizes, 16, 17 and 18. Size 16 requires 5¾ yards, 36-inch material. The girdle is not included in the pattern, but it requires about ¾ to one yard silk, cut on the bias. 15 cents.

Little Helps In Reducing the Size of the Gas Bill.

Several women were talking one day, and naturally the conversation soon drifted to household matters. In due course of time the question of the gas bill came up, and one woman was asked how she managed to keep her bill so low when it was known that she both cooked and ironed by gas during the entire summer. She said that it was by using only what gas was necessary and then turning it out. She said:

"One of the most important things in the use of gas is in ironing. Most of your heat goes into the room at any rate, but there doesn't seem to be any way of avoiding this and still heating the irons evenly. However, one suggestion is this:

"Iron all the handkerchiefs and napkins on both the right and the wrong sides while the irons are hot, laying each aside as soon as it is ironed to be folded after the gas is turned off. As soon as you are through with the actual ironing turn your gas entirely off and then fold and crease the handkerchiefs and napkins previously ironed. You will find that there is enough heat left in the irons to crease them and thus save the burning of the gas for a considerable time. It isn't even necessary to heat the irons extra hot before doing this work unless you have an enormous number of each, and if the iron is occasionally put back on the hot plate it will stay plenty warm enough, while the saving in gas is really surprising."

BACK PORCH SWEEPINGS.

Box to Catch Dirt That Would Otherwise Go Into Yard.

Every woman knows how hard it often is to keep the back of pretty suburban homes "up to the mark." The only way to do when there are servants in the house is to exercise eternal vigilance and display unceasing tact. It is a good plan to walk around your back yard, especially toward the very end, and take a view of the whole back of the house, just as the neighbor behind you sees it. Viewing it in this way may show you many little deficiencies that could be easily remedied.

Just around the back porch or steps there is often more or less litter—the sweepings from the porch itself. The housemaid will keep the porch clean, but may not concern herself at all as to where the sweepings go. If a box is hooked to the porch on a level with the top step, so that dirt may be swept directly into it instead of into the yard, the yard may be kept much cleaner. The box may easily be unhooked and emptied whenever that becomes necessary.

Before making new sheets always measure the bed for which they are intended.

WANTS TO LEAVE DETROIT.

Despite his $12,500 salary, Ty Cobb is dissatisfied. He would "welcome a change" which would make him a member of some team other than Detroit, he wrote to a friend in a letter which was received in Boston yesterday. Discussing the report that he was to be traded for Speaker of the Boston Red Sox, Cobb said that he would like very much to play in Boston, but said he did not think Boston would part with Speaker. "There are two other American League cities in which I would like to play," he added.

PARKER FIELD JUNIOR BASEBALL LEAGUE HOSTILITIES OPENED BY JACKSON'S WIN

PARKER FIELD JR. LEAGUE.

Yesterday's Results:

Jackson Bible Class 4, Arow A. C. 3.

Standing of the Clubs:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Jackson Bible Class	1	0	1,000
Laurel A. C.	0	0	000
Princeton A. C.	0	0	000
Arrow A. C.	0	1	000

Hostilities were ushered in yesterday afternoon at Parker Field between the recently organized Junior League contestants and the season opened with a victory over the Arrow A. C., by the Jaqkson Bible Class nine which scored 4 runs to its opponent's 3. The game was an unusually close one for the junior baseball and the fray was featured by the good twirling of the rival pitchers.

Velard, who was on the hillock for the winners, allowed but two hits, while the errors were made behind him. Campbell was the rival heaver and but three of his offerings went for safeties and his teammates contributed a quartet of misplays.

Four teams have enterted the junior organization and a schedule of games will be drawn up similar to that of the senior organization which is now well under way. There is still an opportunity for juniors who want to play in the league and if those desiring to play will communicate with Mr. Wriston, the playground supervisor, at once, it is possible that they can become affiliated with some aggregation.

Johnny Heron Leading the Chapelites in Race Toward Sunday School Pennant.

The first batting average of the Sunday-school League was turned into this office by Manager Leighs of Hope Chapel team, yesterday afternoon. The average shows the team to be batting as a whole a total of .208. Eight of the thirteen players are batting higher than the team's average. The heavy hitters of the team are J. Heron, the top man of the Hope team. John has a total of ten hits to his credit and an average of .360. Overland, Snyder and E. Terry are the next in order, all batting over the .300 mark. Luthman bagged more hits than a great many of his team-mates, but he journeyed to the plate too many times to have a high average.

WOOD HAS SPLINTERED THUMB.

Joe Wood, star pitcher of the Boston Americans, will be out of the game for several weeks. Examination of his injured right thumb under the X-ray yesterday showed that there is a crack in the end of the big bone, and indications are now that a piece of the bone has been chipped off. Unusual care is being taken in the treatment of the injury to guard against stiffness in the joints, which would put an end to Wood's usefulness as a pitcher.

Playing some good baseball on Parker Field yesterday afternoon, the Athletics managed to maintain their undisputed first place claim in the team standing and the Rovers were forced to swallow a second does of defeat at the hands of the same opponents. The Rovers put up a speedy game, however, and will no doubt make a strong bid for pennant honors before the season ends.

Four teams have now been organized to contest the schedule of games arranged to decide the Parker Field League title and all appear to be strong combinations, a fact which is due to produce some good rivalry and excellent contests. There is still an opportunity for baseball players in Plainfield who have not as yet joined a team in the league, to get into the game however, as the Parker A. C. is still in the process of formation and more players are needed to make the nine a reality. Any boy desiring to play in the league can have his name placed on the roster of a team by 'phoning or writing to George W. Wriston, the playground supervisor. 'Phone 1599-W.

A schedule of games has been arranged for this week and is given in detail at the head of this column. All of the teams will get into action at least once during the next few days. Tomorrow afternoon the Parker A. C. will lineup against the Rovers at 2.30 o'clock.

JACKSON LEAGUERS OPENED WITH A WIN

ATHLETICS TROUNCE THE ROVERS AGAIN

A 6 to 1 Victory Keeps the Winners on Top in Parker Field Senior League.

The Athletic team of the Parker Field Senior League, although outbatted by their opponents, the Rovers, won their second contest in the organization yesterday afternoon by a count of 6 to 1. Hirsch's free trips and the playing of errorless ball gave the league leaders their victory. Rosenson, captain of the Plainfield High School baseball team for next season, pitched the second winning game for his team. Cantor, Rosenson's receiver, allowed but one stolen base, and accepted all of his chances without an error. Kunzman helped to do some damage with the bat as well as in the field, his contribution being a pair of bingles.

The shining lights for the Rovers were O'Leary and Schmeyer, each getting hits, also Henderson, who caught a heady game. Hirsch's chance of a victory over Rosenson was spoiled by the erors of his teammates and his freedom of passes.

Ebullitions of a Lunatic on the Philosophy of Chess

If all the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players, where are their frailties and excellences so gloriously exploited as on the chess board? Springing full armed from the brain of some prehistoric Jove, it is a very epitome of human glory and weakness.

The King, God save the King! all important, yet cabined, cribbed and confined, his halting steps beset on all sides by dangers. Hemmed to a Philidor's legacy by the stupid efforts of his own people, growing in power as his nobility melts away, uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.

The Queen, power behind the throne, what piercing, far-seeing brain made thee, the eternal feminine? Who so loyal, who so masterful, charging hither and yon, now here, then darting at a tangent, shrieking votes for women? When thou art lost, how dull and drab and monotonous the game becomes.

Then the Bishops, sly, Machiavellian saints, always attacking morganatically, how deferential to each other; never trespassing on each other's preserves. After you, my dear Alphonse, the King's Bishop to the Queen's Bishop. Far-reaching, even the Queen trembles before their combined anathema:

Then the Knights, debonair, rollicking blades, dashing in and out, happy in each other's company. Veritable Bayards, without fear or reproach, disdaining to exact the extreme penalty from the unfortunate monarch they overthrow.

Then the Rooks, slow, honest, ponderous souls. Theirs not to reason why, theirs but to do and die. Te salutamus.

Last, but not least, the proletariat of this mimic world, the Pawn, pushing straight forward, with ne'er a backward glance, hewing right and left for his masters, hoping against hope to work through to be such as they.

"SKIPPER" WOODHULL OWNS A SPEEDY BOAT

Local Boy Builder and Owner of High Powered Motor Driven Water Craft.

A great many Plainfield people, mostly High School boys, have taken a great interest in the races held by the Lake Hopatcong Yacht Club every Saturday during the summer season.

The enthusiasm is shown because one of their former members, Edson A. Woodhull, is expected to have, if everything goes according to expectations, one of the fastest racing motor-boats on the lake. During the school term, "Ed.," in his spare moments, built the frame in his garage in Plainfield.

When the time came for the family to go to their summer home, "Barwood," at the lake, the frame and engine were sent also, so that the builder could work upon it there.

The boat will be named "Skipper," after its owner and builder. The engine is a 24 horsepower automobile engine rigged up for the purpose. The frame work itself is a thirteen foot Hydroplane, built after the fashion of the "Bumble Bee" racer. It is expected the boat running in good form will make thirty odd miles an hour.

The boat is to be launched about the first of August.

FISHERMEN'S GOOD LUCK.

JOHN WANAMAKER.

From Snapshot Taken in New York City Yesterday.

© 1913, by American Press Association.

John Wanamaker made two speeches in New York yesterday. He talked to 250 young women teachers of the Daily Vacation Bible School association at a luncheon at the Hotel St. Denis. Then he walked across Broadway to Tenth street and addressed 300 men and women, mostly women, students of Columbia university's summer session.

FIREBUG AT WORK ON ROCKEFELLER ESTATE

Third Blaze of Incendiary Origin Within Month.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 22.—A fire that partially destroyed the house occupied by Emil Selburn, known as John D. Rockefeller's sculptor, who has lived for two years on the splendid Pocantico Hills estate while engaged in beautifying it, has given rise to the belief that a deliberate firebug is bent on the destruction of all buildings on the place.

There had been fires before the destruction of the $150,000 stable, three weeks ago, but it was that blaze that aroused the first suspicion of incendiarism.

Last Saturday morning Mr. Selburn returned to his house to find it full of smoke. A peculiar hidden fire was found in a closet on the second floor. It was easily extinguished.

Yesterday afternoon neighbors saw smoke pouring from the house windows. Again the fire corps of the Rockefeller employees prevented the destruction of the dwelling.

John D. Rockefeller, who, during the trouble with the Black Hand maurauders last fall had from 300 to 400 special guards on his estate, has cut his protecting army down to a very few men.

To Release Quinlan on Bail.

Paterson, N. J., July 22.—Henry Marelli, counsel for Patrick Quinlan, a strike leader who was sentenced to two years in state prison for inciting to riot, procured $5,000 bail for the agitator, who will be released pending a review of his case in the court of errors and appeals in November.

Fire In Steamer's Hold.

Boston, July 22.—Fire in the forward hold of the Eastern Steamship company's steamer H. F. Dimock, from New York, created great excitement along the water front, and firemen had a stubborn battle while fireboats stood by. The origin of the fire is unknown.

—Renting a flat, or house, or other property, is strictly "a classified advertising matter.". Any other way of finding tenants is impracticable, costly and—sometimes—impossible.

Are You Utilizing 100% of Your Advertising Possibilities?

Advertisers may fail in accomplishing the full measure of their possible earnings and handicap their growth by contenting themelves with less than their full selling capacity; others, by means of intelligent advertising, approximate the possible 100 per cent. volume of sales with no increase of "over-head" expense.

But how about the merchant who is advertising, but who is not realizing 100 per cent. of his possibilities?

In advertising, as in merchandising, the point must be reached where expense of operation is overcome and profits begin.

In advertising, as in retailing or manufacturing, it's the last certain per cent. of effort that counts.

Some very clever advertisers in Plainfield are spending large sums of money in advertising without securing 100 per cent. in results, and a few are hitting the "bull's eye." Waste is responsible for most advertising failures.

But what about the under-advertised business—the store that is on the right track, but limits its advertising to the development of 50, 60, or 80 per cent. of the sales of which it is capable.

This type of business most frequently is the specialty store that has sufficient capital and sufficient credit to do a much larger business, but is not willing to venture the needed ten, twenty-five or fifty per cent. added advertising effort to achieve the full results.

The store, for instance, that is doing a business of $40,000 or $50,000 annually, but with facilities for doing an additional $50,000 without added fixed expense, could well afford to spend $5,000 in advertising to get that $50,000 extra business. And the Daily Press would give it to him.

The Daily Press' circulation embraces the class and the best of the mass in Plainfield, and will yield rich returns to any advertiser who appeals to it intelligently.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof." The proof that the Daily Press readers respond to advertising is the year-in and year-out use of its space by discerning advertisers.

It is quite true that even an under-advertised business may pay a pleasing profit; but why not more profit, at no extra fixed expense, for the moderate outlay of a Daily Press advertising appropriation?

Think of the "pure v-e-l-v-e-t" business, entailing no extra investment except advertising, on which the net profits would possibly equal the net profits of the entire business now done on the under-advertised plan.

RILEY MAY GET SAUNDERS' PLACE

Change in Presidency of New Jersey Men's League for Woman Suffrage.

BOTH SEEK THE PLACE

The Election to Be a Feature of the State Convention of State Association to Be Held at Ocean Grove on Saturday.

One result of the State Convention of the New Jersey Men's League for Woman Suffrage, to be held at Ocean Grove on Saturday morning, will be a change in the presidency, if the majority report of the organization committee is approved by the delegates. This majority report will place in nomination for the head of the league Champlain L. Riley, of North Plainfield, to succeed William L. Saunders, also of North Plainfield, who has held the office for two years.

Mr. Saunders is eager to continue as the head of the league, and he has supporters in the committee appointed to frame a ticket to be placed before the convention for election or rejection. Furthermore, there is some Saunders sentiment in the Delaware valley section of the State, but this is confined largely to Warren county, where Saunders has his big tool works, as a branch of the International Harvester Trust, of which he is a director.

But the rest of the State, save the minority Saunders group in Union and Somerset counties, all seems to be for Riley.

Nevertheless there is likelihood now of a contest on the floor of the convention, because Mr. Saunders' adherents believe that it will harm him less in the future, so far as suffrage political support is concerned, to have made a fight and lost it than to have simply dropped quietly out of the situation.

The chief argument that has been used in committee against continuing him in power has been that his close affiliation with the Harvester Trust, which has been a target of Government action under the Sherman law, does not help the suffrage cause any, because it is a radical and progressive cause and a part of the great national transformation in all parties, of which the curbing of trusts is an important phase.

"For the suffrage movement in New Jersey," said one of the committee, "to have a Harvester Trust director at its head is about as inconsistent as it would be for the Prohibition party to follow the lead of an officer of the Brewery Trust."

Another objection to Saunders is that he has used his league presidency as an opportunity for presiding at many big meetings, but has not done any of the real uphill work of spreading the league throughout the State.

On the other hand, his friends make the just claim that he has been a liberal contributor to the funds of the league, and they think he is entitled to consideration on that score.

Former Mayor Moy, of Plainfield, chairman of the organization committee, sums up for the other side as follows:

"Champlain L. Riley is the only logical candidate for the presidency. He was the real founder of the league. He has done nine-tenths of the work to develop it into a State-wide organization, and he will keep at it, as a real worker, until New Jersey women have the franchise. Why not give him the place and the authority that will make his work most effective?"

Except for this matter of election, the convention program is a matter of certainty.

Emerson P. Harris, of Essex county, is to be the permanent chairman. Edward F. Feickert, of Plainfield, vice president of the State Trust Company, is practically sure of reelection as treasurer. The secretaryship lies between A. B. Jones, of Union county, and C. C. Wheeler, of Somerset.

At the league's suffrage mass meeting to be held in the afternoon the speakers will be Everett Colby and E. R. Osborne, both candidates for the Progressive nomination for Governor; George M. La Monte, State superintendent of banking; Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the State Woman Suffrage Association, and Mrs. Van Winkle, of the Equal Franchise League.

TO PETITION FOR SPECIAL ELECTION

Democrats to Ask for Vote on Small Board Plan Adoption in Union Co.

THEY ARE PUZZLED

Question is When Must Petitions Be Filed—1,200 Signatures Are Required—Election in Connection With Primaries August 28.

Twenty-five or thirty petitions are being circulated in the county by Democrats interested in having a special election on the small Board of Freeholder law. Five per cent. of the registered vote at the last general election, or 1,200 signatudes are required on the petition before it can be filed with County Clerk Calvert.

Those circulating the petitions were desirous of learning when they had to turn them in for filing and this raised a question that the Hennessy act, under which the election will be held, does not answer. Aside from specifying that the petitions shall be filed with the county clerk, it makes no other provision. The question of fixing the date for filing petitions and for holding the election, seems to be left to the county clerk.

In all other special elections, such as for the adoption or rejection of commission government, the date of the election is fixed by the act. According to the election laws, no provision is made for the filing of petitions for special elections and neither is any time fixed for the election after such petitions shall have been filed.

If the Geran election law is to be used as a guide the election cannot be held until thirty days after the petition is filed. In the event of the referendum being carried those who desired to become candidates at the primary election would scarcely be able to file their petitions the required number of days prior to the primary election.

If time would not permit the small board candidates to be named at the primary election the candidates would be obliged to have their names put on the general election ballot by petition. The absence of canicates at the primary election would complicate matters at the general elections as it seems certain that more than the required number of candidates from each party would seek membership on the board.

The rumor had it that the special election would be held on a date not later than August 12 in order to have the candidates selected at the primary election. Assemblyman Griffin, who assisted in getting up the petitions and is familiar with the Hennessy bill, said that he was uncertain as to the date for filing or the method by which the election date will be fixed.

James P. Kelly, who also assisted in the preparation of the petitions, said that the petition must be filed and the election held early enough to give candidates for nomination at the primary election time to get their petitions filed on or before August 28. If this is not done he foresaw great possibilities of many names being placed by petition on the general election ballots and resultant confusion.

HOLD BROKAW FOR ATROCIOUS ASSAULT

Judge Mahon Decrees He Must Await Action of the Grand Jury.

Elizabeth, July 23.—Clarence B. Brokaw, of Plainfield, president of the bankrupt firm of C. B. Brokaw Auto Co., was held for the Grand Jury by Police Court Judge Owen P. Mahon, this morning, on a charge of atrocious assault and battery preferred by Mrs. Noble R. Beatty, of Westfield. The latter was struck by Mr. Brokaw's automobile in Westfield avenue, Scotch Plains, on February 19, 1912, and subsequently instituted a civil suit for damages against the Plainfielder. She was successful in her action, obtaining a verdict of $3,000.

Since then Brokaw filed a petition in bankruptcy, thereby escaping the necessity of paying the amount of the verdict. Last Friday the plaintiff in the civil suit had Mr. Brokaw arrested on the assault charge. The case was deferred until today. The defendant was bailed out by Charles P. Sebring, who deposited $500 to insure his appearance in court this morning.

A lawn party will be held tomorrow afternoon from 1:30 o'clock until midnight at 314 East Fourth street for the benefit of the Ebenezer Baptist church.

FRESH AIR HOME HAS SOME NEEDS

Means of Entertainment Are Lacking Says Miss Curry, the Superintendent.

MILK IS ALSO WANTED

There Are 350 Guests Who Come From New York's East Side But There Is Little For their Amusement.

A lack of amusements for the entertainment of the boys and girls at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home was brought to the attention of a Daily Press reporter who visited that institution last night. In an interview with Miss Sara Curry, matron of the camp, it was laso learned that because of the want of funds, fifty had to supply the 350 guests from New York's east side, whereas 100 quarts are needed to give the guests the necessary nourishment and the much sought for results in building u pthe physical needs of the children.

The older boys and girls are kept busy for a short time each morning with chores, such as washing dishes, cleaning and resetting the tables, and keeping the grounds in a neat condition. After that, the children are practically at their wits-end to find sufficient to engage their attention for the remainder of the day. A half dozen swings and an occasional game of baseball by the boys are about the sumtotal of amusements. Owing to the fact that so much money was needed at the opening of the season to make the necessary repairs about the buildings and grounds the management is at a loss to know just how to meet the problem of entertaining the children properly during the long hours of the day. Miss Curry stated that she would appreciate any aid which might be rendered, either financially or through the giving of time and talent by local people during the day.

Relative to the problem of securing the proper supply of milk, Miss Curry reminded the reporter that fifty quarts of milk could not be expected to accomplish any great results among so many, especially when seventy-five of the children at the camp without mothers are practically babes, ranging from eight months to three years of age. In this connection, it was pointed out that nourishing fruits are sorely needed. This commodity would be a means to obtain great results with the youngsters. It is earnestly hoped, Miss Curry says, that local people interested in the furthering of this work will make it possible to remedy these conditions which have existed throughout the present season.

The Netherwood Fesh Air Home was organized in 1904 as a branch of the Little Missionary's Day Nursery of 93 St. Mark's place, New York, carrying on the work which had been accomplished for a number of years at a camp in Westfield. The home receives $1,500 a year as a result of an endowment made by the late Fred Hewitt, of Owego, New York. The remainder of the running expenses are met by voluntary subscriptions, fully fifty per cent of which are made by Plainfield people. An average of 350 mothers and children are cared for each year at the home, a few of which are returned from year to year. A majority of those at the camp at the present time, are visiting it for the first time.

Almost without exception, the guests show a great improvement physically since their arrival in this city three weeks ago.

SCHWARTZ IS AFTER THE LOCAL HUCKSTERS

Union County Superintendent of Weights and Measures Augustus W. Schwartz, wh owas in this city today as complainant against a firm of coal dealers, said he was planning to make all Plainfield hucksters appear at local police headquarters some time this week, to have their measures inspected and his seal of approval stamped on them if found correct. "Many housewives are receiving short measure from honest merchants," he said, "because the latter's measures are dented to such an extent as to decrease their capacity."

The county inspector this morning placed his seal of objection on a milk can at the North avenue railroad station, consigned to the Brokaw creamery. The can was considerably dented making a shortage in the specified quantity.

The scales of icemen have also received the inspector's attention. He said according to law a housewife can demand of an ice dealer 10 pounds of ice for five cents. Schawrtz also stopped several coal dealers' wagons.

BOROUGH SCHOOL BUDGET APPROVED

Only 21 Votes Cast at District Meeting and But One is in the Negative.

DR. COOLEY PRESIDES

A Surprising Lack of Interest Is Shown by the Taxpayers in the Matter—How the Money Will Be Apportioned.

Although many citizens of North Plainfield have protested against alleged extravagance on the part of the Borough Board of Education, but twenty-one school voters cast ballots last night in the Somerset School building, where an election was held to accept or reject a budget totaling $23,130, which is $370 less than that of last year. Breaking all precedents, the budget as arranged by the Board was accepted with the exception of one vote each against the amount of $19,400 for "current expenses," and $1,730 for "manual training." Dr. J. H. Cooley, president of the Board, said this was the smallest negative vote cast in the history of school elections in the borough. The amount of $2,000 for repairs was accepted unanimously, all twenty-one voters voting in favor of spending this amount for improvements in the present institutions.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., was present. E. S. Boyer was the only member of the Council in attendance. Many of the Board of Education members were among the absentees as was George T. Rogers, chairman of the borough's special committee on education and finance, which, after an investigation of the borough's affairs, charged the Board with extravagance.

Dr. Cooley was in charge of last night's election and District Clerk Frank Rowley acted as secretary. Charles Huff and Richard McDonald were tellers. The polls opened at 8:00 o'clock and closed an hour later.

The money will be spent as follows: Teachers, $22,500; repairs, $2,000; books and supplies, $2,250; fuel, $1,300; physician, $200; clerk, $250; supply clerk, $100; janitors, $2,300; insurance, $300; incidentals, $1,000; athletic hall $300; commencement, $150; furniture, $200; water, light and power, $600, and manual training, $3,460, making a total of $46,960. The anticipated receipts from the State amount to $20,700 for school purposes, $1,730 for the manual training fund, and $1 400 from tuition charges, making a total of $23,830 and leaving $23,130, the amount of the budget, to be raised through taxation.

F. L. C. MARTIN IN BANKRUPTCY

Veteran Auto Man Financially Embarrassed by Inability to Collect Claims.

HIS LIABILITIES ARE BIG

As Bicycle Dealer He Had Monopoly Here and for Years Led in Selling Automobiles and Was Also Pioneer in Aeroplanes.

One of the oldest established automobile concerns in the State and once Plainfield's foremost dealer in motor vehicles, the F. L. C. Martin-Automobile Company, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court at Trenton this morning claiming liabilities of $53,533.51 and assets of $105,633.72. The announcement of the expected action comes not as a surprise to the many friends of the company in this city who formerly recognized it as a prosperous firm doing business on a firm and profitable basis. A large amount of the assets, however, are tied up in real estate and they could not be made immediately available when the creditors pressed the firm for outstanding debts. Insurance estimated to exceed $18,000 is also included in the assets.

The Martin Company disposed of numerous automobiles of various types and prices for which they received in exchange mortgages, houses and undeveloped land which could not be turned into ready cash to meet the demand when it came. Mr. Martin, who has been confined to his bed for the past three months and has been in failing health for the past year, had his petition filed today in Trenton and the firm will continue to do business in this city under the supervision of William G. DeMeza, who has been appointed receiver. In speaking of the failure this morning, Douglas Martin, who is acting as manager of the company in the absence of F. L. C. Martin, said:

"The firm's petition in bankruptcy was made necessary by the pressure of small creditors, the company being unable to collect outstanding debts fast enough to meet the demand for the payment of creditors' bills which were presented. While the bills owed by the company were exceedingly small in many cases it was difficult to collect funds to satisfy them as much of the concern's assets are tied up in real estate."

Mr. Martin took exception to the figures as received from Trenton today stating that the assets amounted to a little over $105,000 and the liabilities to $55,000. Frank Martin has become the endorser of a large amount of the company's paper and filed a personal petition in voluntary bankruptcy yesterday.

The F. L. C. Martin Automobile Company was recognized as the pioneer bicycle firm of the Satte, being the first and the leading dealers in wheels of early types. The bicycle business was started in 1889 and after thirteen years of bicycle trading the firm added the automobile to its stock, when this motor driven vehicle was best introduced into practical use. The company's warehouse was originally located on East Fourth street and later moved to Park avenue, opening a salesroom which has eventually been rebuilt into the large garage and display rooms the company now has.

Several years ago when the aeroplane came into prominence the Martin concern announced that it would open an aerial station in this city and take orders for the flying machine which, at that time, was looked forward to as something that would become a fad in a very few years. Experience began to show that this invention was yet in its experimental stages, however, and the introduction of this craft in a Plainfield salesroom was finally dropped.

Mr. Martin was also affiliated with the proposed scheme for converting the Newark meadows into a mammoth motordrome but this plan finally fell through and has now become a thing of the past.

MORE BOYS WILL GO TO CAMP WAWAYANDA

The third delegation from the Boys' Department of the local Y. M. C. A. to the association's State camp, Waywayanda, will leave at 6.27 tomorrow morning. The party will be composed of S. Bonsal Stover, Richard Pennock, Irving Wiltsie and Reginald Sykes, who will stay for four weeks, and Albert Maurerfi who will visit the camp for a period of two weeks. The boys will be accompanied by Herbert Stine and Egbert Fountain, who will act as leaders. The local boys who are present at the camp will return sometime tomorrow.

WILL NOT EXTEND TROLLEY SERVICE

President Thomas N. McCarter, of P. S. C., Makes Statement to Trade Board.

NO ACTION JUST NOW

Result of Recent Investigation Carried on by Local Civic Body's Committee — Trolley Company Considered the Proposition.

During a recent meeting of the Plainfield Board of Trade the agitation for a trolley line connecting this city with some of its southern suburbs was reviewed and a committee was appointed to take charge of the matter and conduct an investigation in conjunction with the Public Service Railroad Company's officials. The move advocated the establishment of a car line between Plainfield, Metuchen, South Plainfield and New Market, the only facilities for travel between these connecting places at the present time being an auto bus. As is always the case with small motor driven vehicles the rates for passage are excessive and out of the reach of most of the residents of these districts, many of whom are farmers who bring their produce to Plainfield and contribute largely to this city's commercial enterprises.

The Board of Trade recognized the claims of these people and co-operated with several of the most influential citizens in the suburbs mentioned with the result that the attention of the president of the Public Service Railroad Company instituted a personal investigation with the Board of Trade committee, which consisted of A. E. Force, chairman; Herman Schwed, Charles Thornton, of South Plainfield, and Percy Vail and Herbert Pierce, of New Market. President Thomas N. Carter, of the Public Service, accompanied this committee on a tour of investigation in the districts involved on July 10. At the solicitation of the committee he went over the suburban grounds and was favorably impressed with the advisability of extending the line to South Plainfield and Metuchen but admitted to the committee at that time that New Market would be out of the question. Although he positively eliminated New Market from the proposition he promised to take up the other two towns with his company and let the local body hear from his as soon as a definite decision was reached, of which the following letter is self-explanatory:

"I have carefully considered and discussed with our people the subject matter of the proposed Plainfield extensions, which I examined with you and other Plainfield gentlemen recently. In time, under other conditions, it may be practical to build the Metuchen and South Plainfield extensions, but I cannot see my way clear to advocate them now. Business conditions are such that it is extremely difficult to obtain new capital for our absolute necessities—to say nothing of extensions of this character, which cannot be called necessities. I hope the day will come when I may be able to take a different view of this situation; and I desire to express my appreciation of the courtesy with which I was treated by yourself and associates."

VILLAGE BLACKSMITH SAVED THIS SUICIDE

But Colored Youth Had Cramps It Was Discovered at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Applying for a dipper of water at the blacksmith shop of William Hamilton, in South Plainfield, Charles Lee, colored, of Vesey street, Newark, had the receptacle and its contents dashed from his hands by Mr. Hamilton as he attempted to raise the dipper to his lips after having added a quantity of cholera mixture to the water. Mr. Hamilton, seeing the bottle labeled "poison," thought the colored boy was attempting to commit suicide and with a lurch knocked the supported dealy dose to the floor of his shop. Lee then explained that he was attacked with cramps and had alighted from a Lehigh Valley passenger train to get some medicine in South Plainfield. Lee then mixed another dose which he was allowed to drink.

Shortly after taking the medicine, however, he was severely ill. Mr. Hamilton carried him to Thornton's Hotel. He was later sent to Muhlenberg Hospital in the ambulance from the local police headquarters.

PIERCE IS OUT FOR NOMINATION

State Senator Announces Candidacy for G. O. P. Gubernatorial Primary Choice.

MAKES A STATEMENT

Cranford, July 23.—Upon a platform containing five of the biggest problems which New Jersey now faces, State Senator Carlton B. Pierce launches today his campaign for the Republican nomination for Governor. Senator Pierce's statement in full is as follows:

"Convinced that certain legislation I have been advocating can be accomplished only after State-wide discussion, I am proposing to run for Governor in the Republican primary pledged to the following propositions:

"1. The abolition in fact of dangerous grade crossings.

"2. The equalization of tax assessments.

"3. The restoration of a reasonable tax upon banks and trust companies, now practically escaping taxation.

"4. The substitution of the indeterminate franchise, or tenure during good behaviour, for the present fifty-year franchise law.

"5. True jury reform, through the elimination of the subject from politics.

Carlton B. Pierce.

"The first four issues have been pushed as far as individual effort can carry them. All are opposed by powerful special interests. If they are to get further, it must be through statement of facts and reasons, with force of public opinion following.

"I am proposing, in successive letters between now and the primary, to discuss each issue briefly, dealing in this with grade crossings.

"The outcome of the Fielder grade crossing law passed last winter will cause disappointment. Though it has been in operation four months, only one application for elimination is pending, that of the city of Perth Amboy, and in that, the railroad defendants, the Pennsylvania, Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley, have filed answers alleging the act is void under State and Federal constitutions, and further is void because defective in title. Hearings are being held and the litigation is on; doubtless the prospect accounts for the failure of other municipalities to file petitions.

"It is within the right of the roads to appeal the case to the United States Supreme Court, and under favorable conditions it will take not less than three, and more probably five years, to determine the validity of the law. In the meantime there will be no elimination.

"What makes the situation even more unsatisfactory, there is at least an equal chance the roads will win. This in my judgment as an attorney, for reasons presented to the Senate, which I am proposing to give later. The objections to the validity of the law were pointed out in the Senate, the situation we are now confronted with was there forecasted, and a plea then made for safety within the lines of the Connecticut act, which had been sustained by the United States Supreme Court. The plea was overruled by the majority party, and we are where we are.

"The situation is unsatisfactory in the extreme; but it seems to me the simplest remedy is best, to pass at the next session what should have been passed at the last, a law within the lines of the Connecticut act, the validity of which cannot be questioned."

General D. F. Collins is out for Fielder for Governor

Union County Man Indorses Acting Governor "BECAUSE HE HAS MADE GOOD"

GENERAL D. F. COLLINS of Elizabeth, Democratic state committeeman from Union county, is one of the most ardent supporters of Governor Fielder in the state. General Collins was originally a Wittpenn man, but that was before Fielder became a candidate. His decision to support Fielder was not a political "flop" in any sense of the word, but was rather a recognition of the present acting governor's superior training and mental equipment for the office. In the words of General Collins:

"Fielder's advent into the race effected a complete change in the situation, and I was immediately impressed with his availability and splendid equipment for the position.

"His service of eight years in the legislature—two years in the lower house and six years in the senate—has naturally put him in close touch with the great questions at issue in our state and in the solution of which the public is so vitally interested.

"DURING THIS LONG SERVICE HE HAS LOYALLY STOOD WITH THE PARTY AND WAS, IN FACT, THE LEADER IN THE LEGISLATIVE CONTESTS FOR THE ENACTMENT OF THOSE PROGRESSIVE LAWS WHICH, UNDER THE MASTERFUL HAND OF WILSON, HAVE BEEN WRITTEN INTO STATUTE.

"Upon the election of Governor Wilson to the presidency Mr. Fielder succeeded him in the gubernatorial chair by reason of his position as president of the senate.

"Every fair minded person must admit that he assumed this great responsibility under most trying conditions and surrounded by many difficulties and pitfalls. Yet, to his credit, be it said, he has measured up to the situation splendidly and discharged the duties of the position in a manner creditable alike to himself and his party and justified the splendid indorsement given to him by President Wilson when he turned over to Fielder the governorship.

"I am heartily in favor of the nomination of James F. Fielder for governor because he has made good. His experience and training particularly qualify him for the position at this time.

"TO MY MIND HE IS THE LOGICAL CANDIDATE TO NOMINATE. TO DO OTHERWISE WOULD BE A SERIOUS MISTAKE. HIS PRIVATE AS WELL AS HIS PUBLIC CAREER IS WITHOUT A BLEMISH.

"Honest, unassuming and easy to approach, he is favored with a natural dignity and reserve which go to make an attractive personality. His candidacy is growing in public favor. Union county will give him a decisive majority at the primary in September, and I predict his nomination and election as the next governor of New Jersey."

MINOR LEAGUE NOT PROSPEROUS THIS YEAR

Chicago, Ill., July 23.—With the baseball season half over, outward and visible signs are abundant that the year 1913 is not likely to establish a high record for prosperity among the minor leagues. The larger organizations are reported to be coming along nicely, but many of the smaller ones are finding it hard going. Several threw up the sponge before the season was many weeks old. Some are endeavoring to weather the storm by shortening or otherwise changing their circuits, while others are believed to be very close to the rocks.

The United States League quit business before it got fairly started and the "Mink" League also succumbed early in the season.

The Interstate League, which started the season with eight clubs, is expecting to finish with its circuit cut in half. Steubenville, Columbus, Zanesville and Canton were dropped from the circuit.

The Illinois-Missouri League has dropped Pekin and Canton from the circuit and the Western Tri-State League has shortened sail by dropping La Grande and Baker.

The Kansas League is another of the minor organizations that has shortened its circuit because of poor support. Manhattan and Junction City were the places dropped.

The franchise transfers have been numerous all along the line and resulted in nearly every instance from poor business. The Covington team in the new Federal League has been transferred to Kansas City. In the Texas-Oklahoma League the Wichita Falls team has been switched to Hugo, Okla. The Milwaukee team in the Wisconsin-Illinois League is now located in Fond du Lac. In the Eastern Association the Holyoke franchise is now held by Meriden.

HIGH BRIDGE WILL REMAIN IN LEAGUE

Central New Jersey Managers Held a Session but Accomplished Nothing.

Another evident lack of enthusiasm presented itself at last night's meeting of the Central New Jersey League, and although a gathering was held by the organization's officials, practically nothing was accomplished that would either promote or detract from the League's work. Before the meeting it was understood that the High Bridge team would be requested to withdraw to make way for Scotch Plains or some other more formidable contender but the managers failed to mention that subject at the session and as a consequence the High Bridge novices will appear in Dunellen for their scheduled game next Saturday afternoon against Bogardus' crew

It was also previously understood that Dunellen's contention for the throwing out of the league standing of all the results of games played with Bound Brook and New Brunswick, the teams that have since been dropped, would also be decided but nothing along that line was accomplished.

Two of the managers whose teams are figuring prominently in the pennane race have expressed their desire of cancelling further league contests and of playing independent ball but this was also a touchy subject at last night's meeting and the managers in question did not hint on the idea.

NEW GOLF RECORD.

David Ogilvie, professional at the Morris County Golf Club, hung up a record for the course yesterday, making the round of the links in 63 strokes, breaking the previous record of 67, which he made last year. The amateur record, held by Frederick H. Thomas, is 71. Ogilvie is in charge of the local golf links during the season here. In winter he goes to the Atlanta Country Club, Atlanta, Ga., as professional. Ogilvie's card was as follows:

Out ... 2 3 3 3 3 4 4 5 4—31
In .... 2 4 3 5 3 5 4 3 3—32—63

COUGHLAN IS LEADING THE WEST END SWATTERS

The West End A. C. has six of her speed boys batting above the team's high average of .311 and these are the only .300 hitters on the team. Coughlan and Coriell are setting a heavy pace for their team mates, both men being above .400.

Coughlan himself is averaging one hit out of every two trips to the plate. Alberts has not been in the game long enough to gather as many hits as his friends but he shows signs of becoming a .300 man. Lambertson, Denny and Herberman are the other stickers of the team who help win the games.

Batting averages of West End A. C. to July 23, 1913:

	AB.	H.	Ave
Coughlan	25	13	.520
Coriell	26	12	.461

FORMALLY ORGANIZE SOMERVILLE AERIE

Plainfield Contingent Takes Part in the Demonstration at Somerset Co. Seat.

Somerville, July 23—The Somerville Aerie, No. 2013, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was organized at this place last night, with eighty-two members and the new organization starts out with good prospects. The exercises were held in Germania Hall, previous to which there was a short street parade, participated by representatives of the order from New Brunswick, Plainfield, Perth Amboy, Newak and other places. The parade was headed by T. A. B. Fife and Drum Corps of Plainfield. They were followed by the new members from this place, lead by the Raritan band. Plenty of red fire was burned during the progress of the parade, and the streets were lined with interested spectators.

After the march about town the parade headed for Germania Hall, where the members were duly initiated into the order. This part of the program was in charge of Frank Lawrence, of Fort Erie, N. Y., and William Yantz, of Somerville, who is a member of the Plainfield Aerie. The officers elected and installed were as follows: Past president, William H. Cawley, Jr.; president, Rupert Smith; treasurer, George Maurer; secretary, John Hardgrove, Jr.; trustees, Philip Gasell, Edward Kelley and Louis Roller. After the installation of the officers the hall was thrown open to the public and a general good time ensued. Abundance of refreshments were served, and altogether it was a gala night in Somerville.

Eighty members of Plainfield Aerie, No. 866, together with its degree team who accomplished the floor work of the initiation, made the trip on a special trolley.

The next meeting of Somerville Aerie, the date of which has not been set as yet, will be held at Foresters' Hall.

HART WINS IN SIXTH IN CONGRESS FIGHT

Democrat Defeats Republican and Progressive Candidates.

Hackensack, N. J., July 23.—Archibald C. Hart of Hackensack, Bergen county, was chosen congressman for the Sixth New Jersey district at the special election to succeed the late Congressman James Martin of Sussex county. Hart defeated County Clerk Hopkins of Sussex county for the Democratic nomination at the recent primary and he walked away with the election by about 6,000. His opponents were Major S. Wood McClave, Republican, of Cliffside, Bergen county, and Herbert M. Bailey, Progressive, of Hackensack, Bergen county. Hart carried Sussex county by 800 and Warren county by 1,500.

Bergen county went for Hart by about 3,500. The vote was not more than 40 per cent, if that, due to the serious split in the Republican ranks. The Progressives were not satisfied with failure last fall and insisted on entering Bailey in the field again. They wouldn't even consider the "get together" plan of State Republican Chairman Wakelee and ex Governor Stokes, even arranging for a rival rally here last week when the Republicans met. Hundreds of Republicans refused to vote, not caring to waste their votes. Hart's election was conceded by Republicans days ago.

Newark, July 23.—(Special.)—Hart's plurality was 6,300. His majority over the Republican and Progressive nominees was above 2,000. Hart carried every single district in both Warren and Sussex counties and he carried 83 of the 113 districts heard from in Bergen county. Only forty per cent of the vote was cast in the district. The Republican nominee was a poor second and the Progressive a good third, coming within 600 votes of his Republican opponent. In Bergen county the small Board of Freeholder proposition won out.

PRINCETON PROFESSOR LANDS LABOR POSITION

Washington, D. C., July 23.—President Wilson yesterday nominated Royal Meeker, of New Jersey, to be commissioner of labor statistics, and Preston C. West, of Oklahoma, to be an assistant attorney-general attached to the Interior Department.

Mr. Meeker, now professor of political economy in Princeton University, is a close friend of President Wilson. He has given much attention to labor problems, and it is expected that he will be immediately designated to act on the Board of Mediation and Conciliation working on the Eastern railroad strike situation.

Professor Meeker has in the last few years been giving a course in money and banking at Princeton, and has frequently been consulted by the Wilson administration leaders on the currency question.

The Square Pot Does It

THE form of firepot used in Square Pot Boilers is different from the ordinary type. It holds a larger body of fire and radiates more heat. Consequently it steams the boiler and heats the house in the fewest possible minutes, beating the best efforts of ordinary round firepots by a wide margin.

This principle of increased radiation gives normal results on comparatively little fuel. Hence Square Pot Boilers prove effective in this most important particular — maximum heat development from minimum coal supply. Look into this before you install a new boiler.

50 GIRLS DIE AS FACTORY IS BURNED

Score Mortally Hurt In Hospitals.

DIG RUINS FOR BODIES

When Alarm Rung Thought It Fire Drill.

BURNING WALLS COLLAPSE

Victims Hurled to Death While Spectators Are Helpless—Pitiful Scenes as Relatives Seek Loved Ones.

Binghamton, N. Y., July 23.—Thousands came from surrounding towns and villages today and watched the grewsome work of searching for bodies in the ruins of the factory fire, the biggest disaster in a decade in this city.

A few minutes before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the clang of the automatic fire alarm gong stopped the busy fingers of 125 young girls at work over the machines of the Binghamton Clothing company. They were not startled or alarmed.

"It's only another one of those old fire drills. I'm not going down into the street dressed as I am and make a show of myself."

The girls, most of them, settled back to work. Two minutes later they were dying miserably in flames and smoke or crushing each other in hopeless attempts to escape down a single stairway and the two narrow fire ladders. In eighteen minutes the four story factory of "approved factory construction" was a mass of ashes and embers—wall, roof and supports fallen in.

At least fifty of the girls are dead, their bodies consumed or charred in the smoking debris of the factory. At least fifty more are injured, many fatally. Of the 125 girls on the payroll, only seventeen have been accounted for as uninjured. Twenty-two are in the hospitals. Eight are being cared for in private homes. Possibly twenty or twenty-five who survived the dreadful rush of flame and smoke or who fought their way to the streets over the bodies of their work mates, fled away to their homes before firemen or police could learn their identity. So far, though, it is only guesswork to attempt to say how many actually got out of the fire alive and unhurt.

Deaths May Reach Seventy.

President Freeman of the Overall Manufacturing company and his bookkeeper insist that there were less than 125 girls in the factory, since some were on vacation. Fire Chief Hoag says, though, that there were 150 girls closely packed on the four floors, so that the estimate of fifty dead is as low as can reasonably be made. When the story is told and the lists are checked up no one will be surprised if the death roll runs to sixty-five or seventy.

Three hospitals—the City, the Terrace and the Moore-Overton—are caring for the injured, some of whom are so dreadfully burned that they cannot possibly live. Others whose lives are hoped for are in frightful agony. Around the hospitals great crowds (thousands have come here from nearby cities) are saddened by the moans and pitiful cries of the injured girls. Firemen, police and volunteers are digging in the smoking debris of the factory and are taking out not bodies, but pieces of bodies. Of the girls that escaped death or injury several are near insanity.

Fire Department Delayed.

The fire department was tardy in responding, not through any fault of its own, but because the nearest company was at work halfway across the city on another alarm. Five minutes were lost there, although it is doubtful if the men and the engines could have done more than stand by. Then, too, the water pressure was low and uncertain where the very strongest power was required.

But the worst of it was that the fire started in the basement, fed on rags and paper and pitchy timber, mushroomed and shot upward through every vent—elevator shaft, stairway and airshafts—so that when the girls actually realized that the automatic alarm was signaling real danger and not merely calling for the formal drill that was meant to show the girls how to get out quickly and safely, they were girdled with fire. Rushing flames met them at the stairway. Flames curled from every floor over the rungs of the two fire escapes. A tower of flame leaped from the elevator shaft and billowed over the inflammable stuff by the machines.

Scores died before they could reach stairway or windows. Their dresses caught from the burning waste. They dropped and were ashes before the building fell. A few, less than a dozen, went to the windows and leaped to the streets through waves of flame. They were killed by the fall. Many girls who rushed headlong down the stairway gave up their lives before they had made a dozen steps. It was all so horribly quick, so breathlessly sudden, that strong men could not have survived, much less young women with no quick grip on nerve, with little physical strength to fight and scramble.

They that were saved unhurt or with comparatively slight injuries were the ones who had been lucky enough to be employed on the lower floors, the first or the second. At the first alarm they did not delay, because they heard and smelled the blaze. They were stirred from their machines by the screams of Mrs. Reed B. Freeman, the wife of the president of the clothing company. So that they had time and strength to get out before the overwhelming sweep of fire and smoke conquered elevator, stairway and fire escapes.

Top Floor Death Trap.

The greatest loss of life took place on the topmost floor, the fourth, where fifty girls sat knee to knee driving the machines that cut and sewed patterns for men's overalls. For them there wasn't a ghost of a chance. Halted by the complaint of the girl "who didn't want to appear on the street just as she was" (that little vanity cost her life), they were walled by fire when they finally realized that the alarm was in deadly earnest. The loss of life on the third floor was appalling for much the same reason. Few girls escaped from either workroom to tell of what preceded the desperate struggle for air and life.

The cause of the fire has not yet been learned. It originated under a stairway in the basement, found rich food, spurted to the first, or office, floor and then roared aloft. Cause of fire, responsibility for the conditions and all of the necessary explanations, that must be made after such a horror, although, as usual, made too late, will be investigated by Coroner Wilson, District Attorney Meagher and the fire commissioner. No arrests have been made yet.

The Binghamton Clothing company, manufacturing almost exclusively overalls for workmen, occupied a large building of four stories which stood in the main part of the city. The factory faced Wall street. The back of the building adjoined the building of the McKallor Drug company. The north side overlooked Henry street, directly across which stood the fine new postoffice, which was also ruined. On the south side there was a vacant lot. On the far side of Wall street from the factory the Chenango river runs. Half a dozen pain crazed children—some of the girls were in short dresses, with their hair down their backs in braids—rushed into the river after fighting a way out of the burning factory.

Here's a Plainfield fact.
You can test it.

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I endured much misery from backache which was caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all and when I got up in the morning my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys and any strain on my back always made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians but their medicine did not help me and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's drug store that I had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person and I have never had any serious trouble since."

PIERCE A CANDIDATE.

When Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, today announced himself as a candidate for the honor, added interest featured the contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. There is no gainsaying the fact that Pierce, who has faithfully and ably served Union county and the State as a whole in the Assembly and in the Senate, has considerable strength which by no means is confined to this particular section.

Mr. Pierce is a clean-cut citizen who possesses independence in spirit and action, a studious and analytical mind, and moreover commands the respect and confidence of the people who are closest to him—his friends and neighbors in Union county. He is not timid; he is not shallow. He is and has been loyal to his political friends and to his political beliefs. Me may not be called an orator, but he has a magnetic personality—a personality that favorably impresses one at first appearances and one that is not dimmed by after-reflections and subsequent contact. Should the fortunes of war be with the Republicans, and that seems extremely improbable as the situation is at present, New Jersey could fare worse than having Pierce as its Governor.

But Mr. Pierce should not lay awake nights nor spoil his vacation days by making plans for a campaign as a Republican nominee. The Republican party is not at all likely to name so excellent a candidate.

After making all the fuss over the management of the public school system, it appears rather strange that many prominent boroughites, who would naturally be expected to do so, did not make it their business to be present at the district school meeting last night when the budget was to be passed upon. Civic pride with some seems to be a hobby only when the longings for a vacation period do not fill their thoughts. Think of it; only twenty-one persons were present last night!

Friends of Wittpenn are clamoring for him to make haste and issue the statement he has long promised as to his position regarding the gubernatorial race. We may suspect that the Jersey City man has been holding back hoping that some "dark horse" would make an appearance and that he could throw his strength that way. Be as it may, Wittpenn is a beaten man already and it matters not what he proposes to do.

Frank Katzenbach is a fine fellow but he is also a "has been" having joined that class when he cast his political fortunes against a former Democratic governor.

Some little stories about James F. Fielder and his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination will be published in the Daily Press beginning with this issue. As we are independent in politics and believe in the square deal for all it is but right that these articles should be presented for the edification and instruction of his friends and followers.

Statesmen are not the only ones who resort to th electure platform to gather in the coin as ammunition to fight the highcostofliving. There's our Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire who is galvanting through the west increasing his bank account about $150 per night in exchange for a rattling good talk on his experiences in darkest Africa. He's a wise man.

The contributed editorial for Saturday's issue will be written by a local clergyman of the Episcopal church.

OFFICES TO FILL AT NOVEMBER ELECTION

City Judge, Councilmen, Freeholders and Others Will Be Selected Then.

While politics in various parts of the State are warming up there is little local activity as yet. It is expected, however, that candidates for the nomination of ward councilmen and councilmen-at-large, as well as for city judge, will soon be announced for the election to be held in November.

Judge William G. DeMeza's term expires the first of January next, as do the terms of Councilmen-at-large W. W. Wilson, C. C. Randolph and Fred Endress, and Ward Councilmen William L. Gloak, of the First ward, George S. Clay, of the Second ward, Frederic E. Mygatt, of the Third ward, and Patrick J. Reville, of the Fourth ward. Aside from these offices, the only positions to be filled on primary day will be the city and county committeemen from each election district. The primaries will be held on August 28.

Practically all the freeholders of the county, with the exception of two from Summit, who were elected for a three-year term under the charter of that place, will end their terms of office this year. A number of the present Board of Freeholders are holdovers owing to the dispute over the small board. Three assemblymen are also to be nominated this fall for a term of one year.

Candidates for the nomination for Governor must file petitions with 1,000 signatures, the same number as candidates for Congress.

The first registration day this year will fall on September 9, the second registration and primary day September 23, the third registration day, October 21, and election day will fall on November 4.

BAD FAITH CHARGE AGAINST C. N. FOWLER

County Chairmen's Ass'n Vice President also Accuses Him of Misrepresentation.

Trenton, July 23.—James H. Mulheron, of this city, vice-president of the Republican Association of County Chairmen, made a statement yesterday accusing former Representative Charles N. Fowler of bad faith and misrepresentation in connection with his statement regarding the meeting of the association last week.

Mr. Mulheron said that when Mr. Fowler appeared at the meeting the latter stated that he had seen in the newspapers that one of the purposes of the meeting was to indorse a candidate for Governor. Mr. Fowler was interrogated as to where he had seen such a statement, but according to Mr. Mulheron, he could not give the source of his information. After Mr. Fowler had read his speech M. Mulheron said the call for the meeting, which contained no reference to the indorsement of any candidate, was shown to him.

In addition to this, added Mr. Mulheron, Mr. Fowler's attention was called to the rule of the association and to a proclamation issued last March, in both of which it was distinctly declared that the association should take no part in attempting to influence nominations for or in obtaining the indorsement of any candidate.

After these facts had been brought to Mr. Fowler's attention Mr. Mulheron said he had expressed himself as entirely satisfied with the attitude of the association and had promised the members present that he would not permit the publication of his criticism of its methods.

FREE TICKETS FOR KNIGHT'S EXCURSION

Estimated That 1,800 Passes Will Be Distributed Among School Children.

After the regular meeting of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, last night, the excursion committee arranged for the distribution of the tickets among the children of the Roman Catholic Sunday-schools of Plainfield, North Plainfield, South Plainfield and Dunellen for the annual outing to be held at Asbury Park, on Thursday, August 7. It is estimated that 1,800 tickets will be given free.

Last year the excursion was run in three sections of twelve cars each and the Knights were complimented by the railroad officials on the efficient and orderly manner in which they conducted the excursion. It was the largest excursion ever held from this city. This year the Knights expect to have a still larger crowd and for this reason the membership of the committee has been doubled. These will be in charge and will meet next Tuesday night at Columbus Club, West Front street: Arthur A. Cannon, chairman; Charles L. Kling, John J. Carty, Robert McCormack, Garret A. Keating, Michael Caffrey, Timothy J. Meany, Thomas F. Carty, John J. Kenney, Harry J. Pasch, John Kyle, James C. Hurling, Andrew E. Kenney, Patrick Mohan, Harry J. Forristel, Joseph McCarthy, Joseph F. O'Keefe, John A. McNally, Joseph T. Brady, John Geary, Michael T. Moynihan, John T. Dineen, John G. Stilliger, George H. Riley and John H. Traynor.

SECOND CHILD MAY PASS AWAY TODAY

Mr. and Mrs. Deutsche Sorely Afflicted, Likely to Lose Little Jacob, Too.

With their four remaining children in Muhlenberg Hospital where three of them were taken Sunday suffering with scarlet fever and the grave, into which was buried yesterday their six-years old son, Benjamin, little moe than a day old, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Deutsche, of 525 West Third street, have been informed by the hospital authorities that there is slight hope of saving the life of their ten years old son, Jacob. The parents themselves are under the care of physicians who fear that the loss to them of two children within forty-eight hours may have fatal results. So serious is the condition of Samuel, Paul and Esther Deutsche, the other stricken children, that they have not been apprised of their brother's demise or the serious condition of Jacob.

As told exclusively in yesterday's Daily Press, four of the Deutsche children were attacked with scarlet fever Sunday night and taken to Muhlenberg Hospital by direction of Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, of Park avenue. Monday night, Miss Esther Deutsche was stricken and hurried to the contagious ward of the local institution shortly before her brother Benjamin succumbed to the terrible disease which is wrecking the happiness of the Deutsche household.

The origin of the family-confined epidemic has not been learned by the Board of Health. A strict watch-out is being kept for other cases, as the Deutsche children were playing with other friends in the neighborhood but a short time previous to being taken to the hospital.

WARREN AND N. P. TWPS. COME TO A COMPROMISE

Dunham, a civil engineer from this city, who will establish on paper the boundary lines as agreed upon. Dunham will then survey the territory in question.

FOUGHT OVER A GIRL; SHE PAID THEIR FINES

Charged with fighting and acting disorderly near their homes in Union street, near Randolph road, last night, James Puntela, 45 years old, and Carman Piterso, 25 years old, were arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza, who fined them $5 each.

The defendants, it is said, became involved in a quarrel over the affections of a Miss Maeta Angelio. The latter is thought to have paid the fines for her ardent lovers.

A WAYWARD YOUTH.

James Petrocello, 13 years old, of 367 Cottage place, was arrested this morning charged with breaking and entering the Jersey Central freight yards in Richmond street, Sunday night. Several articles of minor value were taken.

BOARD EATS EGGS THREE YEARS OLD

Trenton, July 23.—Cakes, ice cream and egg custard pie, all containing eggs more than three years old, were a part of the menu partaken of by the State Board of Health in its chemical laboratory yesterday. The cooks who prepared the edibles were the director of the laboratory and his assistants.

The purpose of the odd meal was to demonstrate that the $4,000 worth of frozen eggs which have been in storage in Jersey City since 1910 are fit for human consumption. In justice to the eggs, it must be said that the articles in which they figured were quite as palatable as those served in many restaurants thoughout the State.

The members of the board showed no hesitation in partaking of the laboratory-cooked dishes, from which there was not an odor even suggestive of the antiquity of the eggs.

The frozen eggs in Jersey City are the property of Keith & Company, of Boston, and were packed in Topeka, Kansas. During the years that the government sought to condemn the eggs as unfit for food they were kept in a frozen condition at a temperature of from seven to nine degrees below zero.

H. J. Keith, head of the company, was present yesterday to superintend the egg test and also to argue before the board that the eggs should be released from storage and placed upon the market. The board will probably not announce its decision before next week.

The Governor himself was also invited to attend the conference.

At the last national conference forty-two States, thirty-nine universities and colleges and the Dominion of Canada were represented. It is anticipated that this year there will be an even larger attendance.

Among the speakers is Senator Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, chairman of the New Jersey Commission to Investigate Tax Assessments. Mr. Pierce's subject will be "The Machinery of Assessment as Proposed in New Jersey."

TEPPER'S

AT PROCTOR'S THEATRE.

Repleat with loudly accented mirth, funny jokes and "plantation rag time," the amusing production of "Scenes on the Levee," by "The Two Georgia Blossoms," staged as a headliner for the excellent week-end bill at Proctor's theatre this week, is a laugh producer sure to please and that promises to drive the hot-weather-grouch away. The sketch features Mattie Philips and "Boots" Allen, who are aided by a company of eleven darkies. The scenery is of a special nature and adds to the realism of the playet. The Pantzer Duo, comedy novelty gymnasts have a good collection of sensations and Lawrence & Tanner entertain in a comedy entitled, "In Fly Time." Gibson & Ranney, in a western playlet called "A Cowboy's Courtship;" Carman Ercell, violinist, and vaudlists and a series of photo plays complete the bill.

POOR JONES.

Ernest Jones, of North avenue, Dunellen, while driving west along West Front street, in that borough, last night, was run into by another horse and wagon as he drove past Washington avenue, having the front wheel of his buggy badly smashed. The man driving the other vehicle whipped up his steed and drove on despite Jones' repeated callings to come back and "settle up."

PATERSON BOMB WREAKS HAVOC

Breaks Gas Pipe and Nearly Starts Factory Fire.

STRIKE TO END MONDAY.

Many Additional Operatives Return to Old Positions—Dyers Vote on Proposition to Call Strike Off—Weavers May Prolong Struggle.

Paterson, N. J., July 23.—A bomb explosion, which by a chapter of accidents did far more damage than its size warranted, preceded the return to work of 100 more men at the Weidman mill, bringing the total for that factory pretty close to the full force. At the Geering and the National dyeing plants there are no more vacancies and night shifts are working. To all appearances the strike of the dyers is all over and only a few smaller shops are still idle and these only because of lack of work.

The weavers are voting on a proposition to call the strike off, but in the meantime the weaving mills are running fairly well, and unless something unexpected happens the strike should be entirely over by Monday. If the weavers vote not to go back it may prolong the struggle, but with the dyers working and the mills all in operation to some extent the outlook is for the formal ending of the strike.

The bomb was one of the small ones which have been used at intervals to create terror. It was set off alongside the Helvetia mill at Eleventh street and Fifth avenue. Fifty panes of glass set in four of the big windows were broken and a gas supply pipe severed by the explosion. Policeman McNamara hunted the gas leak with a lighted candle and found it when a burst of flame burned his face and neck.

ALLEGED FORGER CAUGHT.

Found With Young Girl — Bigamy Charge to Follow.

Red Bank, N. J., July 23.—Leroy Kneeringer, aged twenty-six, wanted here for forgery, robbery and bigamy, was arrested by County Detective Elwood Minugh at Fort Slocum. He had been missing since April 12, when, after forging checks on the Globe, Sheridan, Germania and Central hotels, Davidson's, Kridel's and other local stores, he ran away with Myrtle Parker, a sixteen-year-old Eatontown girl.

The Parker girl returned and told the police she and Kneeringer had been married in Buffalo. Kneeringer's arrest, the detective thinks, will clear up many local robberies that occurred shortly before his disappearance. Kneeringer enlisted in the regular army under the name of Fred Slater.

THIGH BONE IN MAN'S SPINE.

Surgeons Use Part of Femur to Replace Decayed Section.

Newark, N. J., July 23.—An operation similar to that successfully performed five weeks ago upon Vito Tasaquika, who is recovering in St. Barnabas' hospital, Newark, N. J., was performed at the Newark City hospital by Dr. Francis Haussling. Tasaquika had a slice of his shin bone cut out and grafted to the spine to replace a section decayed from a tubercular cause.

The last patient was Joseph Orlowski, twenty, of 49 Jones street. He has been at the institution two months. A section of the femur of the left leg was removed and placed in the spine at the place from whence the decayed part of the spine had been removed. It was announced that the operation was successful.

PIERCE OUT FOR NOMINATION

Senator Pierce was born in Trenton, June 22, 1857, and is a lawyer by profession. He was educated in the public schools in New Brunswick, later being graduated from Rutgers College and the Albany Law School. He served three terms in the Assembly, 1908-10.

He was elected to the Senate by a plurality of 1,358 over Robert McAdams, Democrat. Last year he served as chairman of the committees on Revision and Amendment of the Laws, Clergy, Riparian Rights, and Sanatorium for Tuberculous Dieases, and as a member of the committees o Stationery and Incidental Expenses, State Hospitals and State Library. His home is in Cranford and his law offices are at No. 200 Broadway, New York.

CONVICTS FIGHT SING SING BLAZE

Risk Lives to Save State Prison Buildings.

THOUGHT FIREBUG'S WORK

Escaped Prisoner Suspected of Starting Blaze—Becker and Four Gunmen Worried in Death Cells, but Are in No Danger.

Ossining, N. Y., July 23.—Only a brisk breeze from the south prevented the destruction by fire of all the buildings in which convicts are employed in Sing Sing and, in every human probability, the spreading of the fire, that razed several of the buildings, to the so called administration building, in which are the mess room, hospital and dormitory in which many prisoners are housed owing to the overcrowded condition of the prison. As it was two of the largest shops were destroyed with three minor buildings in the prison inclosure at a loss estimated by Warden Clancy at from $150,000 to $200,000.

No one knows how the blaze started. Fire was first noticed in the room of the mat shop where rope is braided. A convict saw a flicker of light along the floor. He gave the alarm and, with the others in the shop, was marched out and across the yard to the cell block.

Instantly work was stopped in the other shops, the men formed in twos and marched to their cells. Two hundred who are trained as a fire brigade were excepted. The rest were locked up, and the guards hastened to the yard. Warden Clancy, the guards and the trusties of the fire brigade hurried to the mat shop, the prison's fire pumps were started, and the guards and trusties manned the hose lines. The whole mat shop was in flames.

Convicts Direct Streams.

The convict fire fighters didn't wait for orders, but scaled the roofs of adjoining shops and directed streams from them. Some who were working from the roof and from windows of the lumber shop were driven out of it in a few minutes by its catching fire. Every vantage of the cart and wagon shop building was occupied by men with hose, but in spite of hard work the shop was ablaze in half an hour. The convicts and guards were driven to the ground again and worked from the foundry building, an old and inflammable shack, and the knitting factory.

The prison siren, used to signal escapes, was sounded. It is audible in a ten mile radius. It was blown in short, staccato notes instead of the usual terrific wail announcing an escape.

The Ossining fire department had been struggling to get its apparatus up the steep hill leading to the prison road. As flames burst from the roof of the cart and wagon shop, one of the prison's newest and best buildings, the village firemen arrived and joined the prison fire fighters. They were able to help keep the blaze from going further and to stop that line of it which had burned the north gate and the ice house.

The prison describes the men locked in their cells—1,200 of them—as "orderly" in spite of their racket, because they made no more noise than is usual after a prisoner's escape. They raised the same tremendous din a few nights ago when Kurt Schoenherr, a burglar, escaped from the prison. Schoenherr hasn't been found and has been thought to be hiding inside the prison wall. It was the theory of the prisoners that he had set the fire. The convicts with the loyalty in misery that is peculiar to Sing Sing are sure that Schoenherr failed to get outside the wall and, seeing that he was going to be starved into surrendering himself, set fire to the mat shop and perished in the flames rather than give up his struggle for freedom.

Two Overcome by Smoke.

However that may be, there was no break for liberty on the part of the 200 convicts fighting the fire, although such a break might easily have succeeded. These men took such risks that two of them were overcome by smoke and heat and had to be sent to the hospital. Warden Clancy said that he could not praise too much the work of his prison brigade. It was an hour and a half after the alarm that the fire was got under control.

Least noisy of all the prisoners were the men in the death cells—Becker, the four gunmen and others. They were badly worried when word of the fire reached them, but were reassured by their keeper in a few minutes. Unlike the other prisoners, they could not see the blaze. They were in no danger.

Senators After Burleson.

Washington, July 23.—Postmaster General Burleson was summoned to appear before the senate postoffice committee to explain by what authority he proposes to reduce parcel post rates. The summons is believed to be the start of a fight to prevent the extension of the parcel post system as proposed in plans recently announced.

WILL SENATOR KEAN SUPPORT PIERCE?

He Says Stokes is not a Suitable Candidate—Mum as to the Other Hopefuls.

Elizabeth, July 23.—Former United States Senator John Kean responded to the question of what he thought of Stokes' candidacy for Governor, with the statement, "Why, he isn't a suitable candidate." Aside from this he would say nothing.

It is believed among many that Senator Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, who has served several sessions in the Legislature, will receive the support of the former United States Senator.

It has been stated that former Congressman Fowler, who sought Senator Kean's seat four years ago, might be aided in his ambitions for Governor of the State. But this position is discredited by the former Senator's friends, and especial significance is given to the statement of Senator Pierce, in which he enters the Gubernatorial race.

BREAK GROUND FOR FINDERNE REFORMED CHURCH

Somerville, July 23.—Gunzelman & Cramer, of this place, have secured the contract for the erection of the new Finderne Reformed church, and ground has already been broken and mountain stone is being hauled from Grandview for immediate use. Richards & Gaston, of this place, have donated sand from their Lakewood pits sufficient for construction of the church. The Johns-Manville Company has given asphalt shingles with which to cover the entire building. The present structure will eventually be the chapel of a larger edifice, to be built and attached directly in front of this structure. Fifty feet has been reserved on the side street for a parsonage.

Considerable money is still needed to complete the work and since the church is an assured fact it is hoped that many others will want a share in it, and be glad to contribute toward its completion. James V. Smith, of Somerville, of the building committee, will be pleased to receive any such donations or subscriptions.

SURRENDERED BY BONDSMAN.

Surrendered by his bondsman, Joseph Mulliniana, of 134 Newark street, Newark, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Carey and is now a prisoner in the county jail at Elizabeth awaiting the action of the Grand Jury on a charge of robbery. At the time of Mulliniana's arrest he was attending a carnival in Plainfield. He was arrested on a charge of being a pickpocket. Venizaro Serino, of 905 Jackson avenue, Elizabeth, went his bail, but Monday withdrew surety.

The case was appealed from the District Court at Nashville, Tenn.

The Fashion of Tulle Hats.

The fashion of tulle hats will probably persist until the coming of frost, and perhaps it will last through the winter. At all events, it is a well-liked and convenient fashion for the hot weather.

All sorts of tulle hats are worn. There is the crownless hat of tulle that young girls wear in the afternoon in the house, much as they wear boudoir caps in the morning. This, obviously is a fashion which appeals to the few rather than to the many. There is the combination of straw and tulle in all its forms. There is the all tulle hat, and there is the hat of tulle and silk or satin.

The all tulle hat is a device for elaborate warm-weather dressing—a hat to be worn with the finest and daintiest afternoon frocks out-of-doors. The combination of tulle with silk or velvet results, likewise, in a somewhat elaborate hat. It is the hat wherein straw and tulle are combined that is the practical one, that every woman can make use of.

To Make a Tulle Hat.

Tulle, of course, is perishable. But in the hats in which it is used with straw it is applied in such a way that it can be removed when it becomes bedraggled without injury to the hat and at very little trouble.

If you wish to trim a tulle and straw hat, first select the straw shape and then decide how you will have the tulle put on. On a wide-brimmed hat the tulle can be fastened just around the edge of the brim in the form of a little knife plaited ruffle an inch and a half wide. Sew it firmly to the edge of the brim and cover the joining with a bias fold of taffeta, or messaline or with a piece of narrow velvet ribbon. Instead of the frill two or three bias folds, reaching for an inch over the edge of the brim, can be fastened on. With this edging a tulle crown, of two thicknesses, can be puffed over the straw crown. Such a crown should be made of a circle, or rather two circles, of tulle an inch bigger in diameter than the measurement of the crown from the brim on one side, straight across the crown, to the other side of the brim.

If you wish to cover the whole hat with tulle cut a wide bias strip twice the width of the brim and two inches more—for remember that these tulle brims must extend an inch beyond the straw. Then fold it lengthwise, and gather it along the raw edges, fastening it there to the crown at the brim. It should be full enough so that it lies flatly without fullness at the edge of the brim. After this puff on a tulle crown. Fasten the tulle brim with firm stitches in half a dozen places to the edge of the straw brim. An effective and easy way in which to trim such a hat is to band it with wide velvet ribbon, with a bow in the back, and then to use roses of any desired color for further decoration.

Always buy rain-proof tulle. Even this sort becomes bedraggled soon enough but it is more durable than the other kind.

For the Children

Dog Knows His Master's Favorite Music.

MASTER TOMMY WITH HIS PET COLLIE.

Most of you children have seen the advertisement of a certain talking machine which shows a clever little fox terrier dog listening to his master's voice as it comes through the transmitting horn.

Well, here's a splendid, fine collie puppy who not only recognizes his young owner's voice, but is perfectly familiar with the music played on the piano by his talented master.

There is a spirited march that makes the dog come from under the piano and walk about the room to the stirring strains, sidestepping and prancing about in wonderful dog fashion.

He never whines and yelps as so many of his kind do at the sound of music, but seems to appreciate it in a remarkably intelligent manner.

Master Tommy is something of an all round sport, and he and the dog have many an exciting wrestling match in which it is hard to find out which is the winner.

Consequences.

One of the most popular games at a party is consequences. It is an old favorite, but has lost none of its charms with age. The players sit in a circle.

Each person is provided with a half sheet of note paper and a pencil and is asked to write on the top (1) one or more adjectives, then to fold the paper over so that what has been written cannot be seen. Every player has to pass his or her paper on to the right hand neighbor, and all have then to write on the top of the paper that has been passed by the left hand neighbor (2) "the name of the gentleman."

After this the paper must again be folded and passed as before; this time must be written (3) one or more adjectives; then (4) a lady's name; next (5) where they met; next (6) what he gave her; next (7) what he said to her; next (8) what she said to him; next (9) the consequence and lastly (10) what the world said about it.

Be careful that every time anything has been written the paper is folded down and passed on to the player on your right.

When every one has written what the world says the papers are collected and one of the company proceeds to read out the various papers, and the result may be something like this:

(1) The horrifying and delightful (2) Mr. Brown (3) met the charming (4) Miss Phillips (5) in Westchester park; (6) he gave her a flower (7) and said to her, "How's your mother?" (8) She said to him, "Not for Joseph." (9) The consequence was they danced the hornpipe and the world said, (10) "Just what we expected."

A Little Bird Told Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Robin have just returned from their annual trip to Florida.

The newly married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Thrush, have been looking for furnished apartments in the Grove. It is to be hoped that they will soon be settled and give us all a "house warming" party.

Our friend Mr. Blue Jay has laid in a lot of horsehair and straw for building purposes. He will sell them to the highest bidder. Come early and avoid the rush.

Friends of the Wrens will find them at home hereafter in their new quarters at the junction of Old Fence and the Stone Wall.

Mr. Robin is organizing a police force to drive out the unruly sparrows who have taken up their summer abode in the Park Trees. Good for Mr. Robin!

The Kind Word.

Some of the older boys and girls doubtless studied cancellation in school last winter. But there is another kind of cancellation that can be used by boys and girls of all ages, says Apples of Gold. For example, two boys were speaking of another boy. "He is slow in games," said one.

"Yes," replied the other, "but he always plays fair."

"He is so stupid in school," said the first boy.

"But he always studies hard," answered the second.

Thus, you see, every unkind word spoken by the first boy was canceled by a kind word from the second.

To test the freshness of string beans break a pod and see if it is brittle. The strings should be delicate and the beans small.

They should be boiled in merely enough water to cover them. Young beans may be cooked an hour, old beans two to three hours.

Salad of String Beans. — Marinate two cupfuls of cold string beans with French dressing. Add one teaspoonful of finely cut chives. Pile in center of salad dish and arrange around the base thin slices of radishes overlapping one another. Garnish the top with radish.

Fricasseed Beans.—String and break the beans into inch lengths and boil until they are tender in plenty of salted water. Drain in a colander and dredge slightly and evenly with sifted flour. Put a tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan and when hot drop in the beans. Turn often so that all will be heated and mixed with the butter.

Novel Combinations.

String Beans and Sausages. — Take one pint of cooked green beans and chop them fine. Season with half a teaspoonful each of salt and pepper and place a layer in the bottom of a deep casserole dish. Pour in one cupful of milk. Prick the casings of one pound of sausages and lower them in a frying basket into a kettle of boiling water. In a minute remove and lay over the beans. Pour a cupful of thick white sauce over them and the remainder of the beans, with a layer of cracker crumbs on top. Let bake for about fifteen minutes.

String Beans and Onions.—Boil the beans and when done drain and set aside. Cut a few onions into dice shaped pieces and place them in a saucepan with a little butter. Cook to a golden brown and add a little flour. Stir well and moisten with white broth, continuing to stir till it boils. Season with salt and pepper. Add the cooked beans with a clove of crushed garlic. Cook for ten minutes, place on a hot dish, sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve.

Daddy With the Iceman.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— Bill's Partner Was a Little Dog.

THE day had been warm, unusually warm, and in the evening light daddy sat with a large palm leaf fan in one hand and a glass of lemonade in the other, and in the lemonade was a large lump of ice that tinkled delightfully against the glass whenever daddy moved that hand.

"Had a good time today?" he asked as Jack and Evelyn came in.

The children answered that they had, and daddy settled down to talk to them.

"This lump of ice in my glass recalls the good times I used to have on hot days when I was a boy. One of my special friends was Bill, the iceman. Bill was a very fine fellow, and he liked me. There were some other boys that Bill did not care so much about. I believe they stole his ice when he went into houses.

"Bill did not mind a fellow taking a small lump of ice, and there were always plenty of pieces to be had when he broke and weighed a lump, but he did like the boys to ask for it.

"Sometimes Bill gave me rides on his wagon. One day when I was out with him, enjoying myself immensely with a lump of ice in my mouth and the reins of Bill's pair of fat, sleek horses in my hands, Bill told me a secret.

"'I'm kettin' tired o' folks stealin' big lumps,' Bill said. 'I'm goin' to take a pardner.'

"'Um, are you,' I replied. The sadness of Bill's voice made me think that I was expected to be sorry for him.

"'An' he bites hard.' Then it dawned on me that perhaps the reason of Bill's low spirits was owing to the bad temper of his partner, for a partner who bit must be cross.

"The next morning when Bill's ice wagon stopped at our gate I was there to meet him.

"Bill's partner sat on the front seat. He greeted me with a bow-wow-wow. That was his way of saying 'how do you do?' Bill's partner was a dog, you see.

"When I told Bill about my mistake, he asked, 'Why, didn't I say I was gettin' a dog?'

"'No, Bill, you didn't,' I replied. And Bill went off into gales of laughter over my mistake.

"Bill's partner got to be a terror to the bad boys. No one except Bill dared touch the wagon when Mike, as the dog was called, sat on the front seat. But Mike and I soon got to be good friends."

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns

The finest pattern articles in the world printed exclusively in Plainfield in The Plainfield Daily Press. Ladies' Home Journal Patterns are on sale at A. E. Force & Co., "The White Store."

Initials For Embroidering Your Household Linens.

14068—It has become customary to embroider all household linens with an initial or monogram. A bride marks her trousseau with her own initials and gifts to a bride should be marked with the initials of her maiden name. A married woman embroiders her household linens with her first name, the intial of her maiden sur-name and the initial of her husband's sur-name when using a three letter monogram. If only one initial is used it should always be the initial of the sur-name.

Pattern 14068 includes any one initial in script style in five sizes. There are twelve transfers of the ½-inch size, to be used on handkerchiefs, underwear and small novelties, twelve of the 1-inch size for marking doilies, guest towels and small cases; six of the 2-inch size for use on small napkins, carving cloths and towels; six of the 3-inch size for marking pillow-cases, large towels, tea-cloths, luncheon-cloths, dinner napkins and bureau-scarfs, six of the 4-inch size for use on sheets, tablecloths, lingerie pillows, laundry bags, blankets and other large linens. Any two or three letter monogram can be formed by placing these letters so that they slightly overlap. For a two letter monogram order the two letters and for a three letter monogram order the three letters you wish to use.

Hot iron transfer patterns for stamping these intials can be supplied to readers at ten cents each. Address Pattern Department, 615 West 43d Street, New York.

Fashion Decrees Artistic Modes For the Boudoir.

No longer is one style to prevail in the boudoir, for the range of fashion inspiration has decreed such an array of beautiful gowns and lounging robes, that one fairly marvels at their production. The beauty of the new materials has also had its effect upon the negligee and all along the line, from the humble bathrobe to the most elaborate robe in time, or tea-gown, the negligee has taken on a new charm. Formerly the kimono sufficed the woman's needs, but today the evolution of fashion has taken on a new aspect and the modes are as up-to-date as the evening or day costumes. In harmony with the fixings, are the modes worn in a bed-room, the soft tones of yellow, pink, blue and green predominating. Soft and filmy fabrics are employed together with an abundance of rich laces and ribbons.

There are a number of attractive patterns and designs in crepes that bid for recognition in the negligee field and one very stunning model is depicted in the figure No. 7057. This is in the form of a ladies' or misses' Empire kimono, with set-in elbow sleeves and edged with lace frilling. A stiff bow with ends at the high waistline gives a smart effect to the negligee, and this is one of the new features of the season. For this gown, challis, flowered crepe or silk is suggested. This pattern is cut in 4 sizes, 32 to 44. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards 36-inch material. The belt is not included in the pattern, but it can be made of three yards of ribbon or 1½ yards silk cut on the bias. 15 cents.

Pretty boudoir petticoats of laces and ribbons are worn with a dressing sacque of equal beauty of design. Especially desirable for combing the hair, the short negligees are extensively taken. A smart style is suggested in figure No. 7346, showing the long shoulder line with set-in kimono sleeves, to elbow length. The closing of this model is accomplished diagonally in front. It has a Robespierre collar which may be made of contrasting material. The belt at the natural waistline holds the fulness of the sides and back in place. This pattern is cut in 7 sizes, 32 to 44. Size 36 requires 2¼ yards 36-inch material. ⅝ of a yard contrasting fabric will trim the gown. 15 cents.

Gay Handkerchiefs.

Colored handkerchiefs are being widely sold to use with the tinted gowns of lawn and linen for summer. One of white ground, with a narrow hem, has four or five scattered violets in the corner embroidered in mauve. Another has a thin line of green or pink running through it, giving a three row effect, and in each corner there are white dots embroidered on each line. This has a narrow green or pink hem. Others have more color in the groundwork and less white. This kind, though popular with many, is unquestionably not as dainty as that in which the color is merely indicated.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

So many misstatements about Colorado have been made by the antis and absolutely discredited by prominent and reputable citizens of that State, that recent assertions of Mrs. Sykes and others concerning "uncensored moving picture shows" and "prize fights attended by women in Colorado" seem hardly probable. However, as chairman of the press committee of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield, I am sending inquiries to the proper authorities, answers to which will be published later.

But, were the conditions mentioned true about Colorado, it would furnish no argument against woman suffrage. In a democracy such as this country claims to be, each human adult, not a criminal nor an idiot, has a right to freedom which includes the use of the ballot. Without the ballot one half of this nation (in non-suffrage States) is in bondage to the other half, and such an intolerable condition must yield to common sense and enlightenment which it is rapidly doing. We claim that suffrage is both a right and a duty, and from neither standpoint does it greatly matter whether the number of women asking for it is large or small.

Dr. Stephen S. Wise says: "The question is not whether women want the suffrage or not. There comes a time when men are not asked whether they wish to serve in the army. They must serve, whether they will or not. The time has come for a draft upon the women of the nation to serve the nation and themselves—to serve the nation in every way in which citizenship can magnify and enrich the life of womanhood, as democracy has greatened the lift of men."

Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale, says: "The fact that many or most women do not want the suffrage is a very weak argument against it. The slaves did not wish to be freed, but that was not a good argument in favor of slavery. The Mormon women do not wish to be relieved from polygamy, but that is scarcely a good argument in favor of polygamy. The Chinese women, I am told, do not wish to change the custom of foot-binding, but that is scarcely an argument in favor of the custom.

Able men for years have been pointing out the weakness of this argument. George William Curtis said: "The assertion that when a majority of women ask for equal political rights they will be granted is a confession that there is no conclusive reason against there sharing them. And, if that be so, how can their admission rightfully depend upon the majority? Why should a hundred girls who are content to be dolls and do what Mrs. Grundy expects, prejudice the choice of a single one who wishes to be a woman and do what her conscience requires?"

The argument was well summed up by the Rev. Dr. James Freeman Clarke in words which have become classic. "I leave it to others to speak of suffrage as a right or a privilege," he said. "I speak of it as a duty. What right have you women to leave all this work of caring for the country with men? Is it not your country as well as theirs? Are not your children to live in it after you are gone? And are you not bound to contribute whatever faculty God has given you to make it and keep it a pure, safe and happy land?"

Moreover, equal suffrage has proven to be "the greatest good to the greatest number" wherever it has been tried, else it would have been repealed long ago. In Colorado there are 60,000 more men than women, and even if all the Colorado women favored suffrage, which the antis tell us is not so, the men, under the referendum, could take it from them. There are 268,407 more men than women in California according to the last U. S. census, and California also has the referendum, but only the Southern Pacific, which has now lost its balance of power, the bosses, the vice interests and the eastern "antis," are dissatisfied with the results of woman suffrage, shown so clearly in the California legislative session that has just adjourned. This legislature is said to have made a finer record in the way of advanced laws desired by women, than the legislatures of the past twenty-five years put together.

Assuredly equal suffrage is here to stay, and it will soon be the law of this entire land and of every other land. Says Graham Taylor, the well-known philanthropist:

"To face this fact is the sane and patriotic part which every man and woman, friend or foe, should take in the present situation. Foes of woman suffrage have nothing left to fight. Their fight is over. They are beaten and have lost beyond recovery. The women among them may refuse to vote. The men among them may discourage, forbid and even coerce women to keep them from voting. But this is a losing game and cannot last. It can accomplish nothing, except to deplete the number of those who are or may be intelligent voters, or to paralyze the power of those whose strength is needed in the body politic."

Attention is called to a remarkably well writen and illuminating article concerning the militant situation in England, by the Rev. Andrew Gillies, D. D., pastor of the Hennepin avenue Methodist church, Minneapolis. This can be found in the Christian Advocate of July 17, and is entitled, "In the Land of the Suffragette."

Sporting Editor:

Query—Who is the manager of the Somerville baseball team and how can I communicate with him? E. R. T.

Answer—Jack Torpey is the manager. Address him at Somerville, N. J., where he has a store.

Sporting Editor:

Query—With the score tied and a man on first base, batter hits the ball over the fence. You say he gets credit for a triple. Does he have to run to third base to get credit for the hit? Fan.

Answer—The game ends when the man on first base scores. Of course the batter has to go as far as first base. The scorers give him a triple, whether or not he goes to third base because the man who scored touched three bags in doing so. It is not a case of an umpire's ruling, it is up to the official scorer.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will you please state on what days the dancing floor is open for use at Boynton Beach? What is the charge and what dances are allowed? Jane.

Answer—The floor is opened Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons and every evening during the week. The charge is twenty-five cents for couples but when a girl goes alone she is assessed a quarter the same as a man. Any kind of dancing is allowed as long as it is not carried to extremes

Sporting Editor:

Answer—Pick out your summer resort, go there and save somebody's life. You can apply personally at any of the beaches.

BASEBALL NOTES

Walter Johnson, the Washington star, has placed nine shutouts to his credit so far this season.

Canned music by the Musolaphone, while the pastimers are performing, is the latest wrinkle at the White Sox park in Chicago.

Manager George Stallings thinks Umpire Rigler is giving the Braves the worst of it in his decisions on balls and strikes.

Chapelle, of the Milwaukee team, recently purchased by the White Sox, is batting over the .350 mark in the American Association.

Sylvester, of the Appleton team, who led the Wisconsin-Illinois league in batting last season, is leading the league again this year.

The Detroit Tigers will play an exhibition game at Hamilton, Ont., next month, during the Hamilton centennial anniversary celebration.

The New York Yankees probably are wearing those black sweaters on the field because of their showing in the American League this season.

Leading the International League seems to have been too exciting for the Newark team. Several members of the team are said to have been trying to inhale all the joy water on the circuit, with the result that they are in bad with Manager Smith.

Pitcher William Phillips, Jr., the 20 years old son of Manager "Whoa Bill" Phillips, is working out with his father's Indianapolis team in the Federal League.

Winning ten out of fourteen games with a cellar team behind him is the record of Pitcher Yount, of the New Bedford team in the New England League.

Lee McGee, of the St. Louis Cardinals, is a pretty nifty ball player to have at hand in an emergency. He can perform in either the outfield or the infield and get away with it.

The Quincy team has been doing classy work in the Three-I League lately. The team was in eighth place on June 27, when they started a spectacular climb that landed them in first place on July 9.

MOTORCYCLISTS AT DENVER.

Denver, Col., July 23.—The old days when thousands of cyclists from all parts of the country were wont to gather each year for the national assembly of the League of American Wheelmen have been recalled by the present influx of motorcyclists for the annual convention and race meeting of the Federation of American Motorcyclists. The gathering was formally opened today with hundreds of devotees of the "chug-chug" machines in attendance. Many other delegates to the gathering are making the trip to Denver on their machines and are expected to reach here before the racing program is inauguurated Sunday. The races promise to be the most notable of their kind ever pulled off in America. The program provides for amateur championship events at all distances, from one to fifty miles.

ROYALS WILL QUIT CITY BALL LEAGUE

Manager Simmons Looking for a Substitute to Take His Team's Place.

Manager Pete Simmons, of the Royal Giants baseball team, at present a contender for the City Baseball League title, announces that he is trying to find a substitute to take his aggregation's place in the local baseball organization. Simmons says that his team will play independent ball from now on and he is planning some big games for his dusky combination that humiliated Scotch Plains last Sunday afternoon. He is anxious to get a crack at Manager Ernest Dorflinger's Pets and it is likely that a series of contests will be booked between these local aggregations and such a feature will probably evoke a large amount of interest from local fandom.

Simmons says that he cannot see where he is going to reap any benefit from the City League race and in the event of the Central League going to the wall, a fact that has plainly evidenced itself of late, he would like to arrange diamond contests with Plainfield, Bound Brook, Dunellen and Somerville. He says that he will end his season right now if he is unable to schedule these contests.

WITH THE BOXERS

Joe Rivers still thinks he can defeat Willie Ritchie and is after the champion for a return bout.

Waterbury and Hartford, Conn., have met with considerable success.

Bill Beynon, the new bantam champion of England, hopes to arrange bouts with some of our little fellows when he comes over next month.

Charley Ledoux, the French bantam, is satisfied that he must learn more about boxing in order to hold his end up against the American fighters. He made a poor showing in his recent bouts with "Kid" Williams and Eddie Campi.

"MAC" SAYS

It looks as though that City Baseball League was going to get a monopoly on local ball players before many more moons have rolled by. Several of the Central League stars have already cast their lot with the junior leaguers who are putting up some good exhibitions of the National pastime.

Baseball fanatics in Brunswick claim that city is getting thousands of dollars in country-wide advertising as a result of the Sunday ball games with big league teams. Why have an advertising or slogan contest when you have a baseball nine?

Billy Coyle says he is through with Dunellen and Bob Bogardus says he is through with Coyle. Wonder who we can believe?

Manager Pete Simmons announces that the Royal Giants are about to withdraw from the City League and Manager Ernest Dorflinger is anxious to have the Central League wrangle straightened out and play some independent baseball. Wonder if there is any significance in the dope running through the minds of two great men?

Maybe the Royals and the Pets are thinking of entering into a conspiracy to decide the city baseball championship.

Simmons will probably explode his bomb at tonight's meeting of the City Baseball League.

There was little doing at last night's meeting of the Central Baseball League. The managers are evidently handling matters with gloved fingers.

High Bridge is still a contender for the title. The schoolboys will try Dunellen at the latter place next Saturday afternoon.

It is rumored that the Worf twins will not be with the Dunellen clan next Saturday afternoon. Well maybe they won't, but Lou Dixon is back in the fold, so Bogardus says he should worry.

Manager Pete Simmons, of the Royals, says that if he is unsuccessful in arranging a series of games with Plainfield, Dunellen, Bound Brook and Somerville he will retire for the rest of the season. Looks like a period of rest for the ebony manager, however, for Bound Brook does not boast of a ball nine this season.

"Doc" Scanlon, who twirled against Plainfield at Elizabeth two weeks ago, is wanted by the Athletics. He is an outlaw just at present, however, having jumped his contract with the Brooklyns, so it looks as though he would adorn New Jersey hillocks for a while longer at least.

First signs of the gridiron season—Manager Doc Doyle and his crew of huskies "training" at Lake Hopatcong. Yes, they all got home in time for breakfast every morning.

Don't forget that City League meeting tonight. If you have a baseball team, bring it around as Simmons wants a filler before he turns loose his resignation.

GOT FEWER BINGLES BUT WON THE GAME

Junior Pitchers Get Twenty-five Strikeouts Between Them in League Game.

Another exhibition of good pitching featured yesterday's Junior League contest at Parker Field when the Laurel A. C. trimmed the Arrow A. C. by a score of 7 to 1. Although the Laurels counted five more times than did their rivals they got one less hit and made one more error. Mullin, who twirled for the losing aggregation, allowed but four bingles while Venable's delivery was touched up to the extent of five dents.

Both nines put up an excellent fielding game and the runs that were made had to be brought in on clean hitting, the few bingles coming at opportune moments. The rival moundsmen each hung up a record for junior strikeout marks, Mullin whiffing eleven of the opposition and Venable fourteen. Each pitcher allowed a trio of free passes.

FIRST PLACE TIE IN JUNIOR LEAGUE

Laurel A. C. Defeats Arrow A. C. and Mounts to the Top Rung With Jacksons.

PARKER FIELD JR. LEAGUE.

Yesterday's Results:

Laurel A. C. 7, Arrow A. C. 2.

Standing of the Clubs:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Jackson Bible Class	1	0	1,000
Laurel A. C.	1	0	1,000
Princeton A. C.	0	0	000
Arrow A. C.	0	2	.000

Playing the Arrow A. C. in connection with the Parker Field Junior Baseball League, yesterday afternoon, the Laurels climbed into a tie with the Jackson Bible Class nine by trouncing the Aroows to the tune of 7 to 1. The contest, while one sided, savored of some good baseball and the league now appears to be established on a firm running basis.

The Arrows have lost a pair of contests to date but will probably be heard from in games to come as the aggregation is made up of some genuine ball players who are bound to win once in a while. The Princeton combination has yet to play its first game and until that time nothing can be said of its real strength.

"Rus" Ford Says the Spitter Has Injured His Salary Wing

Russell Ford has practically given up his spitball. It is but occasionally that he uses it now. He has returned to his curve.

At the beginning of the season, and, in fact, until just recently, Ford could not work the kinks out of his arm. He noticed it more particularly just after throwing a spitball. He came to the conclusion that this style of delivery was too much of a pull on his wrist and shoulder, and he has virtually decided to give it up altogether.

Before Ford adopted the spitball he had a very fine curve. He practiced continually for more than a year before the "spitty" was added to his repertoire. After mastering the moist fling Russell seldom employed his curve. He mixed the amphibious toss with a good change of pace, and as long as the "spitter" worked well he had little or no use for the curve.

It was while he was pitching and Sweeney was catching for the Atlanta (Ga.) club that he so perfected the spitball that he could make it break in two ways—in and down and out and down.

Until this Spring he never experienced any trouble with his arm. He cannot remember ever having had even a cold in it, but from the time that the Yankees assembled in Bermuda for their Spring conditioning until he encountered almost a week of continuous warm weather here in the North he had not been able to do anything with the ball.

Not so long ago he was trying to warm up in the outfield while a game was in progress at the Polo Grounds. His arm was feeling great. He shot his fast one over a couple of times, and it was a real fast one. He tried his curve and the break was pleasing. It was both sharp and fairly big. Then he tried the "spitter," and he felt a sharp twinge of pain in his wrist and shoulder. He was through warming up for the afternoon. Thereafter every time he threw the ball it hurt.

He decided that it was the "spitter" that did it, and he also decided that he would not use it any oftener than he actually had to from that time. Of course, he occasionally throws it, but he does not try to put as much on it as he was wont to do previously. He is gradually getting his curve back, the same fast-breaking curve that he possessed before he joined the Yanks.

PUBLIC SERVICE MAY ENTER CITY LEAGUE

Chance for Last Year's Manufacturers' Leaguers to Play League Ball.

Agitation has been rife among the Public Service athletes for some time past for an opportunity to enter the City Baseball League and with Manager Pete Simmons' announcement this morning to the effect that the Royals will withdraw from the organization at once, comes the chance for the Public Service nine to get into league baseball. The representatives from that aggregation will probably attend a league meeting to be held in the West End A. C. club rooms tonight and a substitution of this nature will likely be made at that time.

Last season the Public Service combination was one of the strongest contenders for the Manufacturers' League cup but organized too late to get into the City League this season. Ever since the first contests were played in that organization, however, the Public Service athletes have been looking forward to an opening and will without doubt welcome this chance to step into the shoes vacated by the Royals.

STRIKE MEDIATORS.

Top to bottom—G. W. W. Hanger, M. A. Knapp and W. L. Chambers.

© 1913, by American Press Association.

A peaceful settlement of the questions at issue between the eastern railroads and their employees was assured at 6 o'clock last evening when President Underwood of the Erie telegraphed Vice President J. C. Stuart, from Wauwatosa, Wis., that the Erie would accept any award made by the board of arbitration, but in the event an advance of wages is granted would ask the men to defer accepting such increase until Jan. 1, 1915. Ever since the board of mediation began its attempt to bring about arbitration the Erie has proved a stumbling block for the reason that the road had withdrawn from the railroad pool and refused either to advance wages or be held by any award the arbitrators might make.

U. S. INTERVENTION IN MEXICO IS PROBABLE

Senator Fall Demands Protection of Americans.

Washington, July 23.—United States intervention in Mexico was discussed in both branches of congress, and as a result thereof it is thought that the president may receive authorization to take drastic steps in quelling the disorders in the warring republic.

In the senate the resolution offered by Senator Fall, quoting the protection plank of the Baltimore platform, came up automatically for action. It declares that the constitutional rights of an American citizen follow him to the border of his country and that his life and property must be protected in any foreign country.

The effect of the debate on this resolution was an unofficial agreement that a plain, unequivocal declaration that the lives and property of Americans in foreign countries must be respected should be made by this government.

In the house Representative Murray of Oklahoma introduced a resolution calling on the president to use the land and naval forces of the United States to correct existing conditions in Mexico.

The nearness of a crisis in the relations between the United States and Mexico was frankly admitted in the senate. The prospect did not cause dismay. On the contrary, there was a disposition to serve official notice on all factions in Mexico that American citizens and their property must not be molested.

Prefer Automobiling to Church.

Manhattan, Kan., July 23.—Automobiles have put 1,000 churches in Kansas out of commission for the summer, according to reports submitted at the state conference of pastors and teachers. The reports say that the touring cars and runabouts have weaned the interest of their owners from church work.

—Renting a flat, or house, or other property, is strictly "a classified advertising matter." Any other way of finding tenants is impracticable, costly and—sometimes—impossible.

Are You Utilizing 100% of Your Advertising Possibilities?

Advertisers may fail in accomplishing the full measure of their possible earnings and handicap their growth by contenting themelves with less than their full selling capacity; others, by means of intelligent advertising, approximate the possible 100 per cent. volume of sales with no increase of "over-head" expense.

But how about the merchant who is advertising, but who is not realizing 100 per cent. of his possibilities?

In advertising, as in merchandising, the point must be reached where expense of operation is overcome and profits begin.

In advertising, as in retailing or manufacturing, it's the last certain per cent. of effort that counts.

Some very clever advertisers in Plainfield are spending large sums of money in advertising without securing 100 per cent. in results, and a few are hitting the "bull's eye." Waste is responsible for most advertising failures.

But what about the under-advertised business—the store that is on the right track, but limits its advertising to the development of 50, 60, or 80 per cent. of the sales of which it is capable.

This type of business most frequently is the specialty store that has sufficient capital and sufficient credit to do a much larger business, but is not willing to venture the needed ten, twenty-five or fifty per cent. added advertising effort to achieve the full results.

The store, for instance, that is doing a business of $40,000 or $50,000 annually, but with facilities for doing an additional $50,000 without added fixed expense, could well afford to spend $5,000 in advertising to get that $50,000 extra business. And the Daily Press would give it to him.

The Daily Press' circulation embraces the class and the best of the mass in Plainfield, and will yield rich returns to any advertiser who appeals to it intelligently.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof." The proof that the Daily Press readers respond to advertising is the year-in and year-out use of its space by discerning advertisers.

It is quite true that even an under-advertised business may pay a pleasing profit; but why not more profit, at no extra fixed expense, for the moderate outlay of a Daily Press advertising appropriation?

Think of the "pure v-e-l-v-e-t" business, entailing no extra investment except advertising, on which the net profits would possibly equal the net profits of the entire business now done on the under-advertised plan.

PRISONERS RESPECT THE TRUST REPOSED

Rahway, July 22.—That there is a keen sense of honor even among prisoners was again manifested a few days ago at the New Jersey Reformatory, which the Rev. Frank Moore, superintendent, takes the pleasure in designating "New Jersey's University of Another Chance." A telegram was received at the institution notifying a certain inmate that his mother had died and that her funeral would be held upon a certain day and hour. The bereaved inmate was summoned to the office of Superintendent Moore, where he was given the message and told "I am going to let you go to her funeral" by Mr. Moore. "A keeper will not accompany you. You'll make the trip alone. I know I can trust you. You must report back here at 8 o'clock next Wednesday morning."

With a sentence of a serious crime hanging over his head the prisoner walked out of the institution practically a free man for the time being and went directly to the late home of his mother. Varied opinions existed among the different inmates who knew of his departure whether he would return voluntarily to the institution at the expiration of the time set.

Early on the Wednesday morning set for his appearance, with considerable time to spare, he walked up to the gate of the institution and was admitted once more to the role of prisoner. He returned with an air that he appreciated the trust that had been imposed in him he assumed his menial duties as before. In other words he had come back because somebody had trusted him.

Fully three-score men and boys have been permitted to leave the institution in this way since the new plan was adopted by Dr. Moore of putting the inmates on their honor as often as possible and they have gone to many and distant parts of the State. Only two of that number have failed to reappear and these were later brought back by officers. Several have been a trifle late in returning, but the fault was with the trains and not with the individuals.

On these trips the heavy-hearted convict going alone to pay his last tribute of love and respect to the departed whose death perhaps might have been hastened by the knowledge of his wrongdoing, pays his own railroad fare. If he hasn't any money, Dr. Moore lends it to him and thus far all loans have been made good. It is a point of honor with the inmates that whoever "touches" the doctor must never fail to make good.

THIRTY-ONE WENT FROM PLAINFIELD

President Jeffery, of the Local Board of Trade, Headed Delegation.

DINNER AT PLUCKEMIN

Annual Banquet of Somerville Merchants' Association Attended by Merchants From Bound Brook and This City.

Thirty-one members of the Plainfield Board of Trade, mustered together in three days' notice by William Jeffery, the live-wire president of this city's big civic organization, went by automobile to the Kenilworth Inn, at Pluckemin, last night, where they were the guests of the Somerville Merchants' Association at the latter organization's annual dinner. Seven automobile loads of local business men made the trip and the local delegation was the real leader in everything that was started at the banquet from the time it arrived until the speech-making closed with an address made by A. M. Beekman, assemblyman of Somerset county.

Over 250 invited guests attended the affair including merchants from Somerville, Plainfield and Bound Brook and the dinner followed an afternoon devoted to baseball, pool, dancing and athletic events in which the merchants took an active part. During the course of an excellently served banquet entertainment was furnished by the Raritan band and Brown's trio of cabaret performers from New York city. The gathering was marked by strong democratic feeling and the sentiment of this party was expressed to the amusement of all by the famous "Tune" Mellick, better known as the "mayor of Pluckemin." Mellick started enthusiastic demonstrations following particularly appropriate phrases spoken by the various speakers and the diners joined in heartily with his witty outbursts.

One of the most prominent features of the evening's program and one that called forth considerable favorable comment from the guests was the rendition of the Plainfield Board of Trade's song, written by Mr. Jeffery. Although some of the speakers were men who are striving for political offices and it was expected that several would take this opportunity to express their political views, there was a noticeable lack of politics at the banquet and the after-dinner speakers all spoke on current topics of interest to the business man of the twentieth century.

Following the banquet President F. G. Thomas, of the Somerville association, made a short speech of welcome and former Prosecutor J. F. Reger presided as toast-master. He introduced the following speakers: Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., ex-mayor of Trenton; William J. Jeffery, president of the local Board of Trade; Hon. George M. LaMonte, State Commissioner of Banking; William V. Steele, mayor of Somerville; Charles Byer, Jr., president of the Bound Brook Merchants' Association; and A. M. Beekman, assemblyman from Somerset county.

Frank S. Katzenbach delivered the principal address and said in part: "Present day business undertakings require methods that were unknown and unthought of ten years ago. The principal requisite is efficiency and this must be attained by any merchant who is striving for success. The business man of the present century will not tolerate inefficiency and the accounts of his employes and system must balance or he will introduce new working material. The people of this age demand results and they must be satisfied by the business men who are the ones looked to for the production of the same. The efficiency demanded today is greater than that called for ten or twenty years ago and the citizens expect efficiency from corporations handling public business and from the political leaders who handle the business of the people."

"To promote efficiency there are two things necessary, first, prevention of leaks, second, economy in the administration of business affairs. The idea of up-to-date progress is to prevent things that have happened in years gone by and prevention is looked upon as the modern method. In building the Panama Canal, the United State had to introduce a method of preventing the spread of yellow fever and nothing could be accomplished along engineering lines until this great danger was overcome. Apply the theory of prevention to business and you will reap success. It is better to properly supervise public highways and repair the roads when breaks first make their appearance than to let them go to ruin and necessitate an expenditure of thousands of dollars to rebuild them. I believe that the world is arriving at absolute efficiency through prevention. In these days we are given to extravagance and the chief problem before us is,—how to economize?"

PRICES OF MEATS WILL REMAIN HIGH

Some Reasons Assigned for the Raise—Local Dealers' Supplies Are Cut in Half.

That the high cost of meats has come to stay for sometime is shown by the fact that the local beef houses are receiving but fifty per cent of their regular supply of beef, the present wholesale price of which is from two to three cents higher than any previous prices owing to the jump taken a few weeks ago.

The scarcity of beef is attributed to several reasons, the foremost of which is the lack of breeding on the part of the small farmers among whom the large cattle ranches of the west and southwest have been divided. It has also been pointed out that a tendency on the part of the producers to let their shipments of live stock slacken to a great degree during the harvest season, although this would influence the price of pork and lamb to a greater extent than beef. For that reason, it is expected that the increase in the cost of the last two commodities will drop somewhat after the harvest season is over. The veal situation is purely a local scarcity and it is expected the prices will adjust themselves in the early fall, as will the prices of pork and lamb. It is stated, however, by local butchers that the present high price of beef will continue for the next five years, or, until such times as the breeding problem is settled.

The values of corn and other grains are playing a very great part in the high prices of meat during the present summer. Farmers are backward in feeding corn to their stock for fattening purposes while it is bringing such large prices on the market.

In the case of John Manley vs. William Muser for possession of a house, a decision was rendered in favor of the defendant.

Two cases will be heard this afternoon: Edgar R. Woodruff vs. Charles O. Miles to recover $500 on a contract, and Thomas W. Meich vs. the Syracuse Portrait Co. to recover an attachment of $70.96.

ROSELLE PARK ISSUES A DOG-SLAYING EDICT

Roselle Park, July 24.—Five residents of the borough having been bitten by a dog, said to be suffering from rabies, Mayor Harwood Fish has issued a proclamation calling upon residents to muzzle all dogs for thirty days. The police have also been instructed to kill all stray dogs.

The report of the State Board of Health on the examination of the dog's head caused considerable anxiety in the Aldene section, where the victims live. The victims have all had medical attention, but efforts are being made to have the Pasteur treatment given to the five victims.

Those who were bitten are Mrs. MacCary, of Westfield avenue; her son, George MacCary; Alfred Pace, son of School Commissioner and Mrs. T. P. Pace, of Locust street; Dominick Gerdona, aged 11 years, of Westfield avenue, and the little daughter of John Destafano, of Westfield avenue.

PROBE STRANGE DEATH OF WOMAN

Detectives Make Headway in Solving Mystery of Tragedy in Newark.

ANOTHER WOMAN HELD

Police Do Not Think Mrs. Vreeland Killed Mrs. Corduan, but Suspect That She Had Information of the Crime.

Newark, N. J., July 24.—Mrs. Cora Vreeland, who the police believe knew very early that Mrs. Emma Corduan was dead, has been located and is under police guard. It is not thought she had any part in the affair itself, but that she knew of it and after keeping silent for twelve hours quietly sprung the alarm.

She will be confronted by Special Officer Louis Williams, who was called from a moving picture place by a woman and told that Mrs. Corduan lay dead close by. Williams understood the woman who told him was Mrs. Vreeland.

Acting County Physician Minningham performed an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Corduan and found death was due to a wound which started in the roof of the mouth and took an upward course into the brain. It was small and round and the physician says it might have been caused by an instrument like a rattail kite. Corduan is a file maker.

Dr. Tomasso, who was called to the house, 162 Walnut street, says he saw the woman sitting in the room with a black eye. The corpse also has one. The neighbors say this was the result of a fight some days ago between Mr. and Mrs. Corduan. Finding there was no fee in the case Dr. Tomasso turned it over to the district physician without investigating the cause of the blood stains he saw. It is now believed the woman bled slowly for hours before the end came.

The police are searching for Mrs. Corduan's husband, William, who, they say, was also in or about the Corduan apartment after his wife was dead.

Neighbors say there was a violent quarrel in the Corduan apartment Tuesday night.

SOMERVILLE HOSPITAL IS IN NEED OF $2,000

Somerville, July 24.—The finance committee of Somerset Hospital has issued an appeal to the public to raise $2,000 for immediate use to meet some extra expense, as follows: To pay for a bathroom in the men's ward, recently completed; a new sewer connection; laundering machinery and appliances, which are a present necessity, and a deficiency in the running expenses of about $250. The hospital authorities have a valuable property, and an endowment fund of $7,000, and no debt other than that above mentioned. The beautiful new memorial nurses' home, generously donated by Mrs. J. Harper Smith, will add much to the general efficiency of the hospital. A large number of cheerful contributors have always furnished sufficient means for economically administering to its affairs. But it is growing. During the year 1912 over 270 patients were cared for. Hereafter contributors of money to the hospital will become members of the corporations, as follows: $2.00, annual members; $5.00, patron members; $10.00 contributing members; $25.00, donative members; $50.00, supporting members; $10.00, endowment members. All who contribute $500 in any one year will be life members. The committee in charge of raising the fund is as follows: Walter Durling, William H. Taylor and Charles Schwed.

MRS. KATE B. ALLEN.

P. S. C. EMPLOYES HOSTS AT PICNIC

Nearly 5,000 Persons Attended Outing at Wayside Park Yesterday.

ATHLETICS A FEATURE

Nearly 5,000 persons, mostly trolleymen and their friends from this section of the State, visited Wayside Park in Dunellen yesterday afternoon and evening, the occasion being the "Trolleymen's Picnic," which was held under the auspices of the Public Service Social and Athletic Club. The grounds resembled a "Coney Island" on a very small scale. The amusements attracted both young and old. An athletic meet conducted by Walter Sisty was marred by the work of inexperienced judges, causing repeated and numerous protests from the contestants.

Shortly after 1 o'clock in the afternoon the crowd began to arrive despite the prospects of rain which did not fall. In the gathering were many children—sons and daughters of the trolleymen, who enjoyed the merry-go-round and other amusing contrivances; games of skill throwing baseballs; cane-ringing contests and various other attractions. Lunch parties were in evidence and the ice cream and other refreshment booths found ready patronage. The quoit contest brought out a good list of players, who matched their skill in an effort to win a gold Elgin watch, offered for first prize and the fishing rod for second best. After several hours of rare sport, George Conover, of this city, was awarded first place, closely followed by Richard Hill, also of Plainfield. George Snyderwind, of Dunellen, came in third.

In the evening those who had toiled during the day came in for an evening's fun. The main program of athletics was conducted on a specially illuminated track. The dance floor provided pleasure for hundreds. A china chocolate set was captured by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lenzer, of this city, from a large number of contestants in the prize waltz. Many electric lights strung from poles and among the trees throughout the park illuminated the way toward other attractions.

Those who planned and worked hard for the success of the event were: Superintendent George Luhr, Frank Keenan, Robert Partain, Oliver Keefer, John Vroom, H. J. Smith, Hugh H. Higgins, M. J. Nevins, Thomas Dorgan, M. J. Walsh, Charles Delahaunt, Mark Hipp, William J. Hinkey, John Magaw and Harry Goldstein. Magaw won a prize of $5 for selling the largest number of admittance tickets into the park.

Although long intermissions between the athletic events lost some interest to this feature of the outing and nearly every contestant in some of the races claimed to be the winner after the contest was over, this was no fault of the field marshal and starter, Walter Sisty, proprietor of the park. Inexperienced judges picked at random from among the Public Service employes in the crowd were responsible. During the running of a race many of them would desert their posts and unless the winner won by a good margin, protests would follow. This was particularly so in the one-mile race, which was deservedly won by Ray Schure, of this city. In this run the contestants were to circle the track nine times. They ran around the improvised track fourteen times before one of the timers "thought" that the race must be completed and signaled to the runners to halt. His stop watch showed the time to be 9 minutes and 30 seconds. Several contestants protested that they had won the event. Joseph Henry, who ran a poor race throughout and finished fifth, backed by a collection of friends, protested for over an hour that the silver cup belonged to him.

The 100-yard handicap was the best race of the day. The heats were run in the afternoon and in the evening Edward Page, of New Brunswick; Edward Smith, of Dunellen, and Morris Mann, the Plainfield High School athlete, toed the mark for the final. At the finish Mann fell headlong across the tape, and Page and Smith ran a neck-and-neck race. Smith had a 13 yard handicap. The judges, Robert Fitzsimmons, the former world's champion pugilist, and a Public Service employe were divided as to which was the winner and the race was ordered re-run, although many were of the opinion that Page won by several inches. On the second attempt Smith won easily by several yards, but Page's friends entered such strenuous protest that it was finally decided that the race would be run over again within a week, under the same conditions.

FIELDER'S BOOM IN UNION COUNTY

Politicians Pledge Support to Acting Governor for Candidacy for Job.

WITTPENN IS ATTACKED

Permanent Fielder League to Be Formed—Mayor Stewart Speaks at Enthusiastic Rally Held in Elks Hall.

Elizabeth, July 24.—Acting Governor James F. Fielder was heralded as the only man in the field for gubernatorial honors who could bring success to the Democratic party in the fall campaign at a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting held last night in the Elks' Hall, this city. In the gathering were representatives from all parts of Union county, who pledged their support to Fielder and assisted in the preliminary steps that were taken last night to form a "Union County Fielder League." Another meeting in Elks' Hall will be held Wednesday, August 6, when permanent organization will be effected.

Among those who spoke last night were Mayor Percy F. Stewart, of Plainfield; Representative William E. Tuttle, Jr., State Senator Peter J. McGinnis, of Passaic; Assemblymen H. J. McLoughlin, William A. Leonard, John J. Griggin and L. T. Russell and General Dennis F. Collins, of Elizabeth. All spoke on a similar vein, lauding the political and private career of Governor Fielder and urging that concerted efforts be made throughout Union county to give Fielder the nomination and eventually a victory at the November election.

State Senator McGinnis attacked Frank S. Katzenbach, of Trenton, and Otto J. Wittpenn, of Jersey City, other prominent Democratic candidates for the Gubernatorial nomination.

"We do not want Katzenbach," he said, "because he failed to commit himself on important issues when he ran before. As for Wittpenn,—he has been disowned by his home city. Jersey City did not adopt the commission form of government because it [illegible] this new idea of conducting the affairs of a municipality more, but because it liked Wittpenn less."

Among other Plainfielders at the rally were John P. Owens, District Court Judge Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., and James J. McCann.

LOCAL BOYS RETURN FROM CAMP VACATION

Seventeen Plainfield boys who have been visiting Camp Wawayanda during the past two weeks will return tonight. The boys representing the local Y. M. C. Among those who return tonight are George King, Harold Loizeaux, Elmer Blimm, Townley Peirson, Judson Blake, Edward Crone, Haywood Erickson, Mac Fullerton, John Hamman, Donald Hylan, Wesley Johnson, Warren Mumford, LeRoy Stringham, Evans Stevens, Russell Tomlinson, John Zelle and Duncan Taylor. They will be accompanied by N. J. Randolph Chandler and Frederic M. Smith, who have been acting as leaders of the delegation. MERCHANTS IMPRESSED WITH JEFFERY'S PLAN

Somerville Association Will Take Steps to Secure Artistic Lighting.

Inspired by a suggestion and explanation made by President William Jeffery, of the Plainfield Board of Trade, in his speech at the Somerville Merchants' Association banquet at Pluckemin last night, President Frederick G. Thomas, of the Somerville association, has inaugurated a movement to pave the main streets of the Somerset county seat with brick, similar to that used on the local thoroughfares and to install an artistic lighting system such as that which is now being advocated by the local Board for Plainfield's streets. President Thomas has communicated with Mr. Jeffery and the local president will assist the Somerville organization in every way possible to secure the improvements.

Somerville streets are at present constructed in macadam and the main thoroughfare is now in a condition where extensive repairs will have to be made very shortly. The lighting system in Somerville, while a little about the par enjoyed in Plainfield, is not what it should be and the merchants of that place were impressed with Mr. Jeffery's remarks on artistic lighting and the manner in which the local Board was planning to secure them. It is probable that the Somerville merchants will present the plan to the borough on the same basis as the local body did, making an offer to supply the artistic posts and have the municipality furnish the light.

RILEY IS UNOPPOSED FOR THE PRESIDENCY

When the convention of the New Jersey Men's League for Woman Suffrage is held at Ocean Grove on Saturday there will be but one candidate in the field for the presidency, Champlain L. Riley, announcement being made today by the present incumbent, William L. Saunders, that he will not accept re-election. In reply to certain assertions made by the publicity promoter of the organization as published yesterday, Mr. Saunders says:

"I took the office of president of the league at the urgent request of Mr. Riley, who did not want it himself. I have served two terms, which is long enough. I believe in rotation in office. If Mr. Riley can now be induced to take it, he will win my everlasting gratitude. I do not intend to attend the Asbury Park convention as I am not a delegate nor am I a candidate for any office. I am not fighting the suffragists; I am fighting the 'antis' and I will continue to fight for the cause as I have in the past until it triumphs."

When pressed to make a statement regarding the apparent reflections contained in a news article furnished by the league's publicity manager, Mr. Saunders declared that he had nothing to say other than what is contained in the above statement.

KREWSON IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Pool Room Proprietor and Sackett Charged with Keeping Gambling Place.

PROSECUTOR VIGILANT

County Detective and a "Stool Pigeon" Furnish the Testimony in Court—Defendants Are Released in $100 Bail Each.

On evidence secured by Detective Joseph R. Buckley, of the Union county Prosecutor's office, with the aid of Thurlow Chamberlain, of Flemington, as a "stool-pigeon," Charles F. Krewson and Leslie Sackett, of Jackson avenue arraigned yesterday afternoon before City Judge DeMeza, charged with keeping and maintaining a disorderly house by allowing gambling in a pool parlor at 131 West Front St., were held in $100 bail each for the Grand Jury. Krewson was arrested over a week ago as the proprietor of the pool parlor where the alleged gambling took place, with Sackett, who works at the establishment in the capacity of manager. Swackhamer & Bird appeared for the defendants.

Buckley told, on examination conducted by County Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein, how he and Chamberlain gambled in the West Front street resort in full view and with the alleged knowledge of Sackett. The latter, when testifying, gave a detailed account of having played pool with Krewson on June 25, making a side-bet with the proprietor of 25 cents per game.

Amos Stites, proprietor of a West Front street pool parlor, was an interested spectator in the court room. Many frequenters of both resorts were also in evidence.

Buckley was placed on the witness stand after the Prosecutor and counsel for the defense had made argument on Mr. Swackhamer's motion to dismiss the case on the grounds that the complaint was improperly drawn. The motion was over-ruled. Buckley said he gambled in the Krewson establishment on July 5, 10 and 12. Chamberlain claimed to have done so on June 25, as well as on the dates when he had been with Buckley. Swackhamer asked Buckley at whose direction he and Chamberlain had gone to the pool parlor to collect evidence. Stein was on his feet in an instant strenuously objecting and hotly retorted, "He went there in performance of his duties as a detective in the employ of the county." The Judge rapped for order.

Mr. Swackhamer remarked, "You just went there on a fishing trip, hey?" Stein answered, "Well, you must not get sore when they caught the 'fish.'"

In summing up Prosecutor Stein said in the course of his remarks: "What become of our young men of today who go to these places to gamble? What does it lead to? You, Judge DeMeza and myself, in our capacities of urging justice in our respective official way, know perhaps better than the laymen. It leads to the commission of greater offenses and it must be suppressed."

SUPERINTENDENT SCHWARTZ CONTINUES HIS CRUSADE

Continuing his crusade which began on Monday morning when the icemen and coal dealers were visited by him, Augustus W. Schwartz, superintendent of weights and measures for Union county, continued his work today. He inspected the weighing measures of storekeepers in West Third street and confiscated four machines. A year ago he got 26 "crooked" measures and weights in the same thoroughfare.

On Monday morning, Schwartz will be at police headquarters to seal and test all weights and measures, particularly for the hucksters, but all other dealers as well. There is a fine of $25 for having in one's possession an unsealed measure or weight.

TROUBLED DOG-CATCHER.

Bert Rogers, a local dog-catcher, yesterday attempted to take the canine belonging to Abe Rosenthal, of 521 West Third street, to the pound, when he found the mongrel roaming the streets minus the proper identification marks and license tag as provided for in the city ordinance. He was successful in taking the dog, but not until after he had a "session" with Rosenthal. This morning the latter was arrested on complaint of the dog-catcher who technically charged him with disorderly conduct by interfering with him in the performance of his duties. Rosenthal claims Rogers struck him. The case will be heard tomorrow morning before City Judge DeMeza.

Fielder's Memorable Work in vitalizing the Geran Election Law

The Bill Was Very Bad as to Form and Literary Effect When It Arrived In the Senate; Was Unwieldly and Lacked the Power of Its Intended Purpose—Fielder, Then a Senator, Devoted a Greater Part of an Entire Session to Making It Workable and Purposeful.

ONE of Governor Fielder's most valuable pieces of legislative work was in connection with the Geran election law, which was written upon the statute books during Woodrow Wilson's first year as governor. Governor Fielder was then in the senate, and he was one of the senate committee to which the bill was referred.

When the bill arrived in the senate after passage in the house of assembly it was, as afterward generally admitted, very bad as to form and literary effect, though all right in the main as to purpose.

SENATOR FIELDER REFUSED TO ACCEPT THE DOCUMENT IN ITS UNWIELDY AND OBJECTIONABLE FORM, AND THE PART THAT HE TOOK IN REVISING IT AND MOLDING IT INTO A LAW THAT WOULD VITALIZE ELECTIONS WITHOUT DEMORALIZING THEM IS A MOST ILLUSTRIOUS PART OF HIS LEGISLATIVE CAREER.

For weeks during that session, the session of 1910-11, he gave practically all of his time and study to that one piece of legislation—in fact, he gave so much time to it that he freely admits that he had to take the corrupt practices act "on faith," not wholly, but to a great extent. The corrupt practices act was in better shape than the Geran law, and he was able, by less study, to accept the work of others in casting his vote for it.

Westfield.

Westfield merchants are disturbed over the action of the Council in ordering all displays of goods kept from the sidewalks. RUINS OF FIRE WHERE 65 GIRLS WERE KILLED.

Sixty-five persons, most of them girls under twenty years old, lost their lives as a result of the twenty-nine minute fire that flattened the four story factory of the Binghamton Clothing company. In addition ten are dying in the hospitals. Only six bodies have been identified out of twenty-one in the Binghamton morgue. The remaining fifteen are charred beyond recognition.

KING LAYS STONE.

London, July 24.—The King today laid the foundation stone for the new Australian Commonwealth buildings which are to be erected on the Strand at Aldwych. The building, which is to be an imposing edifice from an architectural point of view, is to house the offices of the high commissioner of the Commonwealth and the agents-general of the several Australian States in London. It is also to serve as headquarters of the immigration scheme in which New South Wales and Victoria have just amalgamated, and it is expected that ultimately all emigration to Australia will be conducted entirely from this centre.

HAWTHORNE MAY BE FREED.

Atlanta, Ga., July 24.—The application for a parole for Julian Hawthorne, the writer, was taken up for consideration by the Federal parole board when it met today. Hawthorne is now confined in the Federal prison here under a sentence of one year and one day as a result of his conviction in New York on a charge of using the mails to defraud in the promotion of mining schemes. Should he be paroled, action probably will be taken later for a restoration of his citizenship.

FIRE DEATH TOLL 65; START PROBE

Coroner Sets Inquest For 2 o'Clock Today.

DIGGING RUINS FOR BODIES

Many Victims Burned Beyond Recognition—Arranging Public Funeral. Frenzied Relatives Besiege Morgue Searching For Missing—Start Fund For Sufferers.

Binghamton, N. Y., July 24.—After Coroner Seymour and District Attorney Meagher had questioned witnesses of the Binghamton Clothing company factory fire disaster the coroner fixed the time of the inquest for 2 o'clock this afternoon in the courthouse.

District Attorney Meagher, who has begun an investigation to place the blame for the catastrophe in which it is believed sixty-five employees perished, said he would summon Reed B. Freeman, president of the clothing company.

A rigid investigation will be made, and criminal prosecutions were promised if any criminal neglect could be disclosed. While awaiting the arrival of W. C. Rogers, deputy state commissioner of labor, Frank S. Nash, the local factory inspector, declared that every requirement of the state factory laws had been complied with by the owners of the factory which burned down in twenty minutes.

While firemen under the direction of Mayor Irving worked continuously searching the ruins for bodies, a thousand persons, relatives and other close friends of the missing girl employees, visited the morgue in an effort to make identifications. The charred condition of the bodies prevented this in most cases.

A relief fund was started, and contributions are rapidly pouring in. Willis Sharpe Kilmer contributed $1,000, and other residents have made generous donations.

While it is believed that the exact number of dead will never be known, every effort was made to penetrate the ruins in the search for bodies. The weary firemen, many of whom had worked continuously since the fire, toiled among the charred beams and hot, twisted girders. Many bodies recovered were burned so badly that identification is impossible.

The first thought was for exhausting every effort to recover the bodies of the dead. Mayor Irving personally superintended the delving into the ruins, while a great crowd gathered to watch the work.

To Hold Public Funeral.

Among the spectators gathered to watch the work were the relatives of girls who had not been heard from since they went to the factory, and many pitiful scenes were witnessed as these relatives gave away to their grief.

Mayor Irving says he will issue a proclamation calling upon the citizens of Binghamton for a general observance of a day to be set apart for the funeral of the victims. As many of the bodies are unrecognizable, a public funeral will be conducted by the city, and the unknown dead will be buried in a plot upon which a shaft will be erected.

A rough estimate places the number of those in the building at the time the fire started at 111. Many of the dead have been identified. Fifteen bodies charred beyond recognition are at the morgue, seven injured are in the hospitals, eleven have been reported by relatives as missing, forty-six, several of whom were more or less injured, are known to have been saved, and twenty-six are unaccounted for.

Mrs. Ida Prentiss, who suffered terrible burns about the head and arms, died at the City hospital, and Miss Mary Benny, another of the injured, is not expected to recover.

Until this tangled mass of wreckage age is torn apart—and it will take more than a full day's work to do it—the exact number of dead will not be known. The payroll carrying the names of the workers is in the safe, buried under tons of wreckage. Some of the girls were on vacations and others on piece work did not have their names on the payroll, which makes the task of compiling an accurate record difficult.

"SCAB" PICKPOCKETS.

They Violate the Ethics of the Game by Working In Forenoon.

New York, July 24.—Frank Rosen, a public piano player, went to the East Fifty-first street station at 8 a. m. to complain that his wallet, containing $145, had been taken from him by pickpockets a few minutes before on a Broadway car approaching Forty-second street. As he got off the car, he said, he was jostled by three young men.

His report caused indignation in police circles, where it is held unsportsmanlike for pickpockets to work between dawn and noon. Detectives are thinking on the case.

Auto Funeral Goes Eighty-nine Miles.

Baltimore, July 24.—An automobile funeral, said to be the first in Maryland, ended at Mount Olivet cemetery, this city, when the remains of John Oliver Dadlow, who died on Friday in New Freedom, Pa., were buried. The distance traveled by the machines was about eighty-nine miles.

W. W. VICK TO LEAVE FOR SANTO DOMINGO AUG. 2

New Official Well Received In Southern Republic.

New York, July 24.—Hon. Walker W. Vick has returned from Santo Domingo, where he went with Hon. John E. Osborne, assistant secretary of state, to take over the office of receiver general of the Dominican republic, to which position Mr. Vick was appointed June 16 by President Wilson. There were reports printed in the United States that there was a feeling in Santo Domingo that Mr. Vick's predecessor, W. E. Pulliam, should be retained in the position, but Mr. Vick found that the change in the administration of the receivership met with the entire approval of President Bordas of the Dominican republic and his cabinet. Mr. Vick was very cordially received both personally and officially, and his five days' stay in Santo Domingo was most pleasant in every way.

Mr. and Mrs. Vick will leave New York on Aug. 2 to take up their official residence in Santo Domingo.

Mrs. Walker Whiting Vick was Miss Sadie A. Plunkitt of New York city before her marriage in 1902 and has four children. As the wife of the receiver general of customs of Santo Domingo Mrs. Vick will play an important part in the social life at the capital—Santo Domingo City—and will be the first mistress of the palatial new home now being erected for the receiver general. She will accompany Mr. Vick to Santo Domingo early in August and will doubtless be a most popular addition to the American colony.

Mrs. Vick is widely known throughout the United States, having been an ardent friend of President Wilson's cause.

The telegram is in the form of a resolution adopted by the chamber of commerce and the two clubs.

SAUNDERS' "V. FOR W." WORK.

Sometimes a press agent in his zeal to make "copy" oversteps the mark and we feel that, while clearly not intentional, the publicity manager for the convention to be held by the New Jersey Men's League for Woman Suffrage took some liberties with the name of William L. Saunders in connection with a story on the election of the presidency of that body. We would not be surprised, after all the good work he has done for the cause, that Mr. Saunders should be offended at the reasons assigned for objections to him as a candidate for re-election. It was asserted that his connections with the Harvester Trust might prove him as undesirable and it was stated that he might have used his office in the league to get a chance to preside at meetings and make speeches and furthermore that little of the real work had been done by him. Among the things he has done to to promote the cause has been the wide distribution of an excellent boookiet on the history of and reasons for equal suffrage. This work he published and distributed at his own expense.

In our columns today, Saunders says he is not a candidate; neither is he a delegate to the convention. As we have remarked, it is altogether unlikely that any offense was intended, but it is but right that any misunderstandings be cleared up and that none be allowed to suppose that the league does not fully appreciate Saunders' good work in its behalf.

WHY THEY'RE "SQUEALING."

The old order of things has not entirely disappeared from the halls of Congress. This is manifest in the attitude assumed by some Senators and Representatives towards Postmaster General Burleson since he has announced an extension in the parcels post service. The business of the private express companies has been seriously affected since January 1 when the Government's system went into effect and the prospects are that it will be most seriously damaged when the scope of the scheme is enlarged. This accounts for the activity in certain quarters and as the railroads and express companies always have had friends in Congress it would not be surprising were certain obstacles placed in the way of the Postmaster General who is fighting for the people and against the interests.

Some may be inclined to discount the strength of Carlton A. Pierce as a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, but he is about the only man yet mentioned who can give Everett Colby, the probable Progressive nominee, any sort of a fight. If Colby is in the field, chances are the Progressives will either win or be a close second in the fight, but should the Progressives put forward Osborne he will be a poor third and the Republicans will make the Progressives look like the proverbial "thirty cents." Fielder, by all odds, is the strongest man for the Democratic nomination and should he be named the political wiseacres may give odds on his election. However, there may be developments within the next ten days.

The contributing editor for Saturday's issue will be Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest. He's a broadgauged man and what he may have to say about Sunday and its purposes and uses may startle some who may disagree with him as to the spirit of the times.

William E. Tuttle is on the job as the representative of the Fifth, New Jersey district. He doesn't make much noise but he accomplishes a whole lot and did he not partisan newspapers would have been banging away at him long ago.

When Pierce entered the race Fowler was rated among the "also rans." They both live in Union county, but, oh, what a contrast! It is no exaggeration to say that Fowler could not carry a single district in his own county.

When you are away on your vacation, say a good word for Plainfield. By telling the truth and only the truth, your friends will learn of Plainfield as the ideal suburban community.

31 WENT FTOM PLAINFIELD

Mr. Katzenbach strongly urged economy and the union of forces and complimented the merchants' associations and Boards of Trades on their works. At the conclusion of his talk "Tune" Mellick started a wild demonstration by shouting "For Jackson and Jefferson."

William Jeffery, president of the Plainfield Board of Trade explained the organization of the local civic body and told how he had gathered representative Plainfield merchants together at three days' notice to attend the banquet. He also touched on the agitation which has been fostered by the local Board on the lighting question and urged men to organize for every public necessity. He explained the recent movement in which the Jersey Central has joined with the Boards of Trade along its line for the abating of drawbridge nuisance at the Newark Bay bridge and brought a fitting climax to his talk by leading the 250 dinners in the singing of the Plainfield Board's song which was circulated around the tables in printed form.

The Plainfield representatives each wore a badge designating them as ueen City delegates and a picture of the group was taken in West End avenue before they left for Pluckemin. Among those who went from here were: Hyman Adelberg, William Jeffery, A. E. Force, Walter C. Dobbins, Henry Rosenbaum, Edward Hardingham, Fred Hand, Frank Mobus, Chief T. O. Doane, Thad Doane, Jr., A. S. Herr, Jacob Fass, Morris Abrams, Samuel Rothberg, Herman Schwed, C. M. Slocum, B. Frank Coriell, W. T. Sharpe, the Zeek brothers, George M. SENSATIONAL TRIAL IN ATLANTA MONDAY

Wealthy Society Man to Answer for Flaying Fourteen Years Old Girl.

Atlanta, Ga., July 24.—With the case of Leo M. Frank, the wealthy manufacturer and society man, who is charged with the slaying of pretty 14-year-old Mary Phagan, scheduled for trial next Monday, Atlanta is on edge in anticipation of the most sensational trial that has ever taken place in this city. The solution of the mystery that surrounds the death of the child, whose beauty is believed to have led to her sad end, is not all that is involved in the case. It is alleged that stories of police corruption and the employment of methods for "framing up" cases, rivaling the exposures in the Becker case in New York, will play a prominent part in the trial.

Developments have come thick and fast since the mutilated body of Mary Phagan was found on Sunday morning, April 27, on a rubbish heap in the basement of the pencil factory building where she was employed. Within a few days after the discovery of the crime Leo M. Frank, the superintendent of the pencil company, together with two negroes, Newt Lee and James Connally, were taken into custody on suspicion of having some knowledge of the case. Lee was the night watchman at the factory and Connally was an employe.

The first big sensation in the case came when Frank was indicted by the Fulton County grand jury on a charge of having murdered the girl. It is unerstood that the indictment was based principally upon the testimony of the negro Connally. The latter, it is said, made affidavit, that on the day preceding the girl's murder, Frank called him into his office in the pencil factory and asked him to write several notes "to get a sample of his handwriting." Connally stated that he wrote at Frank's dictation and that he believed later the notes he wrote were the same that were found beside the slain girl's body and which evidently were intended to throw suspicion on a negro as the perpetrator of the crime.

At the coroner's inquest G. W. Epps, a 15-year-old newsboy who was a friend of the murdered girl, testified that she had requested him to call by the pencil factory on several occasions because, she told him, Mr. Frank had sometimes rushed out of the factory ahead of her and winked at her as she went past.

That the best legal talent in Georgia, which is represented in the opposing forces of lawyers, will be on its mettle in the coming trial there is not the slightest question. Neither side has considered expense in the collection of evidence. The prosecution claims to have secured circumstantial evidence so convincing that it regards the accused safely enmeshed. On the other hand the defense lets fall inklings that it can show that a negro is responsible for strangling the child.

Frank acknowledges that he was in the factory when the girl came for her pay, when the plant was closed for a holiday, but that he had no reason to think that the child had not left the building immediately on receiving her envelope.

So far as is known Frank and the two negroes were the only ones in the building during the afternoon and evening of the day on which the crime was committed. The negro watchman, who found the body, declares that he had seen nothing suspicious about the place until he ran into the body on a trash pile in the cellar. The negro Connally, after various tales, declared he was telling the truth when he confessed to having helped Frank dispose of the body.

While there are many things which Frank has not explained satisfactorily his family and many friends are standing squarely by him. He also has a large measure of public sympathy. A majority of the people look upon the crime as typical of the lower negro element and many express the belief that it will be fastened on a member of the black race when all the evidence is brought out.

The political end of the case is extremely interesting, though the effect it will have on the acquittal or conviction of the accused man is altogether problematical. At the bottom of this phase of the case is the political feud between Mayor "Jim" Woodward and the police department. Leaders of the political element seeking to oust the present chief of police and chief of detectives have seized upon the Phagan case as an opportunity to make charges of corrupt methods against the police. The dictagraph has been brought into play and charges of bribery, manufacturing evidence and attempts to shield the slayer or slayers of the Phagan girl have been freely indulged in by those on both sides of the political feud.

"GET-TOGETHER" MEETING.

LEHIGH R. R. WITHDRAWS ITS OFFER FOR BRIDGE

Perth Amboy, July 24.—The Lehigh Valley Railroad has withdrawn its offer to the City Council to contribute $5,000 toward the construction of a bridge over its yards and substituted a proposal that the city pay $2,500 for the removal of a track necessitated by the proposed position of one of the piers. City Attorney C. C. Hommann has advised the Council that an acceptance of the railroad's proposal will be cheaper than condemnation proceedings.

At the place where it is proposed to build the bridge there was once a bridge connecting carrying what was then a county road over the depression in which the railroad yards are situated. This bridge was removed by the railroad nearly thirty years ago.

WOMEN AT MERCY OF MEXICAN BAND

Courier Reaches El Paso With Direful News.

MENACED BY STARVATION

Outlaws, Enraged at Killing of Two of Number by Cowboys, Threaten to Murder Men and Carry Off Women in Besieged Party.

El Paso, Tex., July 24.—News that a little band of Americans, including ten women and six children, were besieged at Madera, in the state of Chihuahua, by Mexican bandits, and that even when he left there fourteen days ago they were on the verge of starvation, was brought here by an American courier, almost dropping from exhaustion.

For a week before the messenger stole away from the camp to seek help the Americans, mostly employees of the $5,000,000 lumber plant at Madera, owned by the Pearsons, an English syndicate, had been holding off the bandits, who are neither federals nor rebels, but straightaway outlaws with all the name implies. What has happened since the couriers left can only be imagined.

The bandits threatened to slaughter the men, carry away the women and burn the lumber plant.

The outlaws claim the lives of all Americans and other foreigners in the entire western part of Chihuahua in retaliation for the killing of two of their number on the Hearst ranch at Babicora, in the mountainous country of Chihuahua. The bandits are a part of the gang which has been looting the state for more than two months. They are now under command of Maximo Castillo, who was Madero's bodyguard, and were recently defeated by Villa's rebels at Casa Grandes. At that time their commander, Jose Parra, was killed.

Cowboys Kill Two.

They then went to the Babicora ranch, where they lived in caves and killed and ate beeves from the ranch. A party of American cowboys engaged them and drove them away, killing two. This angered the bandits, and, calling their entire force together, they pursued the Americans to the lumber camp at Madera. The Americans, led by Jesse Williams, a Mormon, sought shelter in the big Pearson plant.

The messenger who arrived here said that when he left the bandits were riding around the town, and that the Americans had pickets out on all of the approaches to prevent them from reaching the hotel and commissary, which the Americans had barricaded, and where the American women and children were housed. The entire camp was armed. The Mexicans had sworn to give no quarter, and to take the women for ransom. The Americans had a searchlight going all night long from the top of a lookout tower.

The food supply was almost exhausted when the courier left. There was only a little flour, no coffee, no sugar and only enough beans to feed the Americans a week. The natives of the Mexican quarter were starving, being entirely out of food. The courier urged that troops be sent to rescue the Americans.

Garrison and Wood on Way.

Secretary of War Garrison and Major General Leonard Wood, who are on an inspection tour, are expected here hourly.

Pancho Villa, in command of the rebels at La Ascension, only twenty miles from Madera, has been informed of the conditions, and has dispatched 250 men under Colonel Juan N. Medina to relieve the town, but torrential rains, it is feared, will make the progress of the relief expedition slow.

Villa, it is said, hopes to win recognition for the Constitutionalists from the United States by protecting its citizens. He has sent part of his men to the Mexican Central railroad south of Juarez to resist attempts of the federals to rebuild the railroad between Chihuahua and Juarez.

The Mexican federal government has been appealed to for protection for the besieged Americans through the state department at Washington, but none has been given.

Included among the foreign colony at Madera and Pearson are a number of Germans, English and French, and the foreign consuls in Mexico are wiring here for information.

WRAPPED IN A LIVE WIRE.

Wife Drags Husband From Coils That Encircle Him.

Sayville, N. Y., July 24.—By grasping her husband's legs and pulling him away from a live electric wire that was coiled about him, Mrs. Peter Gimlet of this place saved him from serious injury, if not death.

Gimlet was cutting limbs from a tree in front of his home. He forgot that an electric light wire ran between the branches. As he chopped through a limb his ax came in contact with this wire, severing it. Gimlet suffered a shock, and the wire became entangled in his clothing. He fell to the ground with the wire coiled around him.

Mrs. Gimlet ran to her husband's assistance. She grasped him by the legs and dragged him across the lawn, finally freeing him from the wire. Mr. Gimlet was not injured seriously.

REAR ADMIRAL COWLES.

Ordered to Investigate Holding of Railroad Man For Ransom.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, acting secretary of the navy, called upon Rear Admiral Cowles at Guaymas to investigate the report that Thomas Hind, assistant general superintendent of the Southern Pacific railroad, in Mexico, is held for ransom by Mexican federals there. The state department was without information on the incident.

WILL TALK BALKAN PEACE IN BUCHAREST

Meanwhile All Europe Dreads False Diplomatic Move.

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 24.—Servia and Greece agreed to the proposal that peace negotiations with Bulgaria should take place in Bucharest. An armistice is being arranged in Nish, and it is hoped that it will be concluded within a couple of days.

Greece insists that the armistice and the agreement for peace negotiations be signed simultaneously.

Roumania has refused Turkey's request that she be allowed to participate in the peace conference.

The European powers have consented to these arrangements.

Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., has made an appeal to the American Red Cross society for funds to relieve the distress of the Macedonian refugees.

London, July 24.—With the capture of Adrianople's citadel by the Turks of Enver Bey now quite certain and the Greeks likely at any moment to cross the frontier of Bulgaria the peace of Europe again hangs by a slender thread, which a rash diplomatic move might easily break, plunging the great nations into a general war.

Turkey's absolute disregard of the treaty of London must be punished by the powers, it is agreed. Russia is ready to be the means to this end. Should Russian troops move it is quite likely that Austria-Hungary would immediately occupy the Sanjak of Novibazar.

THE FORUM.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

Recently, in print and from the platform, the following statements have been made by several people opposed to votes for women: First, that voting will not better the condition of the working-woman and that wages are a question of demand and supply and not of legislation. Next, that the lack of moral training of young girls is responsible for their downfall, and not economic conditions. Third, that women will not vote if they have the ballot. Fourth, that they have not bettered conditions where they have voted. All of these questions are now matters of statistics, and the accusations refuted at length elsewhere, but I should like to cite the result of just one day's accidental observation.

In looking over some papers on the morning of July 16th, I came upon an appeal from the Consumer's League of New Jersey, sent out at the time of the Orange Convention this spring. It is headed, "Overworked Women a Cause of Defective Children," and quotes over three hundred physicians of New Jersey to corroborate. It goes on, "The campaigns against women's industrial evils are really campaigns to protect their offspring.

"Senate Bill 61, introduced by Senator Edge, of Atlantic county, in this session of the Legislature, seeks to protect the women of New Jersey as follows:

" 'No female shall be employed, allowed or permitted to work in any manufacturing or mercantile establishment * * * more than ten hours in any one day, or more than six days or sixty hours in any one week.'

"Unless this bill becomes a law, the working-women of New Jersey will continue to have no protection whatever as to number of hours of labor.

"Many New Jersey women work as long as thirteen hours a day under severe labor conditions. Shall not our State protect her women and safe-guard her future citizens?

"Will you help?"

This speaks for itself.

Later in the day a copy of the New York Globe (July 16th) was handed me. The front page was striking with the pictures of Miss Gertrude Barnum and Emily Krail, leaders in the Garment Maker's movement for better conditions, of Morris Lubin, the man hired by manufacturers to incite the workers to riot and murder, so that they should be discredited, and of Judge Vickery who sentenced him.

Emily Krail, an unusually capable and attractive young girl, was left motherless with a baby sister to care for. This she was trying to do in a sweat-shop on three dollars a week. When she asked for a raise of wages, she was met with dishonorable proposals.

It is quite true that moral training is the strongest protection of a young girl's purity, but is that any reason for subjecting her to immoral economic condition?

Is not a minimum wage-law desirable?

Next, I saw a copy of the New York Tribune. On its first page I read, "Women Outvote Men.—Illinois Suffragists Go to Polls in Rain to Elect Mayor."

On the first page of the Evening Post of the same date, I read, "Chicago Jury of Women.—To Decide Case of Gown's Hang and Style.—'Something a man knows little about,' explained counsel for Mrs. R. L. Davenport, the plaintiff."

Turning to the fourth page of the same paper, I see the reply of Miss Helen Todd, of California, to the assertions of Miss Alice Hill Chittenden, President of the New York State Anti-Suffrage Association. Miss Todd is a prominent social worker and was at one time State Factory Inspector in Illinois.

She says in part, "Out of the 4,000 bills introduced at the last session for which Miss Chittenden holds us responsible, I was interested particularly in but four—motherhood endowment, eight-hour work-day, and home-rule and taxation. In addition to these, the California Federation of Women's Clubs worked for the passage of the following: Health certificate for marriage, joint guardianship, community property, maternity homes, psycopathic parole societies, State registration of nurses, women's buildings at State Fair, Iowa injunction and abatement act, State training-school for girls, raising girls' majority to twenty-one, ethical, vocational and hygienic training in public schools, tuberculin test for dairies, to compel fathers to support illegitimate children, to enforce laws for protection of children, and conservation civil service reform.

"It is manifestly unfair for woman suffrage to be held responsible for many of the freak bills, such as the regulation of the size of chicken-coops, hotel bed-sheets and others which she mentions. As for increase in appropriations, for which she holds us responsible, that is equally unjust."

The whole article, clear and straightforward, is well worth reading. Miss Todd closes, "The record of the California Legislature is the result of a growing interest in the conservation of human life. We women have only supported the men."

On my way from New York to Connecticut the same day, the train was full and I found a seat beside a lady—undoubtedly a lady—with whom I fell into conservation. Judging by the hour and the books she carried, she was perhaps a teacher taking a summer course at Columbia. The conversation started over "Ridley's Broken Mixed," which was being sold in the aisle, and passed on to comparison of American and European comforts in travelling, government control or railroads, true democracy and suffage. She said she had spent the past year in the State of Washington.

"I am told by 'Antis' that equal suffrage has not done any good in Washington," I ventured. "Oh!" she exclaimed indignantly, "that isn't true at all. It has done a great many good things already, and it has purified politics."

Then she added, "The saloon interests are bitterly opposed to it. They fear it."

Just here the train reached South Norwalk, my companion's destination.

And this is just one day's experience. Do you wonder that I am a suffragist?

Thanking you for the courtesy of space in your paper, I am,

Very truly yours,
A. Josephine Vermilye.

ANOTHER VERSION OF NASH'S ARREST

George H. O'Donnell who accompanied William B. Nash, of 904 Grant avenue, when the latter was arrested for running his automobile with the muffler cut out in violation of the motor vehicle laws and invited a patrolman to shed his uniform and settle any differences in a pugilistic manner, gave his version of the affair in a letter to Judge DeMeza. He also sent a copy of the communication to the Daily Press for publication. The missive follows:

"I was a witness to the occurrence which resulted in the notice to William B. Nash to appear before you this morning to answer charges preferred by one of the Plainfield police force; (1) that he had run his car in the City of Plainfield with muffler cut out and (2) of using abusive language to the officer.

"I am confident that Mr. Nash was unaware of the State law forbidding the use of automobiles with the muffler cut out. His object and purpose in so doing was to avoid the possibility of accident to bicyclists frequently to be met with upon the streets riding without lights. In my own experience after barely avoiding two serious accidents to bicyclists whom I was unable to see until almost upon them, I have frequently cut out my muffler as a safe guard. Until this matter came up I was personally unaware, as was Mr. Nash, that I was guilty of violating the law.

"As to the second charge, I venture to write you this letter, in view of Mr. Nash's decision not to contest the second charge,—that of using abusive language to an officer,—as his decision makes it unnecessary for me to appear as a witness. In justice to him I think that you should be advised that the officer's conduct when he called at Mr. Nash's home and accused him of having run his machine with his muffler open was not in line with his duty but was in itself abusive and insulting. His remark in opening the conversation could not have been better designed to provoke resentment, for he asked Mr. Nash in a rough, boisterous manner, 'What do you mean by running your car with the muffler out?' I submit no remark could be better designed to provoke an acrimonious argument.

"I know from an acquaintance with Mr. Nash, extending over many years, not only his high character in the business community but also that he never would have violated the law respecting the use of his muffler, had he known that such a law was in effect, and would never have ben guilty of using undignified language had it not been provoked by the officer's own conduct."

FRANCES MARSHALL

Measures For the Cook.

Every one knows the story of the old Southern Mammy who was asked by a young bride for her recipe for a certain sort of cake.

"Well, now, Honey," said the old cook in the story, "I just take some flour, 'accordin' to how much milk I've got; and then I takes some eggs, accordin' to how scarce eggs is. If's they's right scarce I doesn't take so many; but if they is plenty, then I takes more."

So on she goes through the whole recipe, giving no definite rule because she fails to name any definite amounts. Of course such a recipe is impossible to follow, no matter how well it may succeed when it is in the hands of the cook who originated it. And the woman who tells you to beat butter and sugar until your arms are tired and to use your judgment about the baking powder, although she may be a good cook, is not a good teacher.

So much for the way recipes are often repeated. They are quite as carelessly carried out. For how many cooks there are who never have a measuring cup at hand and who estimate amounts called for; and how many more there are who, having measuring cups in abundance, do not know how to use them.

A Table.

3 teaspoonfuls equal one tablespoonful.

Half a cupful equals a gill.

A cupful of 2 gills equals half a pint.

2 cupfuls equal a pint, 4 equal a quart.

4 cupfuls of flour equal a pound, as well as a quart.

2 cupfuls of butter equal a pound.

2 cupfuls of granulated sugar equals a pound.

2 and a half cupfuls of powdered sugar equal a pound.

A pint of milk or water—2 cupfuls—equal a pound.

2 tablespoonfuls of butter equal an ounce.

2 tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar equal an ounce.

4 tablespoonfuls of flour or of ground coffee equal an ounce.

2 tablespoonfuls of liquid equal an ounce.

Some Cookery Suggestions

FRUIT FLOATS.

THESE desserts are so named on account of their lightness. They may be made with any fruit and because of the attractive forms in which they can be served are nice for special occasions.

Peach Float.—Heat three pints of milk to scalding point, add two to three cupfuls of sugar and a pinch of salt. Stir in one box of gelatin that has been soaked in cold water half an hour. When heated again strain, and when partly cool turn over a dozen peaches, pared and sliced. Set away to become firm. Serve with whipped cream.

Made With Cornstarch.

Apricot Float.—Stew a can of apricots with one and a half cupfuls of fine granulated sugar until soft, but still firm in shape. Let them cool. Then pour off the juice. Then let one pint of milk come to a boil, add yolks of three eggs, well beaten, one-half cupful of granulated sugar, a little salt and a teaspoonful of corn starch dissolved in a little cold water. Stir until it thickens, remove from stove and add a teaspoonful of vanilla. Set it away to get cold. Put the apricot mixture in a glass dish and pour the whites of three eggs beaten to a stiff froth around it. Then pour the custard outside of the whites.

Apple Float.—Pare and core one dozen ripe apples. Steam them until they are tender. Then take them from the fire and beat until smooth. Sweeten to taste and beat in the whites of four eggs, previously beaten to a stiff froth. Set aside to become cold.

A Use For Berries.

Berry Float.—Take a pint of berries, fresh or canned, a quart of milk, three eggs, a cupful of sugar, a tablespoonful of cornstarch, four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and a little salt. Heat the milk, in which salt and sugar should be stirred, and when the boiling point is reached add the cornstarch dissolved in a little cold milk. Let it boil for three minutes, stirring constantly. Then add the beaten yolks of the eggs and beat the mixture for several minutes while it cools. Strain the juice from the berries and sweeten them to taste. Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff, add the powdered sugar and some of the berry juice, taking care not to add enough to spoil the meringue. Spread the berries on the custard. Then heap the meringue on the berries.

GAY WAISTCOATS.

Strong Color Note Costume Feature of Season.

DEMURE TAILORED EFFECT.

This demure little tailored suit of lovely taupe colored jacquard worsted and mohair fabric draped over a skirt of the same tone has collar and cuffs of machine embroidery that follows the color scheme daintily. A vest of cerise silk is vivid against the soft gray and cream hues.

What's What In Bathing Suits.

Never has the Anglo-Saxon eye gazed upon such startling bathing costumes and accessories as those designed for this season's wear. Emerald green taffetas, scarlet satin with Scotch plaid trimmings, bishop's purple satin, black taffetas with adornments of cubist designs were some of the color schemes seen recently at a fashionable seaside resort.

For head coverings there were quaint bonnets, caps and hoods of rubberized silk or satin in the gayest of tints. Stockings of dazzling green, purple, red and blue were displayed with silk and satin bathing shoes laced with satin ribbon in the prevailing cothurn fashion, halfway to the knees.

Under these suits were worn bloomers to match, finished below the knee with a ruffle of the same or with a contrasting frill. A purple satin suit had frills of white linen printed with Jouey flowers, and the unmistakable resemblance drew from scores of women the exclamation, "Pantalets!" Among the accessories pictured must be noted the corsage bouquet of rubber roses.

The Club Has Tea Parties.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Little Girls' Club Has a Picnic.

JACK had joined a little boys' club and was very proud of it.

"Why can't little girls have clubs?" Evelyn had asked enviously.

"They can if they wish," daddy had answered. "In fact, one of the most flourishing clubs I know is a little girls' club.

"I suppose I really ought not to call the members little girls, for they would not like it. Even Ruthie, who is seven and the youngest member, thinks she is quite a grownup person.

"Hannah, who is president of the club, is a model of good behavior. I wish I could say as much for Ruthie, who, by the way, is Hannah's sister. It is so hard to sit still and be quiet in club meetings when one is only seven! And then it is such fun to tease the older girls. Ruthie has been behaving beautifully since the club made her sergeant-at-arms. It is the duty of a sergeant-at-arms, you know, to make every one else be quiet.

"Every week the little girls meet at the house of a different member. Sometimes they read stories, sometimes they talk, sometimes they make doll clothes or have little tea parties.

"The little girls pay a membership fee of 2 pennies a week. Elsa, who is secretary and treasurer, takes care of the money until they have enough for some kind of a treat.

"Last week they had a picnic in Bronx park. Of course the little girls couldn't go to Bronx park all by themselves. But it was the picnic that showed them how useful it is to have an honorary member. Hannah and Ruthie's papa is an honorary member of the club. It is only when he comes to the meetings that the sergeant-at-arms has anything to do. There are times when he does cut up a lot.

"When the picnic at Bronx park was first talked of the little girls wondered who would take them. Then Ruthie thought of her papa. So the president named Ruthie and another little girl a committee to ask him to go with them.

"Ruthie's papa said of course he would go with them.

"So it was all settled, and on the first holiday he had they went to the park to spend the whole day instead of the afternoon.

"They took their luncheon with them, and out of the club fund they had spending money and enough for a ride in the park boat. There were games played on the grass, and when he went back to his office the next day Ruthie's papa told the people there all about it. So you can understand how daddy was fortunate enough to learn about it."

Pattern 14040 includes transfers for stamping both ends of a runner. The motif is 12 inches wide by 9 inches deep and should be stamped on material 18 inches wide and long enough to hang over each end of the table about 12 inches when the runner is in use.

For the Pretty Summer Frocks, Dainty Flowered Fabrics, and Contrast o Material Are Favored.

While this is a season of extravagance, in material and timming, so far as evening and formal afternoon dressing is concerned, there are some very attractive materials, inexpensively priced for the simpler afternoon frocks and tub dresses. And it is of these that one needs most in the summer. A few yards of voile or crepe or linen, some silk for the girdle, lace frills, perhaps, or in the more severe Russian blouse effect, tiny buttons and button loops of cord or braid, and you have a dainty, dress that has cost very little.

One like No. 7418 in Dolly Vardon crepe or voile, is charming for all sorts of day wear, and as you see, no trimming is necessary but the girdle of emerald green charmeuse, and sleeve frills of plaited net. If you choose, you may have a cellar of white net or chiffon, hemstitched, and in the tabs that give a touch of novelty to the frock, the closing could be effected with big pearl or embroidered buttons. The skirt is in three gores, with a seam in front and one on each hip, and there is the fashionable slight fullness at the top. If the low neck is not becoming, provision is made in the pattern for chemisette with standing collar, that could be fashioned of net or tulle. Five sizes for this dress, 34 to 42, and 4 3-4 yards 42-inch material will be required for the 36-inch size. 15c.

One of the strongest style notes of the season is the Russian effect generally carried out in a blouse of one color with skirt of another, or blouse and skirt of the same color, but with the contrast in the material. The dress formed by combining blouse 7813 and 7814 is typical of this, with its blouse of white retine, and a skirt of rose color. Itwould be equally pretty with blouse of flowered crepe voile, and skirt of white ratine. The blouuse closes diagonally in front, and has a very smart collar, that may be of picot-edged chiffon, or self-material, while the loops of soutache, and tiny pearl buttons make an inexpensive, bu effect trimming. There are six pattern sizes, 32 to 42, and of material 36 inches wide, 3 yards will be required for six 36, 15 cents. The skirt that is wide at the top, but narrows in at the feet, is the most popular model just now, and, the one illustrated is about as simple a form of it, as can be made. Just two pieces, seamed together at the side, with the lower fullness caught in by small plait, unstitched, bue held in position by small buttons, covered with self-fabric. Thee is some slight fullness at the waistline in the back, that is held in by one of the smart half-belts. Three sizes, for this, 16, 17 and 18, and for the 18-year size which is large enough for small women, 2 3-4 yards 36-inch material will be required, 15 cents.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.
Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Jos. Smith, Mrs. Wm. M. Sandford, Jr.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

Wishes are wings. Upon them we mount to what heights we will. The boy who longs for the sea and whose heart leaps at the roar of the breakers and thrills at sight of a sail is building his own ship. We become what we wish to become and we do what we wish to do not through wishes that are shallow and fleeting fancies but earnest, constant yearnings of the soul. There is hardly any obstacle, any limitation that mind cannot overcome. Soul will find its own, as surely and as irresistibly as the homing dove finds its cote, the bee the clover and the seed shoot, the light it seeks.

The Rev. C. F. Reisner, of New York city, told his congregation that a strong religious faith kept one cool in the hottest days of summer. He gave a dozen rules for accomplishing the same end. "The anchor of faith," said Dr. Reisner, "keeps one cool in summer heat. Most persons suffer from heat because they fume and fret. These few rules growing out of the admonition, 'Commit thy way unto the Lord' may not be amiss as practical helps in the effort to keep cool. Don't get excited over personal slights, impending disasters or admitted injustices but remember that God is awake and metes out fair awards. Don't quarrel with people who irritate, aggravate or fulminate you but remember to curb a testy temper and develop calmness under fire. Don't tangle yourself in another's affairs without request and so meet caustic contempt, but remember that your temptations and open doors of usefulness will fully employ your time and talents. Don't fret over coming hot days, heating tasks and heart straining hours, but remember that sight and strength will be sufficient for your needs. Don't fume about the stolidity, stubbornness and silly mistakes of others but remember that life is endless and God is patient and experience comes slowly. Don't eat too much, rush too fast, talk too vigorously or play too furiously but strive to be medium in all things, happy in heart and helpful in hand, thus losing yourself."

Sex instruction is essentially a home subject, parents can best teach the child to understand his sex. Children are awake to the phenomena of sex much earlier than is supposed. Too often when a child asks an awkward question he is immediately hushed with an air of mystery which increases his curiosity without satisfying his desire for knowledge. If the questions are answered reasonably with the same frankness as any other question by either parent to children of either sex surreptitious curiosity, the great danger in this matter is arrested. You can talk with ease on this subject to a child of five which would puzzle the most astute mind to discuss with a maiden or boy of fifteen, yet usually the subject is shirked until that age when it is difficult to approach.

Few mothers realize as they should the priceless value of the early years of childhood. The habits formed then, the lessons instilled form the woof and warp of character, duly as mothers come into the child's life and get his point of view is it possible to really understand a child, to appreciate the motive of his acts. Many a child is punished for doing wrong who is utterly unconscious and guiltless of any other reason than that he has seen others do it and imitates what he has seen.

To the mother is entrusted the responsibility of planting good seed by directing the activity of the mind and body into safe channels and she should not delegate this to another. She cannot take it for granted that the homely virtues which form the foundation of character will develop themselves. To keep the child's confidence, to have him feel that always he has mother's love and sympathy, is to establish a relation of inestimable value as childish days pass and school days begin.

Every mother owes it to her child to choose carefully the school under whose care she places her child. It is of the utmost importance to any child to have a teacher whose sympathy and insight into child nature give her the knowledge of how to deal with it. More important than the reading and arithmetic is the influence which in countless ways she has on the children. A mother can not know about this unless she visits the school her child attends. When a child is unhappy in school no good mother will ignore it nor rest satisfied until she discovers the cause. Many teachers are young and inexperienced and unwittingly cause sensitive children great unhappiness. A little study of the situation will often remove the difficulty.

Teachers should know the home life and surroundings of the children under their care, what influences are brought to bear on them outside of school hours and other things that enter into a child's daily life.

Parents of every community should get together and discuss the problems of child life, getting mutual useful information from an exchange of ideas and experiences. The business of the home should be to lay a foundation of character that shall enable the children to go out and enrich the world by lives devoted to loving service to their fellow-men.

This world that we're a-living in
Is mighty hard to beat;
You get a thorn with every rose,
But ain't the roses sweet?
—Riley.

LAURELS DEFEATED JACKSON BALLISTS

Close Contest See-sawed Back and Forth Between the Great Rivals.

The Laurel A. C. trimmed the Jackson B. C. yesterday by a score of 3 to 2. The Laurels took the lead in the first inning by scoring the first run of the game. This lead was well taken care of until the fourth, when they were tied and overtaken later in the seventh. The Jackson boys, with but two innings to go, saw things their own until the Laurel stickers changed the old lucky seventh to lucky ninth. F. Mullin at short assisted his team with two hits. Venable, of the Laurels, contributed all that could be asked of a pitcher. These two stars of the winning team were well helped by the errorless ball played by Roddy.

Moore and Velard played the best ball for the losers. Velard tried hard to balance his good work of striking out seven, but walking four and hit two.

ROVERS WON GAME IN EIGHTH INNING

Errors and Assortment of Bingles Tied and Then Won the Battle.

The Parker A. C. lost an exciting game by the score of 4 to 3 to the Rovers, yesterday, at the Parker Field. The Parkers started by getting a run an inning and were satisfield to do this, but the Rovers wanted double pointers and the better end of the result.

Smith and Denny both pitched good ball. Denny might of had a winning game if his team mates restrained from errors at critical moments. Schmeyer, of the Rovers, was the batting star, getting a single and a double. The runs that tied the score and won the game were gotten in the eighth inning on a hit by Schmeyer, errors by Patrick and McDowell and a base on balls.

Query—Why is an old coin worth more than its value? S. W.

Answer—Nothing is worth more than its value. That would be inconsistent. An old coin is worth more than its face value because of its rarity. You remember, old books, old wines, don't you? Well, old coins for the same reason—they are rare.
